AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill directs the department of environmental services to adopt by rule, in consultation with the health risk assessment bureau, concentration limits for each volatile and semi-volatile organic compound that the department requires testing for in sludges that are land applied. This bill also directs the department to initiate rulemaking within 18 months for certain specified compounds. Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

HB 1410, relative to the joint health council. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT
Rep. Alida I. Millham for Executive Departments and Administration: This bill revised the joint health council for the purpose of improving the ability of the council to maintain the A.R.N.P. drug formulary and discuss matters of mutual concern. The changes include 1. Making a change in the membership of the council by adding a clinical pharmacist. The council will be composed of 3 licensed Advanced Nurse Practitioners, appointed by the board of nursing; 3 licensed practicing physicians, appointed by the board of medicine; and 3 licensed clinical pharmacists appointed by the board of pharmacy. 2. None of the members will be members of their respective professional board. 3. Providing for an appeals process to the council regarding formulary drug decisions. 4. Instructing that the A.R.N.P. drug formulary shall be updated at least annually and shall be available in paper and electronic format from the board of nursing, the board of medicine, and the board of pharmacy. A majority of the committee agreed that these were appropriate changes for the Joint Health Council. Vote 14-4.

Amendment (3891h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Joint Health Council; Membership; Duties. Amend RSA 326-B:10-a, I-III to read as follows: 326-B:10-a Joint Health Council.

I.(a) The joint health council shall consist of ~~[the following]~~ 9 members as follows: ~~[the chair of the board of nursing, or designee who shall be a member of the board of nursing; one advanced registered nurse practitioner who is a member of the board of nursing currently licensed to practice nursing under RSA 326-B, appointed by the chair of that board; the chair of the board of medicine, or designee who shall be a member of the board of medicine; 2 physicians currently licensed to practice medicine under RSA 329 and who have worked collaboratively with advanced registered nurse practitioners, appointed by the chair of that board, provided that one of the physicians is a member of the board of medicine; the chair of the board of pharmacy, or designee who shall be a member of the board of pharmacy; and one member of the board of pharmacy currently licensed to practice as a clinical pharmacist under RSA 318, appointed by the chair of that board]~~ 3 licensed, practicing advanced registered nurse practitioners, appointed by the board of nursing; 3 licensed, practicing physicians, appointed by the board of medicine, who work with advanced registered nurse practitioners; and 3 licensed clinical pharmacists appointed by the board of pharmacy, who are practicing clinical pharmacists. In no case shall a member of the joint health council be a member of the member's respective board.

(b) The chairmanship of the council shall rotate annually among the ~~[representatives]~~ appointees of the respective boards. Clerical support shall be provided on a rotating basis among the boards.

(c) Members of the council shall be appointed for 3-year terms and shall serve no more than 2 terms.

II. The council shall meet not less than once every 3 months to discuss matters pertinent to the A.R.N.P. formulary and matters of mutual concern to the board of medicine, the board of nursing and the board of pharmacy, unless there are no agenda items. ~~[Each of the 3 boards]~~ Any council member may submit items to be assigned to the agenda for every meeting of the council. ~~[Any items on the agenda not addressed at a particular council meeting shall be decided at the next meeting of the council.]~~ Any council member may request that an item submitted for consideration by the council include relevant scientific information from recognized professional publications. A denial of a requested item or decision to further restrict a drug already approved shall be in writing and include relevant scientific information from recognized professional publications.

III. The duties of the joint health council shall include, but not be limited to, adding or altering the list of controlled and noncontrolled molecular entities on the A.R.N.P. formulary. Decisions on such additions or alterations shall be rendered within 3 months of initial consideration by the council unless there is a request for additional scientific information. ~~[Any new controlled or noncontrolled molecular entities, in accordance with federal Food and Drug Administration provisions in 21 C.F.R. part 312, that are available after September 1, 1994, shall be considered for approval by the board upon petition by advanced registered nurse practitioners and approved for use by advanced registered nurse practitioners only after an affirmative vote of the joint health council].~~ Appeals of decisions of the council shall be submitted to the council in writing for further deliberation by the council. The A.R.N.P. formulary shall be updated at least annually and shall be available in paper and electronic format from the board of nursing, the board of medicine, and the board of pharmacy.

2 Effective Date. This act shall take effect 60 days after its passage.

Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

HB 1610-FN, regulating indoor tanning facilities. MAJORITY: REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY. MINORITY: OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT.

Rep. Sylvia A. Holley for Majority of Executive Departments and Administration: Patronizing indoor tanning facilities is a lifestyle choice. UVA rays may cause tan, aging of the skin, skin cancers and cataracts. UVB rays cause sunburn. Ultraviolet light can cause serious reactions. The committee recognized the need to require the salons to post warning signs and require written warning statements to be handed to all customers but felt more study was needed to effectively put into place the requirement of licensure under the appropriate board, crafting the parental/guardian written consent form for minors under age 14 and the setting up of an inspection, monitoring and enforcement program. Vote 11-6.

Rep. Carolyn A. Virtue for the Minority of Executive Departments and Administration: The minority of the committee is very concerned about the public safety issues that were clearly identified in the public hearing and subsequent work session. Compelling testimony was given by licensed physicians who have treated patients with serious burns that resulted from the use of equipment at indoor tanning facilities. The amendment restricts the use of indoor tanning facilities by children. The amendment requires tanning facilities to post warning signs and establishes a committee to study the need for licensure of and to consider enforcing regulations for indoor tanning facilities. We agree with the majority that this issue requires further study, which the amendment provides for in addition to the warning.

Majority report adopted.

HB 1485-FN, relative to a certain proposed toll booth. REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY

Rep. Kenneth L. Weyler for Finance: The executive council has authorized a study to judge the financial effects of phasing out tolls on the New Hampshire Turnpike System. The report is due in August of this year. As this is a major policy shift in paying for some major highway projects, the committee felt that toll booth decisions should not be made until said report was evaluated. In the interim, the toll booth that is the subject of this bill has not been completed, does not collect tolls, and is specifically addressed in the study as not planned to produce revenue. Vote 23-1.

Adopted.

HB 1557-FN-A, increasing the cigarette tax. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Kenneth L. Weyler for Finance: On July 6, 1999, the cigarette tax was increased by 15 cents per pack to 52 cents. As this began to affect state revenues there were other developments. The tobacco companies settled the suit to agree to pay damages to the states. The companies increased the cost of cigarettes to fund the settlement. All these developments have caused smokers to cut back, resulting in lower per pack sales. We experience approximately 30 per cent of sales to out-of-state buyers. A further tax increase will reduce the price advantage over bordering states and likely reduce sales further. Recent revenue figures suggest a decline in revenue for March of about 50% below plan. This may be a short-term trend or an indication of long-term decline. This revenue source has become so volatile that adding to the tax seems futile. Vote 21-4.

Rep. Fuller Clark spoke against.

Rep. Weyler spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

MOTION TO LAY ON THE TABLE

Rep. Pilliod moved that HB 1557-FN-A, increasing the cigarette tax, be laid on the table.

Rep. Keith Herman requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

RECESS(Speaker Sytek in the Chair)

HB 1587-FN, relative to payment of health insurance costs for certain child day care agencies. MAJORITY: REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY. MINORITY: OUGHT TO PASS.

Rep. William S. Belvin for the Majority of Finance: This bill establishes a new, three-year state-sponsored pilot program that, for the first time, would have the state providing from 35-50% of the cost of health insurance for child care givers in private child care agencies. The concept is that partial health insurance coverage would encourage child care agencies to accept more children from low income families and to experience greater stability in the child care workforce receiving the health care benefit. Availability of affordable and quality child care is a serious concern, but the bill leaves unanswered many material questions that require further study. The committee was unable to determine the sufficiency of existing day care openings in both the licenses and unlicensed facilities. There is inadequate information on why providers and caregivers enter and leave the industry, or if incremental wages or partial health care payments are of more importance. Finally the funding is of uncertain origin and could grow to be in excess of $1 million of the general fund during the final year of pilot. No sustaining funding is identified in the bill. This is particularly troubling during our current budget deficit.

This is a well-intended bill but it needs further thoughtful investigation on the best way to proceed to ensure quality child care, so the committee voted Interim Study. Vote 16-10

Rep. Mary Jane Wallner for the Minority of Finance: The House Commerce Committee amended this original bill to become a 3-year pilot program. The first year of the pilot no funds would be expended, but the Department of Health and Human Services would develop the rules of the program, investigate funding through a variety of funding sources and develop the criteria to be measured during the pilot program.

In July of 2001 the program would begin providing partial payments for health insurance benefits for child care providers who care for the children of New Hampshire's lowest income working families. Child care is a vital component of New Hampshire's welfare-to-work initiatives and this pilot program is designed to provide an incentive for licensed child care providers to accept low income children whose families receive state assistance. The pilot will collect data on provider retention, number of children receiving care, and change in number of providers who will care for these low income children. At the end of the 3-year pilot program the legislature would evaluate the data and decide whether to continue the program.

This program will not solve all of the problems facing our state's supply, affordability and quality of child care. It is a modest initiative to address one area of a complex issue. The field pilot program itself is a study which will supply us with valuable data.

Presently we have available numerous legislative and state government groups looking at child care and early education, i.e., the Kids Cabinet, the NH Child Care Advisory Council, the Early Childhood Education Commission, NH Healthy Kids, the Governor's Business Commission on Child Care and Early Child Education. There are already ample opportunities to study child care issues and this study committee is not likely to add to our knowledge. What's needed in child care is not another study but action to start to address the serious issues in the field.

Reps. Vachon and Hager spoke against.

Reps. Wendelboe and Kurk spoke in favor.

Rep. Wallner spoke against and yielded to questions.

Rep. Hunt spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. Harmon requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the majority report.

SB 170-FN-A, establishing a parents as teachers pilot program in Sullivan county and making an appropriation therefor. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Kenneth L. Weyler for Finance: This bill introduces the parents as teachers program to New Hampshire. The program comes to us with a great report from the state of Missouri. Long-term, the program's birth-to-pre-school visits have helped prepare young children for learning. The report claims to reduce reading and special ed problems.

The bill sets up a pilot program in Sullivan County. The Finance Committee amendment changes two things. First, for financial accountability, it includes criteria that Health and Human Services can use to measure whether the program has been successfully established. Second, it funds the pilot program for $65,000 from a multi-million dollar surplus in H&HS from DSH payments that exceed forecast. Vote 22-1.

Amendment (3931h)

Amend RSA 193:35, I as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

1. The department of health and human services shall establish the school district based Parents as Teachers Program for a rural community in Sullivan county in cooperation with School Administrative Unit 6 and the Parent Information Center. Sullivan county will be the rural site for the program because of its unique demographic profile, including the high number of risk factors affecting its children, the demonstrated interest of its public officials in the program, and the capacity to link the program to existing programs within the county including Good Beginnings, the Parent Information Center, and department of health and human services programs in Sullivan county. The department shall use the following criteria to measure the effectiveness of the program:

(a) Whether the pilot program was implemented according to the criteria established by the Parents as Teachers National Center.

(b) The number of families served, the number of contacts with each family, and family profile information for the families served, including the percentages of families served by town.

(c) The total cost and the cost per family for the program.

(d) The number of children identified with Parents as Teachers participants that were identified as having developmental delays who have received services during the pilot program to address these delays.

(e) The number of children identified with Parents as Teachers participants who were, during the pilot program, the subject of a founded report of abuse or neglect pursuant to RSA 169-C.

(f) The results of 3-year old developmental screening for all children of appropriate age identified with Parents as Teachers participants.

(g) The level of parental participant knowledge and achievement including, but not limited to GED completion, employment, and volunteerism.

Amend RSA 193:37 as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

193:37 Report and Recommendation. On or before October 1, 2004, the department of health and human services shall prepare and submit to the speaker of the house of representatives, the president of the senate, and the chairpersons of the house and senate education committees an evaluation and report of the school district based Parents as Teachers Programs established pursuant to this subdivision, and recommendations for the expansion of the program statewide. The evaluation and report shall incorporate the criteria set forth in RSA 193:35, I and shall include an assessment of the program's effectiveness based on those criteria.

Amend the bill by replacing section 2 with the following:

2 Appropriation. There is hereby appropriated from any additional federal medicaid funds received by the department, pursuant to 1999, 225:2, in fiscal years 2000 and 2001 the sum of $65,000 for the biennium ending June 30, 2001, to the department of health and human services to implement and administer the provisions of this act by establishing the school district based Parents as Teachers Program in Sullivan county.

Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

SB 128, replacing the housing assistance fund trust fund with a homeless prevention fund, and making an appropriation therefor. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Barbara C. French for Health, Human Services and Elderly Affairs: The crying need for housing in New Hampshire needs the immediate attention of experienced leadership to take a proactive approach to address the burgeoning homeless situation. Testimony indicated that over 18,000 households are spending more than 50% of their income on housing costs. Clearly, the legislature has a responsibility to ensure this housing issue is not lost sight of. The NH Housing Finance Authority testified that they strongly support this initiative and will continue to work with the Legislature to help our citizens with their housing problems. This legislation is a step closer to establishing a homeless prevention program. Vote 17-0.

Adopted and referred to Finance.

HB 1366, limiting civil liability of firearms manufacturers and dealers. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Robert H. Rowe for Judiciary: This bill would have indemnified firearms manufacturers and dealers from liability for injuries or damages caused by a firearm. The majority of the committee felt that this bill and the submitted amendment provided special treatment to one industry that other industries would not possess. The bill runs contrary to the concept of the private enterprise system. Vote 10-5.

On a division vote, 268 members having voted in the affirmative and 68 in the negative, the report was adopted.

Rep. David Flanders declared a conflict of interest and did not participate.

HB 1475-FN, relative to the applicable minimum wage for hourly employees. WITHOUT RECOMMENDATION

Rep. Goley moved Ought to Pass with Amendment spoke in favor and offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (3930hh)

Amend the bill by replacing section 1 with the following:

1 Minimum Hourly Rate. Amend the introductory paragraph of RSA 279:21 to read as follows:

Unless otherwise provided by statute, no person, firm, or corporation shall employ any employee at an hourly rate lower than that set forth in the federal minimum wage law, as amended, or as follows, whichever is higher:

Date Hourly Rate

[April 1, 1991 to September 30, 1996 $4.25

October 1, 1996 to August 31, 1997 $4.75]

On and after September 1, 1997 $5.15

On and after October 1, 2000 $5.65

On and after October 1, 2001 $6.15

Tipped employees of a restaurant, hotel, motel, inn or cabin, who customarily and regularly receive more than $20 a month in tips directly from the customers will receive a base rate from the employer of not less than $2.38 per hour. With any change to the minimum wage after the effective date of this section, the employer is responsible to pay employees $2.38 per hour or 45 percent of the applicable minimum wage whichever is higher. If an employee shows to the satisfaction of the commissioner that the actual amount of wages received at the end of each pay period did not equal the minimum wage for all hours worked, the employer shall pay the employee the difference to guarantee the applicable minimum wage. The limitations imposed hereby shall be subject to the following exceptions:

Reps. Goley, Mears and Guay spoke in favor.

Rep. Keans spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. Ward spoke against.

Rep. Arthur Pelletier requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the Goley floor amendment.

House Bill 1475 is Inexpedient to Legislate.

CACR 32, relating to the size of the general court. Providing that provisions mandating the size of the general court shall be removed from the constitution and shall be established by statute. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Ronald J. Nowe for Legislative Administration: The committee felt that no compelling arguments for changing the size of the legislature were presented at the hearing. Removal from the constitution and subject to legislative action could make the House and Senate subject to change more frequently and does not address the increase or decrease the membership of the legislature. The committee felt the present system of apportionment of representatives according to the last general census is important, but if a change in size were to occur, the general public should have a say in what that ratio should be. It should not be left to the legislature. The general public seems to be very aware of who represents them, and in 1984 defeated a resolution from the Constitutional Convention to reduce the size of the house and increase the ratio of voters to their representatives. Vote 12-1.

Adopted.

HB 1605-FN-L, relative to the adoption of a state building code. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE
 Rep. William T. Kelley for Municipal and County Government: This bill would mean a major change in New Hampshire law. The State Fire Marshall told the Committee that after the code referenced in the original bill is published, he will convene a broadly based group to study the new codes and recommend any needed changes in the law. The next legislative session will be a better time to consider this potentially important law. Vote 12-4.

Adopted.

SB 76-L, allowing certain municipalities to offer tax exemptions to foster commercial and industrial construction. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Betsey L. Patten for Municipal and County Government: This bill establishes a pilot program to foster economic development by enabling certain depressed towns to grant a limited municipal tax exemption. It is a local tool that qualifying communities may use if they so choose, and if it is compatible with their local land use planning regulations. The intent of SB 76 is to foster economic development in economically depressed areas in the State. The Municipal and County Government Committee reviewed three specific criteria-taxable valuation per person, unemployment rate and population growth. If these three criteria, which are currently measured by the Office of State Planning, are present in a region and interact in a negative way on one another, economic development is needed to bring jobs and viability to that area. The House voted and passed SB 76 on January 6 by a vote of 191-71. The bill was then sent to Finance where some concerns were expressed about three aspects of the bill. The Finance Committee reported the bill back to the House with no recommendation and it was then recommitted to Municipal and County Government. After reviewing the concerns expressed in Finance, Municipal and County Government voted 17-1 to amend the bill to address all of those concerns, one of which was to more clearly remove all county and state property taxes from the exemption. Again, this is a pilot program. It sunsets in 2005, and it requires a vote by the local legislative body before it can be adopted in any qualifying towns. Vote 17-1.

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT establishing a pilot program allowing certain economically depressed municipalities to offer tax exemptions to foster public accommodation and industrial construction.

Amend the bill by replacing sections 1-3 with the following:

I. Statement of Intent. It is the purpose of this act to foster the economic development of economically depressed counties by enabling eligible, economically depressed municipalities to encourage new construction, rehabilitation, and improvement of property for public accommodation and industrial use through the adoption of tax exemptions. It is the further purpose of this act to ensure that, once adopted, such exemptions shall be administered uniformly within the taxing districts so as to avoid the risk of unconstitutional ad hoc or discriminatory tax benefits.

2 Definitions. In this act:

I. "Economically depressed county" shall mean any county of the state which meets the following 3 criteria as established by the director of the office of state planning:

- (a) Is within the lowest 30 percent of counties based on equalized taxable valuation per person for the most recent year available prior to the vote taken pursuant to section 4 of this act;
- (b) Is within the highest 30 percent of counties based on unemployment rate for the average of the 3 most recent years available prior to the vote taken pursuant to section 4 of this act; and
- (c) Is within the lowest 30 percent of counties based on population growth for the most recent 5-year period available prior to the vote taken pursuant to section 4 of this act.

II. "Eligible municipality" shall mean any city or town located in an economically depressed county and which meets 2 of the following 3 criteria as established by the director of the office of state planning:

- (a) Is within the lowest 30 percent of municipalities based on equalized taxable valuation per person for the most recent year available prior to the vote taken pursuant to section 4 of this act;
- (b) Is within the highest 30 percent of municipalities based on unemployment rate for the average of the 3 most recent years available prior to the vote taken pursuant to section 4 of this act;
- (c) Is within the lowest 30 percent of municipalities based on population growth for the most recent 5-year period available prior to the vote taken pursuant to section 4 of this act.

III. "Industrial uses" shall include all manufacturing, production, assembling, warehousing, or processing of goods or materials for sale or distribution, research and development activities, or processing of waste materials.

IV. "Public accommodation" shall mean any inn, hotel, motel, or other establishment which provides lodging to transient guests.

3 Property Tax Exemption. An eligible municipality may, by vote of the local legislative body pursuant to section 4 of this act, adopt a new construction property tax exemption for public accommodation or industrial uses, or both. The exemption shall apply only for local municipal and local school property taxes assessed by the municipality which shall exclude state education property taxes under RSA 76:3 and county taxes assessed against the municipality under RSA 29:11 and shall be a specified percentage on an annual basis of the increase in assessed value attributable to construction of new structures, and additions, renovations or improvements to existing structures. The exemption may run for a maximum period of 5 years following the new construction; provided, however, that the exemption for all years shall cumulatively not exceed 200 percent of the increased assessed value. Once adopted by the local legislative body, the percentage rate and duration of the exemption shall be granted uniformly within that municipality to all new construction for which a proper application is filed.

Amend the bill by replacing section 6 with the following:

6 Repeal. Sections 1-5 of this act, relative to a program allowing economically depressed municipalities in economically depressed counties to offer tax exemptions to foster public accommodation and industrial construction, are repealed.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill establishes a pilot program allowing economically depressed municipalities in economically depressed counties to offer tax exemptions applicable to non-statewide property taxes to foster growth in new and existing public accommodation and industrial construction. Adopted.

Reps. MacGillivray and Mirski spoke against.

Rep. Foster spoke in favor.

Rep. Ward spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. Rose requested a quorum count. The Speaker declared a quorum present.

Rep. Mirski requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the report.

HB 2000-FN-L, relative to a 10-year transportation plan. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Winston H. McCarty for Public Works and Highways: The committee applauds the long and tedious work of taking input from the community level, transportation improvement programs, metropolitan planning organizations, regional planning commissions, and many other considerations too numerous to mention by the Commissioner of the Department of Transportation and his staff. This bill represents the latest version of the state's 10-year transportation program, and contains listings for the major federally assisted projects and turnpike expansion projects. The "gray book", entitled State of New Hampshire Ten Year Transportation Improvement Program 2001-2010, represents an alphabetical listing of the total 10-year program. The first few pages of the book detail how the 10-year plan is developed and created. There was very little public input at the public hearing, and the committee accepted the plan as prioritized with little discussion and no changes. There was some lengthy discussion about using some $150,000,000 ($15,000,000 per year) of the additional $500,000,000 ($50,000,000 per year) of Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century (TEA-21) money from the federal government that the state is due to receive for some necessary turnpike expansion projects which are unable to be funded with existing turnpike revenues. These additional TEA-21 funds improve this plan in all areas as it speeds up the whole program. The program uses available revenues on the most worthy of projects with the most reasonable priority. Vote 16-2.

Rep. Leber spoke against.

Rep. Edwin Smith spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Adopted and referred to Finance.

HB 1309, relative to wood-to-energy rate order buydowns. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Jeb E. Bradley for Science, Technology and Energy: Passage of HB 1309 would strongly encourage the reduction of electricity costs for PSNH customers associated with six wood-to-energy plants and one trash-to-energy plant. PSNH is mandated to purchase this power pursuant to federal and state law and these costs are a significant portion of PSNH's stranded costs. It is hoped that passage of this bill would create a framework for both PSNH and the wood and trash plant owners to renegotiate long term rate orders and lower customer costs. The bill also encourages the PUC to approve any renegotiated rate orders. There was no opposition to the bill. Vote 14-0.

Amendment (3806h)

Amend paragraphs I and II of section 1 of the bill by replacing them with the following:

I. The general court finds that it is important to lower the price paid for electricity by customers of Public Service Company of New Hampshire (PSNH). The general court finds that facilitating buydowns of any or all of the 6 wood-to-energy plant rate orders and/or the one trash-to-energy plant rate order would assist in accomplishing the goal of lower electricity prices. The general court further finds that this goal is consistent with section 2 of HB 464 passed in the 1999 legislative session, 1999, 289:2.

II. The general court recognizes that agreements between PSNH and the plants must be consensual in nature between the parties, and must provide enough benefits to customers that the public utilities commission would find implementation of buydowns to be in the public interest.

Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

HB 1329, limiting the system benefits charge. MAJORITY: OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT. MINORITY: OUGHT TO PASS.

Rep. Jeffrey C. MacGillivray for the Majority of Science, Technology and Energy: The original subject of this bill was limiting the systems benefit charge that will be added to competitive electric bills to pay for low-income programs and energy conservation. With the sponsor's consent, this subject matter was left to be considered as part of the entire package of the PSNH settlement and associated securitization legislation later this session. The amendment proposed by the majority of the committee instead deals with two other issues, after a second public hearing on this non germane amendment. 1) The committee as a whole supported the provisions dealing with gas utility restructuring, which allow the Public Utility Commission (PUC) to set standards for competitive gas suppliers in order to help implement recent PUC's efforts to expand gas utility retail choice. This is being done to allow the PUC to implement a federal rule; it does not give the PUC authority to implement general gas utility restructuring. A restructuring oversight committee similar to the electric restructuring oversight committee is also established. 2) A second issue supported by the majority of the committee, deals with notification of impending gas or electric utility winter shutoffs for tenants or condominium units to landlords or condominium associations. This section of the bill would allow (not require) utilities to notify landlords or condominium associations that had requested to be notified. The goal of this section is to prevent water damage to other units from burst pipes resulting from frozen pipes. While some members of the committee feared a loss of privacy by the tenant or unit owner, the majority of the committee believes that it is preferable to allow an attempt to prevent damage to other units rather than simply relying on the right of the other occupants to sue later. The utility when reporting the impending shutoff would still need to follow all relevant federal laws. Vote 11-4.

Rep. Jacqueline A. Pitts for the Minority of Science, Technology and Energy: Section 1 of HB 1329 presents a problem in that it would make public (to landlords, or their designee, or the condo association), the private information concerning individual customers' utility bills. The minority foresees possible problems with credit reporting and misuse of information that may not be accurate. The minority also feels that this interferes with the customers' ability to make payment arrangement or follow the appeals process. Section 1 is not specific as to when landlords are to be notified. The minority interprets this to be at the time the notice is generated. Others feel it is when appeals are exhausted but this is not clear. Another question is when everyone who rents is obliged to provide landlord information as well as their own. The minority feels the burden of secondary notification will be borne by all the customers. The minority supports HB 1329 with the exception of Section 1 and hope that the question of dividing Section 1 will be successful so a good piece of legislation will not be lost.

Amendment (3890h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to the termination of residential electric or gas utility service, the public utility commission's rulemaking authority, and the establishment of a gas utility restructuring oversight committee.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 New Section; Notification of Property Owner or Condominium Association. Amend RSA 363-B by inserting after section 2 the following new section:

363-B:3 Notification of Property Owner or Condominium Association. Notwithstanding any other provisions of state law, any electric or gas public utility may, prior to terminating residential service to a tenant or to a condominium owner, provide notice of the termination to the property owner, in the case of a tenant, or any associated condominium association when:

I. The termination of service is to occur between November 1 and April 30, inclusive of beginning and end dates; and

II. The property owner or the condominium association has requested that it, or its agents, be notified in such instances.

2 New Section; Rulemaking Authority. Amend RSA 365 by inserting after section 8 the following new section:

365:8-a Suppliers of Natural Gas and Aggregators of Natural Gas Customers; Rulemaking. The commission is authorized to adopt rules, pursuant to RSA 541-A, establishing requirements for suppliers of natural gas and the aggregators of natural gas customers, including registration of such suppliers and aggregators before soliciting or doing business in the state, registration fees, disclosure of information to customers, standards of conduct, submission to commission jurisdiction for mediation and resolution of disputes, imposition of penalties for failure to comply with commission requirements, and consumer protection and assistance requirements. This section shall not in any way affect the utility or non-utility status of any supplier of natural gas or aggregator of natural gas customers, nor shall it be construed to limit the commission's existing authority with regard to the regulation of gas utilities or the scope of the commission's authority in considering whether to expand the availability of competitive natural gas supplies through the distribution system of gas utilities.

3 New Subdivision; Gas Utility Restructuring Oversight Committee. Amend RSA 374 by inserting after section 59 the following new subdivision:

Gas Utility Restructuring Oversight Committee

374:60 Gas Utility Restructuring Oversight Committee Membership and Duties.

I. There is established a gas utility restructuring oversight committee to work with the commission to oversee issues related to competitive supply of natural gas to individual customers and potential restructuring of the gas utility industry in New Hampshire.

II. The members of the committee shall be as follows:

(a) At least 3 but not more than 5 members of the senate, appointed by the president of the senate.

(b) Five members of the house of representatives, appointed by the speaker of the house. The speaker of the house may also appoint up to 5 additional house members as alternates, if deemed appropriate.

III. The first-named house member shall call the first meeting which shall be held within 60 days of the effective date of this section. The members shall elect a chairperson at the first meeting. Members of the committee shall receive mileage at the legislative rate when attending to the duties of the committee.

IV. The committee shall:

(a) Work with the commission to examine and oversee issues related to the competitive supply of natural gas to individual customers in New Hampshire, including the development of any new legislation necessary to provide for gas utility restructuring and retail choice of gas suppliers.

(b) Work with the commission and other agencies, where necessary, to implement gas utility restructuring.

V. The committee shall submit an annual report on or before November 1 of each year to the speaker of the house, the senate president, the house clerk, the senate clerk, the governor, and the state library.

4 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill allows an electric or gas public utility to provide certain notice prior to terminating residential service. The bill authorizes the public utilities commission to adopt rules governing the requirement for suppliers of natural gas and aggregators of natural gas customers. The bill also establishes a gas utility restructuring oversight committee.

Adopted.

Rep. Bradley requested that the question be divided. The Speaker ruled that the question was divisible.

Rep. Bradley requested that Sec. 1 of the bill be voted on separately. The Speaker so ordered.

Rep. Pitts spoke against.

Rep. MacGillivray spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Sec. 1 of the bill was adopted.

The remainder of the Bill was adopted and ordered to third reading.

HB 1414, authorizing the department of environmental services to discuss with other northeastern states the use of a regional gasoline containing less or no MTBE, promoting the use of less polluting marine engines by the state and others, and extending the reporting date of the committee to study the requirements for usage of MTBE. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Terie T. Norelli for Science, Technology and Energy: This bill was introduced by the committee to study requirements for and usage of methyl-t-butyl ether established through legislation passed last year. It extends the report date for the MTBE study committee. It authorizes the commissioner of the department of environmental services to discuss and encourage development of a regional gasoline with less or no MtBE additive with other states, and to promote the use of less polluting marine engines. As amended, the bill also requires that a municipality acquiring formerly owned electric utility generating plants certify that the municipality understands it will be subject to current and future environmental and safety regulations, notwithstanding Article 28-a of the constitution. Lastly, it allows the commissioner of DES to consider cost effectiveness when setting ambient groundwater quality standards. Vote 14-1.

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT authorizing the department of environmental services to discuss with other states the use of a regional gasoline containing less or no MTBE, promoting the use of less polluting marine engines by the state and others, extending the reporting date of the committee to study the requirements for usage of MTBE, requiring a certification of understanding by certain municipal electric utilities, and relative to ambient groundwater quality standards.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

I Findings. The general court finds that:

I. The United States Environmental Protection Agency's National Blue Ribbon Panel on MTBE has recently examined oxygenates in gasoline in general, and methyl t-butyl ether (MTBE) in particular, and has concluded that the oxygenate requirement for gasoline of the federal Clean Air Act should be eliminated and that the use of MTBE in gasoline should be phased out.

II. State by state standards for gasoline composition would result in a complex and inefficient regulatory system for fuels, with negative financial effects on refiners and consumers.

III. Therefore, the department of environmental services should aggressively pursue options for establishing consistent requirements for gasoline composition on a regional basis. The total environmental impacts on air and water of any proposed regional gasoline formulations should be carefully examined, and care should be taken to preserve the cost-effective benefits of reformulated gasoline, including reductions in Reid vapor pressure, toxics, and aromatics. Requiring ethanol, or some other oxygenate, instead of eliminating the oxygenate requirement, is not a desirable option.

IV. Since 4-cycle marine engines, and redesigned 2-cycle marine engines that meet federal model year 2007 standards, are far less polluting than existing 2-cycle marine engines, the state should encourage the use of these cleaner marine engines by the state and others. The general court commends those state agencies that have already decided to purchase only these cleaner marine engines, including the departments of safety and environmental services, and strongly encourages all other state agencies to do so as well.

V. It is desirable that municipal electric utilities continue to be allowed to construct or purchase electricity generation plants. It is also desirable that the state retain the authority to establish and implement environmental and safety regulations for such plants on an equitable financial basis with other electricity generation plants with which they compete. Therefore, the general court specifically limits its grant of authority to municipal electric utilities to construct or purchase electricity generation plants by stating that this authority may be exercised only if the municipal electric utility understands that by undertaking such action it will be subject to all environmental and safety regulations regarding such plants, and that no future environmental or safety regulation of such plants shall in any way be construed as "new, expanded, or modified programs or responsibilities" under part 1, article 28-a of the state constitution.

2 Authority of the Commissioner of Environmental Services. The commissioner of environmental services shall have the authority to:

I. Discuss and encourage the development of a regional gasoline containing less or no MTBE additive with the appropriate departments and agencies in other states, especially northeastern states.

II. Promote the use of less polluting 4-cycle marine engines, and redesigned 2-cycle marine engines that meet federal model year 2007 standards, by the state and others.

3 Committee to Study Requirements for and Usage of Methyl-T-Butyl Ether; Report; Date Extended. Amend 1999, 55:6 to read as follows:

55:6 Report. The committee shall report its findings and any recommendations for proposed legislation to the speaker of the house of representatives, the senate president, the house clerk, the senate clerk, the governor, and the state library on or before November 1, [1999] 2000.

4 New Section; Municipal Electric, Gas, Or Water Systems; Municipal Electric Utility Certification of Understanding. Amend RSA 38 by inserting after section 36 the following new section:

38:37 Municipal Electric Utility Certification of Understanding. Any municipal electric utility that after January 1, 2000, establishes, expands, takes, purchases, leases, or otherwise acquires one or more suitable plants for the manufacture of electricity in accordance with this chapter shall, prior to such action, certify to the chairperson of the public utilities commission that it understands that by undertaking such action it will be subject to all environmental and safety regulations regarding such plants, and that no future environmental or safety regulation of such plants shall in any way be construed as "new, expanded, or modified programs or responsibilities" under part 1, article 28-a of the state constitution.

5 Water Management and Protection; Groundwater Protection Act; Ambient Groundwater Quality Standards. Amend RSA 485-C:6, I to read as follows:

I. The commissioner shall establish and adopt ambient groundwater quality standards for regulated contaminants which adversely affect human health or the environment. Ambient groundwater standards shall apply to all regulated contaminants which result from human operations or activities, but do not apply to naturally occurring contaminants. Where federal maximum contaminant level or health advisories have been promulgated under the Federal Safe Drinking Water Act or rules relevant to such act, ambient groundwater quality standards shall be equivalent to such standards. Where such standards are based upon cancer risks, the ambient groundwater quality standards shall be equivalent to that exposure which causes a lifetime exposure risk of one cancer in 1,000,000 exposed population, unless the commissioner finds that this would not be cost effective. Where no federal maximum contaminant level or health advisory has been issued, the commissioner may adopt ambient groundwater quality standards on a basis which provides for an adequate margin of safety to protect human health and safety.

6 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill:

I. Authorizes the commissioner of environmental services to discuss with other states the use of a regional gasoline containing less or no MTBE, and to promote the usage of less polluting 4-cycle marine engines by the state and others.

II. Extends the report date for the committee to study requirements for and usage of methyl-t-butyl ether.

III. Requires that any municipal electric utility which, after January 1, 2000, acquires one or more plants for the manufacture of electricity shall, prior to such action, certify to the public utilities commission that it understands that by undertaking such action it will be subject to current and future environmental and safety regulations.

IV. Provides that the commissioner of environmental services may consider cost effectiveness when setting ambient groundwater quality standards.

Adopted.

HCR 34, urging Congress to investigate the rising prices of gasoline and diesel fuel and take appropriate action to decrease prices to consumers. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Eugene L. Gagnon for State-Federal Relations and Veterans Affairs: This resolution urges Congress to investigate the rising cost of gasoline and diesel fuel. Currently the continued increased costs of the transportation fuels has a severely disastrous effect on the movement of goods and materials within our state certainly, it affects our tourist industry. Vote 10-6.

Adopted and ordered to third reading.

HB 1620-FN, relative to driver record information. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT
Rep. Alfred C. Lerandeanu for Transportation: This bill will bring New Hampshire into compliance with federal law (Section 350 of Public Law 106-69) commonly known as the Shelby amendment concerning the release of motor vehicle records. This is an opt in provision for bulk distribution of surveys, mass marketing or solicitations. This bill will protect the citizens of NH from having their personal motor vehicle records from being obtained by these entities. For those entities that are entitled to access of motor vehicle records under RSA 260:14, this bill also puts stringent guidelines on the resale of those records. Vote 16-3.

Amend the introductory paragraph of RSA 260:14, IV(a) as inserted by section 2 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

IV.(a) Except for a person's photograph, computerized image and social security number, motor vehicle records shall be made available, upon proof of the identity of the person requesting the records and representation by such person on a form satisfactory to the department that the ~~use of the~~ records will be strictly limited to one of the following described uses:

Amend the bill by replacing sections 3 and 4 with the following:

3 Restriction on Uses of Motor Vehicle Records. Amend the introductory paragraph of RSA 260:14, V(a) to read as follows:

V.(a) Except for a person's photograph, computerized image and social security number, motor vehicle records may be made available upon proof of the identity of the person requesting the records and representation by such person on a form satisfactory to the department that the use of the records will be strictly limited to one or more of the following described uses, ~~[each such use to be separately described]~~ which use shall be specified in the request:

4 Access to Motor Vehicle Records by Banking Institutions. RSA 260:14, V(a)(3) is repealed and reenacted to read as follows:

(3) For use with respect to a request for a named person's motor vehicle records by a banking or similar institution, in the normal course of business, but only to verify the accuracy of personal information submitted by the individual to the bank and if such information is incorrect, to obtain the correct information, but only for the purposes of preventing fraud by, pursuing legal remedies against, or recovering on a debt or security interest against, the individual.

Amend RSA 260:14, V(b)(1) as inserted by section 6 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

(b)(1) A person may elect at any time not to have any personal information pertaining to such person made available as provided in subparagraphs V(a)(1), (2), (3), (4), (5), (6) and (7). A person who so elects shall inform the department in writing, and the department shall not thereafter make the personal information available, nor shall the department make available a list of the persons who have so elected. Any elections previously made under this section shall continue in effect.

Amend RSA 260:14, VI(b) as inserted by section 8 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

(b) An authorized recipient of personal information for a particular use under subparagraphs V(a)(4), (8), and (9) may sell, rent, transfer or make the information available to another person for the same use only, subject to the limitations in the particular subparagraph.

Amend the bill by replacing section 9 with the following:

9 Penalties for Unlawful Use of Motor Vehicle Records. Amend RSA 260:14, IX to read as follows:

IX.(a) ~~[A]~~ Any natural person is guilty of a ~~[class-B]~~ misdemeanor if such person knowingly discloses information from a department record to a person known by such person to be an unauthorized person; knowingly makes a false representation to obtain information from a department record; or knowingly uses such information for any use other than the use authorized by the department. In addition, any professional or business license issued by this state and held by such person may, upon conviction and at the discretion of the court, be revoked permanently or suspended. Each such unauthorized disclosure, unauthorized use or false representation shall be considered a separate offense.

(b) A person is guilty of a class B felony if such person knowingly sells, rents, transfers or otherwise makes available any motor vehicle records to another person in violation of this section.

Amend the bill by replacing section 10 with the following:

10 New Paragraphs; Fees for Release of Motor Vehicle Records. Amend RSA 260:14 by inserting after paragraph XII the following new paragraphs:

XIII. Notwithstanding the provisions of RSA 91-A, the department may charge reasonable fees for the release of information under this section. In determining a reasonable fee, the department shall consider factors such as labor and production costs, as well as the market value of the information.

XIV. Any person determined by the commissioner, after hearing, to have violated any provisions of this section may be barred from receiving motor vehicle records for a period not to exceed 5 years.

XV.(a) Motor vehicle records obtained from the department under this section shall be obtained separately for each use specified under this section, one use to a request, provided that the commissioner may grant a request from a legitimate business for multiple uses if:

(1) The commissioner determines the legitimate business has responsible business practices including, but not limited to, data privacy and security policies.

(2) The legitimate business provides the commissioner with a list of all users of the information, including the name and address of the business.

(3) The subsequent users are required by the legitimate business to certify compliance with RSA 260:14 and shall be conspicuously informed that they are prohibited from reselling, transferring, or assigning any motor vehicle record information, including personal information;

(4) The legitimate business certifies its compliance with RSA 260:14 on a form prescribed by the department, including posting a bond if required by the commissioner.

(b) All legitimate businesses approved under this paragraph shall be charged a reasonable fee as determined by the commissioner that reflects the number of multiple uses authorized, the volume of the legitimate business' resale business, and the market value of the information.

XVI. The commissioner may limit the information contained in motor vehicle records released to any person under this section if it is determined by the commissioner that the release of certain personal information is unnecessary.

XVII. The provisions of this section shall be severable any if any phrase, clause, sentence or provision is declared contrary to the constitution of this state or the United States.

HOUSE JOURNAL No. 13

Thursday, April 13, 2000

The House assembled at 10:00 a.m., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the Speaker.

Prayer was offered by House Chaplain, Reverend Hays M. Junkin, Rector of Saint Andrew's Episcopal Church in Hopkinton.

All embracing Creator, today we honor the tartan of New Hampshire as a symbol of our beloved state whose citizenry is, like the tartan, colorful, bright, and one of a kind. We cannot find adequate words of thank you for all the blessings we share. We thank You for the freedom of our democracy which demands our best efforts. We thank You for the freedom to speak openly and without fear which demands our courage. We thank You for the freedom to worship as our heart leads which demands that we be open to one another without judgment or fear. Above all, we thank You for the men and women who founded our noble country. May the decisions and actions taken in this hallowed chamber today serve to enable every citizen of New Hampshire to grow to their highest and best potential for the common good of all. Amen.

Rep. Garrish led the Pledge of Allegiance.

Rep. Rosen moved that the remarks made by Rep. Avery be printed in the Journal.

Adopted.

REMARKS

Rep. Avery: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Today, my fellow Representatives, as we have done for the past few years, we are celebrating New Hampshire Tartan Day. It is the day we recognize those achievements that Scots and Scottish Americans have made on behalf of the State of New Hampshire and the United States. The day, as I have mentioned before, that marks the anniversary of the Declaration of Arbroath, the document that was signed on April 6 in the year 1320 declaring Scottish Independence, and a document many credit as being a model for our own United State Declaration of Independence. It is also the first anniversary of the new Scottish Parliament that was dormant for over 250 years. Madam Speaker, the most important phrase of that historical document is especially important today, "It is in truth, not for glory nor riches nor honors that we are fighting, but for freedom. For that alone which no honest man gives up but with life itself." Today we take special note of the men and women of the American armed forces and other forces of all nationalities who are today fighting for these same principles of freedom for all people. They have our prayers and best wishes and our fervent hopes that someday all peoples on this earth shall be free.

Piper Gordon Webster piped "Flowers of the Forest" and "Amazing Grace" in memory of Sen. Clesson Blaisdell and Reps. Paul A. Golden, Kenneth J. MacDonald and Marie C. Hawkinson.

RESOLUTION

Its introduction having been approved by the Rules Committee:

Reps. Chandler and Burling offer the following: RESOLVED, that in accordance with the list in the possession of the Clerk, House Resolution numbered 50 shall be by this resolution read a first and second time by the therein listed title.

Adopted.

INTRODUCTION OF HRFirst and second reading

HR 50, authorizing and directing the house judiciary committee to investigate whether cause exists for the impeachment of David A. Brock, chief justice, and or any other justice of the New Hampshire supreme court. (Mirski, Graf 12; Chandler, Carr 1; ; Burling, Sull 1; Hess, Merr 11; Richardson, Ches 12).

CONSIDERATION OF HR 50

Rep. Mirski moved that HR 50, authorizing and directing the house judiciary committee to investigate whether cause exists for the impeachment of David A. Brock, chief justice, and or any other justice of the New Hampshire supreme court, be adopted.

Reps. Boyce and Simon moved that the debate on the consideration of House Resolution 50 be printed in the Journal.

Adopted.

Speaker Sytek: The Chair recognizes the member from Enfield, Rep. Mirski.

Rep. Mirski: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I think the events of the last couple of weeks beg the adoption of this resolution by this House. I think everyone here knows what my general sentiments are. I want to thank the leadership on both sides of the aisle here for their support. But, there is a person in this House who is a co-sponsor who I think deserves special notice and that is the representative from Richmond. When we served on Fairbanks II together, a number of individuals, the majority of the committee at one point, had reached such a state of frustration trying to get at the secret records of complaints against the court, that the representative from Richmond, in quite a bold move in the committee, moved to subpoena those records from the court. I don't know when that's ever been done before in this institution, but it was certainly a remarkable event at the moment. While that effort initially failed, it was a spark for a lot of us to really make a resolve to continue working on this. My thanks to her in particular for supporting this resolution and, to the extent that you can, you ought to thank her for igniting the interest on this subject.

I don't want to take a lot of your time as I have been down here many times on this subject. I don't think as a practical matter that there is anything else that this institution can do as a public act that can begin the road to recovery, that is the road to recover, somehow, the status which the court really truly deserves. I think we are blessed to have an honorable Chairman of the Judiciary Committee where they have already begun some work which gives me great confidence in the selection of counsel. I can't believe that this entire process will be done in anything except in accordance with the highest ethical standards. I really do just simply say to you that this is a wonderful opportunity for us. We are watching the Constitutional protections in action. We are watching checks and balances in action. It gives us an historic opportunity to be a part of that and I urge you to vote "yes". Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Speaker Sytek: The question is on the adoption of the motion by Rep. Mirski. The Chair recognizes the member from Concord, Rep. Hager.

Rep. Hager: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I, too, rise in support of this resolution. I was going to say that I was coming to this with a completely different point of view than the distinguished gentleman who spoke ahead of me but we actually are saying very similar things this morning. I just would like to add, however, that over the years I have been proud of our judicial branch, just as I have been proud of this legislative branch and the executive. I was deeply hurt, just as the majority of the citizens in our state were, about what we learned two weeks ago. I, however, do not believe as many have tried to portray it in the media, that we have seen impeachable offenses. But, what I believe or what other individuals in this state believe is not the issue. The issue is that our branch of government is stepping forward today in a reasonable manner to address what has transpired. I commend you, Madam Speaker, for providing the leadership this past two weeks to bring this resolution to the floor today. I hope and believe that our Judiciary Committee, under the able leadership of Rep. Chairman Mock, who (is he still locked in his car somewhere?) will proceed as quickly and as openly as possible to respond to this resolution. After that has been completed and is behind us, I appeal to the entire judicial branch and the justices of the court to continue to work with this branch of government to open the conduct process as many of this body have tried to do in the past and to put this horrible episode behind us. I know that our judicial branch is respected throughout this nation and I think with what this branch of government can do, over hopefully the next very short period of time, that we can restore that respect throughout this nation. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to questions? Rep. Smith, you may inquire.

Rep. Marjorie Smith: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. Madam Speaker, this is my concern and this is what my question is. I do not know if the behavior that has been referred to rises to an impeachable offense or if it is unacceptable but not impeachable. My concern has to do with the outcome of this process. I would like to ask you what you think the choices are. If the Judiciary Committee, acting as I think we all know they will act, fairly, competently and carefully, were to decide that, in fact, this was an impeachable offense, would that then mean that we can all assume that everything is taken care of, and, by the same token, if the Judiciary Committee were to decide that it were [not] an impeachable offense would that mean that everything was taken care of? My concern is, is there anything in this resolution which would permit us to address systemic problems? And we can have a long list of what those might be, including how we appoint judges, the judicial conduct committee, a unified bar, a whole series of issues. Will this resolution in anyway close off the options to deal with systemic problems?

Rep. Hager: Rep. Smith, I have no idea. I would say, however, that I think this issue is as complex as one or more of the other issues we have been dealing with in this biennium. I would hope that the Speaker and the other leadership would plan a briefing for this entire House like the ones that were held on other complex issues so that we all together know the answer to your question. I have been told that the Judiciary Committee has been meeting and they have been asking the kind of questions you asked and have been brought up to speed so you might want to ask one of them. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: The Chair recognizes the member from Manchester, Rep. Vaillancourt.

Rep. Vaillancourt: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I, too, rise in favor of this resolution and I think the previous question about the systemic nature of things brings us full circle back to where we were last year when we considered another action in this chamber, the Bill of Address, which 58 of us decided to vote in favor of then. My seatmate, way back in the back row got up and spoke and tried to blame some conduct on a systemic problem back then. I recall getting up here to point out some of the specifics because I did sit in on the hearings when the Bill of Address was brought by my dear colleague from the Enfield area and I think we learned that there was a lot more than systemic problems and I don't mean to say I-told-you-so, but I do mean to say that it was an indication a year ago that something was amiss as we sat through those hours of hearings. But, obviously it wasn't an indication that enough was amiss for many of us to vote for the Bill of Address. So, here we are now, back here with more evidence and I guess I should start with a confession. I was travelling up through Vermont recently. It seems like it always happens when I go through Vermont. I speed occasionally and I got a ticket for speeding. I didn't say, "I'm a legislator so don't give me the ticket." We are responsible for the laws we make. We should live up to the responsibility that we put forward for other people. So as soon as I get a little money I will be paying that ticket, hopefully soon. You know what I was thinking about? I wasn't just speeding that one time when I was caught. I probably speed on a regular basis. Do I go to the judge and do I say that I want you to give me a ticket just for this one time, but for every other time I have been speeding? No, I don't. Am I saying that there are probably other indications of some wrong doing on the part of the Chief Justice or certain justices that weren't caught? Could be. Could be. When I decided to enter government a few years ago, the thing that was first and foremost in my mind and remains so today whether it be here in this Chamber or in Manchester where I also serve on the Mayor and Aldermen or anywhere else, if I do nothing else, I will try to shine the light of public scrutiny into actions that are taken. If the public knows what is going on we will be better served, they will be better served. One of the charges against this judicial system, these justices, that is most disturbing to me is the fact that they tried to use a veil of secrecy to shield potential misdeeds. Today, we have the opportunity to shine that light very brightly and to serve us all better. As I say, no one is above the law, not those of us who make the laws, certainly the judges who swear to impartially uphold and interpret the laws. Because, what happens if we put one person above the laws? It leads to an erosion of our respect for the entire system of government. In fact, it can very easily lead to the social contract being broken and as you might recall, in this chamber, I've quoted the words of my favorite philosopher before. When the social contract is broken, we are in danger of reverting to that state of prenatence, that state of anarchy, when, to quote Thomas Hobbes, "Life was solitary, nasty, brutish and short." Crisis is not too inflammatory a word for what these justices have potentially placed us in. They have placed our society in the danger of reverting to prenatence, of having respect for the rule of law destroyed and reverting to the state of anarchy. As guilty as this justice or these justices may be for doing that, we would be equally as guilty if we failed to hold him or them accountable. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Speaker Sytek: The Chair recognizes the member from Cornish, Rep. Burling.

Rep. Burling: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Colleagues, I rise in support of the adoption of this resolution. In so doing, I want to say a few words of thanks to begin: Madam Speaker, to you, for an extraordinary week of real leadership and dedication to the constitutional principles upon which this government stands; to the representative from Bartlett for a similar demonstration of real leadership, collegiality and an opportunity to work together in a way that was productive and wise; to my fellow member of the bar, Rep. Hess, who has been a profound source of judgement, knowledge, information and appropriate advice. We came here to present you with a question and an opportunity for each of you to answer that question. Do we wish to continue an investigation into facts which may or may not, may or may not, prove to serve as grounds for a bill of impeachment on one or more counts? I choose not to prejudice. I will not prejudice. I do support the continuation of the process and I would ask each of you to remember as we decide whether or not to begin this voyage together, that this is a two-stage process. In the first instance, if we choose to vote "yes" by majority vote today, we will in so doing ask the Judiciary panel to act for us in taking on an extremely important investigation, a review of evidence, a review of facts, a searching for the truth. As they pursue that process, if we decide to ask them that, each and every one of us should remember that those members of the Judiciary Committee are acting for us. They are our designees. They are our colleagues and every single one of them is worthy of our support, our friendship, our advice, our collegiality. Only in that environment will their efforts succeed. I, for one, intend to give them that in any way I can. If they find grounds for further proceeding or other recommendations they choose to make, they will come back to us and we will be asked once again to decide. That decision lies in the future. I don't know how today's vote is going to go. I don't know what is going to happen. I just wanted to close by saying this to my colleagues who are members of the Judiciary Committee. I could not be prouder of a panel of people. I could not be more sure of your capacity for good judgment. And I could not be more pleased to know that if this legislature votes in the affirmative today that you as a group of people are well-suited, well-equipped and thoroughly capable of doing this legislature proud. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question.? Rep. Keans, you may inquire.

Rep. Keans: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Rep. Burling, I am trying to match up what you have just said with what I thought I heard last week. As you know, the Judiciary Committee was called to a meeting in the Speaker's office. You were present. The Majority Leader was present. But, at any rate, during part of that meeting.

Rep. Burling: May I just correct one thing? I am not aware that I was called to a meeting of the entire Judiciary Committee.

Rep. Keans: I don't know how you got there. I will be perfectly honest on that. But, I will tell you that the Judiciary Committee was called to a meeting over there. We had thought the Speaker was going to come to our committee room. It turns out some of us were late getting there because we had gone to the committee room and the meeting place had been changed to the Speaker's office. You were present. You stood behind me. I know you were there. I felt you breathing down my throat.

Rep. Burling: Sorry. Now I've got the right meeting.

Rep. Keans: You see, that may be part of the problem here. Too many meetings took place with too few of us present. At that meeting we were told, and I will say I heard it very loudly and clearly, by the leadership of both parties that they were committed to a fair proceeding. Where I get confused is, I believe the Speaker and then reinforced by the Majority Leader, said that it would be a two-step process. My confusion is, my understanding of that two-step process does not match up with what you just said. I don't understand how you can have a two-step process if the second step requires further authorization. I was under the understanding and belief that two-steps were going to be authorized by this resolution today and then if anything further than that, would come back to this House for further proceedings. If you could straighten me out on that, please.

Rep. Burling: Well, let me try to do that. I believe that the process we are deciding to start or not today, is a classic Anglo-American two-step process consistent with our legal traditions back 500 years. If we decide to go forward today, the Judiciary panel will be asked to serve in rough approximation as a grand jury to hear evidence, to take testimony, to issue subpoenas or subpoenas duces tecum to bring forth information which they will evaluate in deciding whether or not to recommend that this House exercise its powers of impeachment through an appropriate bill. That investigative process will take place over the next few weeks. It will be in the control of the Judiciary panel and the Committee will come back to us at some point with a recommendation. The recommendation may take a number of forms. It may be in a draft form of a bill of impeachment. It may be in some other recommendations. It may be in a recommendation that no further action proceed. I can't prejudge it. I don't think anybody in this room can prejudge what the panel will come back to us with. If there is a recommendation which includes one or more articles of a bill of impeachment, then it seems to me the second step is taken if this House chooses to accept such a bill. Then, the process contemplated by our Constitution, i.e. a trial before the Senate, would be instigated. I think there has been much discussion of this in individual meetings. Perhaps no explicit description at large, but if this House were to vote to accept a recommendation involving the exercise of the impeachment power then a group of managers and a counsel for the House would carry that bill of impeachment to our colleagues across the wall in the Senate and there would be a trial in the Senate. That is the second part of the process. That is the "two" step. At that moment we become, through our delegates, essentially the prosecutors and we would prosecute a trial before the Senate sitting as judges. That is what I think we have always talked about. That is what we are contemplating today. That will be what we do if we decide to go forward.

Rep. Keans: So, there is no second step. There is no step two unless the committee recommends impeachment.

Rep. Burling: That is not entirely correct. It is entirely possible the committee would come back with a recommendation which did not contemplate the exercise of the impeachment power and this House as a whole could vote to not accept that recommendation. That is a possibility. Whether it is a practical likelihood, I don't know. But, the second step that we are talking about begins when this House accepts or rejects a recommendation of the Judiciary Committee and takes further action. That is when the second step takes place.

Rep. Keans: Thank you, Rep. Burling. I think I'm getting a clearer picture of where we are at here, but, is it your understanding or is it anybody's understanding and I think it would be helpful for the full Judiciary Committee to understand, where we are at here. What happens to the subpoena authority and what happens to the outside counsel when we bring our recommendation back? Because it is my opinion, and I think it is the opinion across the state, that there are some fundamental problems in the court and I don't see how we get at that either with a "yes" impeach or a "no" impeach. Is it your opinion that the legal counsel and subpoena would be de-authorized after the recommendation either for or against an impeachment?

Rep. Burling: No. I think this is a very important point and I would like to read the third paragraph from the bottom. It is a single sentence. After the discussion of the subpoena power and the impeachment recommendation the language is, and it's on the top of page 993 in your calendar, colleagues: "That the committee shall report to the house of representatives such resolutions, articles of impeachment, or other recommendations as it deems proper." Now, that language includes within it the power to make suggestions for legislation; the powers for systemic review. Look at all the kinds of things that you as a committee member may feel is in need of work by this legislature. It is a large task that we ask of you, but, again, that is why I said I have such faith in each of you as individuals to do the job well.

Rep. Keans: With all due respect, I don't think that answered my question. Would there be an opportunity for the continuation of outside counsel and the continuation of subpoena power?

Rep. Burling: Oh, yes. I hate to be a lawyer—like in this, but Rep. Keans: I think that is why you were a part of all those meetings. I wasn't a part of those.

Rep. Burling: I hope it had something to do with my status as Democratic Leader. The issue of counsel becomes very important if this legislature decides to go to step two. We will require the presence of counsel to manage the prosecution of any article of impeachment before the Senate. We will require the continued availability of the subpoena power because in the context of a prosecution of a case before the Senate we'll have to be able to compel witnesses to show up and testify as to what they know. During the recent impeachment proceeding in Washington, there was an agreement between House and Senate that they would proceed by offers of proof with written depositions. It is not at all clear that your committee and the Senate would agree to go that route. They might require actual physical testimony by people under subpoena. So, both the subpoena power and the advice of counsel would continue on into the second phase.

Rep. Keans: If we found impeachment. My question is if we find no reason for impeachment but there are systemic problems in the court system—in that situation?

Rep. Burling: Well, I can't prejudge that. Would you need the subpoena power to make an investigation of systemic problems which might have become obvious during the course of the investigation? Perhaps. But I think that that would be a thing brought up appropriately at that time.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to further questions? Rep. Avery, you may inquire.

Rep. Avery: Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you for taking my question, Rep. Burling. In the recent investigation by the Attorney General, the Attorney General plea-bargained with Justice Thayer and in return for his resignation did not prosecute him, as I understand it. And my question is: will the Judiciary Committee have the same kind of flexibility to do some kind of plea bargain with anybody that they find in jeopardy?

Rep. Burling: If I may, Madam Speaker, first let me say I don't have any knowledge that there was an explicit plea bargain between the Department of Justice and the justice who resigned. There are intimations in the press that such may have happened, but I know of no agreement and again this is a point in which I think we need to be very careful, I refuse to make conclusions without absolute proof. The mere fact that somebody said something on the front page of the state's largest newspaper doesn't do it. So, I don't draw the same conclusion you do. There was a very, I thought, explicit description by the Attorney General of why he had chosen not to prosecute; and taken by itself, that document, that statement, is, to me as a formerly practicing attorney, both clear and demonstrative of his extraordinary judgement. He made the right call. It was not a case which he could have tried in a criminal court and won. It certainly would have advanced nothing as far as I can see. Now, as to what powers the panel may have with regard to anybody in the future, I don't think there are any particular powers vested in them to reach an ultimate conclusion. We are all going to have to cast a vote at the end and that is where we are. If we decide go forward today, we are putting ourselves on the hook for making another vote. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Speaker Sytek: The Chair recognizes the member from New London, Rep. Jacobson.

Rep. Jacobson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise in support of this resolution which has its ultimate authority in Part II, Article 17 of the Constitution. What we are adopting by majority vote, if we so do today, we are adopting an investigation and that investigation begins as a blank page and as we hear the witnesses we will develop what are the true facts. I do not know what the true facts are now but that will be the responsibility of the Judiciary Committee and the result may be one of many conclusions. There may be evidence for impeachment. There may be evidence only for an address. There may be evidence for a public reprimand and there may be evidence that we need to make very fundamental changes in what has been the process today. All of those elements and possibly more are, in fact, available as ultimate conclusions. Now, obviously we all are aware that secrecy and confidentiality has turned out to be a major problem. Ironically it is Woodbury Langdon, who was the only person ever impeached who has illuminated for me what is the real meaning of independence and that is, as I have always believed, the independence to make judicial decisions. While he was impeached, they ultimately nol-prossed and then they tried an address and the Senate nonconcurred unanimously because in that particular instance there was a group of legislators who hated Woodbury Langdon because he criticized them for doing something what they should not have done and that is to nullify the decisions of the court and it is that independence that we must at all costs preserve. And so I urge you all to support this resolution. I have confidence in our distinguished Chairman and the members of the committee to do that which is right and what is always constitutional in the public interest. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to questions. Rep. Vaughn, you may inquire.

Rep. Vaughn: Thank you very much, indeed, Madam Speaker. The honorable member from New London, I know you are a country boy, but I have a question in transfer of power. The Judiciary Committee, acting as a whole, takes the power collectively of the House, the entire House, and it's placed on their shoulders. The current rules that we have, as I would understand, would possibly be set aside and the committee, the Judiciary Committee, would have to come up with their own set of rules. The question I have to you, having read this thoroughly and being a senior member of the House and President of the Senate at one time, do you see an opening for members of the House to suggest rules, specific rules, to the Judiciary Committee or do you see by this written declaration in House Bill 50, that that is up to the Judiciary Committee representing us? That is my question, thank you.

Rep. Jacobson: Well, I would agree that if members of the House have suggestions for rules that they be made to the Chairman. When I was Chairman of House Bill 1338, people did come to me with suggestions and we evaluated them. But, the ultimate decision must be made by the Committee.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Wendelboe, you may inquire.

Rep. Wendelboe: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Rep. Jacobson, would you agree that, although the Judiciary Committee is charged with being responsible for this investigation, that it is inherent upon the duties of all of us to be as involved as possible with that process by attending the hearings of the Judiciary Committee and that knowing our policy of public meetings that we encourage the members to attend those meetings, encourage the public to attend, history classes, our community TV and so on, so that this truly will not be something in secrecy but will be done in the open and that we shouldn't be concerned with who is going to make the rules but we should be more concerned with that we all make sure to be as knowledgeable as possible as to their investigation as it progresses. Would you agree?

Rep. Jacobson: My understanding is that every meeting will be held in public. If all members of the House show up we may have to have the meetings here, plus the gallery. But, I would be opposed to anything that is done in secret. I think everything should be out in the public.

Rep. Sytek: The Chair recognizes the final speaker, the member from Hooksett, Rep. Hess.

Rep. Hess: Thank you, Madam Speaker. This is a sad day for me just like I'm sure it is a sad day for all of you and, indeed, a sad day for the entire population of the state of New Hampshire. The revelations that have come to light over the last two weeks are troublesome but we have a process that is available to us to fully and completely and objectively scrutinize and investigate those allegations. It is not a decoration that is sitting up on the wall that can be admired but untouched or unused and it is not a museum piece although it is over 200 years old. It is process that was put into place in our constitution, our living constitution, so that when the situation called for it, it was there to be used. I'm going to ask you to join with me in simply asking yourself, or addressing the following four issues. If you, like me, were deeply disturbed and dismayed by the revelations that came out of the Attorney General's report just 13 days ago and even more so in the investigation file of some 120 pages, or if you, like me, were shocked to learn that Supreme Court Justices in the past, after having recused themselves from cases, thereafter participated in conferences and discussions and even the drafting of opinions in some way, on the very cases which they had recused themselves on contrary to the standards which that very same court has imposed on our planning boards, our zoning boards of adjustment, our boards of aldermen, our boards of selectmen, our city councils, administrative boards of the state and state officials, and if you, like me, read the words of the spokesman for the court who one week ago stated, and I quote, "The appropriate time for the court to comment on the matter is as part of a legislative inquiry," and if you, like me, believe that these revelations and these allegations need and must receive the scrutiny and the objective inquiry in open public under oath by one of our most respected standing committees which will be assisted by an outstanding special counsel, then fellow members, even if you don't share all those concerns with me, even if you don't share a majority of those concerns with me, if you share just one of those concerns with me, I urge you to join me in voting on this resolution so that the facts may become known and so that this House can make a decision, the right decision, when we have that information available. Thank you.

Reps. Chandler and Burling requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the resolution.

and the motion was adopted.

The pending question is Ought to Pass with Amendment.

Reps. Hoadley and Ward offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4052h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Statement of Purpose. The general court finds that in order to implement New Hampshire's policy of providing all pupils with the opportunity to acquire an adequate education, it is necessary to monitor, evaluate, and publicly report the progress of pupils, schools, and districts. School improvement and accountability is best addressed at the local school district level with broad community participation in the development, implementation, and evaluation of locally developed education improvement and assessment plans. The state may provide support for accountability by implementing a process for identifying school districts that may not be meeting established quality standards and may be in need of assistance. The annual report card on the condition of education statewide and the resulting recommendations will provide the information necessary for identifying any specific problems that may exist and the remedies that may be desirable. It is the intent of the legislature during the 2003 session to revisit the issue of accountability in education by reviewing the progress and results of the policies implemented under RSA 193-E and to determine, by June 30, 2003, whether appropriate further remedies are needed to assist local school districts in meeting the quality standards and to further determine what those remedies might be.

2 New Subdivision; School District Comprehensive Improvement and Assessment Program. Amend RSA 193-E by inserting after section 3 the following new subdivision:
School District Comprehensive Improvement and Assessment Program

193-E:4 Definitions. In this subdivision:

- I. "Commissioner" means the commissioner of the department of education.
- II. "Department" means the department of education.
- III. "Plan" means the comprehensive improvement and assessment plan as defined in RSA 193-E:5.

IV. "State board" means the state board of education.

193-E:5 School District Quality Standards; Comprehensive Improvement and Assessment Plan. In order to implement New Hampshire's policy of providing all pupils with the opportunity to acquire an adequate education, each school district shall implement the following quality standards:

I. By July 1, 2001, each district shall file its current plan with the department. Each school district shall prepare and implement its plan in accordance with a staggered schedule established by the department such that all plans shall be filed no later than June 1, 2007. Each plan shall be developed through a process involving parents, teachers, employers, and other community members. The department shall comment to the district on the plan in a timely fashion. Every 5 years following the filing of the initial plan, each school district shall file an updated plan developed through the process outlined in this paragraph. Districts may reference the statewide education improvement and assessment plan established in RSA 193-C:3, in preparing the plan. At a minimum, the plan shall include:

- (a) Curriculum and proficiency standards for all pupils.
- (b) School and district performance goals based on reported data on educational indicators listed in paragraph II of this section.
- (c) Procedures for aligning curriculum, instructional practices, and pupil and programmatic assessments, including annual reporting of results.
- (d) Local assessment measures which focus on individual pupil performance.
- (e) Role of support services and programs.
- (f) Role of instructional leadership.
- (g) Strategies to promote family and community involvement.
- (h) Staff supervision and evaluation and performance-based professional development.
- (i) Procedures for ongoing review and evaluation of the plan.
- (j) Pupil behavior and conduct codes.
- (k) Procedures detailing how the school district budget reflects the goals of the plan.
- (l) Provisions for addressing individual school needs.

II. By September 1, 2002, and annually thereafter, each school district shall report to the department its data for the previous school year on its school and district performance and demographic indicators. The requirements for data keeping and the form of the report shall be established in accordance with rules adopted by the state board.

- (a) Performance and demographic indicators shall include the following areas:
 - (1) Attendance, tardiness, truancy, transfer, and drop-out rates.
 - (2) Length of school day and length of instructional time.
 - (3) School environment indicators, such as safe-schools data.
 - (4) Proportion of graduating pupils going on to post-secondary education, military service, and the workplace.
 - (5) Performance on state tests administered pursuant to RSA 193-C and other standardized tests administered at local option.
 - (6) Extent to which pupils meet behavior conduct codes.
 - (7) Extent to which teachers are certified in all areas in which they teach.
 - (8) Extent to which teachers and staff engage in performance-based professional development to promote pupil learning.

(9) Frequency and resulting actions of staff supervision and evaluations.

(10) Extent to which district schools implement components of effective family/community involvement standards including communicating, parenting, pupil learning, volunteering, school decision-making and advocacy, and collaborating with the community.

(11) Frequency and resulting actions of supervision and evaluations of instructional and administrative leaders.

(12) Teacher and administrator turnover rates reported by area of certification and by elementary, middle, junior high, and high school levels.

(b) In addition, local districts shall report on locally developed performance indicators and assessment measures.

III. Each elementary, middle, junior high, and high school in the school district shall meet the standards for school approval adopted by the state board.

IV. Beginning December 1, 2003, and annually thereafter, the commissioner, in accordance with rules adopted by the state board pursuant to RSA 541-A, shall determine whether each school district is meeting the quality standards established in paragraphs I–III of this section. The commissioner, annually, shall provide a report of such determinations to the governor and council, the speaker of the house, the senate president, the chairpersons of the house and senate education committees, the state board, and the attorney general.

V. No later than December 1, 2002, and annually thereafter, the department shall issue a report on the condition of education statewide and on a district-by-district and school-by-school basis. This report shall include demographic and pupil performance data including, but not limited to, school and district performance on state tests administered pursuant to RSA 193-C, other standardized tests administered at local option by at least 25 percent of school districts, and data provided under paragraph II of this section, as well as other relevant statistics including English as a second language pupils, special education pupils, and pupils eligible for free or reduced-price meals. Comparisons with state averages and with the condition of each district and school in comparison with previous years shall be provided, including, but not limited to, statewide rankings of each district and school on the state tests administered pursuant to RSA 193-C and on other standardized tests administered at local option by at least 25 percent of school districts. The report shall be organized and presented in a manner that is easily understood by the public and that assists each school district with the identification of trends, strengths, and weaknesses and the development of its local education improvement and assessment plan.

VI. Within 90 days of the issuance of the annual report on the condition of education as required in paragraph II of this section, each school district shall provide an opportunity for public discussion of the report at a meeting of the governing body called for the exclusive purpose of reviewing the report. If requested by a school district, a representative from the department of education or the state board of education shall make every reasonable effort to be in attendance at the public meeting to present the report to the public. Additionally, the department of education shall determine a priority list for districts that may have significant areas of concern based on the annual report on the condition of education and shall exercise every reasonable effort to attend the public meetings in those identified school districts within the 90 days on a priority basis. At least 7 days advance public notice shall be given. A written report of the public input and recommendations made at this meeting shall be made and retained by the school district governing body for future use. Within 60 days of the meeting, each school board shall issue a written response to the annual report at a regularly noticed and scheduled meeting and make any recommendations the board deems appropriate.

VII. Any school district, school, or teacher that demonstrates a best practice worthy of recognition shall also receive formal recognition from the state board and the governor. Such school districts, schools, or teachers shall be eligible to receive funds from any school improvement funds administered by the department. Such funds shall be used to disseminate best practices throughout the state.

193-E:6 Request for Assistance.

I. A school district, in response to the annual report on the condition of education, may request from the department school improvement assistance on behalf of the district as a whole or on behalf of one or more schools in the district. Within 30 days of such request, the commissioner may, based on the availability of resources, provide appropriate assistance to the district. The commissioner shall prioritize any assistance based on the determinations made in the annual report on the condition of education. The commissioner shall work with local school board and school district officials in determining the assistance specific to the district's needs.

II. If any assistance provided by the department of education includes the use of a technical assistance advisor, the commissioner shall appoint a technical assistance advisor who shall be authorized to access any school improvement funds administered by the department of education, subject to rules adopted by the state board.

193-E:7 Request for Assistance by School District Legislative Body. If a school district has not submitted a request for assistance by the time of the annual school district meeting in a town, or by April 30 in a city, then the majority of the appropriate legislative body of the school district may vote to direct the governing body to submit a request for assistance pursuant to this section. If a majority of the legislative body votes in favor of requesting assistance, then that assistance shall be requested and provided in accordance with RSA 193-E:6.

193-E:8 School Improvement Funds. The department and the local school districts shall collaborate in an initiative to apply for grant money from any source that may be available to address school improvement issues. This collaborative effort should target funds which will be used to remedy specific areas at the local school district level identified as in need of improvement in the annual report on the condition of education.

193-E:9 Rulemaking. The state board shall, pursuant to RSA 541-A:

I. No later than July 1, 2001, adopt rules relative to data keeping, the form of the school district report required under RSA 193-E:5, II, the annual report on the condition of education statewide required under RSA 193-E:5, V, the scheduling of the local public meetings for the presentation of the annual reports under RSA 193-E:5, VI, and the access to any school improvement funds administered by the department of education under RSA 193-E:5 and 193-E:6. In developing these rules, the state board shall solicit advice and information from educators at all levels, including those within the university system, business people, government officials, legislators and legislative committees, community representatives, parents, and members of the public.

II. No later than July 1, 2002, adopt rules relative to the criteria and procedures for determining compliance with quality standards. In developing these rules, the state board shall solicit advice and information from educators at all levels, including those within the university system, business people, government officials, legislators and legislative committees, community representatives, parents, and members of the public.

193-E:10 Audit; Report. Beginning July 1, 2002, and every 2 years thereafter until July 1, 2006, the provisions of this subdivision, and all rules and procedures adopted by the department pursuant to the authority granted in this subdivision, shall be the subject of a performance audit, pursuant to RSA 14:31-a, IV, prepared by the audit division of the office of legislative budget assistant. After the July 1, 2006 audit, the joint legislative performance and audit committee established under RSA 17-N:1 shall determine and approve the scope and timing of any further audits of this program. A report of such audits shall be submitted to the speaker of the house, president of the senate, and the governor no later than December 1 of the year in which the audit is performed.

3 New Paragraph; Statewide Improvement and Assessment Plan; Review Required. Amend RSA 193-C by inserting after paragraph IV the following new paragraph:

V. By June 30, 2002, and every 5 years thereafter, the state board shall review and update the statewide education improvement plan developed in accordance with RSA 193-C that describes how the department will help schools and school districts improve pupil achievement, through a process that provides opportunities for public input from parents, employers, educators, and other citizens. The plan shall include goals and strategies for the delivery of technical assistance and professional development, the sharing of best practices, the modification or expansion of existing programs, and the establishment of new programs.

4 Statewide Improvement and Assessment Program; Legislative Oversight Committee; Duties Amended. Amend RSA 193-C:8 to read as follows:

193-C:8 Duties of the Legislative Oversight Committee; Report. The oversight committee shall:

I. [The oversight committee shall review] Review the development and implementation of the program to ensure that they are in accordance with legislative policy. Implementation of the program shall be in conjunction with the committee's review.

II. Review all of the provisions of RSA 193-C and 193-E, relative to an adequate public education and school district accountability, and file a report of such review to the speaker of the house of representatives, the president of the senate, the governor, and the chairpersons of the house and senate education committees every 2 years.

III. Prepare any legislation that is needed as a result of the review of the progress and results of the policies implemented under RSA 193-E by the legislature during the 2003 legislative session.

5 New Paragraph; State Board of Education; Duties of the State Board; Review of School Approval Standards Inserted. Amend RSA 186:11 by inserting after paragraph XXXV the following new paragraph:

XXXVI. REVIEW OF SCHOOL APPROVAL STANDARDS. No later than June 30, 2003, and every 5 years thereafter, the state board of education shall review and update as necessary school approval standards based on input from parents, employers, educators, and other citizens. No later than 60 days from the date of each review, the state board of education shall submit a report of its findings, including recommendations for proposed legislation, to the chairpersons of the house and senate education committees. At the discretion of the committee chairpersons, a public hearing on the report may be scheduled.

6 Department of Education; Biennial Budget. The department of education shall include in its budget for the biennium ending June 30, 2003, the costs necessary to provide assistance to the school districts under RSA 193-E.

7 Review of School Accountability. During the 2003 legislative session, the legislature shall revisit the issue of accountability in education by reviewing the progress and results of the policies implemented under RSA 193-E. By June 30, 2003, the legislature shall determine whether appropriate further remedies are needed to assist local school districts in meeting the quality standards and shall further determine what those remedies might be. The legislature shall base its evaluation and determination of necessary further action on the results of the monitoring, evaluating, and reporting procedures established in 193-E and reports by the department of education on the assistance that may have been provided to the school districts and the results thereof.

8 Repeal. RSA 194:23-d, relative to state financial aid to public elementary or high schools, is repealed.

9 Prospective Repeal. RSA 193-E:3, relative to the delivery of an adequate education, is repealed.

10 Effective Date.

I. Section 9 of this act shall take effect December 1, 2002.

II. The remainder of this act shall take effect 60 days after its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill:

I. Requires each school district to prepare and implement quality standards and a local education improvement and assessment plan.

II. Establishes procedures for the department of education to identify local school districts which are in need of assistance.

III. Requires the department of education and local school districts to collaborate to secure grant money from any source available to address school improvement issues.

IV. Requires the legislature to revisit the issue of school accountability in the 2003 legislative session.

Reps. Hoadley, Weyler, Hess and O'Hearn spoke in favor.

Rep. Estabrook spoke against and yielded to questions.

Rep. Jacobson spoke against.

Rep. Ward spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. Keith Herman requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the Hoadley/Ward floor amendment.

and the Hoadley/Ward floor amendment was adopted.

Rep. Estabrook offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4060h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Statement of Purpose. The general court finds that in order to implement New Hampshire's policy of providing all pupils with the opportunity to acquire an adequate education, it is necessary to monitor, evaluate, and publicly report the progress of pupils, schools, and districts.

2 New Subdivision; School District Comprehensive Improvement and Assessment Program. Amend RSA 193-E by inserting after section 3 the following new subdivision:
School District Comprehensive Improvement and Assessment Program

193-E:4 Definitions. In this subdivision:

I. "Commissioner" means the commissioner of the department of education.

II. "Department" means the department of education.

III. "Plan" means the comprehensive improvement and assessment plan as defined in RSA 193-E:5.

IV. "State board" means the state board of education.

193-E:5 School District Quality Standards; Comprehensive Improvement and Assessment Plan. In order to implement New Hampshire's policy of providing all pupils with the opportunity to acquire an adequate education, each school district shall implement the following quality standards:

1. By July 1, 2001, each district shall file its current plan with the department. Each school district shall prepare and implement its plan in accordance with a staggered schedule established by the department such that all plans shall be filed no later than June 1, 2007. Each plan shall be developed through a process involving parents, teachers, employers, and other community members. The department shall comment to the district on the plan in a timely fashion. Every 5 years following the filing of the initial plan, each school district shall file an updated plan developed through the process outlined in this paragraph. Districts may reference the statewide education improvement and assessment plan established in RSA 193-C:3, in preparing the plan. At a minimum, the plan shall include:

(a) Curriculum and proficiency standards for all pupils.

(b) School and district performance goals based on reported data on educational indicators listed in paragraph II of this section.

(c) Procedures for aligning curriculum, instructional practices, and pupil and programmatic assessments, including annual reporting of results.

- (d) Local assessment measures which focus on individual pupil performance.
- (e) Role of support services and programs.
- (f) Role of instructional leadership.
- (g) Strategies to promote family and community involvement.
- (h) Staff supervision and evaluation and performance-based professional development.
- (i) Procedures for ongoing review and evaluation of the plan.
- (j) Pupil behavior and conduct codes.
- (k) Procedures to ensure that the school district budget reflects the goals of the plan.
- (l) Provisions for addressing individual school needs.

II. By September 1, 2002, and annually thereafter, each school district shall report to the department its data for the previous school year on its school and district performance and demographic indicators. The requirements for data keeping and the form of the report shall be established in accordance with rules adopted by the state board.

(a) Performance and demographic indicators shall include the following areas:

- (1) Attendance, tardiness, truancy, transfer, and drop-out rates.
- (2) Length of school day and length of instructional time.
- (3) School environment indicators, such as safe-schools data.
- (4) Proportion of graduating pupils going on to post-secondary education, military service, and the workplace.
- (5) Performance on state tests administered pursuant to RSA 193-C and other standardized tests administered at local option.
- (6) Extent to which pupils meet or exceed behavior conduct codes.
- (7) Extent to which teachers are certified in all areas in which they teach.
- (8) Extent to which teachers engage in performance-based professional development to promote pupil learning.
- (9) Frequency of and resulting actions from staff supervision and evaluations.
- (10) Extent to which district schools implement components of effective family/community involvement standards including communicating, parenting, pupil learning, volunteering, school decision-making and advocacy, and collaborating with the community.
- (11) Frequency of and resulting actions from supervision and evaluations of instructional and administrative leaders.
- (12) Teacher and administrator turnover rates reported by area of certification and by elementary, middle, junior high, and high school levels.

(b) In addition, local districts shall report on locally developed performance indicators and assessment measures.

III. Each elementary, middle, junior high, and/or high school in the school district shall meet the standards for school approval adopted by the state board.

IV. Beginning December 1, 2003, and annually thereafter, the commissioner, in accordance with rules adopted by the state board pursuant to RSA 541-A, shall determine whether each school district is meeting the quality standards established in paragraphs I-III of this section. A school district that does not meet these quality standards shall be designated by the commissioner as a district in need of assistance. The commissioner, annually, shall provide a report of such determinations to the governor and council, the speaker of the house, the senate president, the chairpersons of the house and senate education committees, the state board, and the attorney general.

V. No later than December 1, 2002, and annually thereafter, the department shall issue a report on the condition of education statewide and on a district-by-district and school-by-school basis. This report shall include demographic and pupil performance data including, but not limited to, school and district performance on state tests administered pursuant to RSA 193-C, other standardized tests administered at local option by at least 25 percent of school districts, and data provided under paragraph II of this section, as well as other relevant statistics including English as a second language pupils, special education pupils, and pupils eligible for free or reduced-price meals. Comparisons with state averages and with the condition of each district and school in comparison with previous years shall be provided, including, but not limited to, statewide rankings of each district and school on the state tests administered pursuant to RSA 193-C and on other standardized tests administered at local option by at least 25 percent of school districts. The report shall be organized and presented in a manner that is easily understood by the public and that assists each school district with the identification of trends, strengths, and weaknesses and the development of its local education improvement and assessment plan.

VI. Within 45 days of the issuance of the annual report on the condition of education as required in paragraph II of this section, each school district shall provide an opportunity for public discussion of the report at a meeting of the governing body called for the exclusive purpose of reviewing the report. At least 7 days advance public notice shall be given.

VII. A school district that meets or exceeds the quality standards set forth in paragraphs I-III of this section shall receive formal recognition from the state board and the governor. Any school district, school, or teacher that demonstrates a best practice worthy of recognition shall also receive formal recognition from the state board and the governor. Such school districts, schools, or teachers shall be eligible to receive funds from a special projects and district improvement fund administered by the department. Such funds shall be used to disseminate best practices throughout the state.

193-E:6 Request for Assistance. A school district, in response to the annual report on the condition of education, may request from the department the assistance available under this subdivision on behalf of the district as a whole or on behalf of one or more schools in the district. Within 30 days of such request, the commissioner may, based on the availability of resources, provide appropriate assistance to the district. The commissioner shall work with local school board and school district officials in determining the assistance specific to the district's needs.

193-E:7 School District in Need of Assistance. If a school district has been designated as a district in need of assistance, then that school district shall receive assistance from the department as follows:

I. A school district shall have one year from the date of the designation as a district in need of assistance pursuant to RSA 193-E:5, IV to prepare a corrective action plan for approval by the state board. The school district may decide to implement its corrective action plan on its own, through the use of a technical assistance advisor, or a peer review team as provided in this section. Any such decision shall be included in the corrective action plan. A district's corrective action plan shall first examine and access the district's professional development resources and available state initiatives. After accessing district resources and available state initiatives, the district shall have access, with the consent of the commissioner, to the special projects and improvement fund, if necessary, in order to participate in workshops, conferences, seminars, courses, and other similar academic and professional development opportunities which may be available and which shall be related to the specific educational goals of a district as outlined in the plan.

II. If a school district has not developed and implemented an approved corrective action plan within one year of that designation, then on December 1 of the year following the designation, if that school district continues to be designated as a district in need of assistance, the commissioner may provide technical assistance to review the educational programming and effectiveness of the school district. In cooperation with local officials, the technical assistance advisor shall prepare and present a report at the beginning of a regularly scheduled public meeting of the local school board and to the state board. This report shall be issued within 4 months of the advisor's appointment. Based on this report, the local school board and superintendent shall, within 6 months of the issuance of the report, prepare a corrective action plan and submit it to the state board for approval. If the state board does not approve a corrective action plan, then the commissioner, in cooperation with the superintendent and the local school board, shall work with the school district to revise its corrective action plan. If the school district fails to revise its corrective action plan or the state board does not approve the revised corrective action plan, then the commissioner, in cooperation with the superintendent and the local school board, shall develop a corrective action plan, including methods for implementation. The commissioner shall, to the greatest extent possible, solicit advice and comment from the local community regarding the revised corrective action plan, at a special meeting called for the purpose, and submit the plan to the state board for approval without further action of the school district.

III. Any approved corrective action plan that includes the use of a technical assistance advisor, then the commissioner shall appoint a technical assistance advisor who shall be authorized to access the state special projects and district improvement fund, subject to rules adopted by the state board, to provide assistance to the local school district staff in the implementation of the corrective action plan.

IV. Any approved corrective action plan that includes the use of a peer review team, then the commissioner shall name a peer review team consisting of an appointee of the local school district, an appointee of the state board, and a third member chosen by the local and state appointees to advise the school district's superintendent and the local school board relative to the implementation of the corrective action plan until the goals of the corrective action plan are met.

V. If a school district that has been designated a district in need of assistance pursuant to RSA 193-E:5, IV has not submitted a request for assistance by the time of the annual school district meeting in a town, or by April 30 in a city, then the legislative body of the school district may vote to direct the governing body to submit a request for assistance pursuant to this section. If a majority of the legislative body votes in favor of requesting assistance, then that assistance shall be requested and provided in accordance with this subdivision.

193-E:8 Appeals. A school district that has been designated as a district in need of assistance may file an appeal in writing with the state board no later than 30 days from the date of the designation. The scope of the appeal shall be limited to the basis for the school district's designation as a district in need of assistance. The state board shall expedite all school district appeals on this matter by scheduling a hearing and rendering a written decision no later than 30 days from the date on which the school district's request for appeal was received.

193-E:9 Special Projects and District Improvement Fund. A special projects and district improvement fund is hereby established in the department of education. Moneys in this fund shall be continually appropriated to the department. The department shall use moneys appropriated for this fund to provide grants pursuant to RSA 193-E:7. The department shall also use moneys appropriated for this fund to support the implementation of approved corrective action plans. The technical assistance advisor assigned to work in these school districts shall be authorized to access this fund in accordance with rules adopted by the state board.

193-E:10 Rulemaking. The state board shall, pursuant to RSA 541-A:

I. No later than July 1, 2001, adopt rules relative to data keeping and the form of the school district report required under RSA 193-E:5, II.

II. No later than June 30, 2003, adopt rules relative to the approval of corrective action plans as required in RSA 193-E:7. In developing these rules, the state board shall solicit advice and information from educators at all levels, including those within the university system, business people, government officials, legislators and legislative committees, community representatives, parents, and members of the public.

III. No later than July 1, 2003, adopt rules relative to procedures for access to and disbursement from the special projects and district improvement fund established pursuant to RSA 193-E:9.

IV. No later than July 1, 2002, adopt rules relative to the criteria and procedures for determining compliance with quality standards. In developing these rules, the state board shall solicit advice and information from educators at all levels, including those within the university system, business people, government officials, legislators and legislative committees, community representatives, parents, and members of the public.

193-E:11 Audit; Report. Beginning July 1, 2002, and every 2 years thereafter until July 1, 2006, the provisions of this subdivision, and all rules and procedures adopted by the department pursuant to the authority granted in this subdivision, shall be the subject of a performance audit, pursuant to RSA 14:31-a, IV, prepared by the audit division of the office of legislative budget assistant. After the July 1, 2006 audit, the joint legislative performance and audit committee established under RSA 17-N:1 shall determine and approve the scope and timing of any further audits of this program. A report of such audits shall be submitted to the speaker of the house, president of the senate, and the governor no later than December 1 of the year in which the audit is performed.

3 New Paragraph; Statewide Improvement and Assessment Plan; Review Required. Amend RSA 193-C by inserting after paragraph IV the following new paragraph:

V. By June 30, 2002, and every 5 years thereafter, the state board shall review and update the statewide education improvement plan developed in accordance with RSA 193-C that describes how the department will help schools and school districts improve pupil achievement, through a process that provides opportunities for public input from parents, employers, educators, and other citizens. The plan shall include goals and strategies for the delivery of technical assistance and professional development, the sharing of best practices, the modification or expansion of existing programs, and the establishment of new programs.

4 Statewide Improvement and Assessment Program; Legislative Oversight Committee; Duties Amended. Amend RSA 193-C:8 to read as follows:

193-C:8 Duties of the Legislative Oversight Committee; Report.

I. The oversight committee shall review the development and implementation of the program to ensure that they are in accordance with legislative policy. Implementation of the program shall be in conjunction with the committee's review.

II. To review the provisions of RSA 193-E, relative to an adequate public education and school district accountability, and file a report of such review to the speaker of the house of representatives, the president of the senate, the governor, and the chairpersons of the house and senate education committees every 2 years.

5 New Paragraph; State Board of Education; Duties of the State Board; Review of School Approval Standards Inserted. Amend RSA 186:11 by inserting after paragraph XXXV the following new paragraph:

XXXVI. REVIEW OF SCHOOL APPROVAL STANDARDS. No later than June 30, 2003, and every 5 years thereafter, the state board of education shall review and update as necessary school approval standards based on input from parents, employers, educators, and other citizens. No later than 60 days from the date of each review, the state board of education shall submit a report of its findings, including recommendations for proposed legislation, to the chairpersons of the house and senate education committees. At the discretion of the committee chairpersons, a public hearing on the report may be scheduled.

6 Repeal. RSA 194:23-d, relative to state financial aid to public elementary or high schools, is repealed.

7 Prospective Repeal. RSA 193-E:3, relative to the delivery of an adequate education, is repealed.

8 Effective Date.

I. RSA 193-E:9 as inserted by section 2 of this bill shall take effect July 1, 2003.

II. Section 7 of this act shall take effect December 1, 2002.

III. The remainder of this act shall take effect 60 days after its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill:

I. Requires each school district to prepare and implement quality standards and a local education improvement and assessment plan.

II. Establishes procedures for the department of education to identify local school districts which are in need of assistance.

III. Establishes procedures for the department of education to assist in improving the overall quality of educational programs and services offered by such districts.

IV. Establishes a special projects and district improvement fund within the department of education.

Rep. Estabrook spoke in favor.

Rep. Yeaton spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Reps. Henderson and O'Hearn spoke against and yielded to questions.

Rep. O'Hearn requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the Estabrook floor amendment.

RECESS

(Speaker Sytek in the Chair)

CLERK'S NOTE

When less than two-thirds of the elected membership is present, Part II, Article 20 of the state constitution requires the assent of two-thirds of those present and voting to render their acts and proceedings valid.

ENROLLED BILL AMENDMENTS

SB 170-FN-A, establishing a Parents as Teachers Program in Sullivan county and making an appropriation therefor. (Amendment printed SJ 4/13/00)

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

HB 1321, relative to certain funds collected by order of the public utilities commission.

Amendment (4094-EBA)

Amend the bill by inserting after section 2 the following and renumbering the original section 3 to read as 4:

3 Authorization for Contingent Renumbering. If any other act of the 2000 regular session of the general court which contains an amendment to RSA 6:12, I which inserts any new subparagraph into paragraph I of such section becomes law, the director of legislative services is authorized to make any technical changes to the numbering in any RSA sections inserted by this or any other act as necessary to conform said sections to proper RSA format. The authority granted under this section shall not include the power to make any substantive changes and shall expire upon printing of the 2000 session laws.

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

ENROLLED BILLS REPORT

The Committee on Enrolled Bills has examined and found correctly enrolled House Bills 699, 1199, 1374 and 1512 and Senate Bill 76.

Rep. Ronald Nowe, Sen. D'Allesandro for the Committee

COMMITTEE REPORTSCONSENT CALENDAR

Rep. Chandler moved that the Consent Calendar with the relevant amendments as printed in the day's House Record be adopted.

SB 432-FN-A, relative to state assistance for teachers applying for national board certification, removed by Rep. O'Hearn.

Consent Calendar adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

SB 318-FN, relative to proposed joint maintenance agreements. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Russell N. Cox for Education: This bill is the product of a study committee and permits school districts to utilize joint maintenance agreements and to issue bonds and be eligible for school building aid grants. It also amends existing legislation by repealing a specific existing joint maintenance agreement that was never consummated. Vote 15-0.

Referred to Finance.

SB 319, relative to interstate school districts. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Elizabeth K. Hoadley for Education: All testimony in the hearing supported the bill. Elementary students in the Rivendale School District shall meet the standards established by one of the two states (New Hampshire and Vermont) with its passage. High school students have been addressed in earlier legislation. One result of this legislation is that students will not be required to take duplicate and time-consuming double assessments. Vermont state standards are both recent and rigorous. Vote 15-1.

SB 352, repealing the equipment challenge grant program within the New Hampshire community technical colleges. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Susan B. Durham for Education: The Equipment Challenge Grant Program was established in 1992 as a pilot program. It did good work for two years and has not been used since. The Technical Community College System is out-of-compliance, as shown by our audit, due to an inactive program. The Technical System continues to pursue this goal. Vote 16-0.

SB 313, establishing a commission to study the relationship between postsecondary education and recipients of temporary assistance to needy families. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Marion L. Copenhaver for Health, Human Services and Elderly Affairs: The committee unanimously supported the creation of this commission to look at how successful New Hampshire's welfare reform program has been in helping recipients achieve long-term economic independence. This commission will attempt to evaluate education options and access to post-secondary programs for persons under New Hampshire's temporary assistance to needy families welfare system. Vote 14-0.

SB 377, relative to peer support programs within the department of health and human services. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Daniel M. Burnham for Health, Human Services and Elderly Affairs: This legislation requires the Commissioner of Health and Human Services to establish peer support programs within the department. It also grants the Commissioner rulemaking authority for the purposes of this bill. It thereby, provides supporting legislation for one of the department's most responsive, innovative and cost effective programs. There will be no additional cost to the department, as this will validate a very popular program that is already occurring. Vote 13-1.

SB 400-L, relative to emergency medical and trauma services. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE
Rep. Peter L. Batula for Health, Human Services and Elderly Affairs: This bill would authorize the Commissioner of Health and Human Services to suspend or revoke a person's authority to operate under state and local protocols. The sole sponsor of this bill asked the committee to ITL the bill and this recommendation was also embraced by all those who came to testify before the committee on the bill. The situation this bill would address is being worked on by all those involved. Vote 14-0.

HB 1627, relative to the exchange of certain land in the town of Rindge. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. William E. Leber for Public Works and Highways: This bill provides for equal exchange of approximately 0.11 acre of land between the town of Rindge and Cambridge Boy Scout Camp, Inc. with certain property rights possessed by the state pursuant to the Land Conservation Investment Program. The land would be used by the town of Rindge to straighten the road to provide a safer travel lane on Old New Ipswich Road. The Office of State Planning supports the bill, and finds the impacts are not extensive and do not impair the value of the conservation easement. Legislative approval is needed to convert the use of land to non-conservation. The amendment only changed the acreage from "0.07" to "approximately 0.11" acre. The committee strongly supports the Ought to Pass with Amendment. Vote 16-0.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Certain Land in the Town of Rindge. Notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, an approximately 0.11 acre portion of land along Old New Ipswich Road now owned by Cambridge Boy Scout Camp, Inc., with certain property rights possessed by the state pursuant to the land conservation investment program under RSA 162-C, identified in the city's records as tax map 7, lot 27, may be exchanged with a like portion of land owned by the town of Rindge for the purpose of improving the road alignment of Old New Ipswich Road in Rindge, New Hampshire.

2 Findings. The general court hereby affirms its long-term commitment to preserving the natural beauty, landscape, rural character, and natural resources of New Hampshire consistent with the enabling legislation of the land conservation investment program. The general court, however, recognizes that in this specific instance, the exchange of an approximately 0.11 acre portion of protected land for the above described purposes will not impair any of the conservation values for which a conservation easement was purchased. The land used by the town of Rindge in connection with the relocation of the road will be compensated for by the town of Rindge deeding a parcel of equal size to the Cambridge Boy Scout Camp, Inc., subject to the terms of the existing conservation easement held by the state of New Hampshire. As such, the general court finds that in this instance, this legislation balances the public purposes of providing a safe travel lane along Old New Ipswich Road, with the need to ensure that the public's investment in conservation lands is not diminished over time.

3 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill authorizes the exchange of an approximately 0.11 acre portion of land currently owned by Cambridge Boy Scout Camp, Inc. with a like portion of land owned by the town of Rindge for the purpose of improving the road alignment of Old New Ipswich Road in Rindge.

HJR 26, urging Congress to pass legislation ensuring improved access to local television for households in unserved and underserved rural areas. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. George R. Rubin for State-Federal Relations and Veterans Affairs: The testimony supported the need to ask Congress to respond to the needs of citizens in underserved rural areas of our state to improve access to local television. Vote 13-0.

SCR 4, urging the federal government to establish a new zip code for the town of Madbury. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Marshall E. Quandt for State-Federal Relations and Veterans Affairs: The small town of Madbury is under the zip code of the city of Dover and suffers from either delays or loss of mail. The two mismatched delivery areas share nothing in common, not schools, municipal departments, or governing authorities. Vote 13-0.

CLERK'S NOTE

The Constitutionally required two-thirds of the membership was declared present.

REGULAR CALENDAR

HB 1623, relative to the disclosure of customer financial information by financial institutions. MAJORITY: INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE. MINORITY: OUGHT TO PASS.

Rep. Martha Fuller Clark for the Majority of Commerce: In November of 1999 Congress passed a sweeping rewrite of financial law that will allow banks, insurance companies and stock brokerages to merge with one another. Known as the Financial Modernization Act, this legislation will take effect in November 2000. The legislation requires that banks provide their customers with an opt-out procedure annually beginning this November if they don't want their banks to disclose their financial information to outside companies. HB 1623 could pre-empt this requirement by legislating opt-in rather than opt-out for New Hampshire financial institutions, and their customers. This change in process would have both legal and financial implications that could result in increased costs, increased consumer solicitations and potential loss of businesses and services to New Hampshire consumers. While HB 1623 raises legitimate concerns surrounding this issue of privacy with regard to an individual's personal financial information, the committee believes it is premature to pass this legislation which could have unintended consequences for the state's economy. The committee also believes that the consumer is adequately protected by the opt-out requirement in federal legislation. The committee will continue to follow the very critical issue of privacy vs. the technology information revolution, and may very well file legislation to address this issue once the federal rules have been released (due out in June 2000); the Federal Modernization Act goes into effect (November); and more information is available. Vote 12-1.

Rep. Linda L. Garrish for the Minority of Commerce: HB 1623 would put in place significant and expanded consumer privacy protections regarding the sharing of personal information between financial institutions. The Financial Modernization Act addresses only a limited form of consumer protection. The premise of HB 1623 is that all consumers have the fundamental right of privacy and should have the first and final say about what happens to their personal information. It seeks to protect all consumers especially the most economically vulnerable. The federal act was purposely amended to provide the opportunity for states to enact stricter consumer protections to address only this issue. Twenty-three state attorney generals, including New Hampshire and all other New England states, opposed the Financial Modernization Act because it provided only that consumers could "opt-out" of disclosure in order to avoid having their personal information shared with non-affiliated parties, yet did not provide the same provision between affiliated institutions. The attorney generals further felt that an "opt-in" provision, such as provided in HB 1623, was a more affirmative protection for the consumer since the consumer could make such a choice prior to the institution using, sharing, or selling it for any purpose. Ultimately, this bill would allow our constituents and not financial institutions to decide whether and to what extent non-public personal information can be used by a financial institution. Seventeen other states are currently addressing this type of legislation.

Reps. Garrish and Keans spoke against.

Reps. Fuller Clark and Francoeur spoke in favor.

Rep. Kurk requested a quorum count. The Speaker declared a quorum present.

Reps. Vachon and Kurk spoke against and yielded to questions.

Rep. Hunt spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. Gilman requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the majority report.

and the majority report was adopted.

REMOVED FROM THE TABLE

Rep. Mock moved that CACR 2, relating to supreme court rules. Providing that supreme court rules may not be inconsistent with statutes, be removed from the table.

On a division vote, 251 members having voted in the affirmative and 87 in the negative, the motion was adopted by the necessary three-fifths.

RECONSIDERATION

Having voted with the prevailing side, Rep. Mock moved that the House reconsider its action whereby it failed to adopt the committee report of Ought to Pass with Amendment by the necessary three-fifths on CACR 2, relating to supreme court rules. Providing that supreme court rules may not be inconsistent with statutes.

Rep. Mock spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Reconsideration prevailed.

The question now being the adoption of the Committee report of Ought to Pass with Amendment on CACR 2, relating to supreme court rules. Providing that supreme court rules may not be inconsistent with statutes.

DEBATE ON CACR 2

Rep. Bickford moved that the debate be printed in the Journal.

On a division vote, 152 members having voted in the affirmative and 150 in the negative, the motion was adopted.

Rep. Kennedy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Many years ago I served on the first Fairbanks Committee. I thought that was the saddest thing I had ever been forced to do. I look over here and I see the distinguished representative who, in those days, put the bounty on a judge. I understand that he was just as sad as I was at that time. This all has gone down hill. We look at men and we blame men for what happens. Today, we are investigating men and the hardest thing I ever did was to go after men I respect but I voted today to do so. I have in my hands the papers I have asked one of the most honorable men of this state to find for me. The Secretary of State has dug up the original papers when 73-a was put together. Let me read it to you very simply. This is what was asked of the voters. "Are you in favor of limiting the constitution provided that the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court shall be the administrative head of the state courts and he shall have, with concurrence of the majority of the supreme court justices, to make rules governing procedure in the courts." That is what the people were asked. When it came out they added to it, "and the rules so promulgated shall have the force and effect of law." The Constitution of the United States says that the republican form of government is where the elected people's representatives makes the law. No bureaucrat can make a law. They can make rules but those rules are subject to you, you and the people who are represented by you. Today, these are the facts that this is out of line. It is my opinion that this is where the courts started to go downhill. This CACR will hopefully start the remedial actions so that we never again have to take honorable men who made mistakes or who possibly made mistakes, because of a foul system and none of us again will have to push the buttons that we did today. I thank you very much and I will hand this over. Madam Speaker will you give this to Judiciary, please.

Rep. Jacobson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. As the previous speaker has already read the question which happens to be question number 4 in 1978, I do want to say that it was the Constitutional Convention of 1974 that did adopt the amendment as it is now read in the constitution. There was a legitimate adoption but when it came to the voters to see the amendment in its fullness that was not present and the voters guide did not make a reference to it. I was chairman of House Bill 1338 committee in 1998 and we went over this with a great deal of care. We had only one problem that one of the justices who was most involved in this particular situation in 1978 refused to come so we didn't have his testimony. However, House Bill 1338 committee recommended that this change be put to the people again in such a way that at least they understand the full impact and that is what we hope you will support today. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Bickford, you may inquire.

Rep. Bickford: Thank you, Rep. Jacobson. My concern has been what will the impact be. I've been very concerned about whether if we start passing statutes that deal with the criminal aspect of law if we are going to interfere with rules of evidence. Could you tell me a little bit about the rule of impacts that this may have.

Rep. Jacobson: This will be a constitutional amendment which will put a limitation on the court's current authority for making rules that relate to confidentiality, that relate to secrecy and other rules. What this says is that the legislature will have an oversight in it and pass legislation that would, in some respects, nullify the rules or modify the rules. It has nothing to do with questions of substantial law.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Burling, you may inquire.

Rep. Burling: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am speaking truly from ignorance at this point. I just wanted to make them happy. The discussion has gone on for some time whether this state should move to what is called the federal system, in which rules of civil and criminal procedure are promulgated by the Supreme Court and then reviewed and accepted by a legislative panel. As I read the text of CACR 2, I cannot, myself, tell whether that's the end result we're aiming for or some other result is desired. I happen to be a believer in the notion of the federal approach to have rules promulgated by the court, approved by the legislative panel; if disapproved then re-written by the court. Can you tell me if CACR 2 were to pass is that where we would wind up or would we wind up in some other place?

Rep. Jacobson: I believe that is the fundamental thrust of this proposal in that there would be a degree of oversight on the making of rules by the legislature and we are dealing only with rules again and not with substantial law. So, the legislature could say if a rule was passed that they believed was not a proper law then they could provide the corrective or considering the corrective the court could correct it before we pass the law, but it relates only to rules and not to questions of substantial law.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Lynde, you may inquire.

Rep. Lynde: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Rep. Jacobson. Madam Speaker may I ask you a question first? You said to approve this as amended. I got a copy of that, Is this what you mean, the thing that is in the outer chamber? Yes, thank you. Rep. Jacobson, I would like to ask you not so much to reassure me but maybe to reassure the public in conjunction with this. Earlier today, we passed a resolution for the purpose of assuring a complete, fair and objective investigation under CACR 50. I recognize that this CACR was before the House much before the issues that brought CACR 50 before us occurred. There may be some that say, well, are we now doing something that would appear to be inconsistent with the objectives of CACR 50 and I see this. Obviously, we are bringing something forth that had been on the table and what would you say to those people that may bring that type of issue before us?

Rep. Jacobson: First let me say that the action this morning was a House Resolution, rather than a CACR. I don't believe there is a necessary intimate connection to this. The resolution that we passed is an investigation into questions that may result in impeachment or may not result in impeachment. This is a Constitutional proposal that will go before the people and it will require a two-thirds vote. So, I do not see any connection and this has been an issue, interestingly enough, since 1978 when it was passed and it was revealed that there was more to the amendment than was in the voter's guide and what they voted on.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? The member yields.

Rep. Lynde: Just a quick question. The way I read this is that if there was a rule that we were aware of that we didn't like, could we conceivably pass legislation essentially saying that rule is null and void?

Rep. Jacobson: Yes.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Smith you may inquire.

Rep. Marjorie Smith: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. This is what my question is. If we know what the problem is, the problem is that the last sentence, the one that says, "the rules promulgated shall have the force and effect of law," were omitted when the voters chose to approve what became article 73-a, if that is the problem, number one. Number two, if our goal, as you have said to the previous questioner, is to perhaps move towards the procedure used in the federal courts where the courts prepare their rules and then submit them to the legislative body for approval. So, if we know what the problem is and if we know what the desired solution is, why would we be confusing the issue by using language which says, and which the voter are supposed to understand, "providing that Supreme Court rules may not be inconsistent with statutes?" Why don't we call a spade a spade if our goal is to make sure the voters know what we mean when we say it? How do we end up with this language?

Rep. Jacobson: I'm not sure there was a question in that. In any event, there is only one way to deal with this and that is either to have someone kind of legislative oversight or as the court has interpreted this for the last 22 years, is that they have total control. In fact, Judge Brock told me himself that the only power that the legislature has at this moment, other than impeachment, is the budget. Because this has been so controversial over the last 22 years that this seemed to be the way in which the court can continue to make rules except if they become inconsistent with what the legislature believes.

Rep. Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Peterson you may inquire.

Rep. Peterson: Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you, Rep. Jacobson for yielding. Were this CACR to pass and the legislature were to move forward to pass a statute which overturned one of the court rules and there were say a couple hundred people up in the penitentiary who had been convicted under those rules, would they have cause to appeal and look for a mistrial?

Rep. Jacobson: First of all, let me say the only reason I'm answering all these questions is because I think it is a very important issue and I believe I should yield. Secondly, those people, as far as I know and remember, I'm not a lawyer, as far as I know, those people were put there by judicial decision and they would then have prove that the judicial decision violated the rules that were in existence at the time.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Franks, you may inquire.

Rep. Franks: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Rep. Jacobson. I guess I'm still unsure exactly where we are going with this and I'm a little bit concerned with the explanation thus far and I know everyone is trying very hard to understand this so we can make the right decision today. The rules that the Supreme Court – the rulings? – I guess that is what I am asking. When you are referring to the rules of the Supreme Court is making, are those the rulings that they make on specific laws we have passed? Is that what you are referring to?

Rep. Jacobson: No.

Rep. Franks: Then are you referring to their rules of operation in the court itself?

Rep. Jacobson: Yes.

Rep. Franks: If that is the case, and you have said it is, then I would ask if the Supreme Court has the same authority to make rulings on our rules of operation in the House?

Rep. Jacobson: It specifically says in the constitution that the house and senate may make its own rules of proceeding.

Rep. Franks: If I understand this, and I may not have it right yet, but if I understand this properly, what we are talking about doing is putting in legislative oversight for the rules of the Supreme Court of operation and yet they do not have the same ability to have an oversight committee over the house and senate.

Rep. Jacobson: Well, there is a huge difference between the rules that the court puts in because the rules of the court effect every single individual in the state of New Hampshire. Whereas the rules of this house are limited to the members of the legislature in their proceedings. Now, let me just give you one example of that. You will recall that in the Fairbanks case, millions of dollars were stolen by Fairbanks, so the legislature wanted to find a way to try to indemnify, at least in the future, the victims of this kind of activity so we proposed a rule in the Judiciary Committee by legislation. The Supreme Court came back and said, one, that we couldn't do it and, secondly, they wanted to do their own. O.K., that is what ultimately happened. But, the difference between the two was that they set up a fund that was far smaller than what the legislature had and we have to look to the public interest in these issues.

Rep. Franks: If I can say this, I'm caught between insuring the separation of powers in state government and weighing that with what we have before us today; would you believe?

Rep. Jacobson: The separation of powers is a totally different problem. The separation of powers as understood by our founding fathers goes to the heart of the matter in terms of the judicial decisions and you will recall this morning I mentioned Woodbury Langdon was condemned in the House for giving the judiciary independence in judicial decisions. That is what is their responsibility and we should not muddle in it as they did in the beginning stages. But we have now accepted the view of judicial review by the Supreme Court of the decisions that are made by the lower courts and we have not, since 1818, gotten in to nullifying judicial decisions.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Simon, you may inquire.

Rep. Simon: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, representative and thank you members of the House. I appreciate your indulgence because I truly believe that this is one of the most critical issues that this legislature will address. My question, representative, is this. If I am concerned that perhaps the passage of Article 73-a back in 1978, I believe it was, was a mistake and it, indeed, set us on the road to the constitutional confrontation that we have acted on today, is not CACR 2 premature and does it not beg the question because perhaps shouldn't we be putting the question to the people of New Hampshire, should not 73-a be repealed in its entirety?

Rep. Jacobson: I think we are getting into the minutia of the issue. I have no problem with the court making rules. I do have a problem when there is no check and balance on those rules. That was the conclusion that the committee on House Bill 1338 came to after its investigation and this proposal was the result of it.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Norelli.

Rep. Norelli: Thank you, Madam Speaker and again I'm happy that Rep. Jacobson has indulged me in a question because I happen to agree with the previous speaker that this is very important and I want to make the right decision. Rep. Jacobson, it is my understanding that what you want to do is to give the legislature oversight, checks and balances, oversight over the administrative rules that the Supreme Court makes and if, in fact, I agree with you on the issue, what I'm really not sure about is whether or not the language that is in here on the amendment that says, "simply provided, however, that such rules may not be inconsistent with statute", whether that actually accomplishes the goal that you want and that is does that allow us to have the legislative oversight that you want to us to have, that language?

Rep. Jacobson: I might say two things. First of all, it is very important to know the difference between rules and rulings because rulings are the function of the court not of us. Now, the rules are ways in which there is an administration and that is the area where these procedures impact on the total population of the state. We are the ultimate body to make sure that they are in the public interest. Now, I cannot predict what is going to happen but, all we are doing now is to submit it and let the people vote on it. Maybe they are going to vote by two-thirds to have it the way it is or maybe it will fail by two-thirds and it will be back to exactly where it is now and the important point is to give the people of New Hampshire that opportunity which they did not clearly understand in 1978.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Sabella, you may inquire.

Rep. Sabella: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Rep. Jacobson. I'd like to go back, I think, to the area that Rep. Franks was calling. This is very crucial to the future of the House and the court system and the whole fabric of the state. It concerns me, having voted this morning to have the investigation go forward, that now we are doing this. I'm afraid of this House impinging on the other branch of government. We don't know what we are going to find from this investigation. Why should we act on this CACR again now when we have already decided to do something? Quite frankly, I'm not only worried about the integrity of the House, I'm really more concerned about the integrity of the court because I think that's the whole question.

Rep. Jacobson: As I indicated I believe that the issue that we dealt with this morning is a totally separate issue from the issue we are dealing with now.

Rep. Mock: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representatives, let me make this very, very simple. If you think that the voters should be amending the constitution of the state without seeing the constitution, it's wrong. That is what happened. The constitution got amended, changed without the people knowing exactly what they were voting on. All we are asking is that you give the Supreme Court that has been making rules some validity because they have been making rules since 1978 with authority that someone down in Concord wrote in. That is what's been happening. This proposition doesn't take that away. They can still make rules. You know what? You have oversight over the executive branch. We have a Rules Committee here. When the Fish and Game changes the length of a trout, it comes over here. When the Supreme Court makes a rule, it doesn't come over here. All this is saying is that it ought to come over here. We ought to take a look at it. It's plain. It's simple. That's it in a nutshell. I ask you to approve this thing. Thank you and I will take no questions because I know it is a long day.

Rep. Mock requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the report.

SB 210-FN-L, relative to payment by the state for certain court-ordered placements of special education students. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Clair A. Snyder for Education: This bill requires the state to pay the cost of special education services provided for all court-ordered, out-of-district placements of special education pupils. The amendment requires that the sending district reimburse the Department of Education for either the average per pupil cost or for the actual pro-rated cost of the special education or educationally related services. Vote 16-0.

Amend the bill by replacing all after section 1 with the following:

2 New Paragraph; Liability for Education of Children in Homes for Children or Health Care Facilities; Liability for Costs Amended. Amend RSA 193:29 by inserting after paragraph V the following new paragraph:

VI. For the purpose of determining liability for all costs of special education or special education and educationally related services pursuant to RSA 186-C:19-b, II, the sending district shall be liable to the department of education for either the average per pupil cost as estimated by the department of education or for the actual prorated cost of special education and any educationally related services as defined in RSA 186-C:2 provided by the receiving district, whichever is greater.

3 Effective Date. This act shall take effect July 1, 2001.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill requires the state to pay the full cost of special education services provided to all court-ordered, out-of-district placements of special education pupils, and requires that the sending district reimburse the department of education for all such cost.

Adopted.

Rep. O'Hearn yielded to questions.

Report adopted and referred to Finance.

MOTION TO SPECIAL ORDER

Rep. Burling moved that SCR 3, rescinding the 1979 call for a federal constitutional convention, be made a Special Order for Thursday, April 20, 2000 in the regular calendar order.

Adopted.

SB 432-FN-A, relative to state assistance for teachers applying for national board certification. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Iris W. Estabrook for Education: The amendment authorizes the Dept. of Education, through the Department's existing budgetary allocations, to reimburse costs associated with ten teachers becoming certified by the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards. These teachers are required to perform a minimum of three years teaching service in New Hampshire following National Board Certification. The bill recognizes teachers' applying for National Board Certification. Vote 16-0.

Amend RSA 189:14-f, I-a as inserted by section 2 of the bill by replacing it with the following:*

I-a. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph I of this section, a teacher who submits written evidence to the state board of education demonstrating that he or she has successfully completed the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards certification course and who has met the requirements of RSA 189:14-f, I(a) and (b) shall be granted the credential of master teacher. Teachers receiving the master teacher credential under this paragraph shall be subject to the provisions of paragraph III of this section.

Amend the bill by replacing section 3 with the following:

3 New Section; Teachers; National Board Certification Course. Amend RSA 189 by inserting after section 14-f the following new section:

189:14-g National Board for Professional Teaching Standards Certification.

I. A teacher possessing a valid professional standards certificate from the state board of education who has obtained a written recommendation from their local superintendent may apply, through the division of educational improvement, department of education, to take the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards certification course (NBPTS). A teacher applying through and selected by the division of educational improvement, department of education shall be eligible to receive reimbursement from the department of education for the course fee.

II. Beginning July 1, 2001, the department of education shall, from existing budgetary allocations, reimburse the course fee for a maximum of 10 teachers per fiscal year who successfully complete the NBPTS course. The department is hereby authorized to expend funds for the purpose of reimbursing NBPTS course fees in accordance with this section.

III. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent a teacher possessing a valid professional standards certificate from the state board of education from taking the NBPTS course as may be desired. Such teachers shall be financially responsible for all costs associated with obtaining the certification and shall be eligible to receive the master teacher credential pursuant to RSA 189:14-f, I-a.

IV. A teacher who successfully completes the NBPTS certification course shall be required to perform a minimum of 3 years of full-time teaching at a primary or secondary public school in New Hampshire.

The amendment failed.

Rep. O'Hearn offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4120h)

Amend RSA 189:14-f, I-a as inserted by section 2 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

I-a. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph I of this section, a teacher who submits written evidence to the state board of education demonstrating that he or she has successfully completed the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards certification course and who has met the requirements of RSA 189:14-f, I(a) and (b) shall be granted the credential of master teacher. Teachers receiving the master teacher credential under this paragraph shall be subject to the provisions of paragraph III of this section.

Amend the bill by replacing section 3 with the following:

3 New Section; Teachers; National Board Certification Course. Amend RSA 189 by inserting after section 14-f the following new section:

189:14-g National Board for Professional Teaching Standards Certification.

I. A teacher possessing a valid professional standards certificate from the state board of education who has obtained a written recommendation from their local superintendent may apply, through the division of educational improvement, department of education, to take the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards certification course (NBPTS). A teacher applying through and selected by the division of educational improvement, department of education shall be eligible to receive reimbursement from the department of education for the course fee.

II. Beginning July 1, 2001, the department of education shall, from existing budgetary allocations, reimburse the course fee for a maximum of 10 teachers per fiscal year who successfully complete the NBPTS course. The department is hereby authorized to expend funds for the purpose of reimbursing NBPTS course fees in accordance with this section.

III. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent a teacher possessing a valid professional standards certificate from the state board of education from taking the NBPTS course as may be desired. Such teachers shall be financially responsible for all costs associated with obtaining the certification and shall be eligible to receive the master teacher credential pursuant to RSA 189:14-f, I-a.

IV. A teacher who successfully completes the NBPTS certification course and receives funding under paragraph II of this section shall be required to perform a minimum of one year of full-time teaching at a primary or secondary public school in New Hampshire. In lieu of the one year of full-time teaching, a teacher may reimburse the department of education for any funds received in connection with the NBPTS course. Such reimbursement shall be completed within one year of the completion of the NBPTS course.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill provides that the department of education shall pay the costs associated with 10 teachers annually taking the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards certification course, and provides that teachers who obtain such certification shall be automatically certified as master teachers in New Hampshire. The bill also establishes a one year teaching requirement for teachers who receive funds from the department of education to take the course.

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE REPORT ON SB 186

Committee of Conference Report on SB 186-FN, an act relative to additional cost of living adjustments and increased minimum allowances for certain retired group II members, and relative to requiring spousal acknowledgement of a member's election of an optional retirement allowance.

Recommendation:

That the Senate recede from its position of nonconcurrence with the House amendment, and concur with the House amendment, and

That the Senate and House adopt the following new amendment to the bill as amended by the House, and pass the bill as so amended:

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 New Paragraph; Definition Added; Spousal Acknowledgment. Amend RSA 100-A:1 by inserting after paragraph XXX the following new paragraph:

XXXI. "Spousal acknowledgment" means a written recognition, signed by a member's spouse, of the benefit payment plan selected by the member under the provisions of RSA 100-A:5, RSA 100-A:6, RSA 100-A:10, or RSA 100-A:19-a - 19-h that is filed with the retirement system on a form prescribed by the board of trustees at the time of retirement and when the member elects a change in benefit payment as allowed under RSA 100-A:13.

2 Service Retirement; Group II; Minimum Allowance Increased. Amend RSA 100-A:5, II (c) (1) to read as follows:

(c)(1) Notwithstanding any provision of RSA 100-A to the contrary, any group II member who has retired on ~~[a full service retirement allowance]~~ or after the effective date of this subparagraph after attaining the age of 45 with at least 20 years of creditable service shall receive a minimum annual service retirement allowance of ~~[$5,200]~~ $10,000. ~~[In comparing the minimum service retirement allowance and the full service retirement allowance, the full service retirement allowance shall be the sum of the basic allowance plus COLA's. The provisions of this subparagraph shall not apply to a group II member who has retired on a reduced or on a vested deferred retirement allowance. In the case of a group II member who has retired on a full service retirement allowance, and who]~~ If such group II member has elected to convert the retirement allowance into an optional allowance for the surviving spouse under RSA 100-A:13, the surviving spouse shall be entitled to a proportional share of the ~~[$5,200 which shall be based upon the optional allowance which the surviving spouse is receiving. Under no circumstances shall the provisions of this subparagraph be construed to reduce the retirement benefits being paid to a group II member as of the effective date of this subparagraph]~~ $10,000.

3 Optional Allowances; Spousal Acknowledgement of Election. Amend RSA 100-A:13, I to read as follows:

I. Any member who has reached service retirement age as provided in RSA 100-A:5, I(a), or II(a), or RSA 100-A:19-b, or any retiree within 120 days after the effective date of retirement, may elect to receive, instead of the retirement allowance otherwise payable, a retirement allowance of equivalent actuarial value under one of the options named in paragraph III, or to redesignate any such option previously elected. When the member elects to receive an optional retirement allowance under paragraph III, the beneficiary or beneficiaries whom the member nominates may include the member's spouse and/or children. The notice of non-election, election, or change of retirement option shall be on a form designated by the board, which, if the member is married, shall include a spousal acknowledgment. The optional allowance shall be effective upon retirement if the election is made before the effective date of retirement, and on the first day of the month following receipt by the board of the notice of election or change of option if made during the 120-day grace period. When an election or change of option is made during the 120-day grace period, no retroactive adjustments will be made in payments already received by the retiree. After expiration of the 120-day grace period no change in option selection shall be permitted except as provided in paragraph II. If a retiree dies after filing notice of election or change of option during the 120-day grace period but before the effective date, the election or change shall be effective as of the date of death. If a member dies after filing an election for a survivorship retirement option and before the effective date of retirement, whether or not the member has filed for retirement, the beneficiary who was nominated by the member in the election of the option may elect to receive either the optional survivor benefit which the member had elected or the ordinary death benefit provided under RSA 100-A:9, whichever is more advantageous to the beneficiary; provided that, in the case of the member's death before retirement, if the beneficiary named in the survivorship option election is not the same person as the beneficiary under RSA 100-A:9, then the death benefit under RSA 100-A:9, II, and not the survivorship option shall apply.

4 New Section; Supplemental Allowances for Certain Retired Group II Members. Amend RSA 100-A by inserting after section 41-a the following new section:

100-A:41-b Supplemental Allowances for Certain Retired Group II Members.

I. An eligible retired group II member of the New Hampshire retirement system whose annual retirement allowance is less than an amount specified in paragraph II and who retired on or before June 30, 1998, shall receive a one-time supplemental allowance. An eligible retired group II member shall be a member, or beneficiary of such member, who retired with at least 20 years of creditable service under RSA 100-A:5, II, or member, or beneficiary of such member, who retired under RSA 100-A:6, II.

II. The one-time supplemental retirement allowance payable to the member shall be the percentage of the member's annual retirement allowance as follows:

(a) Annual retirement allowance less than $9,300, the applicable percentage to reach a $10,000 annual retirement allowance;

(b) Annual retirement allowance greater than or equal to $9,300 and less than $11,700, 7 ½ percent;

(c) Annual retirement allowance greater than or equal to $11,700 and less than $13,700, 5 ½ percent;

(d) Annual retirement allowance greater than or equal to $13,700 and less than $15,700, 4 percent;

(e) Annual retirement allowance greater than or equal to $15,700 and less than or equal to $17,700, 3 percent.

III. The one-time supplemental retirement allowance payable to each beneficiary of the member shall be determined as described in paragraph II except the specified amounts of $9,300, $10,000, $11,700, $13,700, $15,700, and $17,700 shall be multiplied by the ratio of the beneficiary's annual retirement allowance to the member's annual retirement. The provisions of this section shall not apply to a group II member who has retired on a reduced or vested deferred retirement allowance. The additional allowance shall become a permanent addition to each member or beneficiary's base retirement allowance, as provided in RSA 100-A:41-a.

5 Funding of Supplemental Allowances. The total actuarial cost of the additional allowances provided in RSA 100-A:41-b as inserted by section 4 of this act shall be funded on a terminal basis from the special account established in RSA 100-A:16, II(h).

6 Repeal. RSA 100-A:5, II(c)(2) and (3), relative to the reduction in minimum service retirement allowance due to federal social security benefits or other benefits, are repealed.

7 Applicability. The changes to retirement system benefit amounts in sections 2 and 4 of this act shall apply as of the effective date of this act, but payment of the benefit amounts accruing to any member or beneficiary as of the effective date may be delayed by the retirement system until such time as necessary administrative and system upgrades are accomplished provided such payment is by September 30, 2000.

8 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Conferees: Sens. J. King, Dist. 18; F. King, Dist. 1 and Wheeler, Dist. 21

Conferees: Reps. Dyer, Hills. 8; Holbrook, Belk. 7; Mercer, Hills. 27 and Lynch, Ches. 19

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Rep. Chandler moved that the Consent Calendar with the relevant amendments as printed in the day's House Record be adopted.

SB 320, relative to ballot counting in cooperative school districts and relative to ratifying the Inter-Lakes cooperative school district meeting held on March 8, 2000, removed by Rep. Christiansen.

SB 416-FN, relative to licensure of dietitians, removed by Rep. Stickney.

Consent Calendar adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

SB 325, relative to denial, revocation or suspension of a child care provider license, permit or registration for a felony conviction. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Ruth Ginsburg for Children and Family Law: This bill permits the denial, revocation or suspension of child care licenses, permits or registrations for felony convictions deemed directly or indirectly harmful to children in child day care. Vote 14-0.

Amendment (4010h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to denial, revocation or suspension of a child care provider license, permit or registration for certain felony convictions.

Amend the bill by replacing section 1 with the following:

1 Denial, Revocation or Suspension of Child Care Licenses, Permits or Registrations for Felony Convictions. Amend RSA 170-E:7, IV to read as follows:

IV. If any individual whose name has been submitted for this check has been convicted of a felony offense deemed directly or indirectly harmful to children in child day care, crimes against minors or adults, except crimes as provided in paragraph III, or is the subject of a founded complaint of child abuse or neglect, the department may deny, revoke, or suspend a license, permit, or registration pending the development and implementation of a corrective action plan approved by the department. In addition, the department may, upon a finding of criminal activity or a founded complaint of child abuse or neglect as described in this paragraph, withhold state funding to registered child day care providers that are exempt from the licensing requirements of RSA 170-E:4 pending the development and implementation of a corrective action plan approved by the department. The department shall conduct an investigation in accordance with rules adopted under this subdivision to determine whether the individual poses a present threat to the safety of children. The investigation shall include an opportunity for the individual to present evidence on his behalf to show that the individual does not pose a threat to the safety of children.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill requires denial, revocation or suspension of child care licenses, permits or registrations for felony convictions deemed directly or indirectly harmful to children in child day care.

SB 448, establishing a guardians ad litem board. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Patricia A. Dowling for Children and Family Law: After a great deal of discussion concerning some possible deficiencies with the lack of rules or regulations in regard to guardians ad litem, a subcommittee was established to begin the process of establishing a special board which would oversee the process of training, teaching and measuring the guardians ad litem field be they court approved or volunteers from CASA. This new board would allow oversight of the procedures enforced to protect the children and their guardians. Vote 13-0.

Amend section 1 of the bill by inserting after RSA 463:36 the following:

463:37 Court Appointed Special Advocates. Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) of New Hampshire shall be accountable to the guardian ad litem board for complying with the training requirements established by the board under RSA 463:36, and for the actions of its volunteer members who are appointed by the court as guardians ad litem in child abuse and neglect cases. Referred to Finance.

SB 394-FN, making miscellaneous changes in the insurance laws. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Sheila T. Francoeur for Commerce: This bill makes several technical corrections to the insurance laws and was requested by the insurance department. The amendment relates to rules relative to insurance regulations and grants exemptions under RSA 541-A. This exemption will allow reference to National Association of Insurance Commissioners national formats that contain formulas, tables and forms that are industry specific and date sensitive. It is not the intention of the committee for the department to avoid the ratemaking process for NAIC models, but only to exempt those models from the drafting and procedures manual requirements. Vote 12-0.

Amend the bill by replacing section 5 with the following:

5 New Paragraph; Rulemaking. Amend RSA 541-A:21 by inserting after paragraph V the following new paragraph:

VI. Rules adopted under Title XXXVII, relative to insurance regulation, shall be exempt from the uniform system of numbering and drafting rules required by RSA 541-A:8. These rules shall be in compliance with RSA 541-A:7 if the wording is consistent with the language of the corresponding National Association of Insurance Commissioners regulations.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill:

- (1) Makes a technical correction to the law regulating foreign insurance companies.
 - (2) Clarifies the procedure pertaining to books, records, and other documents when an insurance company is undergoing examination.
 - (3) Changes the appeal procedure for persons aggrieved under RSA 401-B.
 - (4) Creates an exemption from certain provisions of RSA 541-A for certain insurance regulations.
 - (5) Adjusts the salary of the health care statistician.
- This bill was requested by the insurance department.

HCR 35, urging the United States Food and Drug Administration to defer its proposed rules requiring pasteurization for apple cider and consider adoption of alternative processing standards. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Leighton C. Pratt for Environment and Agriculture: The New Hampshire Apple Producers of cider has a safe product and are following the Department of Agriculture Markets and Foods guidelines. Thus, this resolution requests the USFDA to defer its proposed rules requiring pasteurization. There has NEVER been an incidence of illness from non-pasteurized New Hampshire cider in 200 years of cider production. Vote 16-0.

SB 407-FN-L, relative to dog licensure. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. David L. Babson for Environment and Agriculture: This bill adds the words "failed to license" to the statute. This closes a loophole which allowed people who had not licensed their dogs to ultimately avoid penalties. Vote 15-0.

SB 443-FN, relative to veterinarian reimbursement for the animal population control program. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. David L. Babson for Environment and Agriculture: This bill allows veterinarians who participate in the Pet Over Population Neutering Program to be paid for presurgical exams. In the past, the veterinarians absorbed the cost of the exam as well as discounting the cost of their procedures by 20%. The Committee felt that this is an unjust, additional financial burden for those who participate in the program and that it is time to compensate them for their additional costs. Vote 16-0.

SB 136-FN, allowing certain state employees to take paid leave to participate in disaster relief service work. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Carolyn A. Virtue for Executive Departments and Administration: This bill, as amended, will allow certain state employees to take paid leave to participate in disaster relief service work. Training and expenses for participating employees will be provided for by the American Red Cross. The leave will be granted only with the approval of the employee's supervisor and any other person authorized to approve leave, according to the existing leave procedures. Forty other states have passed similar legislation and as no one state has the human resources to adequately respond to a disaster, it is important for New Hampshire to participate and reciprocate. The amendment changes the effective date to July 1, 2000 and the disaster designation to level III according to the American Red Cross procedure and regulations. Vote: 17-2.

Amend RSA 94:3-c, 1(b) as inserted by section 2 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

(b) The disaster is designated as level III or above according to the American National Red Cross regulations and procedures.

Amend the bill by replacing section 3 with the following:

3 Effective Date. This act shall take effect July 1, 2000.

Referred to Finance.

SB 372, relative to certain engineering businesses. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Nancy C. Stickney for Executive Departments and Administration: This bill as amended allows an individual firm that has legally been in business for many years with the words "Engineer or Engineering" in its business name and was registered with the Secretary of State prior to January 1, 1999 to continue to do business under the same name, notwithstanding the 1998 rule change. Vote 13-1.

Amend RSA 310-A:20, V as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

V. The secretary of state shall not issue a certificate of incorporation to an applicant for incorporation or for registration as a foreign business organization which includes the words "Engineer" or "Engineering" or any modification or derivative thereof in its corporate or business name or which includes the practice of engineering among the objects for which it is established unless the board shall have issued, with respect to such applicant, a certificate of authorization or eligibility for authorization, a copy of which shall have been presented to the secretary of state. Similarly, the secretary of state, after a reasonable transition period, shall decline to register any trade name or service mark which includes such words or modifications or derivatives thereof in its firm or business name except to partnerships, sole proprietorships and associations holding certificates of registration or authorization issued under the provisions of this subdivision, a copy of which shall likewise have been presented to the secretary of state. However, the requirements of this subdivision shall not apply to any business formed and registered with the secretary of state prior to January 1, 1999, which uses the words "Engineer" or "Engineering" or any modification or derivative thereof in its corporate or business name, and which does not perform or require the services of a professional engineer.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill provides that the laws regulating engineering shall not apply to any business formed and registered with the secretary of state prior to January 1, 1999, which uses the words "Engineer" or "Engineering" or any modification or derivative thereof in its corporate or business name, and which does not perform or require the services of a professional engineer.

SB 389-FN, relative to benefit options for surviving spouses and designated beneficiaries of deceased members of the retirement system. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Merton S. Dyer for Executive Departments and Administration: This bill adds 2 more years to those eligible for the post retirement medical benefit. The bill will provide medical benefits to those injured in the line of duty who became permanent policemen or permanent firemen before July 1, 2000. This will be a one-time cost to the respective special accounts of the police and fire members. The actuary indicates that the cost will be $8.32 million for the police component, and $2.81 million for the fire component. The actuary states that there are sufficient funds in each of the special accounts for this bill. The committee removed the senate amendment to provide benefits to those that die before submitting their papers for retirement. The actuary indicated that this would cause an increase in the employers' contribution rate. This increase was an unintended consequence of the amendment. Additional work must be done on this subject matter before it is ready for final consideration by the house and senate. Vote 17-0.

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to medical benefits for group II members of the retirement system.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

I New Hampshire Retirement System; Medical Benefits; Application. Amend RSA 100-A:55, I to read as follows:

I. The additional benefits provided under RSA 100-A:52 shall apply to persons who are active or retired members of group II as of June 30, [1995] 1997; to persons who prior to July 1, 1988, had completed no less than 20 years of group II creditable service, but who for reasons other than retirement or death ceased to be a group II member prior to attaining the age of 45, and who, as of July 1, 1993, are eligible for vested deferred retirement benefits; and to persons who are group II permanent policemen or permanent firemen members on disability retirement as the natural and proximate result of injuries suffered while in the performance of duty who become permanent policemen members of group II after June 30, 1988, but before July 1, [1995] 2000 or permanent firemen members of group II after June 30, 1988, but before July 1, [1995] 2000. Such additional benefits shall not apply to other persons who become members of group II after June 30, [1995] 2000, without future legislation to include them. It is the intent of the legislature that future group II members shall be included only if the total cost of such inclusion can be funded by reimbursement from the special account established under RSA 100-A:16, II(h).

2 Effective Date. This act shall take effect July 1, 2000.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill updates the year of eligibility of active and retired group II members for the payment of medical benefits costs by the retirement system.
Referred to Finance.

SB 390-FN, relative to vested deferred retirement benefits for group II members. OUGHT TO PASS
Rep. Robert C. Batchelder for Executive Departments and Administration: SB 390-FN makes a technical correction in RSA 100-A:10 that will permit certain fire and police members of the New Hampshire Retirement System, who have earned a vested deferred retirement benefit by virtue of ten years of service, to begin collecting that benefit at the age of 60. Without this correction, a quirk in current law requires some members, even though vested, to wait several years after age 60 before beginning to draw the benefit they have earned. The New Hampshire Retirement System has determined that this correction will have no negative fiscal impact on the system since it assumed in its original actuarial calculations that members entitled to a vested benefit will begin drawing their allowance at age 60. Vote 12-0.

SB 414-FN, reorganizing the divisions of the department of corrections. REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY

Rep. Michael O'Neil for Executive Departments and Administration: In light of the recent appointment of a new commissioner for the Department of Corrections, the committee felt it would be appropriate to hold off on any reorganizational structure and allow the newly appointed commissioner time to acquaint himself with the current correctional operations. The interim study will also allow the Executive Department and Administrative Committee to work with the Criminal Justice and Public Safety Committee who has similar legislation scheduled for interim study. Vote 17-0.

SB 415-FN-L, relative to payment of group health insurance premiums for eligible retired members of the retirement system. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Robert C. Batchelder for Executive Departments and Administration: This bill provides that retired non-teacher employees of the state's political subdivisions (counties, cities, towns and school districts) who are members of the New Hampshire Retirement System shall, when they retire, be eligible to receive a subsidy toward paying for continuing health care insurance for themselves and their dependents. This will put these employees on the same footing as retired teachers, policemen and firemen who already receive this benefit. There will be no additional cost to the state or to the political subdivisions, since the benefit will be paid out of the New Hampshire Retirement Special Account. ($36.4 million for non-teacher employees and $16.8 million for teachers.) If the cost of the insurance is higher than the maximum subsidy paid by the retirement system under this legislation, the retiree is required to pay the difference. Vote 19-0.

Amend the bill by replacing section 8 with the following:

8 Funding.

I. The sum of $34,817,000 is hereby transferred from the group I employee special account balance existing on June 30, 2000 for the purpose of funding RSA 100-A:52-a and RSA 100-A:53-c as inserted by this act.

II. The sum of $14,742,000 is hereby transferred from the group I teacher special account balance existing on June 30, 2000 for the purpose of funding RSA 100-A:52-a as inserted by this act.
Referred to Finance.

SB 417-FN-L, allowing a beneficiary of an optional allowance under the New Hampshire retirement system to renounce his or her benefits. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Merton S. Dyer for Executive Departments and Administration: This bill will allow a beneficiary to voluntarily renounce his or her right to a benefit provided by the retirees elected retirement benefit option. This must be voluntary and requested on a form designated by the board of trustees. The actuary determines that there will be no impact on state or local funds and will be cost neutral to the retirement system. Vote 12-2.

HB 735-FN-A, establishing a contributory judicial retirement plan. REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY

Rep. Joseph E. Stone for Finance: This recommendation of the subcommittee studying this bill was based on a question of time and fairness. It was felt there was not sufficient time left to do a comprehensive study and furthermore, due to the current turmoil existing in the Supreme Court, it was felt it would not be fair to conduct further hearings which required one of the Justices to be present, until a future date when full attention could be again given to this important matter. Vote 25-0.

HB 1628-FN-A-L, establishing a reformed public school financing system for ensuring educational adequacy for all children, establishing a state public education assistance system funded solely with state tax revenues, and making an appropriation therefor. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE
Rep. O. Alan Thulander for Finance: After a full public hearing and further investigation by the sponsors, it became apparent that the bill was no longer needed and they requested that the bill be found Inexpedient to Legislate. Vote 25-0.

SB 322, extending the needle exchange pilot program. OUGHT TO PASS
Rep. Cecelia D. Kane for Health, Human Services and Elderly Affairs: This bill extends the needle exchange pilot program for four years in one community with the Commissioner of the Department of Health and Human Services directed to establish guidelines and to monitor the pilot program with the assistance of an advisory committee. The free exchange of new syringes and hypodermic needles for used hypodermic needles, is a means to prevent the transmission of Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV), among intravenous drug users. Any individual who either administers or participates in the needle exchange program established under this act, shall be immune from prosecution for violating RSA 318:52. The overwhelming majority of the committee was in agreement that this program needs an extension to make this worthwhile program a success, needed by the public. Vote 15-1.

SB 324, relative to personal care services and providers. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT
Rep. Thomas E. Donovan for Health, Human Services and Elderly Affairs: This legislation allows certain individuals and families the option of receiving personal care services from either a home health agency or from another qualified community agency. With passage of this landmark bill, individuals requiring personal care services will have a variety of these services to choose from, subject to federal and state laws. After extensive hearings and work by all involved, this bill will allow for consumer-directed services and offer much needed support for individuals and families in their home or chosen environment. In addition, it will help to lessen the chronic shortages of providers in this healthcare function. Vote 16-0.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

I New Chapter; Personal Care Services. Amend RSA by inserting after chapter 161-H the following new chapter:

CHAPTER 161-I PERSONAL CARE SERVICES

161-I:1 Purpose.

I. Many individuals require assistance with eating, bathing, dressing, personal hygiene, and activities of daily living to maintain their independence and dignity. Personal care services are non-medical, hands-on supports that substitute for the loss of an individual's physical or cognitive functioning.

II. Many individuals requiring personal care services and families who have children with special health care needs want to choose who delivers personal care services and how and when these services are delivered.

III. This chapter provides individuals and families with the option of receiving personal care services, including consumer-directed services, from a home health agency or other qualified agency.

161-I:2 Definitions. In this chapter:

I. "Commissioner" means the commissioner of the department of health and human services.
II. "Consumer-directed services" means personal care services under which the eligible consumer or his or her representative is responsible for:

- (a) Participating in the development of the eligible consumer's service plan;
- (b) Selecting the eligible consumer's personal care services provider;
- (c) Setting the terms and conditions of work;
- (d) Training, supervising, and evaluating the personal care services provider; and
- (e) Terminating his or her relationship with the personal care services provider.

III. "Department" means the department of health and human services.

IV. "Eligible consumer" means a person eligible for department programs that authorize personal care services.

V. "Eligible setting" means a home, apartment, residential facility, day program, or other community setting, but does not include a hospital, nursing facility, or other institutional setting.

VI. "Home health agency" means a home health care provider licensed under RSA 151.

VII. "Intermediary services" means an array of fiscal and supportive services to facilitate the delivery of consumer-directed services. Such services shall include:

(a) Fiscal intermediary services, including but not limited to:

- (1) Computing of tax withholdings.
- (2) Filing and depositing employment taxes.
- (3) Preparing and disbursing payroll checks.
- (4) Collecting and verifying worker timesheets.
- (5) Processing and paying non-labor related invoices.
- (6) Processing criminal background checks on prospective workers.
- (7) Overseeing the verification of workers' citizenship/legal alien status.
- (8) Generating standardized reports depending on program design.

(b) Supportive services, including but not limited to:

- (1) Skills and advocacy training for the eligible consumer or representative.
- (2) Assistance with recruiting, screening, hiring, and training personal care services providers.

(3) Creating and maintaining work registries.

(4) Assessing and reassessing service needs.

(5) Counseling and support.

(6) Monitoring consumer satisfaction.

VIII. "Legally responsible relative" means a parent of a minor child or a spouse.

IX. "Other qualified agency" means those entities authorized to offer personal care services and/or intermediary services by the department in accordance with rules adopted pursuant to RSA 541-A.

X. "Plan of care" means a state-authorized guide to the provision of services to an eligible consumer.

XI. "Personal care services" means services furnished by a personal care services provider that assist an eligible consumer in maintaining himself or herself in an eligible setting. Such services may include, but are not limited to, basic personal care and grooming, assistance with basic toileting and toileting hygiene measures, assistance with oral and topical medications, assistance with nutrition, including meal preparation, and essential household services.

XII. "Personal care services provider" means a person who:

(a) Is selected by:

- (1) The eligible consumer;
- (2) The eligible consumer's legal guardian;
- (3) The eligible consumer's representative; or
- (4) A person granted power of attorney by the eligible consumer; and

(b) Is employed by a home health agency or other qualified agency to provide personal care services; and

(c) Is not:

- (1) The eligible consumer's legally responsible relative;
- (2) The eligible consumer's legal guardian;
- (3) The eligible consumer's representative; or
- (4) A person granted power of attorney by the eligible consumer.

XIII. "Representative" means a person:

(a) Chosen by:

- (1) The eligible consumer;
- (2) The eligible consumer's legal guardian; or
- (3) A person granted power of attorney by the eligible consumer; and

(b) Deemed appropriate by the department to act on behalf of the eligible consumer; and

(c) Who:

(1) Is not the personal care services provider; and

(2) Does not have a financial relationship with a home health agency or other qualified agency providing intermediary services to the eligible consumer.

161-I:3 Consumer Choice. An eligible consumer in need of personal care services shall have the option to receive personal care services, including consumer-directed services, through a home health agency or other qualified agency. An individual not eligible for department programs shall have the option to receive personal care services, including consumer-directed services, through a home health care provider or other facility licensed under RSA 151, or through a private arrangement between individuals. Such choice shall be subject to those limitations imposed by federal and state laws, rules, and regulations.

161-I:4 Department Responsibilities.

I. The department shall develop personal care services for department programs that authorize personal care services. Eligible consumers shall be afforded the option to receive their personal care services through a home health agency or other qualified agency and/or a consumer-directed services program.

II. The department shall develop a process for allowing a representative to act on the behalf of an eligible consumer.

III. The department shall develop intermediary services for eligible consumers using consumer-directed services.

IV. Coverage of personal care services under department programs shall be subject to the availability of appropriated funds.

V. Nothing in this section shall be construed to change the personal care program for the severely disabled as set forth in RSA 161-E.

161-I:5 Personal Care Services Provider Training. Any personal care services provider serving an eligible consumer shall be required to undergo training as required by rule, pursuant to RSA 541-A.

161-I:6 Plans of Care and Service Delivery Oversight. All eligible consumers shall have a plan of care that details the provision of personal care services. The delivery of personal care services, as outlined in the plan of care, to an eligible consumer shall be monitored by a case manager either employed or contracted by the department. Should the delivery of personal care services to an eligible consumer necessitate specialized oversight, this shall be outlined in the plan of care and such oversight of the personal care services provider shall be arranged by the case manager.

161-I:7 Rulemaking. The commissioner shall adopt rules, pursuant to RSA 541-A, relative to:

I. Criteria for approving home health or other qualified agencies to offer personal care services, including but not limited to:

- (a) Qualifications and training of providers.
- (b) Oversight of providers.
- (c) Service definition.
- (d) Reporting requirements.
- (e) Record-keeping.
- (f) Personnel requirements.
- (g) Care planning.
- (h) Service delivery oversight.
- (i) Scope of service.
- (j) Quality assurance measures.
- (k) Structure of the business entity.

II. The provision of personal care services by personal care services providers, including the provision of consumer-directed personal care services.

III. The provision of intermediary services by a home health agency or other qualified agency to facilitate the delivery of consumer-directed personal care services.

IV. The use of a representative in consumer-directed services.

V. Guidelines for state-authorized plans of care.

2 Continued Authorization; Rules. Notwithstanding the repeal by section 3 of this act, the authority for home health care providers to provide personal care services under rules adopted pursuant to RSA 326-B:17, X shall continue until the effective date of rules adopted pursuant to RSA 161-I:7 and RSA 151:9-a.

3 Repeal. RSA 326-B:17, X, relative to personal care services is repealed.

4 Residential Care and Health Facility Licensing; Home Health Care Provider. Amend RSA 151:2-b, III to read as follows:

III. Home health care providers that provide only personal care services and no other health care services as listed in paragraph I of this section shall be issued a license limiting their services to personal care services.

IV. "Home health care provider" does not include any organization or agency providing only services pursuant to the provisions of Title III, Part C, of the Older Americans Act: authorized by the department of health and human services pursuant to RSA 161-I; operating only a nutrition program under a federal social services block grant, or under the auspices of a private charity; or volunteer hospices that do not provide, directly or through contract arrangements, home health care services as defined in RSA 151:2-b, I.

5 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill allows certain individuals and families of these individuals the option of receiving personal care services, including consumer-directed services, from a home health agency or other qualified agency. This bill also gives the commissioner of health and human services rulemaking authority relative to requirements for the use of consumer-directed services for department programs and the provision of personal care services.

This bill is a request of the department of health and human services.
Referred to Finance.

SB 456, relative to testing newborns for deafness. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Daniel M. Burnham for Health, Human Services and Elderly Affairs: This bill requires the Commissioner of the Department of Health and Human Services to develop standards for testing newborns for deafness and to make a report with recommendations to the legislature and Governor. These standards are needed as hospital after hospital in New Hampshire institutes varying testing programs. Vote 15-0.

SB 327, relative to responsibility of the employee and perjury under workers' compensation. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Robert E. Clegg, Jr. for Labor, Industrial and Rehabilitative Services: This bill adds the crime of perjury under RSA 641:1 as a potential penalty for the false statement or representation by any party in a workers compensation claim. Vote 16-0.

Amendment (4118h)

Amend RSA 281-A:53-a, III as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

III. In the event that the employee fails to return a completed form within 30 days of the carrier or self-insured's request, the carrier or self-insured may send a notice of intent to suspend compensation benefits to the employee and to the commissioner. If within 15 days of such notice the carrier, self-insured, or the commissioner has not received a completed form, the carrier or self-insured may petition the commissioner to suspend compensation benefits until such time as the form is filed. Upon receipt of a petition to suspend compensation, the commissioner may order compensation payments suspended until such time as the employee files the form. Upon receipt of the form, benefits shall be paid retroactive to the date of suspension.

Amend the bill by replacing section 2 with the following:

2 Perjury Added. Amend RSA 281-A:56 to read as follows:

281-A:56 Penalty for False Representation.

I. A person who makes a false statement or representation for the purpose of obtaining any benefit or payment under this chapter, whether for himself or herself or for any other person, and who does not believe the statement or representation to be true, shall be subject to prosecution and punishment for false swearing under RSA 641:2, ~~or~~ unsworn falsification under RSA 641:3, or perjury under RSA 641:1, as the case may be, and, upon conviction, the court may order forfeit all of the person's rights to the compensation sought. In addition to any other remedy, the employer or insurance carrier providing the benefit or payment shall be entitled to restitution as authorized in RSA 651:63.

II. An employer or insurance carrier, or any employee, agent, or person acting on behalf of an employer or insurance carrier, who makes a false statement or representation in the course of reporting, investigating or adjusting a claim for any benefit or payment under this chapter and who does not believe the statement or representation to be true shall be subject to prosecution and punishment for false swearing under RSA 641:2, [or] unsworn falsification under RSA 641:3, or perjury under RSA 641:1, as the case may be.

SB 364, relative to benefits for permanent bodily losses under workers' compensation. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Rebecca C. Hutchinson for Labor, Industrial and Rehabilitative Services: This bill requires that the balance of an unpaid weekly scheduled permanent impairment award under workers' compensation be paid to the estate of the employee in the event of the employee's death. Vote 17-1.

SB 402-FN, relative to employee reimbursement for work-related expenses. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. John M. Whittier for Labor, Industrial and Rehabilitative Services: This bill provides that an employee who incurs expenses in connection with his or her employment and at the request of his employer shall be reimbursed within 30 days. Vote 15-0.

Amendment (3853h)

Amend RSA 275: 57, I as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

I. An employee who incurs expenses in connection with his or her employment and at the request of the employer, except those expenses normally borne by the employee as a precondition of employment, which are not paid for by wages, cash advance, or other means from the employer, shall be reimbursed for the payment of the expenses within 30 days of the presentation by the employee of proof of payment.

SB 442-FN, establishing an equipment depository and disabled person's employment fund in the department of administrative services. REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY

Rep. Philip J. McColgan, Jr. for Labor, Industrial and Rehabilitative Services: Establishing an equipment depository and disabled person's employment fund in the department of administrative services would set a good example of non-discrimination in state employment but questions about interpreters and political subdivisions will require further study. Vote 14-1.

SB 387-FN-L, relative to proposed toll booths in the city of Nashua and relative to alternatives to the statewide toll booth system. REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY

Rep. Candace W. Bouchard for Public Works and Highways: The committee is very sensitive to the issue of adding toll booths to the turnpike system. With House Bill 1485 already in study at the Finance Committee, the Public Works & Highway Committee felt this bill should be furthered studied. Vote 18-0.

SB 370, relative to reflectors on bicycle pedals. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. George A. LaPorte for Transportation: This bill helps fill a hole concerning clipless bicycle pedals that do not have reflectors mounted on them as other bicycle pedals have. Vote 12-0.

SB 399-FN-A, making an appropriation to the fish and game department for the purposes of the wildlife damage control program. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Rose Marie Rogers for Wildlife and Marine Resources: This bill appropriates one dollar for crop damage done by wildlife. It preserves the line item in the budget so that when an appropriation of state funds is possible the state will assume financial responsibility of crop damage and Fish and Game will distribute the funds according to rules. Vote 12-0.

Referred to Finance.

CLERK'S NOTE

The Constitutionally required two-thirds of the membership was declared present.

REGULAR CALENDAR

SUSPENSION OF RULES

Reps. Chandler and Burling moved that the Rules be suspended as to permit reporting, consideration and referral to and reporting from a second committee after the deadline on HB 1469, establishing a committee to study the feasibility of making the division of children, youth, and families an independent state agency.

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

HB 1469, establishing a committee to study the feasibility of making the division of children, youth, and families an independent state agency. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT
 Rep. Barbara Hull Richardson for Children and Family Law: The bill provides that responsibility for juvenile services and juvenile program, probation, and parole officers, formerly known as juvenile service officers, shall be transferred from the department of health and human services to the department of youth development services and makes an appropriation for these purposes. This bill also establishes a Board of Trustees within the department of youth development services to make recommendations to the commissioner relative to programs and services. Vote 10-3.

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to the organization of the juvenile justice system in New Hampshire and making an appropriation therefor.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Youth Development Services; Powers and Duties of Commissioner Amended. RSA 621-A:4, III is repealed and reenacted to read as follows:

III. The commissioner shall engage an administrator who shall be a full-time classified employee who shall be responsible for all placements of juveniles involving the youth development center pursuant to RSA 621, the youth services center pursuant to RSA 621-A:5, and group home, crisis home, or shelter care facility placements pursuant to RSA 169-B or RSA 169-D.

2 New Paragraph; Department of Youth Development Services; Powers and Duties of Commissioner Amended. Amend RSA 621-A:4 by inserting after section V the following new paragraph:

VI. The commissioner shall provide, through juvenile program, probation, and parole officers, services for all children and youth referred by the district courts pursuant to RSA 169-B, RSA 169-D, and for all children who are at risk of placement with the department of youth development services in connection with proceedings under RSA 169-B, RSA 169-D, or other applicable provisions of law. The commissioner shall engage a juvenile services administrator, who shall be a full-time classified employee. The administrator shall be responsible for the administration and supervision of juvenile services as set forth in RSA 621-A:9 through RSA 621-A:11 and for the management of all juvenile program, probation, and parole officers in the department.

3 New Subdivisions; Department of Youth Development Services; Juvenile Services Officers Transferred. Amend RSA 621-A by inserting after section 8 the following new subdivisions:

Juvenile Services

621-A:9 Purpose of Juvenile Services. Establishment of field services under the direction of the juvenile services administrator within the department of youth development services for children in need of services and juvenile delinquents will support the state's continuing efforts to consolidate in one agency the field services provided to children and youth.

621-A:10 Assignment of Juvenile Program, Probation, and Parole Officers. The commissioner shall, through rules adopted pursuant to RSA 541-A, assign permanent juvenile program, probation, and parole officers to each judicial district consistent with the workload formula established by the department in consultation with the New Hampshire Judges Association.

621-A:11 Juvenile Program, Probation, and Parole Officers; Powers and Duties. Juvenile program, probation, and parole officers under the administration of the department of youth development services shall have the power and duty:

I. To serve as officers of the court and investigate at the request of any justice of the district courts which they serve, any pending case, matter, or questions, and to report the results of such investigation with recommendations to the authority which ordered the investigation.

II. To take charge of and provide supervision of juveniles, attempting to assist them in establishing law-abiding lives while monitoring their behavior through school, home, work, office, and other contacts to insure that they comply with court orders and diversion agreements.

III. To report promptly to the appropriate district court violations of court orders and conditions which are required by statute, the district court, or which, in the opinion of the officer, are serious enough to warrant consideration. Such reports shall include recommendations as to actions which the officer believes to be appropriate.

IV. To arrest and take into custody any minor who is found violating any law, or who is reasonably believed to be a fugitive from justice, or whose circumstances are such as to endanger his person or welfare, unless immediate action is taken.

V. To participate in community service activities, diversion programs, and other duties as may be assigned by the commissioner of the department of youth development services, or designee.
Board of Trustees

621-A:12 Board of Trustees Established; Membership.

I. There is hereby established a board of trustees within the department of youth development services. The board shall act in an advisory capacity and make recommendations to the commissioner relative to programs and services provided to children referred to the department pursuant to RSA 169-B and RSA 169-D.

II. The board shall be composed of the following members:

- (a) One member from the house of representatives, appointed by the speaker of the house.
- (b) One member from the senate, appointed by the president of the senate.
- (c) The commissioner of the department of youth development services, or designee who shall be an individual with decision-making authority.
- (d) The commissioner of the department of health and human services, or designee who shall be an individual with decision-making authority.
- (e) The commissioner of the department of education, or designee.
- (f) One district or family court judge, appointed by the administrative justice of the district courts.

(g) Two human services administrators, one from an urban county and one from a rural county, appointed by the executive director or other appropriate appointing authority of the New Hampshire Association of Counties.

(h) Seven members, appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the council, which shall include 2 members representing the interests of business and industry, 2 parents of children who have been adjudicated as delinquent or in need of services, one member of state or local law enforcement, one member representing the interests of providers of diversionary programs or services for children, and one member from the general public.

III. Members of the board of trustees shall serve without compensation provided that legislative members shall receive mileage at the legislative rate while attending to the duties of the board.

621-A:13 Terms of Office; Organization.

I. The legislative members and the members listed in RSA 621-A:12, II(c) – (f) shall serve terms which are coterminous with their terms in office. The members listed in RSA 621-A:12, II(g) shall serve for 3 years. Four of the members listed in RSA 621-A:13, II(h) shall serve for 4 years, and 3 members shall serve for 3 years.

II. Each appointed member of the board shall hold office until a successor is appointed and qualified. The appointment of successors for the filling of vacancies for unexpired terms shall be by appointment or election in the same manner as the original appointment.

III. The board shall elect its own chairperson and officers annually. The board shall meet monthly, or as deemed necessary, provided that the board shall meet at least once every 3 months.

621-A:14 Duties of the Board. The board shall act in an advisory capacity to assist the commissioner of the department of youth development services relative to programs and services provided to children who are referred to the department. The board may also provide advice and input on fiscal and budgetary matters within the department, the availability of state and federal grants, business partnerships, and other funding sources available to the department.

4 Delinquent Children; Definitions; Reference Amended. Amend RSA 169-B:2, VII (c) to read as follows:

(c) The supervision of a juvenile ~~[services]~~ program, probation, and parole officer, as authorized by RSA ~~[170-G:16]~~ 621-A:11; and

5 Children in Need of Services; Definitions; Reference Amended. Amend RSA 169-D:2, VI (c) to read as follows:

(c) The supervision of juvenile ~~[service]~~ program, probation, and parole officers as authorized by RSA ~~[170-G:16]~~ 621-A:11.

6 Transition.

I. There is hereby established a transition team for the purpose of administering the transition of specific powers, duties, functions, and responsibilities between the departments of health and human services and youth development services as provided in this act. The transition team shall consider any personnel, records, property, funds, programs, and related operations, including but not limited to, legal and administrative operations, and the functions and duties of juvenile justice specialist and jail compliance monitor, required to effect the transition of services for delinquent children under RSA 169-B and children in need of services under RSA 169-D from the department of health and human services to the department of youth development services. The transition team may solicit input and advice from individuals who are deemed to have access to information necessary to properly effect the transition.

II. The transition team shall consist of the following members:

- (a) Two members of the house of representatives, appointed by the speaker of the house.
- (b) Two members of the senate, appointed by the president of the senate.
- (c) The commissioner of the department of youth development services, or designee.
- (d) The commissioner of the department of health and human services, or designee.
- (e) The commissioner of the department of administrative services, or designee.
- (f) The director of the division of children, youth, and families, department of health and human services.
- (g) The juvenile justice administrator from the department of health and human services.
- (h) Two human services administrators, one from an urban county, and one from a rural county, appointed by the executive director or other appropriate appointing authority of the New Hampshire Association of Counties.

III. The first-named house member shall call the first meeting of the team which shall occur no later than 45 days after the effective date of this section.

7 Position Transferred.

I. All powers, duties, functions, and responsibilities, and all costs including salary and benefits associated with the position of juvenile justice administrator in the department of health and human services, are hereby transferred to the position of juvenile services administrator within the department of youth development services. Nothing in this transfer shall affect the term of employment of the existing juvenile justice administrator in the department of health and human services.

II. All powers, duties, functions, and responsibilities, and all costs including salary and benefits associated with the existing juvenile services officers positions within the department of health and human services, and all personnel employed in these positions, are hereby transferred to the department of youth development services and shall be called juvenile program, probation, and parole officers.

8 Reference Changes. Amend the following RSA provisions by replacing "department of health and human services" with "department of youth development services": RSA 169-D:4-a; 169-D:5-a; 169-D:14, III; 169-D:17, I; 169-D:18-a, I; and 169-D:29, I(a).

9 Appropriation. The sum of $1 is hereby appropriated to the department of youth development services for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2001, for the purposes of this act. The governor is authorized to draw a warrant for said sum out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

10 Repeal. The following are repealed:

I. RSA 170-G:3, III, relative to the powers and duties of the commissioner of health and human services.

II. RSA 170-G:4, II-a, relative to juvenile services officers in the department of health and human services.

III. RSA 170-G:14 through 170-G:16, relative to juvenile services in the department of health and human services.

11 Effective Date.

I. Section 6 of this act shall take effect upon its passage.

II. The remainder of this act shall take effect January 1, 2001.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill transfers functions, duties, and responsibilities for delinquent children under RSA 169-B and children in need of services under RSA 169-D from the department of health and human services to the department of youth development services. The bill also provides that responsibility for juvenile services and juvenile program, probation, and parole officers, formerly known as juvenile services officers, shall be transferred from the department of health and human services to the department of youth development services and makes an appropriation for these purposes.

Reps. Irene Pratt, Wallner and Allison spoke against.
 Rep. Hager spoke against and yielded to questions.
 Reps. Lionel Johnson, Arnold, Hess and Dowling spoke in favor.
 Rep. Dowling requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.
 The question being the adoption of the amendment.

Referred to Finance.

SB 431, relative to certain secondary vocational education programs. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Robert H. Guest for Education: The committee finds that representation of the membership on the Workforce Opportunity Council was not balanced by county. This bill, as amended, proposes that at least one member of the General Court and at least two members of the general public of each county be included. Vacancies will be filled by appointment by the Governor with consent of the Executive Council. This amendment will solve the problem of lack of representation by each county. The bill will include secondary vocational programs to be included under the Workforce Opportunity Council. Vote 12-3.

Amendment (4103h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 New Subdivision; Secondary Vocational Education Programs. Amend RSA 188-E by inserting after section 11 the following new subdivision:

Secondary Vocational Education Programs

188-E:12 Secondary Vocational Education Programs; Federal Authorization. In accordance with 20 U.S.C. sec. 9271, the state shall include in its unified plan, all secondary vocational education programs authorized under 20 U.S.C. 2301 et seq., known as the Carl D. Perkins Vocational and Applied Technology Education Act of 1998.

188-E:13 Legislative Membership on Youth Council. The following legislative members shall be appointed to the youth council which has been established as a subgroup within the workforce opportunity council formed by the governor pursuant to the Workforce Investment Act of 1998:

- I. The chair of the house labor, industrial and rehabilitative services committee, or designee.
- II. The chair of the house education committee, or designee.
- III. One member of the senate education committee, appointed by the senate president.
- IV. One member of the senate executive departments and administration committee, appointed by the senate president.

2 Membership on Local Workforce Investment Boards.

I. In addition to the members specified under 29 U.S.C. sec. 2832, each local workforce investment board established in New Hampshire shall include at least one member of the general court and at least 2 members of the general public who reside in the county in which such board is established.

II. To the extent consistent with federal law, in cases where the governor has authority to nominate or appoint members to a local workforce investment board, such nominations or appointments shall be by the governor with the consent of the executive council.

3 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

Federal law requires prior approval of the state legislature in order to include certain secondary vocational educational programs in the state's unified vocational education plan. This bill fulfills that requirement by authorizing the inclusion of the relevant secondary vocational educational programs in the state's unified plan. The bill also specifies certain membership changes on the local workforce investment boards.

Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

SB 447-FN, relative to campaign contributions and expenditures. MAJORITY: OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT. MINORITY: INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE.

Rep. Raymond Buckley for the Majority of Election Law: Earlier this year voters of both political parties loudly cried out for campaign finance reform across New Hampshire and the country. The bipartisan majority of the Committee heard that cry and responded by voting for SB 447 as amended. During the hearing for this bill, the Committee heard over three hours testimony supporting SB 447 from New Hampshire residents of every walk of life. Those appearing included an Executive Councilor, a Republican gubernatorial candidate, supporters of a presidential candidate and everyday citizens concerned about this very serious issue. The bill addressed the concern that candidates are spending too much time trying to raise ever increasing amounts of funds and being forced to sell themselves to special interests by establishing the New Hampshire Clean Elections Fund. Although SB 447 will only be implemented when a funding mechanism is created at some future date, it sends a powerful message to the voters that we take their concerns about campaign finance reform seriously by setting up the structure for clean elections Vote 12-7

Rep. Robert E. Clegg, Jr. for the Minority of Election Law: This bill does nothing to reform campaign financing. This bill is a public financing bill. The committee heard from many whom had lost political races and believed it was due to money, not message. Yet, those who won believe they won because of their message. While not funded this year, the bill looks for $6 million in the next budget. That is $6 million public dollars to potentially support messages you may even find offensive. This bill would publicly fund any and all so-called candidates for governor who can find 5000 people to give them $5. Anyone with a political message to spread can raise $25000 this way and would receive $625,000 in taxpayer funds in the primary to help spread their message, whether or not a serious candidate for governor. If this bill were ever funded, some "candidates" could receive over $20 in matching funds for every $1 they raise on their own. In addition, advertising by any group opposed to the hate message would entitle the "candidate" to additional public funding equal to that spent by any group opposed to the hate message. Similar provisions would apply to Senate races.

Amendment (4093h)

Amend RSA 664-A:1, VIII as inserted by section 9 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

VIII. "Qualifying period" means the period beginning January 1 of the year of the state general election and ending 60 days from the date on which the candidate files for office.

Amend RSA 664-A:6, IV as inserted by section 9 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

IV. Participating candidates shall not accept any non-monetary contributions except the volunteer donations permitted by this paragraph. A volunteer may donate up to $100 worth of goods and services to a participating candidate per month. A volunteer's time or voluntary use of personal vehicles shall not be considered a donation for purposes of this paragraph.

Amend RSA 664-A:8, II as inserted by section 9 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

II.(a) A participating candidate may receive additional funding from the fund to match expenditures by the participating candidate's opponent above the voluntary expenditure limitation amount in RSA 664:5-b. The amount of such additional funding shall not exceed 200 percent of the amount allocated to the candidate for the election period pursuant to paragraph 1.

(b) A participating candidate may receive additional funding from the fund to match expenditures by any independent expenditure, as defined by RSA 664:2, XI, that reasonably can be described as either in support of the candidate's opponent or the opposition of the candidate. The amount of such additional funding shall not exceed 200 percent of the amount allocated to the candidate for the election period pursuant to paragraph 1.

Amend RSA 664-A:8, III (a) as inserted by section 9 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

(a) Fifteen percent of the funding for the primary election period by the close of the business day immediately following fulfillment of the qualification requirements and certification of such by the secretary of state.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill establishes a fund to provide campaign financing for eligible candidates for governor, councilor, and state senator. Candidates qualify for the financing by collecting a requisite number of $5 contributions and complying with other provisions of the financing law. The candidate will then use money received from the fund instead of private contributions to finance the candidate's campaign.

On a division vote, 198 members having voted in the affirmative and 144 in the negative, the amendment was adopted.

Rep. MacGillivray spoke against and yielded to questions.

Reps. Jacobson and Arnold spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Reps. Stritch and Clegg spoke against.

Rep. Buckley requested a quorum count. The Speaker declared a quorum present.

Rep. Buckley spoke in favor.

Rep. Buckley requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the majority report.

DEBATE ON SENATE BILL 447

Rep. MacGillivray: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. Ladies and gentlemen, I rise in opposition to the committee report of Ought to Pass with Amendment on Senate Bill 447. There are many things wrong with this bill, but at the beginning of the debate Rep. Clegg has asked me to correct an error in his blurb. So, if you would please turn to page 1007 of the calendar it should read: "This bill would publicly fund any and all so-called candidates for governor who can find 5,000 (not 1,000) people to give them $5.00. Anyone with a political message to spread can raise $25,000 this way..." And then in the next sentence: "If this bill were ever funded, some "candidates" could receive over $20.00 in matching funds for every $1 they raise on their own." That correction having been made I will now start with my remarks. I have four points. It is a very bad idea to make people pay taxes to fund speech they disagree with. Second, it is a very bad idea to match funds at a ratio of much more than a dollar for every dollar they collect themselves. Third, it is a very bad idea to start requiring $5.00 contributors to list their names publicly to make retaliation easier against contributors to politically incorrect candidates. And, fourth, it is a bad idea to promise that there will be funding in the future for something that we aren't putting in money for and don't have any idea how much it is going to cost. Let me go quickly through these four points. It is a bad idea to make people pay taxes to fund speech they disagree with. Jefferson understood this. He said that you should never require anyone to fund the speech of someone else that they violently disagree with. People have changed, the issue has not and Jefferson is still right. Second, thanks to the potential for matching funds of greater than one-for-one there may not be enough money in the state of New Hampshire to fully fund all of the candidates that might start to appear if this bill ever were supposedly fully funded. Just look at what is necessary. An organized group with a few thousand members who are really vehement about their cause, and I can think of many in this state, may easily raise $5.00 apiece for not just one but potentially several candidates, given that they are going to get $10.00 in matching funds for every dollar of qualifying contributions or $20.00 in governors' races. In a governor's race you have to have 5,000 people chip in $5.00. That is $25,000. You get $625,000. I've heard people talk about getting grants and taking small contributions and having them leveraged with government grants but I don't usually hear of ratios like twenty-to-one. For the Council or the Senate, the numbers aren't quite as good. For Council, you are talking 1,000 contributions of $5.00. You raise $5,000 and the taxpayers will contribute $50,000, a leveraging of ten-to-one. In the Senate, you only need to find 300 people willing to give $5.00 and that $1500 becomes $20,000. Quite an amount of leverage if you ask me. Even the federal Presidential election funds only give you $1.00 for every dollar of matchable funds you collect during the primary season and most Americans don't contribute to that fund and the number, I understand, has been going down just about every year and certainly is going down in a long, long-term trend. Now, what happens when more candidates sign up than this bill had envisioned? Well, there is a shortfall and then the money in the pot is prorated. So, maybe some of these folks don't get as much of a leveraging as they had hoped for originally. But the real candidates who had avoided fund raising because they were supposed to be able to avoid it thanks to this bill, now have to start running out and raising money in June and July when they are supposed to be campaigning to make up the difference. The need to raise this money with speed again goes back to giving the advantage to the people that are better organized, better institutionalized and against the rebels that this was supposed to help. My third point is one of confidentiality in the political process. We all think it is reasonable, we all know it's reasonable for big contributors to be listed publicly so that we can know who the candidates might be influenced by, but I find it hard to believe that any of us would ever be influenced by the fact that somebody had given us a $5.00 contribution. Yet, we are going to require that those people that give those $5.00 contributions be required to make their names public. Now, we have tried to keep things away from open balloting and toward secret balloting in this country for a couple of hundred years now. This has been a good trend in my opinion. This point was reinforced to me by one of the finest volunteers in my town, a fairly apolitical man who I don't think has ever stood for public office. He is just somebody that's there on a substantial fraction of the volunteer committees in town. In our school-district discussion of Senate Bill 2, he stood up and said, "one of the reasons I like it is that I've cast my vote in public at a school district meeting and had people come up to me and tell me I had lost their business." That's why we adopted secret ballots nationwide in the 19th century. That's why we've moved towards keeping small contributors and individual voters' names out of the public press in terms of who's contributing to who. This requirement would not be an asset to the public voting process. And then, of course, you have the final point, there is no funding in this bill, so what we're doing is we're saying if we ever figure out how much this costs and if we ever find a way to fund everything else we'd like to fund in this state, we might try to make an appropriation for it and then you can match the appropriation against the bill. So, what it really is, is a no-action bill that does nothing but feels good because there isn't any money in it, so it isn't going to happen. When people bring back a funding bill in the future and this bill comes in with funding attached, then we'll be able to debate its merits compared to its costs, but what we're doing today is passing a bill that does nothing. These are all good reasons to vote against the committee report of Ought to Pass with Amendment but I'd like you to, one last time, think back to Jefferson who understood that you should never have anybody required to have money taken out of their pocket involuntarily and used to fund the speech of another. Even the federal government check-off scheme, somebody's got to check the "yes" box and most people don't. I thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Daniels, you may inquire.

Rep. Daniels: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Rep. MacGillivray, in 1988 a gentleman by the name of Harry Beck won his Supreme Court case against his union because they had taken money out of his union dues to pay for support of presidential candidates. Would you not think that if any amount, whatsoever, of public funds was used to give to presidential candidates from this bill would also be considered a violation of our first amendment rights?

Rep. MacGillivray: That is a very good question, Rep. Daniels. I'm not sure that I'd want to venture a guess this week as to how the future Supreme Court of this state might rule on much of anything, but given that Supreme Court precedent I think it is important to note that in the federal campaign financing all the money comes from people who voluntarily look at their tax form and check the "yes" box and voluntarily say "some of my money will go to this." It doesn't come from anybody's totally involuntarily contribution even though it is still coming from taxpayer money. I think someone would have a very good case if they brought that to either the state or federal supreme court and you may well be right I think the parallel is good.

Rep. Jacobson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. One of the images that always makes me nervous is that of Senator McConnell of Kentucky and his argument always is that you can spend as much money as you want to; you can be as much obligated as you want to to the candidates and it all comes under the arena of free speech. I did a little looking into that and I found that that kind of idea simply didn't exist in 1791 when that amendment was adopted. I am of the opinion that the way we are spending today is not good for the public interest of the state and of its citizens. I've been a supporter of public financing. More than 20 years ago, I had a very simple idea and I know that the distinguished person who spoke before me would object to it but my idea was that we add $1.00 to the old $10.00 residence tax and (tape change) could run for office. Do you know that I spent 10 years in the Senate and I spent $1500? I got $1100 in contributions and $400 that I paid out and a lot of shoe leather. Today, I ride my bicycle. I think that there are good people who could become candidates if a proposal like this were in fact in place. I think we ought to move in that direction and see what it does. It may very well improve our political life. So, I urge you to support Senate Bill 447 as amended. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to questions? Rep. Mirski, you may inquire.

Rep. Mirski: Thank you, Madam Speaker. If Joe Stalin, Adolph Hitler and the grand wizard of the Ku Klux Klan are running for office and I am a voter, a taxpayer who perhaps had a relative sent to the Gulag by Joe, another one gassed and burned in an incinerator at Buchenwald, or perhaps a third strung up from a tree in Alabama at a Klan meeting, why would you expect that I should be compelled in any way to support the candidacy of those individuals?

Rep. Jacobson: I see no reason why you should support them.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Vaillancourt, you may inquire.

Rep. Vaillancourt: Thank you, Madam Speaker. On the yellow sheet we were handed as we came in today there is a reference to 74 percent of New Hampshire voters supporting this but by way of getting empirical data, the Representative from New Ipswich alluded to it, but rather than accept the fact that 74 percent support this, I thought it might be better to find out what percentage of New Hampshire people check off that $3 box on their IRS return. While we can't necessarily have the percentage of New Hampshire people per se, do you know what percentage of Americans check off that $3 box, which would give us a better idea of what percentage support this than the 74 percent, because actions speak louder than words? Do you know what percent that would be?

Rep. Jacobson: I can only tell you that there are two people who check it off and we contribute $6 to it.

Rep. Vaillancourt: I'm trying to get an accurate percentage. Maybe somebody else knows, but I've been told it is about 15 percent. Does that sound right?

Rep. Jacobson: I have no idea.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Brothers, you may inquire.

Rep. Brothers: Thank you. Representative, would you believe that several times a year I receive campaign propaganda in the mail. It is under the guise of a newsletter from my Senators and my Congressmen and it comes to my attention that my tax dollars are already paying for that. That, in fact, we are, right now, supporting at least four people's re-election come next election.

Rep. Jacobson: Absolutely. You'll notice that there is a plethora of these notices that come out the closer you get to the election.

Rep. Arnold: Thank you, Madam Speaker. You have been told that this is an imperfect proposal and, I'm going to agree, it is. Probably some of the numbers in the blurb deserve to be changed and it occurs to me that we may want, in the future with a little experience, to change some of the numbers in the bill. It is true that in our neighboring state of Maine, I believe 78 percent of the people voted for such a bill and only 34 percent check it off on their income tax. I'm not going to propose that we put in an income tax to find out how many check it off. I am going to take the occasion to tell you that I'm cheaper than that country kid from New London. I only check one box and pay $3, but that is what the law lets me do. The problem we're approaching is not these details of the bill. The problem we have to look at is today, in this state, where the money is spent on senatorial, executive councilor, governor's jobs, is substantial amounts of money. Are we building ourselves a situation where large contributors will control those people? I think we are and I think that's a danger. I think the danger of involuntary extraction of money for a candidate is much less than the danger that the individual with the large funds can buy the election. As far as that extraction goes, the only analogy we have is the federal government and people -off to support a candidate and, yes, you can say they are supporting the candidate they disagree with, but people who disagree with both candidates are checking it off and I'm not sure I'd want to go to the cost of figuring out which one was giving the money to whom. Lastly, as you put that money on your federal income tax, the remarks you heard that it is entirely voluntarily and doesn't extract money from the taxpayer is not literally true, because if you and you and you and you and I check it off than our $3 go to campaign funds and assuming the taxation reasonably approximates the cost of running the government, everybody else has to make up some fraction of that $3 to run the government, so it really is coming from everybody who pays taxes. That is an imperfect law, but it is better than the alternative. Now, we have three areas that we can attack in campaign financing. The first one is full disclosure and I think that the Election Law Committee did a pretty good job a couple of years ago of addressing that issue. The second area is limiting the amount of money you can give to candidates and New Hampshire and other states have played with that for years, but what we are actually faced with is the decision of the United States Supreme Court that money is speech and is, therefore, protected under the first amendment. Now, I personally disagree with the Supreme Court. I think the founding fathers thought that speech was exercising your vocal cords. They knew that was hazardous if you disagreed with the establishment so they put in an amendment that said, "Hey, you had this right to speak freely." I don't think they thought giving money to a political candidate was speech. I don't think they thought that burning the American flag was speech and I don't think that they thought Bill Gates ought to have 37 billion times as much free speech as you or I. So, although I disagree with the Supreme Court, I recognize the fact we are limited by their decision and we can't do much about that aspect of it. The only other way to attack money is not to require as much effort, time and large sums from candidates who are either relatively unknown or unpopular and the answer to that is some sort of subsidization. Now, this particular bill provides a form of public financing. It doesn't fund it. It has some flaws but I think that now is the time for us to take a positive action and do something about the problem which I believe all of us can see.

Speaker Sytek: Rep. Arnold, would you yield to a question? Rep. Peterson, you may inquire.

Rep. Peterson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you. Rep. Arnold. If the cost of this bill over the next biennium were $6 million and we have 1.2 million people, approximately, in this state, would not the practical effect of the passage of this bill and funding it be to require a $5 donation from every man, woman and child in the state of New Hampshire toward this fund?

Rep. Arnold: If it were, and if every man, woman and child were a taxpayer, it would.

Rep. Stritch: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Somewhere over the rainbow, there is a pot of gold. Oh, I'm sorry, Madam Speaker, that is House Bill 1939, Wizard of Oz. We're discussing Senate Bill 447, but there is still a rainbow with the cookie jar at the end of it. The stealth cookie jar which is not yet full, so let me try to explain some of the intricacies and the clevernesses of Senate Bill 447 so that you may make a decision based on your feeling of which candidate should run for office and whether or not those candidates should have to take the test of the magic of the marketplace. We have a presidential check-off list for anyone that files an income tax of $1, to begin with, and it was raised to $3 because they weren't getting enough dollars. This money is distributed among presidential candidates and each year that amount of money drops lower and lower so that today in the year 2000 12½ percent of all those who pay an income tax are willing to contribute $3. This tactic was not explored for New Hampshire. Why not ask the taxpayers, "Would you like to have $1 deducted from your dividends and interest tax to go to the candidates? Would you like to have $1 deducted from your $6.60 of the statewide property tax and spend it on candidates that are not of the same persuasion that you are?" That's voluntary. Those are state taxes. But, it wouldn't fill the cookie jar. The cookie jar would be filled by donations, contributions, interest on the money that has been received and then by the stealth clause of this bill that will fill the cookie jar by a state appropriation to the tune of $6 million for beginners. In four years, 10 million, in 10 years, 20 million and who did they leave out of this cookie jar but you and me? We're candidates for office, the senators are going to get some of the cookies, the councilors will, the governor will. Hark back to yesteryear one moment for me, please. If this bill were in existence in yesteryear, the "Forty-Niners" wouldn't have bothered to go to Sutter's Mill, Jesse James would have left the trains alone and Ma Barker and her boys would have stayed home and crocheted doilies. Why put yourself in jeopardy when you have a goody cookie jar? All you have to do is become a candidate, sign up, run for governor. This is a presidential year. There are two major parties in the state of New Hampshire, recognized. One wonders? The Republicans and that other one – oh, the Democrats, of course, and I have great respect for them, my wife is a member of the Democratic party. However, I am a Republican as my mother and father before me were Republicans. But, these two major parties are eligible in the primary season for the contribution, $5 member petition contributions to receive $625,000 for governor or however many thousands of dollars for councilor, and $20,000 for senator. When it comes to the general election, the two parties that have received the $625,000, or whatever, for governor are eligible for another chunk of cookie but now come into play in September and November, all those other political organizations that can make themselves eligible simply by gaining the number of petitions and asking to be placed on the ballot. Watch this November.

You will see on your ballot, Republican, Democratic, Natural Law Party, Socialist Party, Independent Party, Independence Party, Reform Party, etc., etc. If these people wish to file candidates for the offices for state funding, they would be eligible under this bill for the state funding. Those organizations do not have to file until August and then their names are put on the ballot. That is present state law. The long and the short of this bill is, do you really, you the chosen 400, want to take $6 million of taxpayer's money and give it to candidates who don't share your beliefs? There should be another method of funding this bill. We all want reform. We all want change. We all know the present system is not perfect. Democracy is not perfect, it is sloppy and messy, expensive and often rude. But, it is a lot better than all the others. Reform means change for the better. It means evil to good. It means correcting the faults. All of us want campaign finance reform, but we don't want to reform it by sending the bill to every taxpayer in the state of New Hampshire. Now for the stealth clause of the bill. I would refer you to Senate Bill 447, section 664-A:2, line g (for Good God) this is a non-lapsing funding mechanism. The monies that arrive and are put into the clean election fund are non-lapsing. That means they can go on from term to term to term. An appropriation is made out of the budgetary appropriations of each year and there is a legal question as to whether these funds are automatically appropriated and go into this clean election fund to the tune of $6 million and no more, each biennium. And if there is a surplus at the end of the biennium, as we have a rainy day fund, and it takes a number of the millions of dollars, the legal question here is, and if you read that section I just mentioned to you, and you read the methodology of this bill, the money is automatically appropriated. You will pay this funding. So, with your nervousness about all this money that I portrayed before you today, and you suffer from the headache, neuritis and neuralgia, press the red button for relief.

Rep. Avery: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I don't know who made up the list but I want to thank them for letting me follow the distinguished gentleman who spoke before me. I rise in support of the committee report on Senate Bill 447. The campaign finance issue is here to stay until the problem is solved. This bill may not solve them all, but it is a step in the right direction. As many of you are aware, I was a supporter for Sen. John McCain for President and I'm sure you are also aware that that issue was the linchpin of his campaign and he carried New Hampshire by a wide margin. What many of you may not know is that 10 years ago an 80-year old woman from Dublin ran against me for my House seat. Her son thought that she was too old and, as a matter of fact, put up one of my campaign signs in his yard. She took it down. But, the ironic thing is that 10 years later she flew to California and walked across America for campaign finance reform. I'm speaking about Granny D, Doris Haddock, and if she can do that at age 90, she'll probably run against me when she's 100. I want to be on the right side of this issue. Please support the committee report. Thank you.

Rep. Clegg: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I'm not as eloquent as Rep. Stritch, so I'll be really quick. This bill is not about campaign finance reform. This bill is about nothing more than publicly financing candidates. For those of you who didn't get a chance to read the amendment, let me point out that if you take the $625,000 to run for governor, while it appears that you wouldn't be allowed to take any more money, in the amendment it says, "a volunteer may donate up to $100 worth of goods and services to a participating candidate per month." Since the average campaign runs 10 months, that means anyone that wants to claim that they are a volunteer on the campaign can give an additional $1000, so special interest money doesn't go away, it just comes from volunteers. There will never be enough money in the fund. If you say that you can get $625,000 if you get 5,000 people to give you $5, I can get $5 from people just to go away. So what happens? Do we have the people for marijuana go out and find 5,000 smokers and get $625,000? What a party they'll have. Since there is no money in the bill, people think, well let's pass it. It is budget season coming up. I'll guarantee you there will be a big push to put $6 million in the budget. I wonder how they are going to do that? Since the last time we had a budget, the very same people said, "Look at all the people on the waiting list. We need money." Are we going to take $6 million from them and give it to the politicians? I ask you to support the minority of the committee and vote Inexpedient to Legislate and let's do some campaign finance reform properly. We have House Bill 1478 on the table. It's similar, but instead of the money coming from you, the taxpayer, it came from voluntary contributions that people checked off on their business enterprise tax or their interest and dividends tax. Of course, interest and dividends tax is going away, but... So there is another method. We've been studying this. We know we need campaign finance reform, but campaign finance reform is not public financing for anyone who wants some money to spread a message. Thank you.

Rep. Buckley: Thank you, Madam Speaker. It is with great pride and an awesome sense of hope that I rise today in support of the position of the bi-partisan majority of the House Election Law Committee for Senate Bill 447. The House Election Law Committee supports Senate Bill 447 which creates the mechanism for the New Hampshire Clean Elections Fund. Senate Bill 447 is about cleaning up our elections. Senate Bill 447 is about the dreams of our children and Senate Bill 447 is about the hope of one elderly New Hampshire woman. Senate Bill 447 does not call the expenditure of state funds. I question seriously if the speakers before me, one of whom actually sits on the committee, read the bill. Senate Bill 447 does not call for the expenditure of state funds. Maybe I'll say that one more time, because obviously those who sat through the three-and-a-half-hour hearing, didn't hear that. Senate Bill 447 doesn't call for the expenditure of state funds. It doesn't call for the expenditure of funds of any kind. And, please do not be fooled by the wild theatrics and speculation of the opponents of scare tactics. Those are the same people that oppose every campaign finance reform bill that comes before this House. It simply creates the mechanism for the establishment of a fund for qualifying candidates for governor, executive council and state senate. It's not simply, go down to town hall or secretary of state and sign up and you get your check. If any of you have tried to raise 5,000 $5 contributions and think that is an easy thing, you think just willy-nilly anyone is going to come out and be able to do that, that's simply not true. This would strictly be a voluntary choice for candidates to make and not every candidate would be able to meet the stringent qualifying conditions. But, the bottom line, folks, you are either for campaign finance reform or you're not. You are either for it or you're not. This is the most significant vote that this House has taken on campaign finance reform since 1989—eleven years. Earlier this year, the overwhelming majority of New Hampshire's voters of both political parties sent a message loud and clear and strong, not only across the Granite State but across the nation, that campaign finance reform is an issue that they care very much about. It may not be on your radar screen, but folks it's on theirs. In fact, a recent poll showed that more than 74 percent of New Hampshire citizens support Senate Bill 447 style campaign finance reform. The people know that we must act to stop the unbridled influence of special interests and we must stop the ever-increasing huge amounts of money needed simply to serve in public office in New Hampshire. This vote will be the only recorded campaign finance vote of this term. This vote will be the only recorded campaign finance reform vote this term. I ask you to think long and hard before you vote against your constituents. The House Election Law Committee heard nearly three hours of testimony favoring Senate Bill 447 and only one person opposed. We heard from Executive Councilor Peter Spaulding, former Republican candidate for Governor and State Senator, Jim Rubens and many leaders of Senator John McCain's presidential campaign. Senate Bill 447 draws support from people from all corners of the state and all walks of life. This issue has broad bi-partisan support and I ask my colleagues of both parties to put aside their partisan politics for the day and let us join together as one in support of campaign finance reform. Senate Bill 447 wipes the undue influence of the special interests as best we can. Senate Bill 447 will allow our candidates to campaign with the people and discuss the issues that matter to them and not have to spend endless hours every day pandering to simply the wealthy and influence peddlers. Senate Bill 447 is about the dreams of New Hampshire's children. For generations, New Hampshire's young people, while learning about democracy in their classroom, dream that someday they, too, could seek public office and help the citizens of New Hampshire. But, no longer. Instead, today they learn that the wealthy and the special interests control the system. They learn that being wealthy, well-connected or willing to sell your soul is now the real qualifier for public office in New Hampshire. No wonder young people, in a recent poll, ranked serving in public office dead last in career choices. During our hearing we heard from Dan Weeks, a high school junior from Temple. In his remarks, Dan stated, "Why would young people be inspired to run for political office when they see all around them that many of the candidates for higher office who lack political connections or large personal wealth have no real chance of really competing?" Dan called on us to restore the voice of the people to its rightful place as the primary influence in politics. Dan Weeks joins us today and is in the gallery. Let us start today to return that dream to New Hampshire's young people and restore their trust and belief in democracy by supporting Senate Bill 447. You know, over the years I've had many opportunities to stand at this podium and look across this great hall and look up into the gallery, but today is a first because today as I look up in the gallery, I see a true New Hampshire hero. Our special guest today, Doris Haddock of Dublin, better known as Granny D, has joined us for this historic vote. In her 14-month long trek across this beautiful country, this great-grandmother drew national attention to the issue of campaign finance reform and rallied the people of America behind her. I ask each of you, I ask each of you take a second and look at your feet, then take a look at your index finger. Think about Granny D at 90 years of age. That's 90 years of age. There is nobody in this House that's 90 years of age, 90 years of age, walking across this nation from the Pacific to the Atlantic for 14 months. Think about her feet and then think about the fact that with a simple action of taking your index finger and pushing the green button you can show this New Hampshire hero, Granny D, that her walk across the nation was not in vain. I ask you to join the bi-partisan majority of both the House Election Law Committee and the state Senate in voting for the passage of Senate Bill 447 by pushing the green button. Thank you. And Madam Speaker, in the name of Granny D, I ask for a roll call.

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE REPORT ON HB 1200

HB 1200-FN, relative to the application of education property tax hardship relief to estate planning trusts and relative to eligibility for hardship relief. (Report printed SJ 4/20/00)
Adopted.

ENROLLED BILL REPORT

The Committee on Enrolled Bills has examined and found correctly enrolled House Bills 1127, 1185, 1258, 1264, 1268, 1272, 1282, 1301, 1321, 1413, 1502 and 1588 and Senate Bills 319, 352 and 377.
Rep. Lozeau, Sen. D'Allesandro for the Committee

SB 307, relative to biosolids and short paper fiber. MAJORITY: OUGHT TO PASS. MINORITY: INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE.

Rep. Suzan L. Franks for the Majority of Environment and Agriculture: After much discussion, the majority of the Environment and Agriculture Committee believes it is of vital importance to provide further clarity to the public on this issue. This bill defines biosolids and short paper fiber as the sludge residues that have been treated, tested and stabilized, in accordance with state and federal regulations into a product that can be recycled and reused. By identifying this category of residuals as "biosolids" they will comply with RSA 485 and meet the standards for beneficial reuse specified by the Department of Environmental Services. Typical uses of these residuals were for fertilizer and landscape material. Vote 12-5.

Rep. Betty B. Hall for the Minority of Environment and Agriculture: SB 307 is another attempt to put into statute a "beneficial" context for sludge. A similar effort was defeated just two weeks ago by this House by a large margin. It is still the wrong time and the wrong place. DES has the authority to define terms under its current authority and does not need this bill. The jury is still out on the beneficial use of sludge.

Rep. Gary Johnson requested a quorum count. The Speaker declared a quorum present.

Rep. Gary Johnson spoke against.

Rep. Franks spoke in favor.

MOTION TO LAY ON THE TABLE

Rep. McGuirk moved that SB 307, relative to biosolids and short paper fiber, be laid on the table.
Rep. Musler requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

and the majority report was adopted.
Ordered to third reading.

SB 374, relative to the duties of the study committee on land management, protection of farmland, rural character, environmental quality, and sprawl. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE
Rep. Harold P. Melcher for Environment and Agriculture: The Committee agreed that the bill was unnecessary since the sprawl committee already has the ability and has the intention to do what the bill says. Vote 17-0.
Adopted.

SB 384, establishing a committee to study pollution prevention and pretreatment programs for reducing pollutant levels in sewage sludge. REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY
Rep. Suzan L. Franks for Environment and Agriculture: Due to the lack of time, the committee was not able to give this bill proper review. However, the Environment and Agriculture Committee feels that the subject of pollution prevention and pretreatment of sewage sludge is important to our State and urges the House to support the vote of Interim Study on this matter. Vote 14-3.
Adopted.

SB 403-FN-A, making an appropriation to the department of agriculture, markets, and food for the inspection of apiaries and honeybee swarms. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT
 Rep. Kenneth R. Marshall for Environment and Agriculture: This legislation appropriates $6,000 for hiring temporary and part time inspectors to check on the health of beehives. A fee will be charged to help offset the cost. Inspections have not been conducted for years and beehives are at risk of the disease foulbrood or are infected with two kinds of mites, which weakens the hive and all without the owner of the hive realizing the problem. It is critical that we start this program now because we must not lose the pollinators of our crops. The amendment appropriates the money annually and changes the effective date to "upon passage". Vote 16-0.

Amendment (3987h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Appropriation; Department of Agriculture, Markets, and Food; Inspection of Apiaries and Honeybee Swarms. The sum of $6,000 is appropriated annually to the department of agriculture, markets, and food for the biennium ending June 30, 2001, and each year thereafter, for the purpose of inspection of apiaries and honeybee swarms. The governor is authorized to draw a warrant for said sum out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

2 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill appropriates funds annually to the department of agriculture, markets, and food for the purpose of inspection of apiaries and honeybee swarms.

Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

SB 408, establishing a committee to study the application of non-conventional veterinary procedures for domestic animals. REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY

Rep. James Phinizy for Environment and Agriculture: The companion bill, HB 1483, which established a study committee to review alternative practices on domestic animals, is currently in the Senate. It is felt that this bill can act as a vehicle for legislation as a result of that study committee's findings. Vote 13-3.

Adopted.

SB 434-FN-L, exempting soil that is contaminated by lead due to use as a police training shooting range from hazardous waste cleanup fund fees. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Harold P. Melcher for Environment and Agriculture: The problem of fairness in the Department of Environmental Services fees for shooting range cleanup will be examined by an Environment and Agriculture study committee. In the meantime, this bill will prevent what the Committee felt was an unjust fee. Vote 14-2.

Amendment (3955h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT exempting soil that is contaminated by lead due to use as a shooting range from hazardous waste cleanup fund fees, provided cleanup is initiated and completed in accordance with applicable laws and requirements, and exempting the town of Tilton from hazardous waste cleanup fund fees associated with the removal of the municipal target range.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 New Paragraph; Hazardous Waste Cleanup Fund; Exemptions. Amend RSA 147-B:9 by inserting after paragraph IV the following new paragraph:

V. Soil that is a hazardous waste due to lead contamination resulting from the use of the area as a shooting range, provided that clean-up is initiated and completed by the owner in accordance with all applicable laws and department requirements.

2 Hazardous Waste Cleanup Fund Fees; Exemption for Town of Tilton for Removal of Target Range. The town of Tilton shall not be subject to the hazardous waste cleanup fund fees established in RSA 147-B:8 associated with its removal of the municipal target range initiated or completed before the effective date of this act.

3 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill exempts soil that is contaminated by lead due to use as a shooting range from hazardous waste cleanup fund fees, provided that cleanup is initiated and completed by the owner in accordance with all applicable laws and department requirements. This bill also exempts the town of Tilton from such fees regarding removal of its municipal target range already initiated or completed before the effective date of this act.

Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

HB 1624, relative to administrative rules concerning sales of pari-mutuel pools. MAJORITY: REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY. MINORITY I: OUGHT TO PASS. MINORITY II: INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE.

Rep. Michael O'Neil for the Majority of the Executive Departments and Administration: The majority of the committee strongly supports the position for interim study. During the deliberations on this bill, it was pointed out by several individuals that some eighteen plus departments, agencies and commissions currently have exemptions to administrative rulemaking, i.e. Sweepstakes Commission, New Hampshire Health and Education Authority to name just a few. The committee believes it would be more prudent to look at the issue of exemptions as it relates to all departments and commissions than to single out one state agency. Although an exemption from the administrative rulemaking process may have been in the public interest at the time, the need may no longer exist. Clearly, this issue is extremely important for legislative oversight, but the task cannot be accomplished in the limited time available. Vote 14-5.

Rep. David G. Poulin for Minority I of the Executive Departments and Administration: Three of the five minority members of the committee felt that this bill had merit. They felt that the pari-mutuel commission had overstepped its bounds by establishing a policy under their exempt rulemaking status that directly conflicted with a vote of the House of Representatives on February 18, 1998. This 1998 vote was on a motion of ought to pass regarding HB 1296 which would have allowed telephone-betting accounts at the racetracks. The ought to pass motion was defeated on the house floor by 50 votes. The pari-mutuel commission established a policy in 1999 to allow telephone accounts instead of coming back to the legislature for approval. HB 1624 would have provided an opportunity to reaffirm the policy making role of the legislature and would have corrected the exempt status on rulemaking that allowed the commission to usurp the policy making decisions of the legislature under their exemption from rulemaking status.

Rep. Carolyn A. Virtue for Minority II of the Executive Departments and Administration: This bill proposes the elimination of an exception to the rulemaking requirements of RSA 541-A granted to the pari-mutuel commission. This exception is limited to wagers on horse and dog racing. Several state agencies enjoy similar (or broader) exceptions to RSA 541-A and this bill singles out only the pari-mutuel commission. This limited exemption streamlines the administrative and operational procedures of the racing commission only as they relate to the pari-mutuel pools on horse and dog racing. The pari-mutuel commission does participate in the administrative rulemaking process for all other issues; furthermore, the commission currently has rules that have been approved through that process. The minority believes that this bill could cause a significant negative fiscal impact by reducing revenues received from simulcast wagering which would be limited if this bill were passed. Given the looming budget deficit, we do not believe legislation with a negative fiscal impact should be considered at this time.

Majority report adopted.

SB 181-FN, relative to the licensure of geologists. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Alida I. Millham for Executive Departments and Administration: This bill establishes the board of professional geologists and authorizes the regulations of the practice, examination, licensure, and discipline of professional geologists. The professional geologists will become part of the joint board of professional engineers, architects, land surveyors, foresters and natural scientists. The amendment reflects a carefully crafted approach to "grandfathering" of geologists. The amendment was agreed to by the professional engineers and the professional geologists Vote 11-2.

Rep. Dyer moved Re-commit to Committee and spoke in favor.

Adopted.

Rep. Bruno declared a conflict of interest and did not participate.

CACR 23, relating to the responsibility and authority of the general court to determine the content, extent, and funding of a public education and the use of monies received from the enactment of a new personal income tax. Providing that (a) If the general court enacts a new personal income tax, all monies received from such income tax and all the interest received on such monies shall, after deducting the necessary costs of administration, be appropriated and used exclusively to fulfill the state's duty to cherish the interest of public schools under article 83 of part second, and no part of such monies shall be transferred or diverted to any other purpose whatsoever. (b) The general court shall have the authority to determine the content, extent, and funding of a public education and that the state may fulfill its responsibility to provide to all citizens the opportunity for a public education by exercising its power to levy assessments, rates, and taxes, or by delegating this power, in whole or part, to a political subdivision; provided that upon delegation, such assessments, rates, and taxes are proportional and reasonable throughout the state or the political subdivision in which they are imposed. MAJORITY: INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE. MINORITY: OUGHT TO PASS.

Rep. Avis B. Nichols for the Majority of Finance: This CACR contains two, independent constitutional amendments, each of which would be put separately to voters. The first is relatively straightforward. It would dedicate all revenue from a new personal income tax to pay for public education IF such a tax were enacted. It would not, however, require that a new personal income tax be adopted.

The second is more complex. It would (1) acknowledge the state's responsibility to provide a public education; (2) grant to the legislature the power to determine the content, extent and funding of that public education; (3) limit judicial review of these issues to the traditional "rational basis" test, not the new "strict scrutiny" standard imposed by the court in the Claremont cases; (4) authorize the legislature to fund education in part with real estate taxes at locally set rates that might vary between municipalities; and (5) ensure that Art. 28-a. governs state education requirements.

The sponsors put the CACR forward in an effort to break the Claremont funding deadlock that divides the legislature. In the Senate, the CACR's dual provisions garnered votes from right and left. The thinking seemed to be that a new voice, the voice of the people, needed to be heard, and this CACR was a reasonable way for that to occur. The committee acknowledges with appreciation the extraordinary efforts that were required to bring forth this CACR.

However, other concerns prevailed in Finance. Some members felt that we are not a referendum state and that it would not be appropriate to conduct a referendum in the guise of a constitutional amendment. Indeed, it appeared that, as a referendum, the results would not be illuminating. It was unclear whether an affirmative vote on the first question would indicate support for an income tax or support for restricting the use of income tax revenues.

Other members felt that conditional amendments were inappropriate – that an amendment dedicating a tax to a specific purpose should be adopted only after, not before, the tax is imposed. Still others objected to restricting a major revenue source to any particular purpose, believing its use should be directed as future legislatures deem desirable to meet future needs. Members also doubted the wisdom of returning to the prior system of funding education through local property taxes at rates that varied between districts. A number did not wish to change the judicial review standard. Several members were unable to support even presenting to the voters the "other side's" position. Although none of these or other concerns that were voiced appeared to be supported by a majority of the committee, there was concurrence that for a variety of reasons the CACR should not go forward. Therefore, after rejecting an amendment that simplified the language, the committee voted to recommend that the bill be Inexpedient to Legislate. Further motions to reconsider and table were defeated. Vote 17-8.

Rep. Jean R. Wallin for the Minority of Finance: Once again the House has a chance to move forward in the school funding debate, and once again, if the majority report from the Finance Committee prevails, we will have lost the chance. Passing CACR 23 means that we take two very important questions to the voters, and inject an essential voice – the voice of the people – into what has become a deadlocked debate in the legislature. Defeating CACR 23 means that we once again tell the voters that we are simply unwilling to break out of deadlock and stalemate, that we would prefer to stand still rather than to allow them the opportunity to make their views known directly. It is true that New Hampshire is not a referendum state as far as our statutes are concerned. However, the Claremont decision invokes serious constitutional issues. Given the fact that constitutional issues are at stake, it is entirely appropriate for the two questions contained in CACR 23 to be put before the voters.

Rep. Hager spoke against and yielded to questions.

Reps. Vaillancourt and Kurk spoke in favor.

Reps. Weyler and Wallin spoke against.

Reps. Major and Foster spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. Vaillancourt requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the majority report.

CACR 39, relating to the funding of public education. Providing that the state shall fund an amount not less than 30 percent of the total annual statewide cost of public education for kindergarten through grade 12 and that the general court shall have the power to apportion this amount by statute; that the state shall support access to a continuum of educational opportunities including early childhood and post secondary education at a financial level to be deemed appropriate by statute; and that beginning April 1, 2001, no property tax in any form shall be used to fund the state's obligation to cherish and support public education. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Kenneth L. Weyler for Finance: The general structure of the NH Constitution provides general guidelines for government with legislation providing details. This gives the legislature flexibility to make changes when it deems it necessary. This proposal does not increase the ability of the legislature to solve educational funding problems, but, in fact restricts action in two important areas. The state would be responsible for not less than 30% of K-12 education funding. This is an area of spending by local school districts where growth has been 8 to 10% annually for many of the past twenty years. The proposal also forbids the legislature the use of a statewide property tax for education funding. The committee saw no advantage to restricting options while we are all seeking solutions. Vote 21-4.

Rep. Peterson spoke against.

Rep. Weyler spoke in favor.

Rep. Vaillancourt requested a roll call; not sufficiently seconded.

On a division vote, 276 members having voted in the affirmative and 51 in the negative, the report was adopted.

HB 1626-FN, establishing a program to rebate certain excessive property tax payments of eligible taxpayers. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Linda T. Foster for Finance: The committee has previously reviewed the substantive provisions of this bill. The members support the bill's ultimate goal which is to provide uniform hardship property tax relief through a circuit-breaker process. However, the Department of Revenue Administration, the New Hampshire Municipal Association and the New Hampshire Tax Collectors' Association all expressed concern with the mechanics and the administration of the bill. Moreover, with decreasing revenue projections, the sponsor's estimated $10 million cost was found to be ill-timed. The committee believes that this policy should form the basis for future legislation during the next biennium when we are in a position to fund it. Vote 21-4.

Rep. Sapareto spoke against and yielded to questions.

Rep. Foster spoke in favor.

Rep. Vaillancourt requested a roll call; not sufficiently seconded.

On a division vote, 255 members having voted in the affirmative and 69 in the negative, the report was adopted.

SB 311, relative to the recovery of public assistance. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT
Rep. Alphonse A. Haettenschwiler for Health, Human Services and Elderly Affairs: This bill was passed to bring state law into compliance with federal law and clarifies the method by which liens are placed by the Department of Health and Human Services for the recovery of certain categories of assistance. The committee also made several additional minor changes to further clarify the intent of this legislation. Vote 10-4.

Amendment (4109h)

Amend the bill by replacing sections 3 and 4 with the following:

3 Recovery for Assistance Furnished. Amend RSA 167:13 to read as follows:

167:13 Recovery for Assistance Furnished.

I. Except as provided in paragraph II, if at any time during the continuance of assistance, the recipient or the husband or wife of the recipient becomes possessed of any property or income in excess of the amount stated in the application, it shall be the duty of the recipient within 10 calendar days to notify the commissioner of the department of health and human services of the receipt or possession of such property or income. On the death of a recipient of old age assistance or aid to the permanently and totally disabled, the total amount of assistance paid under this chapter or RSA 161 shall be allowed as a claim against the estate of such person after payment of the charges in the priority set forth in RSA 554:19. No claim shall be imposed against the real estate of a recipient of old age assistance or aid to the permanently and totally disabled while it is occupied as a home by a surviving spouse, or against any personal property of less than $100 in value. The federal government shall be entitled, as long as required as a condition to federal financial participation, to such proportion of the net amount collected from the estate of a recipient of old age assistance or aid to the permanently and totally disabled as the federal participation bears to the total amount of assistance granted said recipient.

II. Notwithstanding paragraph I, for medical assistance, no resources of the community spouse shall be deemed available to the institutionalized spouse during the continuous period in which an institutionalized spouse is in an institution, and after the month in which an institutionalized spouse is determined to be eligible for medical assistance benefits.

III. The department may waive adjustment or recovery in cases in which:

(a) It is not cost-effective to recover from an individual's estate; or

(b) Recovery would result in an undue hardship as determined in accordance with rules adopted pursuant to RSA 541-A.

4 Claims and Liens. RSA 167:14 is repealed and reenacted to read as follows:

I. The estate of every recipient and the estate of a recipient's spouse, if any, owned severally or as joint tenants, shall be liable for all financial old age assistance or aid to the permanently and totally disabled granted to the recipient; provided, however, that the estate of a recipient's spouse shall be liable only for such financial assistance as was granted to the recipient during the time that the recipient and the recipient's spouse were neither legally separated nor divorced. After providing all owners of the real property known to the department with prior notice and an opportunity for a hearing, the commissioner of the department of health and human services shall file with the register of deeds of the county in which the recipient, or the spouse of the recipient, if any, owns real property, notice of the lien. Such notice of lien shall contain the names of the recipient and the recipient's spouse, if any. All such liens shall continue during the lifetime of the recipient and of the spouse of the recipient, if any, and until enforced as provided in this section, unless sooner released by the commissioner of the department of health and human services. The register of deeds shall keep a suitable record of such notices of lien without charging any fee therefore and enter on the record an acknowledgment of satisfaction or release upon written request from the commissioner of the department of health and human services.

II. Subject to RSA 167:16-a, the estate of every recipient shall be liable for all medical assistance granted to the recipient, and the commissioner of the department of health and human services shall file a claim for recovery against the recipient's estate. No notice of lien may be filed against real property with respect to medical assistance except in conformance with RSA 167:16-a.

Rep. Emerton spoke against.

The amendment failed.

Rep. Emerton offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4186h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Responsibility for Public Medical Assistance. Amend RSA 167:3-b to read as follows:

167:3-b Responsibility for Public Medical Assistance. The provisions of RSA 167:2, 3 and 3-a, do not apply to the administration of medical assistance[~~except with respect to the spouse of the individual who needs medical care or services, or the parent of such individual, if said individual is under 21 or is either blind or permanently and totally disabled~~].

2 New Paragraph; Definitions. Amend RSA 167:6 by inserting after paragraph VII the following new paragraph:

VIII. For purposes hereof, the terms "spouse" and "surviving spouse" shall include anyone currently legally married to a recipient, or who was legally married to a recipient at the time of the recipient's death, and shall not include those to whom a legal separation has been granted by a court of competent jurisdiction.

3 Recovery for Assistance Furnished. Amend RSA 167:13 to read as follows:

167:13 Recovery for Assistance Furnished.

I. Except as provided in paragraph II, if at any time during the continuance of assistance, the recipient or the husband or wife of the recipient becomes possessed of any property or income in excess of the amount stated in the application, it shall be the duty of the recipient within 10 calendar days to notify the commissioner of the department of health and human services of the receipt or possession of such property or income. On the death of a recipient of old age assistance or aid to the permanently and totally disabled, the total amount of assistance paid under this chapter or RSA 161 shall be allowed as a claim against the estate of such person after payment of the charges in the priority set forth in RSA 554:19. No ~~claim~~ lien filed in accordance with RSA 167:14 shall be ~~imposed~~ extended to enforce recovery nor shall any sale be forced against the real estate of a recipient of old age assistance or aid to the permanently and totally disabled while it is occupied as a home by a surviving spouse[~~or against any personal property of less than $100 in value~~]. The federal government shall be entitled, as long as required as a condition to federal financial participation, to such proportion of the net amount collected from the estate of a recipient of old age assistance or aid to the permanently and totally disabled as the federal participation bears to the total amount of assistance granted said recipient.

II. Notwithstanding paragraph I, for medical assistance, no resources of the community spouse shall be deemed available to the institutionalized spouse during the continuous period in which an institutionalized spouse is in an institution, and after the month in which an institutionalized spouse is determined to be eligible for medical assistance benefits.

III. The department may waive adjustment or recovery in cases in which:

(a) It is not cost-effective to recover from an individual's estate; or

(b) Recovery would result in an undue hardship as determined in accordance with rules adopted pursuant to RSA 541-A.

4 Claims and Liens. RSA 167:14 is repealed and reenacted to read as follows:

I. The estate of every recipient and the estate of a recipient's spouse, if any, owned severally or as joint tenants, shall be liable for all financial old age assistance or aid to the permanently and totally disabled granted to the recipient; provided, however, that the estate of a recipient's spouse shall be liable only for such financial assistance as was granted to the recipient during the time that the recipient and the recipient's spouse were neither legally separated nor divorced. After providing all owners of the real property known to the department with prior notice and an opportunity for a hearing, the commissioner of the department of health and human services shall file with the register of deeds of the county in which the recipient, or the spouse of the recipient, if any, owns real property, notice of the lien. Such notice of lien shall contain the names of the recipient and the recipient's spouse, if any. All such liens shall continue during the lifetime of the recipient and of the spouse of the recipient, if any, and until enforced as provided in this section, unless sooner released by the commissioner of the department of health and human services. The register of deeds shall keep a suitable record of such notices of lien without charging any fee therefore and enter on the record an acknowledgment of satisfaction or release upon written request from the commissioner of the department of health and human services.

II. Subject to RSA 167:16-a, the estate of every recipient shall be liable for all medical assistance granted to the recipient, and the commissioner of the department of health and human services shall file a claim for recovery against the recipient's estate. No notice of lien may be filed against real property with respect to medical assistance except in conformance with RSA 167:16-a.

5 Enforcement of Assistance Liens; Restricted to Recipient Assets. Amend RSA 167:16, I-III to read as follows:

I. Assistance liens arising under this chapter or RSA 161 may be enforced by a bill in equity, or, in the case of liens against real estate which have been duly filed under RSA 167:14, by filing a timely and verified notice of lien with the probate court with jurisdiction over the estate of the recipient ~~[or recipient spouse]~~ and mailing a copy of said notice and a verified claim for recovery of assistance payments to the administrator of the estate.

II. The commissioner may enforce the liquidated amount of an assistance lien against real estate by filing a timely and verified notice with the probate court and submitting a timely and verified claim against the estate of the recipient ~~[or recipient spouse]~~ which sets forth the dates and amounts of assistance paid. Such claims shall be timely if filed within 6 months from the initial grant of administration for the estate in question.

III. Notwithstanding RSA 556:5 and any other provision of law to the contrary, the administrator of a recipient's estate ~~[or the estate of a recipient's spouse]~~ shall be conclusively presumed to have accepted a claim for recovery of assistance which is ~~[the subject of a lien against real estate]~~ subject to the jurisdiction of the probate court unless, within 12 months from the initial grant of administration, the administrator commences an equitable action in the superior court challenging the validity or amount of the commissioner's claim and lien.

6 Limitations on Recovery of Assistance. RSA 167:16-a, IV is repealed and reenacted to read as follows:

IV. Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, there shall be no adjustment or recovery of medical assistance correctly paid on behalf of such an individual, except from the estate of an individual who was 55 years of age or older when the individual received such assistance, and then only after the death of the surviving spouse, if any, and only at a time when:

(a) The individual has no surviving child who is under 21 years of age or is blind or permanently and totally disabled.

(b) In the case of a lien on an individual's home under subparagraph I(b):

(1) No sibling of the individual who was residing in the individual's home for a period of at least one year immediately before the date of the individual's admission to the medical institution, nursing facility, or intermediate care facility for the mentally retarded and is lawfully residing in such home on a continuous basis since the date of the individual's admission to the medical institution, nursing facility, or intermediate care facility for the mentally retarded.

(2) No son or daughter of the individual who was residing in the individual's home for a period of at least 2 years immediately before the date of the individual's admission to the medical institution, nursing facility, or intermediate care facility for the mentally retarded and who establishes to the satisfaction of the state that he or she provided care to such individual which permitted such individual to reside at home rather than in an institution and is lawfully residing in such home and has done so on a continuous basis since the date of the individual's admission to the medical institution, nursing facility, or intermediate care facility for the mentally retarded.

HB 1452, establishing a committee to study the recodification of laws relating to the joint committee on legislative facilities. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Peter H. Burling for Legislative Administration: Following the recommittal of this bill to committee, a good deal of effort was expended trying to perfect this codification of existing powers of the legislative facilities committee. The members of the committee believe that the current form of the bill as amended properly consolidates the powers of legislative facilities. The bill does not intend an expansion of those powers, nor a contraction of them. It just tells the people what those powers are so the public can know. Vote 13-0.

Amendment (4048h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT codifying the powers and duties of the joint committee on legislative facilities.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

I New Section; Joint Committee on Legislative Facilities; Powers and Duties. Amend RSA 17-E by inserting after section 5 the following new section:

17-E:6 Powers and Duties. The committee shall have the following powers and duties:

I. To enter into contracts and hire consultants.

II. To review and approve all joint legislative budgets.

III. To hire the personnel of all joint legislative service agencies, except the legislative budget assistant and the employees of the legislative budget assistant governed by RSA 14:30 and RSA 14:34 and the additional employees appointed by the director of legislative services pursuant to RSA 17-A:4.

IV. To establish salary schedules and benefits for all employees of all joint legislative service agencies or departments, except the legislative budget assistant and the employees of the legislative budget assistant governed by RSA 14:30 and RSA 14:34 and the additional employees appointed by the director of legislative services pursuant to RSA 17-A:4. The house subcommittee shall establish salary schedules and benefits for all house employees. The senate subcommittee shall establish salary schedules and benefits for all senate employees.

V. To provide necessary furniture, stationery, and other supplies and equipment for the use of the committees and offices of the general court.

VI. To study ways and means to improve legislative operation, organization, procedures, facilities, and working conditions.

VII. To designate the use of the facilities under control of the legislature in the state house and to designate the use of the legislative office building and the Upham Walker house.

VIII. To establish rules of procedure for the conduct of the business of the committee.

IX. To perform such other duties and responsibilities as may be assigned to the committee from time to time by the house or the senate.

2 Repeal. The following are repealed:

I. 1973, 368, relative to establishing a legislative facilities committee.

II. 1974, 38:23 and 24, relative to the legislative parking facility.

III. 1975, 308, relative to legislative printing.

IV. 1975, 430:2, relative to renovating the Old Post Office in Concord.

V. 1975, 465:1, relative to duties of the legislative facilities committee.

VI. 1975, 479:4, relative to a legislative parking facility.

VII. 1975, 491, 1 and 2, relative to state house renovations.

VIII. 1981, 568:79, relative to legislative branch employee fringe benefits.

IX. 1983, 469:110, relative to the office of legislative accounting.

3 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill codifies the powers and duties of the joint committee on legislative facilities.

Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

HB 1625, requiring the attorney general to initiate a declaratory judgment action concerning record title matters related to the Green Hills subdivision in the town of Raymond. REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY

Rep. Betsey L. Patten for Municipal and County Government: Approximately 340 property owners at Green Hills Estates in Raymond live with an apparent injustice, which stems from a paper subdivision that was not properly laid out many years ago. The Municipal and County Government Committee previously studied the issue, created a process to address the injustice and HB 160 was passed and enacted in February 1997. Some of the title and mortgage companies still refuse to insure or lend money to the current owners. The insurers and lenders continue to maintain there are title problems regarding this property and question the legislatures' ability to effect the solution. The sponsors felt that a declaratory judgement by the Attorney General would resolve the issue. However, there are potential constitutional issues involving the legislature requiring the Attorney General to act in any specific manner. After the public hearing, an alternative method was explored which would involve asking the New Hampshire Bar Association, the offices of the Attorney General and the Speaker of the House to work together with the Raymond property owners at Green Hills Estates to find a way to "quiet title" and/or issue "corrective deeds." A meeting is presently being scheduled to discuss this approach and if successful the proposal would be presented to the Raymond property owners. A majority of the Committee felt that Interim Study would give the alternative method a chance to work. Vote 11-5.

LAID ON THE TABLE

Rep. Patten moved that HB 1625, requiring the attorney general to initiate a declaratory judgment action concerning record title matters related to the Green Hills subdivision in the town of Raymond, be laid on the table.
Adopted.

SB 339-FN, relative to conducting a feasibility study of various alternatives to enhance safety at the traffic circle in the city of Portsmouth. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Elizabeth C. Shultis for Public Works and Highways: This bill directs the Department of Transportation to conduct a feasibility study of various alternative designs to enhance safety at the traffic circle in Portsmouth. Recognizing the traffic volume and safety concerns at this junction of I-95, Spaulding Turnpike, Route 1-A and Route 4, a circle that was designed for traffic in the 1940's, the committee voted to ask the DOT, using existing budgetary allocations, for funding. Vote 11-7.
Adopted and ordered to third reading.

SB 455, relative to campgrounds. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Richard T. Cooney for Resources, Recreation and Development: This bill closes a loophole in campground wastewater statutes. Presently, recreation camping cabins are not included in regulations concerning test sites and recreational vehicle sites. This bill includes recreational cabins in the requirements for approved sewage disposal system. It also requires a minimum of 1,000 square feet be provided for new cabin campsites. Vote 13-1.
Adopted and ordered to third reading.

HB 1618, relative to requiring legislative approval for mergers, acquisitions, or restructuring of certain electric utility corporations. MAJORITY: REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY. MINORITY: OUGHT TO PASS.

Rep. Jeb E. Bradley for the Majority of Science, Technology and Energy: As introduced, HB 1618 would have required the legislature to approve any merger involving an electric utility in New Hampshire that serves 50% or more of the customers in the state. Legislative approval of such a merger would be required in addition to the normal review process at the Public Utilities Commission (PUC). As introduced, the bill would apply only to Public Service of New Hampshire. There were three long work sessions on this bill and several amendments introduced. One amendment would have expanded the requirement of legislative approval of mergers to all electric utilities in the state. A second amendment would also have required legislative approval of any merger when a utility was requesting securitization as PSNH has in the proposed Settlement. During a second public hearing these amendments, and two others, were discussed. In executive session the sponsor moved ought to pass on the amendment which would have required legislative approval of a merger only for utilities requesting securitization. That motion failed 5-15. A subsequent motion of Refer for Interim Study passed 17-3. Despite having sympathy for the sponsor's goals, the majority of the committee believes Interim Study is a more appropriate action. The amendment turned down by the committee, and the bill as introduced, all applied only to PSNH – the only electric utility serving more than 50% of the customers in New Hampshire, or that has requested securitization. The majority is concerned about the obvious constitutional issues raised by legislation intended to apply to only one company, regardless of how it is worded. To be constitutional, the bill would likely need to apply to all electric utilities, and perhaps to other regulated utilities such as gas, water and telecommunications. It was also the intent of the sponsor that if HB 1618 became law, legislative approval would be required for the proposed merger between PSNH's parent company Northeast Utilities and Consolidated Edison. Since that merger application was filed with the PUC on January 18, 2000, enacting HB 1618 and having it apply to the already filed merger would raise serious questions of retroactive application of a new statute and would almost surely lead to further litigation. In addition to constitutional issues, the majority was also concerned that requiring the legislature to approve prospective utility mergers would have a negative business effect on the state's regulated utilities. New Hampshire would become the only state that required a legislative vote to approve an electric utility merger. The committee also discussed whether the bill could be replaced with additional authority for the PUC. A key question examined by the committee was whether the PUC's current statutory authority over utility mergers was adequate. RSA 369, updated in 1999, provides expedited review of mergers that will cause no net harm, while still allowing the PUC complete authority to examine whether a merger is in the public interest, a more rigorous standard, if there is any possibility that the merger may cause future harm to consumers. The PUC had no difficulty requiring that the more stringent test be met in the 1999 Granite State Electric merger. Finally, the majority did not agree with the argument that legislative approval of mergers was necessary for customers to get the benefits of the cost savings such a merger would provide. The PUC has sufficient authority to open a rate case at any time such benefits are available. As a result, the majority believes that existing statutes give the PUC sufficient regulatory authority to protect the interests of New Hampshire customers in the proposed PSNH merger. The PUC also has the necessary technical expertise to review mergers. The PUC can and should apply the public interest standard to any merger involving PSNH, including the proposed merger with Consolidated Edison. The majority of the committee also believes that the proposed PSNH merger must be reviewed under existing law, not prospective law, in order to avoid legitimate issues of retroactive application of a new statute. Interim study will allow the committee to review all issues raised in this discussion. Vote 17-3.

Rep. Gary R. Gilmore for the Minority of Science, Technology and Energy: The minority will seek to amend this bill to require that in the event of a merger of an electric utility receiving the proceeds of securitization, that the legislature would have to approve the merger through appropriate legislative action. If a utility does not wish to have a merger of their company needing the approval of the legislature, they do not have to seek or receive securitization. The minority believes that failure to approve this legislation would represent a missed opportunity by the legislature to improve savings for New Hampshire ratepayers.

Rep. Howard spoke against.

Reps. Gilmore and Donald White spoke against and yielded to questions.

Reps. MacGillivray, Norelli and Bradley spoke in favor.

Rep. Gilmore requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the majority report.

DEBATE ON HOUSE BILL 1618

Rep. Tuthill moved that the debate be printed in the Journal.

On a division vote, 150 members having voted in the affirmative and 137 in the negative, the motion was adopted.

Rep. Howard: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise in opposition to the committee report and in support of the minority recommendation. Ought to Pass. This bill began life as a vehicle to insert the legislature into merger approvals in the electric utility business. As it wound its way through the hearing and work-session process it was progressively amended, almost to death, to the point where most committee members just wanted to go back to the drawing board and start again from ground zero. We in the minority ask your indulgence to explain why we think the basic idea is a good one, partly because we believe the subject of mergers will come before the legislature again. Those of you who took the time to read the very extended blurb will have noted one objection raised was that the bill was unconstitutional. As a Jeffersonian conservative myself, I believe the elective branch of government has every right and even the duty to pass legislation which is right and in the best interests of its constituents. We in the legislature have no expertise to decide constitutional issues. They can best be left to the courts later on if someone wishes to bring suit. A more serious objection also in the blurb was that such a statute would have a negative business effect on regulated companies in New Hampshire. This was the industry argument. They argued that an already poor business climate would be chilled even more by this bill. I was lobbied hard on this subject, but I can't escape the feeling that such an argument is nothing more than self-serving propaganda. It's hard to argue today that the business climate in this state is negative at a time when New Hampshire leads all New England, and much of the rest of the country, in most measures of economic activity, including kilowatt hour sales of electric power, which are up 8.6 percent year-over-year with our closest competition up only 4.6 percent. But, why did the sponsor zero in on mergers and want to provide another avenue for review other than the Public Utilities Commission? What's wrong with mergers anyway? Actually, mergers are neither good nor bad intrinsically, but my 35 years in the investment business have taught me that many of them bring more harm, especially to the average consumer, than they bring good. I ask you, who will be more watchful over the interests of consumers and ratepayers, three appointed regulators or the voters' representatives whom they elect every two years? If all a citizen has to defend his or her best interest is the Public Utilities Commission and us, why not have the legislature in the loop? There have been many studies made of takeovers and they have all reached the same conclusion, namely the majority of mergers, 65 percent or more, do not deliver the benefits the partners claimed they would, but damage the interests of those they were supposed to benefit. Some of them even turn into disasters and have to be unwound. One extensive study of mergers by an economics professor at NYU was turned into a book called The Synergy Trap. In it he asked why managers should pay a big premium to make an acquisition when their shareholders could invest in the target company themselves at market prices. How sure are the managers that the cost-saving from the merger will compensate for the size of the acquisition premium? In the case of utility mergers, management hopes the premium will be recovered from ratepayers' bills. Given how heavily the odds are stacked against successful mergers, top management enthusiasm for them is curious. Of course, right now they are easier to pull off than normally because hyper-inflated stock values enable the use of what I call "bongo bucks" as the acquiring tool. But still, shouldn't managers consider whether the time and expense could be employed better elsewhere, say in improving customer service? Even in countries with high divorce rates, marriages have a better success rate than mergers. My duty as a member of the House is to look after, as best I can, the welfare of my constituents. If I'm presented with a merger on a take-it-or-leave-it basis, I'm denied that opportunity. There is a world-class money manager out in Omaha, Warren Buffett, whose long-term investment record is unparalleled. I'd like to close by sharing with you his thoughts on this subject. He refers to the myth of the princess and the toad. "Many acquisitive managers," he says, "see themselves as princesses whose kisses could turn toads into handsome princes, but investors can always buy toads at the going price for toads. If, instead, they bankrolled princesses who want to pay high prices for the right to kiss the toads, those kisses better pack some real dynamite, but managerial princesses remain serenely confident about the potency of their kisses even after their corporate backyards are knee deep in unresponsive toads." Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Rep. MacGillivray: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Ladies and gentlemen, I rise in support of the majority committee report of Refer for Interim Study on House Bill 1618. The subject matter of this bill is simple. First, should the legislature be required to approve mergers or other restructurings of large electric utility corporations? Second, should we make sure that when mergers occur and cost savings result, that the cost savings go to our rate payers and not stockholders and how should we make that happen? I suggest that the answers to these questions are, no, the first isn't necessary and, yes, the second can be done in other ways. Rep. Bradley will later discuss the history of this subject matter, but Rep. Norelli and I will focus just on basic principles. First, legislative approval of mergers is a really bad idea. It's not our expertise. We don't know anything about it. One of the principles of deciding issues like this is that there should be one standard for all companies. That is something that works fairly well when a judicial body looks at a standard and decides: does this merger meet this standard or not? If the standard is: it needs 201 voted here, 13 next door and the signature of the governor, it's not clear that this standard applies. There is a possibility of unequal treatment to different companies. The Public Utilities Commission is a much better place for examining and approving mergers. They look at a judicial standard. Does this meet it; does this not? They are a quasi judicial process, they hear testimony and they can adopt an even standard. We'd be the only state in the country that says don't handle this in front of a utility commission. Handle it in front of a legislature. Then you have the problem: of the sponsors want this to apply retroactively to a merger already under way and already filed for and they want it to apply to just one company. There are constitutional impediments for a good reason for retroactive laws and laws that single out one company. My second point is that we can handle the problem of making sure that the cost savings go to the ratepayers in a much easier way. Without any additional legislation, the Public Utilities Commission can open a rate case at any time as the merger benefits unfold, get implemented, get seen, they can drag the company in for a rate case, look at their costs and demand that rates be lowered. It is really that easy. If we don't like the frequency they are doing it, we can write laws that tell them to do it more often and, indeed, I proposed an amendment to this bill that would have done just that and ordered that rate cases occur, not more than a certain length of time after a major merger, but the committee decided, I believe justly, that studying this over the summer rather than doing it in a hurry was a better idea. The PUC will have this authority. And finally, we've been asked to enact some legislation that will have something to do with this merger. It is in the process of being introduced. The Senate hearing will be a little more than a week from now and it will occur just after yesterday's PUC order relative to this whole deal with Public Service of New Hampshire. Our consultants have urged us to put in provisions regarding, if this company merges, some additional lowering of rates will be required. It was urged by the consultants; it was spoken of by Representative Bradley in his testimony to the PUC. It was supported by the oversight committee; it was supported by the House committee; it was supported by the Senate committee. My strong hunch is that by the time that bill leaves the Senate and hits us, the issue is going to be taken care of there and if it doesn't, the House Science, Technology and Energy Committee will make sure that it does. So, I don't think this is necessary. I don't think this is desirable and I urge you to support the recommendation of the 17-to-3 majority of the House Science, Technology and Energy Committee of Refer for Interim Study. Thank you.

Rep. Gilmore: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I'm a little bit perplexed in listening to the previous remarks. Obviously, you know, we've embarked on a path, a path that now has New Hampshire and will continue to have New Hampshire, almost certainly, with the highest rates in the nation. This bill represents an opportunity, it is an opportunity we can turn our back on, but it is an opportunity and an opportunity that will not come again for another 10, 15 or 20 years. We're talking about a company whose revenue exceeds this state's, whose revenue will exceed this state's by a factor of five or six. We are talking about a company that will focus all its resources upon this state to extract what it needs and will likely prevail. It is only at the time of merger that you have some leverage. Maybe you agree with the previous speakers and all speakers that legislative approval of mergers is ridiculous and a bad idea. Maybe you believe you don't have a voice and you deserve a voice. Folks, if you believe that then you should vote as the majority does. But, if you want to try to make a difference, if you want to try to say, stop we can do something because you can. If you want to empower yourself, because you are a sovereign state, because you have the power to pass laws, this is your opportunity. This is your opportunity to be heard as a legislature, as something, as a body that wishes to respond to what is the reality in this world. Our laws governing the PUC date back to the 1920s when we dealt with small local companies and the state had the resources to counter those, to look at those and to achieve reasonable returns and satisfy all parties.

That is not the case anymore. We are talking about mega-huge corporations that are now able to focus on individual states and extract what they need. You might think that we are asking for too much but the state of Connecticut doesn't believe that and they are opposed to this merger. They believe they are being taken over the barrel by this corporation. They don't believe the residents of Connecticut are getting a fair deal and it isn't likely the residents of New Hampshire will either. All this bill does, and it is a very, very simple bill as we propose to amend it, all this bill does is say that if you securitize, if you get the proceeds from securitization, if the state gives you that guarantee, that irrevocable guarantee, irrevocable, if we securitize we are guaranteeing that our residents will pay those rates for 12 years. It is a guarantee; it is irrevocable. The residents will pay; those who stay on the grid will pay those rates. Under that circumstance, and only under that circumstance, will the legislature need to approve a merger. To get to securitization to have to pass legislation, and in this case we are talking about a company that is asking for legislation that gives them, up front, $725 million, up front, cash payment, up front. If we are willing to do that to our residents, if we are willing to say you must pay those costs for the next 10 to 12 years, why can't we also say, if you merge we want to have that approval process, we want to look at it, which is the historical nature of the legislature. The legislature did have to, historically was involved in the corporations, was involved in this area. This isn't that beyond our ken, this isn't beyond our expertise. If a corporation can come in here and convince us that we should give them up front, $700 million, $800 million dollars, I bet they can come in here and get legislation that says hey, this merger is a good deal too. All the bill asks for is a very simple thing, that if we are going to mandate securitization upon our residents then we also should have a say as to their merger also so that we can have a fair deal, something the people of New Hampshire will benefit from. That is all we are seeking, in those unique circumstances would this bill be applicable. Thank you for your attention.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Rose, you may inquire.

Rep. Rose: Thank you. Madam Speaker. Gary, don't you think we ought to tell the people how long it's going to be before they pay for stranded costs?

Rep. Gilmore: Well, we'll be paying for the next 12 years or longer, certainly.

Rep. Rose: I read it is going to be before stranded costs are all paid up, it's going to be 2024.

Rep. Gilmore: That's before all stranded costs are paid. It would be 2024.

Rep. Rose: Do you think that if we let this happen, that Northeast Utilities and PSNH get their way, do you think they are going to give up their generating plants, really?

Rep. Gilmore: I'm sure Northeast Utilities, Consolidated Edison out of New York/New Jersey, will do what's in the best interests of their stockholders, not in the best interests of the ratepayers of New Hampshire. Whatever they determine it to be, they will certainly do that.

Rep. Rose: Do you think that really the governor's aim is going to come, that there is going to be competition here in New Hampshire electric when we see that Northeast Utilities is going to merge and they will be the biggest electric company in the country? Isn't that right?

Rep. Gilmore: I believe ConEd already is the biggest distribution electric utility in the nation. Certainly with this merger they will become far greater. Their headquarters will move farther away and yes, we will be dealing much more with a foreign then we do with the local.

Rep. Rose: Do you really think that the biggest electric company in New England and the country after they get power, do you think they will give up that power by giving up their generating facilities without going to court down in Rhode Island and seeing that friendly judge and have him say that they don't have to give it up?

Rep. Gilmore: It's hard to guess what they will do. The certainty is they will do what they think they will make the greatest profit from. If they can make greater profit from unregulated sale of energy in a not competitive market they will do that and we will pay higher rates as a result.

Rep. Rose: Didn't Teddy Roosevelt do a good thing when he attacked the big trusts and the big mergers back in 1904?

Rep. Gilmore: I believe he did.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Brown, you may inquire.

Rep. George Brown: Rep. Gilmore, we talk about mergers but isn't there a federal law, the Sherman Anti-Trust, that should be investigating these problems with large companies overcoming some of the territories?

Rep. Gilmore: That is certainly true. The unfortunate thing is these mergers are so large that they are sort out of the ken of what we can fight anymore. When you think of the resources that they can spend freely, and that the state cannot, we're talking about companies with assets that are unimaginable for us. That is certainly not a level playing field any longer. The playing field has long been tipped.

Rep. Norelli: Thank you, Madam Speaker and members of the House who have hung in here with us. I rise in support of the committee report of Interim Study. With respect to utility mergers, it has been the tradition in New Hampshire, as well as in other states, for the legislature to have the role of setting the standard by which a particular merger is judged to be a good one or not for the ratepayers of that state. It has been the legislatures that have delegated this authority to the Public Utilities Commission to actually make the determination whether or not a particular merger meets that standard. I believe that the reason that we do this is because the skills that are necessary to make these determinations fall appropriately under the regulatory function of something like the Commission. Unlike the legislature, the Commission has the staff and the time and the special expertise in these areas to efficiently, effectively and appropriately investigate and analyze all of the consequences of a particular merger in terms of what it would mean to the ratepayers of the state in terms of their rates, services, reliability, issues that I have to say I'm not sure that I feel comfortable making those kinds of determinations. In fact, there are no other states in the country that provide legislative approval for utility mergers. Generally speaking, in other states the standard that is set is that of public interest or public good, although in a few states, usually those with deregulation in place, some additional criteria may also be added to that and most states also provided for an expedited review process. In New Hampshire, what we have, first of all, is an expedited review process under RSA 369:8. If the Public Utilities Commission determines that there is any possibility of an adverse affect to the rates, terms, services or operations after a particular merger then the standard that they would refer to is the standard set under RSA 374:33 that of Public Interest. There have been two recent utility mergers in this state: Energy North and Granite State Electric. Under both of these utility mergers, the Public Utilities Commission has analyzed these and made the determination under 374:33 which is the public interest standard. If we have all of this in place and it seems to work, I have to ask myself: What is the goal of this legislation? What would be accomplished by doing this? Well, if the supporters believe that the standard that we have set in place, which, by the way, we set in place at the end of the last legislative session, is too low then perhaps they should have come in with legislation that changed the standard. If they think that the Public Utilities Commission is not doing their job then I have to wonder why it would only apply to PSNH. Why would not Granite State Electric customers and Unil customers be expected to benefit from the same kind of legislative approval process? Ultimately, I believe that we have the appropriate process in place, contrary to what Rep. Gilmore said. I believe that we do have a voice and our voice is, we have set the standard. Public Utilities Commission, you need, when you are making your determination you have to make sure that this merger lives up to the standard that we set and, Public Utilities Commission do your job and make that determination. There were a few issues that arose as Rep. MacGillivray told you about that standard and, therefore, the committee determined that perhaps we should take a little bit more time to consider those issues and voted 18-3, Interim Study. I would ask that you support the committee report of Interim Study. Thank you.

Rep. Donald White: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Ladies and gentlemen, I am speaking in favor of the amendment that is going to be presented to HB 1618. For those who do not know me, we have had quite a bit of turnover in the last six years, my background is basically technical, I'm a machine designer, but I have had extensive experience operating a business, long enough to recognize imprudent and even stupid decisions. So, when I look at a situation with respect to the deal concerning ConEd, PSNH and Northeast Utilities, it is not satisfactory because it clears the way for a lucrative merger with no apparent value to residential ratepayers and I also think that the words of another pretty fair technician, Albert Einstein, guided me somewhat in this approach. He said, "Significant problems we face now, cannot be solved at the same level of thinking we were at when we created them." In this case, the "we" before "created" is PSNH. From 1972 to 1980, they persisted in the financing of an already hopelessly expensive undertaking called Seabrook. The unsuspecting victims, residential ratepayers, were soon to be responsible for bad business practice at considerable cost to them. There was considerable handwringing and much howling when the travesty unfolded and was made worse by questionable, political decisions here and in the swamp down at the Potomac. But the source and the guilt rests with PSNH and no one else. PSNH and others did take losses, as they should have, but any stranded costs related to Seabrook is still their responsibility. Seabrook is the key to securitization for PSNH and makes any merger deal attractive. What's in it for us? An article by Edward O. Wells in a July, 1990 issue of the New England Monthly is part of the reason for my support of HB 1618 or, as we want to amend it on the floor of the House, and I quote, "One can allow that Public Service's executives didn't intend to preside over a debacle and that the financiers only did what was expected of them, and they made a lot of money. But Public Service's managers avowed publicly that they would borrow at any cost to get Seabrook built. It seems unlikely that rational people would have pursued such a reckless, uneconomic course if they hadn't known they could always move on and let others pay for the mess they left behind, and they have paid, all $6.5 billion of it." I have a lot of reference material that I picked up that substantiates what I just told you. Now comes the ConEd/Northeast Utilities merger which could show, in their words, a billion-to-a-billion-and-a-half dollar savings over a 10-year period when they finally combine, and securitization for PSNH at $725 million would include in a merger a partner with a low-cost source of cash guaranteed by someone else, and that's all of us, if I may remind you. This merger will allow further expansion of a vast transmission and distribution system from Pennsylvania to New Hampshire with the added and attractive prospect for entry into the burgeoning telecom field. ConEd has a telecom infrastructure company. There will be real financial gain for the merger partners now and even more in the profitable future. There is nothing unreasonable in this, neither is profit, but we must profit, too. But, with this bill, New Hampshire can negotiate a bite instead of a nibble by tying securitization to merger approval. ConEd is not disturbed by this. They would do the same thing. They are good businessmen. If no other state does this, why would it preclude New Hampshire since we're the only ones who have ever been in a situation such as this since the early 1970s? It has been a horror show ever since then and I think New Hampshire deserves the opportunity to try to rectify some of the past. [tape damaged, section lost] ...of a securitized bond by voting to provide a private company with special treatment that our constituents will have to guarantee. On April 24, for your information, there is a forum at the Concord Holiday Inn, I won't comment on the set-up but Bob Backus is going to be there to keep a sense of reality. I recommend every representative who can, should attend to really hear a lot more details than you'll get in this place. But, I would suggest for the $50,000 we have paid for consultants, you should be able to also hear and understand what brought me to this podium. I would suggest they have a forum, in this building, in this place, for all the representatives so that you can examine and hear their thoughts regarding legislative power in the public interest; hear their comments regarding the court case, have the illusive rate agreement explained, if it exists; hear about transfer of assets by PSNH to Northeast Utilities; hear about Northeast Utilities breach of the energy sharing agreement and a lot more. We deserve all this information. I've got it. I was on the oversight committee, but none of you have, so you haven't heard the entire story. Let me repeat, securitization is special treatment offered by this state to a private company being paid for by private citizens who are bound to pay regardless of their circumstances. It is for these people that I ask you to overturn the committee report. Interim Study, in this case, is the graveyard of hope. Support the minority. Overturn the committee and allow us to present a simple amendment that will give us leverage, we hope, to gain a better deal for our constituents. Don't pay for Seabrook again. You know, as an individual I have been looking at this since 1994 and it is a very sad story if you look at the whole thing in its entirety that we should have gotten into this in the first place and that so many people have been hurt, so many careers set aside and so much desperation on the part of individuals which in this little state we really didn't deserve that. So, I was looking at a statement that is over 2,000 years old. It comes from Cicero where he tells us, "The good of the people is the highest law." That is what I am appealing to when I ask you to support the minority. Thank you very much, thank you, Madam Speaker.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to questions? Rep. Rollo, you may inquire.

Rep. Rollo: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Now that I am thoroughly confused, it doesn't take much to do that, you mentioned an oversight committee that was formed to study this, and you alluded to documents that you had. Can you share those with me so I can look at them?

Rep. Donald White: I'd be glad to. Some of them that I use - we are talking 50,000 pages, but I'll give you what I think are the best ones. I'm sure the chairman of the oversight committee would be overcome with joy to give you copies of it. This is called "Sunk Costs" and it is listed as item 27 that was given to the oversight committee and it is pretty good. If you read it, I think you would get some value from it. You could also read about the marvelous return on investments to financiers in an item appropriately described as "The Vulture Investors," that's listed as item 29. Fascinating reading but you'll lose a lot of sleep when you do.

Rep. Rollo: Would you mind lending it to me before we take the vote so I can read it?

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. DiFruscia, you may inquire.

Rep. DiFruscia: Thank you, Representative, for yielding. What do you think would be a good offer of benefit to us in terms of a rate relief?

Rep. Donald White: Excellent question. I expect the merger to succeed. It would be good business practice on the part of those individuals to do that and this device is merely to earn more of a return for our citizens than to stop a merger. It would take, I think, about three years after the merger somewhat settles and they reorganize to the extent that they have begun to realize the return that they expect over then 10-year period. People from Northeast Utilities and others will have already descended somewhere in their parachutes and I think probably a lot of lower-level people will be thrown out in the street, but anyway they will have a direction. The good people at business, I know they are probably going to do well with income. From that point, looking at $2 billion in stranded costs that is apparently being given away, most of us may have to pay, let me make that clear. The component of $600 million that belongs to Seabrook I firmly do not believe belongs to the citizens of the state. That is their problem. That would leave nine years if we securitized and if they began to see this return I would expect to see, on a basis from at least the first four years, 25 percent of what they realize go to the ratepayers and from that point on, one-third of what they realized because you get a little bit of an ascending scale. So, during that period of time, our ratepayers will be enjoying a stabilized rate and the reason I'm saying that is that the agreement says that the use of electricity will rise by two percent a year during the course of the securitization deal. If you look at ten years, you are talking, compounded, in excess of 25 percent. That is kind of a reach, we maybe bringing in 15,000 or so people a year. And as we move through, people are taking more time to save the use of energy by buying energy-saving equipment, people may opt out of the system so they don't have to pay the stranded costs. So, that is a risk. Now, if we handle it in this manner and get income from the synergy that they describe in their merger, our residential ratepayers will achieve some degree of stabilization and I think they'll make a few bucks as well and I think that's fair. It may be crazy, but I think it's fair.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member to yield to a question? Rep. Dickinson, you may inquire.

Rep. Dickinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Rep. White, is the floor amendment you are alluding to the one that is found on the bottom of page 1025?

Rep. Donald White: Yes, it is.

Rep. Dickinson: Well, for the life of me, I see no reason why the legislature shouldn't be authorized to approve mergers and the question I guess I have is, should the legislature approve mergers only after the PUC has an opportunity to thoroughly check them out?

Rep. Donald White: I agree. This is why the amendment was written the way it was to precipitate a constitutional question with respect to interfering and saying we're going to approve the merger when PUC has very capable people. I would wait upon that decision, but I need this tool in place to be able to use it to further convince our combatants that we would appreciate a greater return as a result of the merger, so certainly I would give the PUC all the opportunity that they require.

Rep. Bradley: Thank you, Madam Speaker and members of the House. I think it is safe to say that the members of the majority of the Science, Technology and Energy Committee are very, very sympathetic to the goals and the desires expressed by the three co-sponsors of this bill who have spoken prior to myself. Quite frankly, it's hard not to be sympathetic to the goals that they expressed given the fact that we have had the history that we have had with Public Service for 25 years and we've ended up with the highest rates in the nation. Indeed, throughout that history, efforts, efforts in fact in this room, to fight back have drawn great favor and this bill, quite frankly, is no different from that. But, it is important to look dispassionately at some of the facts. The prior speaker raised the specter of the Seabrook power plant being built on borrowed money and, indeed, it was. But a dispassionate look at that and the facts of that, people will recall, that it was in 1979 that this legislature passed a law that banned construction works and financing designed to stop the construction work of Seabrook, but, what I would contend it really did was force the building of it on borrowed money and let us also not forget that when that money was borrowed, it was with the blessing of the political leadership at that time. So, I would maintain to you that it could be attractive, as Rep. Gilmore said, to feel empowered and to pass this legislation and to feel as if we were fighting back, but, as important as it is to look at the facts of history, it is important to look at the facts of this bill. Number one, this merger that has raised the hair on lot of people's necks, including my own, was filed in January of this year. This bill is not yet law. Clearly, in my opinion, that's retroactive. Whether a court would side with that remains a question. But let's ask ourselves about our success rate on this issue in court. Last year, the PUC faced a similar situation with regard to the parent-company merger of Granite State Electric. There was a pending piece of legislation. The Commission knew that, but in its order approving that merger, it was very clear that it was considering the merger based on the statutes in effect at that time, not on pending statutes. The other significant problem that other speakers have outlined in this bill is that, in fact, it singles out one utility in this state, whether it is the amendment or the bill as proposed. So, I would maintain that on a constitutional basis, if it is challenged, and, indeed, it will be, that we are on dubious grounds. A key issue that we looked at is if we can't pass a bill such as this because of constitutional problems, are we protected from mergers, from some of the monolithic forces, not just in the regulative world but the non-regulative world, and I believe that we are. Last year, with passage of House Bill 464, we plugged a fairly significant loophole that the Commission itself had created. Two mergers, as Rep. Norelli talked about, have been approved on a public interest standard and I would maintain that based on the precedent established in the Granite State merger and the Energy North merger, the Commission has no choice but to look at this merger on a public interest standard. And, what are some of the potential problems that the Commission has authority to either reject this merger or condition it if they find, based on their review, that it harms New Hampshire. Clearly, issue number one is reliability. ConEd has had some problems in that arena. A second major issue is control of PSNH. PSNH has a large impact on the state's economy, but, as other speakers have said, it will be a small portion of this combined utility. The Commission has ample authority to look at the effect that it will have on rates and to capture these so-called merger synergy savings and, quite frankly, the securitization legislation that we are going to introduce shortly will also capture those merger efficiency savings. There are several other issues that the Commission can look at: the effect on competitive generation, transmission constraints, the rights of PSNH employees, whether there will be other mergers, and environmental effects. The last question, does this merger potentially allow us to improve the proposed settlement with PSNH? That is a little bit more difficult issue. But, with the PUC's order yesterday, approving the settlement but with another $100 million of sharing with customers of PSNH's stranded costs, the Commission, in my opinion, has taken a significant step forward in approving the settlement. It is our job to make sure that sticks and it is our job, yours and mine, to make sure that if a merger is approved by the Commission that we, indeed, as customers capture those synergy savings that should flow from the combined company. Interim Study, I would contend, is useful to look at all of the generic issues, but I don't believe that we need to pass a merger review by this legislature, which would be the only one of its kind in the country, to impact the proposed merger that is before the Commission today. We don't need a bill that is retroactive, that singles out one company when our Commission already has more than ample regulatory authority to do everything necessary to protect New Hampshire customers.

SPECIAL ORDER

SCR 3, rescinding the 1979 call for a federal constitutional convention. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Dennis H. Fields for State-Federal Relations and Veterans Affairs: The legislature of NH since 1979 has always reaffirmed its original decision for a federal constitutional convention and continues to support the many other state legislatures who wish to improve the federal budget. Former United States Senator from New Hampshire Warren Rudman succeeded some distance toward that goal. Vote 11-3.

Reps. Marple and Riley spoke against.

Reps. Fields and Dickinson spoke in favor.

Rep. Dickinson requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the report.

SB 426-FN, relative to boat dealers and repairers. MAJORITY: OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT. MINORITY: INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE.

Rep. Sherman A. Packard for the Majority of Transportation: This bill is adding a third section to the use of utility plates. The original Senate version created a new plate. The House Transportation Committee felt that it was unnecessary to do that. The majority felt that just expanding the current use of utility plates to accommodate the needs of those that use utility plates was more practicable. This is what the amendment does. Vote 7-6.

Rep. William W. Mosher for the Minority of Transportation: The minority of the committee felt the amended bill did not adequately address the needs of boat dealers or manufacturers in regards to transportation of customer owned equipment that needs to be repaired, serviced or evaluated. This amended bill would require all trailers to be registered to the owner before the dealer could move the trailer. In our opinion, this would cause a hardship on the business community.

Amendment (4082h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

I New Paragraph; Use of Utility Dealer Plate by Boat Manufacturers or Dealers. Amend RSA 261:121 by inserting after paragraph II the following new paragraph:

III. A utility plate may be used by a manufacturer or dealer of boats or boat trailers, or his or her employees or agents for the transportation of boats in the ordinary course of business, which shall include the sale, delivery, and repair of such boats, provided, however, that the boat trailer is owned or leased by the manufacturer or dealer of boats or boat trailers, or his or her employees or agents.

2 Effective Date. This act shall take effect July 1, 2000.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill permits boat manufacturers or dealers to use dealer utility plates when transporting boats in the ordinary course of business.

Rep. Packard spoke against.

The amendment failed.

Rep. Packard offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4169h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

I New Paragraphs; Use of Utility Plates by Boat Manufacturers and Dealers. Amend RSA 261:121 by inserting after paragraph II the following new paragraphs:

III. A utility plate may be used by a manufacturer or dealer of boats or boat trailers, or his or her employees or agents contracted by the manufacturer or dealer, for the transportation of boats in the ordinary course of business, which shall include the sale, demonstration, delivery, and repair of such boats.

IV. A utility plate may be used by a manufacturer or dealer of boats or boat trailers, or his or her employees or agents contracted by the manufacturer or dealer, on a boat trailer not owned or leased by the manufacturer or dealer if used for the purpose of transporting a boat or boat trailer to and from his or her place of business for repair or service.

2 Effective Date. This act shall take effect July 1, 2000.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill permits boat manufacturers and dealers to use utility plates when transporting boats in the ordinary course of business.

Rep. Packard spoke in favor.

Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

SB 320, relative to ballot counting in cooperative school districts and relative to ratifying the Inter-Lakes cooperative school district meeting held on March 8, 2000. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Warren C. Henderson for Education: As amended, SB 320 ratifies the March 8, 2000 Inter-Lakes School District annual meeting and the March 10, 2000 Plainfield School District annual meeting. A substantial element of the original bill, requiring co-operative school districts to count ballots and report results for each town within the co-operative district separately, was eliminated when the committee could not get a clear sense of the current state of the law or the demonstrated need for that portion of the bill. Vote 18-0.

Amendment (4098h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to ratifying the Inter-Lakes cooperative school district meeting held on March 8, 2000; and relative to ratifying the Plainfield school district annual meeting held on March 10, 2000.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Ratification of the March 8, 2000 Inter-Lakes Cooperative School District Annual Meeting. All acts, votes, notices, and proceedings of the Inter-Lakes cooperative school district annual meeting held on March 8, 2000 are hereby legalized, ratified, and confirmed.

2 Ratification of the March 10, 2000 Plainfield School District Annual Meeting. All acts, votes, notices, and proceedings of the Plainfield school district annual meeting held on March 10, 2000, and the related public hearing held on February 15, 2000, are hereby legalized, ratified, and confirmed.

3 Effective Date. This bill shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill also ratifies all acts, votes, notices, and proceedings of the Inter-Lakes cooperative school district meeting held on March 8, 2000 and the Plainfield school district meeting held on March 10, 2000.

Rep. Christiansen spoke against.

Rep. Durham spoke in favor.

SB 416-FN, relative to licensure of dietitians. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Nancy C. Stickney for Executive Departments and Administration: This bill licenses only the dietitians but has no impact on those individuals who practice as nutritionists. This bill sets a standard that insures that everyone practicing as a dietitian shall have met the requirements set forth for education, training and experience necessary to be qualified to meet the provisions of the bill and to protect their consumers and patients. It establishes a board which will have the powers and duties relative to their practice as well as penalties for violations of the laws that are relative to their practice. Vote 16-1.

Amendment (4050h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 New Chapter; Licensed Dietitians. Amend RSA by inserting after chapter 326-G the following new chapter:

CHAPTER 326-H LICENSED DIETITIANS

326-H:1 Short Title. This chapter may be cited as the "Dietitians Licensure Act."

326-H:2 Purpose. The general court recognizes that dietitians play an important role in treating illness, injury, and other medical conditions; and in improving the quality of life of seriously ill patients; all of which can result in cost savings to the health care system. The general court finds and declares that the practices of dietitians in the state of New Hampshire affect public health, safety, and welfare; these practices make important and distinct contributions to patient care, and it is in the public's best interest to have qualified individuals who practice in this profession. In doing so, the general court recognizes that there are many aspects of nutrition and it is not the purpose of this act to restrict the ability of any person to provide advice, counseling, or assessments in matters of food, diet, or nutrition and to receive compensation for such services, thereby assuring that all persons can obtain nutrition and dietary information, dietary counseling, and information regarding food, food products, dietary supplements, and their proper use, from any source of that person's choosing. The purpose of this act, therefore, is to establish regulations and standards of qualification, training, and experience for individuals who are practicing dietitians.

326-H:3 Definitions. In this chapter:

- I. "Board" means the board of licensed dietitians.
- II. "Commission on Dietetic Registration" means the national autonomous credentialing body.
- III. "Dietitian" means a person who is a food and nutrition professional who meets the minimum academic and professional requirements that have enabled that individual to be credentialed by the Commission on Dietetic Registration as a registered dietitian.

326-H:4 Exceptions.

- I. This chapter shall not apply to a dietitian who is:
 - (a) Serving in the armed forces of the United States;
 - (b) Engaged in a state or federally funded public health program;
 - (c) Employed by the Veterans Administration, provided such dietetic activities are related to such service or employment; or
 - (d) Licensed, certified, or registered under other laws of this state who is performing services within his or her authorized scope of practice.

II. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to restrict, prevent, or otherwise interfere with a person who does not hold himself or herself out as a licensed dietitian from providing advice, counseling or assessments in matters of food, diet or nutrition; or from marketing or distributing food products, including dietary supplements as defined by the federal Dietary Supplement Health and Education Act; or from providing explanations to or communicating with customers with regard to the uses of such products.

326-H:5 License Required; License Title.

I. No person shall practice or represent himself or herself as a dietitian in this state without first applying for and receiving a license from the board to practice as a licensed dietitian.

II. Licensees shall use the title "licensed dietitian" and the recognized abbreviation "LD".

326-H:6 Scope of Practice. Licensed dietitians shall be authorized to practice applications from food, nutrition, biochemistry, physiology, management, behavioral, and social sciences used in the treatment of illness, injury and other medical conditions, and the maintenance of human health.

326-H:7 Board of Licensed Dietitians; Removal; Expenses.

I. There is established a board of licensed dietitians, consisting of 5 members. Initial appointments shall be made pursuant to RSA 326-H:8. Thereafter, the board shall be appointed by the governor with consent of the executive council and shall consist of 4 licensed dietitians and one public member.

II. Members of the board shall serve 3-year terms, shall hold office until successors are appointed and qualified, and shall serve no more than 2 consecutive terms.

III. The board may remove a member for malfeasance, misfeasance, or nonfeasance.

IV. Each member of the board shall be reimbursed for in-state actual and necessary travel expenses incurred in the discharge of official duties at the state employee mileage rate.

V. All members of the board shall have been residents of this state for at least 3 years immediately preceding appointment to the board. The public member shall not be, nor ever have been, a member of the dietitian profession nor have or have had a material, financial interest in either the provision of dietitian services or an activity directly related to the dietitian profession, including the representation of the board or profession for a fee at any time during the 5 years preceding appointment.

VI. The commissioner of the department of health and human services shall provide administrative services to the board. All administrative services shall be at a cost to the board and shall be reimbursed by fees collected by the board through rules adopted under RSA 326-H:10.

326-H:8 Initial Appointments; Meeting; Election of Initial Chairperson.

I. The initial appointments to the board shall be made by the governor with the consent of the executive council and shall serve initial terms as follows: 2 practicing dietitians who shall serve a term of one year; and 2 practicing dietitians and one public member who shall serve a term of 2 years.

II. The initial board members shall be appointed within 6 months of January 1, 2001. The initial chairperson shall be elected from among the board members no later than the second meeting of the board.

326-H:9 Duties of the Board. The board shall:

I. Conduct meetings as required.

II. Select a chairperson and officers from the members of the board.

III. Maintain a true record of the board's official acts which shall be public and open to inspection at all reasonable times, except for records compiled in connection with disciplinary proceedings.

IV. Adopt a code of ethics for the practices of licensed dietitians in this state.

326-H:10 Rulemaking. The board shall adopt rules, pursuant to RSA 541-A, relative to:

I. The application procedures for licensure or temporary licensure to practice as a licensed dietitian in this state.

II. The renewal, suspension, revocation, and reinstatement of licenses.

III. The establishment of license fees.

IV. Educational qualifications for licensure.

V. The conditions and fees for licensing out-of-state dietitians.

VI. Continuing education requirements.

VII. Procedures for investigations and hearings held under this chapter.

VIII. Procedures for appealing hearing board decisions.

326-H:11 Immunity from Civil Action. No civil action shall be maintained against the board or any member of the board or its agents or employees, against any organization or its members, or against any other person for or by reason of any statement, report, communication, or testimony to the board or determination by the board in relation to proceedings under this chapter.

326-H:12 Requirements for Licensure. To be eligible to be a licensed dietitian under this chapter, an applicant shall:

I. Hold a baccalaureate or higher degree from a regionally accredited college or university in the United States and have completed a major course of study in human nutrition, nutrition education, food and nutrition, dietetics, public health nutrition, or food systems management;

II. Have successfully completed a dietetic internship of no less than 900 hours, pre-professional practice program, or coordinated program with documented experience in the practice of dietetics under supervision of a registered, certified, or licensed dietitian;

III. Have successfully passed the examination administered by the Commission on Dietetic Registration; and

IV. Maintain continuing professional education requirements as determined by the board.

326-H:13 Reciprocity. The board may, in its discretion, grant a license under this chapter to an individual certified or licensed in another state if it determines that the requirements or standards for certification or licensure in that state are equivalent to, or greater than, those established by this chapter.

326-H:14 Issuance, Expiration, and Renewal of License.

I. The board shall license as a dietitian each applicant who proves to the satisfaction of the board his or her qualifications under this chapter and under rules adopted by the board under RSA 326-H:10. The board shall issue to each person qualified a license, which shall be prima facie evidence of the right of the person to whom it is issued to represent himself or herself as a licensed dietitian subject to the conditions and limitations of this chapter.

II. All licenses issued by the board shall be valid for 2 years from the date of issuance and shall be renewed biennially or reissued pursuant to rules adopted and upon payment of fees established by the board. The board shall cause notification of impending license expiration to be sent to each licensed person at least 60 days prior to the expiration of the license.

III. Any person licensed under this chapter who seeks to renew his or her license shall provide to the board satisfactory documentation of the required continuing professional education.

IV. Any person who fails to renew a license issued under this chapter may be issued a license only upon reapplication for licensure.

326-H:15 Continuing Professional Education. It shall be deemed sufficient for the renewal of a license issued under this chapter for an applicant for renewal to have completed 20 hours of continuing professional education related to the relevant practice in the previous 24 months. Continuing education programs shall be approved by the board.

326-H:16 Suspension and Revocation of License. The board, after a hearing, may suspend or revoke the license of any person who:

I. Has obtained the license by fraudulent or deceitful means.

II. Has been convicted of a class A felony or found guilty of malpractice or gross misconduct in practice as a dietitian.

III. Has engaged in dishonest or unethical conduct which the board has specified in rules adopted under RSA 326-H:10 as sufficient to merit suspension or revocation.

IV. By reason of negligent habits, neglect, willful action, or other causes engaged in actions inconsistent with the health of the person or persons under the care of the licensee.

V. Has violated any provision of this chapter.

326-H:17 Hearings.

I. The board shall take no disciplinary action without a hearing. At least 14 days prior to hearing, both parties to a disciplinary proceeding shall be served, either personally or by registered mail, with a written copy of the complaint filed and notice of the time and place for hearing. All complaints shall be objectively received and fairly heard by the board, but no complaint shall be acted upon unless in writing. A hearing shall be held on all written complaints received by the board within 3 months of the date notice of a complaint was received by the accused, unless otherwise agreed to by the parties. Written notice of all disciplinary decisions made by the board shall be given to both parties to the proceeding upon their issuance.

II. The board may administer oaths or affirmations, preserve testimony, and issue subpoenas, upon the approval of the attorney general, for witnesses and for documents relative to formal investigations or adjudicatory hearings.

III. Witnesses summoned before the board shall be paid the same fees as witnesses summoned to appear before the superior court, and such summons issued by any justice of the peace shall have the same effect as though issued for appearance before such court.

IV. All notice and hearing procedures shall comply with RSA 541-A.

326-H:18 Reinstatement. Any person whose license has been suspended or revoked by the board may apply to the board, in writing, to request a hearing for reinstatement. Upon a hearing, the board may issue a new license or modify the suspension or revocation of the license.

326-H:19 Offenses. It shall be a class B misdemeanor for any person to:

I. Sell, fraudulently obtain, or furnish any license established under this chapter or aid and abet such conduct.

II. Practice as a licensed dietitian under the guise of any diploma, permit, certificate, license, or record illegally or fraudulently obtained or issued.

III. Impersonate in any manner a licensed dietitian by use of any title that contains the word "dietitian", use of the abbreviation "LD", or use any words, signs, symbols, or devices which represent a person licensed under this chapter.

IV. Fail to notify the board of the suspension, probation, or revocation of any past or present license, certification, or registration required to practice as a dietitian in this or any other jurisdiction.

V. Make false representations or impersonate or act as proxy for another person or allow or aid any person to impersonate him or her in connection with any examination or application for licensure or request to be licensed.

VI. Violate any other provision of this chapter.

2 Effective Date. This act shall take effect January 1, 2001.

Adopted.

Rep. Stickney offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4180h)

Amend RSA 326-A:10 as inserted by section I of the bill by replacing it with the following:

326-H:10 Rulemaking.

I. The board shall adopt rules, pursuant to RSA 541-A, relative to:

(a) The application procedures for licensure or temporary licensure to practice as a licensed dietitian in this state.

(b) The renewal, suspension, revocation, and reinstatement of licenses.

(c) The establishment of license fees.

(d) Educational qualifications for licensure.

(e) The conditions and fees for licensing out-of-state dietitians.

(f) Continuing education requirements.

(g) Procedures for investigations and hearings held under this chapter.

(h) Procedures for appealing hearing board decisions.

II. The fees established by the board shall be sufficient to produce estimated revenues equal to 125 percent of the direct operating expenses of the board for the previous fiscal year.

Rep. Stickney spoke in favor.

Adopted.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Rep. Wendelboe requested Unanimous Consent.

Rep. Knowles objected.

The Speaker called for a vote. On a voice vote, Rep. Wendelboe was granted permission to address the House.

Rep. Manning moved that the remarks made by Rep. Wendelboe be printed in the Journal.

Adopted.

Rep. Wendelboe: Thank you, Madam Speaker and fellow House members. This House often recognizes the passing of historic anniversaries. For example, as long as the good member from New London remains in this House, I will always be moved by his comments about Iwo Jima. Five years ago, I came to this well for the first time as a freshman and spoke about a very bittersweet anniversary of my generation. Next week is the 25th anniversary of the fall of Saigon. It was the end of a period of great turmoil in our country. It brought to a close protesting, dissent over the war, a change in our actual involvement with war. It was the first time that war actually came into our living rooms. Our evenings were capped watching the news and hearing the new phrase of the daily body count. And, finally, that view of the helicopters frantically trying to evacuate Saigon. In light of this anniversary, I'd like to recognize the service and sacrifice of the men and women who did serve our country in Southeast Asia. In 1975, after Saigon fell and Ho Chi Minh City arose, there was no joyous victory parade, there were no tickertape parades, there were no outpourings of national pride in victory. The honor of one's service and sacrifice should not be diminished by the outcome or the political opinion of that war, whether it is a war of the past, the present or one in the future. I hope this body will join with me in reiterating that the Vietnam Veterans are welcome home and that we appreciate the service and sacrifice that they gave just as their fathers and grandfathers gave in earlier wars. This summer, "The Moving Wall" is coming to our state again, to Rochester, and I hope you'll all take the opportunity to visit that memorial, to take our families, and to make them as aware of Vietnam as my parents made me aware of the service of my ancestors in prior wars, from World War I to Korea and World War II. Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you for your indulgence at this late hour.

Rep. Mock addressed the House.

Rep. Riley moved that the remarks made by Rep. Mock be printed in the Journal.

Adopted.

Rep. Mock: Madam Speaker and members of the House, I rise today because I think it is important that in view of your tremendous support given to my committee last week, that I stand here today to sort of defend ourselves in one sense and in another sense to let you know what is happening. We have been accused in the last few hours of carrying on secret meetings. I am standing here today to tell you that you asked us to do an investigation. You did not ask us to carry on a legislative hearing. If we are going to do the investigation that you asked us to do, there must absolutely be secrecy and confidentiality. I cannot stress that too much. We will be accused of making errors; we have been. I used the wrong word in a news conference yesterday. That's called heat. My committee and I are prepared to take that heat. I bring this to you because we need your cooperation. I don't need things like an E-mail that was sent to every single republican in this House, apparently, and it says, the very first paragraph, it says, "I have heard that the Judiciary Committee has decided to hold their House Resolution 50 investigation in secret. I have a serious problem with this action." Please, don't take us for being unlearned. This investigation, and that is what it will be, is an investigation, and that means not telling anyone what we learn. Now, everything that can possibly be open will be open. And, so, the question arises, what did you have to go into a secret meeting, with your attorney, and incidentally that was all done in accordance with the Right to Know Law. Why? The best way I can put it is this way. Yesterday, the Judiciary Committee first met in public, in public first, to discuss a time line for the investigation and, incidentally we've got that pretty hammered out and it looks like we will not be done until the end of June, and then, upon advice of its counsel, we exercised our right, under the law, to meet with counsel behind closed doors to discuss matters of general legal strategy. You don't tell the other camp what you're going to do, especially, we talked about people. We named some names, a list of names. Is it fair to those people to have their names splashed all over the place? No, it isn't. That isn't fair. It must be confidential. As soon as it can be let out, it will be let out. Among the items we discussed yesterday, were issues about confidentiality, communication between the members and our counsel, attorney/client privilege and witnesses. Many issues are a blend between confidential issues, between the attorney and the client and we're the client, about legal strategy and issues of committee procedure. That's the way it has to be. I'm sorry, but you asked us to do it and we will not let you down and we will make everything as public as we possibly can and when this thing is over everything will be public. I thank you, Madam Speaker and I thank you at this late hour.

Rep. Ronald Nowe and Sen. D'Allesandro for the Committee

RECESS(Speaker Sytek in the Chair)

Rep. Lozeau moved that the House adjourn.

Adopted.

HOUSE JOURNAL No. 15

Thursday, May 4, 2000

The House assembled at 10:00 a.m., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the Speaker.

Prayer was offered by House Chaplain, Reverend Hays M. Junkin, Rector of Saint Andrew's Episcopal Church in Hopkinton.

Compassionate Creator of all, words fail us as we attempt to give thanks for the many blessings we share as free citizens of New Hampshire and of our beloved United States. Give us courage to speak from our hearts. Give us wisdom to speak with integrity. Give us compassion to speak with fairness. Give us humility to listen before we speak. At this day's end, may it be said that we tried to do our best with the gifts You have given to us, and that no one in our care has been forgotten. Amen.

Reps. Bouchard and Daigle led the Pledge of Allegiance.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

Reps. Patricia Cote, Paul Perkins and Searles, the day, illness.

Reps. Batula, Belvin, Bergin, Emerton, David Flanders, Fortnam, Franks, Guest, Hansen, Hoadley, MacNeil, Martin, Mikowski, Marsha Pelletier, Rowe, Rosen, Thomas and Williams, the day, important business.

Rep. DiFruscia, the day, death in the family.

Rep. Tate, the day, illness in the family.

INTRODUCTION OF GUESTS

Maine State Rep. Earl Richardson, guest of Rep. Kennedy. Nate Morin and Seth Woodward, guests of Rep. Woodward. The 4th grade class from the Conway Elementary School, guests of Reps. Sullivan, Dickinson and Mock. Ivan Bareav, Veniamin Koutouzov, Nikolai Materov, Alexandre Jgoutov and Inna Fradkina, guests of the House.

CLERK'S NOTE

When less than two-thirds of the elected membership is present, Part II, Article 20 of the state constitution requires the assent of two-thirds of those present and voting to render their acts and proceedings valid.

Without objection, the Speaker called for Senate Messages.

SENATE MESSAGES

REQUESTS CONCURRENCE WITH AMENDMENTS

HB 235 FN-A, increasing exemptions under the interest and dividends tax. (Amendment printed SJ 4/13/00)

Rep. Jacobson moved that the House concur and spoke in favor.

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

PARLIAMENTARY SITUATION

The Speaker explained that the Senate had passed a bill, SB 329, relative to the display of tobacco products. Under House Rule 35(e), it needs a two-thirds majority for the House to introduce because substantially similar legislation was voted Inexpedient to Legislate by the House in the first-year session.

MOTION FOR INTRODUCTION

RESOLUTION

Rep. Hunt offered the following: RESOLVED, that in accordance with the list in the possession of the Clerk, Senate Bill numbered 329 shall be by this resolution read a first and second time by the therein listed title, and referred to the therein designated committee.

Rep. Hunt spoke against.

The motion failed.

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE REPORT ON SB 143

Committee of Conference Report on SB 143-FN, an act relative to penalties for incest.

SB 315, changing the form for writs of execution, removed by Rep. Mirski.

SB 349, relative to the sale of the marital residence or other real property in a domestic proceeding. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Edward P. Moran, Jr. for Children and Family Law: This bill sets parameters for the court in issuing temporary orders regarding the marital residence in a divorce, separation, or annulment proceeding. This may include the sale of the marital residence with prior written consent of both parties. Absent this mutual consent, however, the bill would allow the sale of the marital residence prior to the final hearing, only if the court is not satisfied that the party residing in the marital residence has the financial capability to pay the property obligations as they come due. Vote 11-1.

Amendment (4184h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to the sale of the marital residence in a domestic proceeding.

Amend RSA 458:16, I (h) as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

(h) Ordering the sale of the marital residence provided that both parties have previously filed a written stipulation with the clerk of the court explicitly agreeing to the sale of the property prior to the final hearing on the merits. If the parties have not so stipulated, the sale of the marital residence shall not be ordered prior to the final hearing as long as the court deems the party residing within the marital residence to have sufficient financial resources to pay the debts or obligations generated by the property, including mortgage payments, taxes, insurance, and ordinary maintenance, as those debts and obligations come due.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill sets forth circumstances allowing the court, in a divorce, separation, or annulment proceeding, to issue an order for temporary relief which may include the sale of the marital residence with the prior written consent of both parties. Absent this consent, the bill prohibits the sale of the marital residence prior to the final hearing provided the court deems the party residing within the marital residence to have sufficient financial resources to pay the debts or obligations generated by the property.

SB 386-FN-L, relative to names on birth certificates and affidavits of paternity. OUGHT TO PASS Rep. Edward P. Moran, Jr. for Children and Family Law This bill requires that when a court has determined the paternity of a minor child, each final order made shall be forwarded by the court to the city or town clerk where the birth occurred for entry on the birth certificate. This is simply to ensure that the court's finding be recorded at the appropriate place in a timely manner. Vote 12-0.

SB 97, relative to charitable trusts which are institutional funds. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Joseph D. Kenney for Commerce: This bill allows the governing body or trustee or trustees managing a charitable trust which is an institutional fund to appropriate expenditures from the realized and unrealized net appreciation in the fair value of the charitable trust. The committee felt there is a need to create a more flexible investment environment for charitable trust funds, which in the past were restricted to a principal investment policy. Vote 12-0.

Amendment (4251h)

Amend the bill by replacing section 1 with the following:

1 Management of Institutional Funds; Declaration of Purpose. Amend RSA 292-B:1 to read as follows:

292-B:1 Declaration of Purpose. It is hereby declared to be in the public interest and to be the policy of the state to promote, by all reasonable means, the maintenance and growth of eleemosynary institutions by encouraging them and those who manage one or more charitable trusts which are for the sole benefit of eleemosynary institutions or other charitable purposes to establish and continue investment policies, without artificial constraints, which will provide them with the means to meet the present and future needs of such eleemosynary institutions and charitable purposes pursuant to the provisions of this act. To this end it is hereby declared to be in the public interest and to be the policy of the state to encourage such institutions and those who manage charitable trusts for the benefit of such institutions or other charitable purposes to adopt investment policies whose objective is to obtain the highest possible total rate of return consistent with the standard of prudence.

Amend the bill by replacing section 4 with the following:

4 Definition of Historic Dollar Value; Gift Instrument. Amend RSA 292-B:1-a, IV-VI to read as follows:

IV. "Governing board" means the body responsible for the management of an institution or of an institutional fund or a trustee or trustees of a charitable trust.

V. "Historic dollar value" means the aggregate fair value in dollars of (i) an endowment fund at the time it became an endowment fund, (ii) each subsequent donation to the fund at the time it is made, and (iii) each accumulation made pursuant to a direction in the applicable gift instrument at the time the accumulation is added to the fund. The determination of historic dollar value made in good faith by the institution or one who holds the institutional fund is conclusive.

VI. "Gift instrument" means a will, deed, grant conveyance, agreement, memorandum, writing, or other governing document (including the terms of any institutional solicitations from which an institutional fund resulted) under which property is transferred to or held for or by an institution as an institutional fund.

SB 343, relative to disclosures concerning sexual offenders in sales of real property. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Sheila T. Francoeur for Commerce: This bill would require residential property disclosure statements encouraging purchasers to exercise due diligence in checking public information records on sexual offenders. The committee believes that the disclosure of sex offenders in a neighborhood is not, and should not be, the responsibility of the sellers of real property or their agent. The purpose of Megan's Law is to allow concerned citizens a means of obtaining a list of convicted sex offenders from their local police, not requiring others to provide second or third hand information. Vote 12-0.

SB 350, adding business development to the law governing industrial development authorities. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Stephen G. Avery for Commerce: This bill adds business development to RSA 162-G, the law governing industrial development authorities. It authorizes governmental units to enter into lease subsidy contracts and to accept grants to carry out the purposes of RSA 162-G. It also clarifies certain provisions of the law. There was strong support for adding business development to the law. Vote 12-0.

SB 351, making certain changes in the laws relative to fraternal benefit societies and health service corporations. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Stephen G. Avery for Commerce: This bill makes certain clarifications in the law regarding fraternal benefit societies. It will give the Insurance Department greater flexibility in investigations and allows the fraternal society to be more flexible in how they invest their funds. This bill also changes the expiration date on licenses issued to health service corporations from April 1st to June 14th. The bill is supported by the Insurance Department. Vote 12-0.

SB 369, establishing a committee to conduct a study on the need for standards to protect health information privacy. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Sheila T. Francoeur for Commerce: This bill would have established a committee to study the need for standards to protect health information privacy. The committee instructed the Insurance Department to draft a set of standards based on the National Association of Insurance Commissioners model and circulate to all the appropriate agencies, as well as members of the Commerce Committee for comment. After review, the department will recommend legislation for next session. Vote 13-0.

SB 418, relative to liquor liability insurance coverage. REFER INTERIM FOR STUDY

Rep. Stephen G. Avery for Commerce: This bill would allow the liquor commission to require, as a condition of the issuance, renewal, or reinstatement of any license that the licensee provide a certificate of insurance for liquor liability when they have violated the prohibition on serving minors or intoxicated persons, and making those establishments financially viable when accidents occur because of their negligence. During the hearing and subsequent subcommittee sessions, many different views and suggestions came to light. The committee strongly supports the commission's efforts to curb underage drinking and wants time to come up with a bill that covers all of aspects of this problem. The committee will come out with an improved bill for the next session. Vote 13-0.

SB 452, increasing to $25 per game date the amount operators of bingo games may be reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Frank M. Schanda for Criminal Justice and Public Safety: This bill increases the amount of money, operators of bingo games may be reimbursed for out of pocket expenses to $25 per game date. This bill does not mandate that organizations adopt this policy. It merely enables organizations to do so, if their respective board of directors so chooses. There was no opposition to this bill at the public hearing. Vote 12-0.

SB 305, relative to payments to defeat eviction for nonpayment of rent. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Sandra B. Keans for Judiciary: This bill simply clears up a loophole in the tenant/landlord statutes. Currently a tenant gets up to 3 chances to pay arrearages in a year. This legislation defines the year as a "12 month period". All sides were in agreement that this is the intent of the law. Vote 12-0.

SB 308, relative to the adoption of a minor child by the natural grandparents and relative to de novo appeals to the superior court in abuse and neglect proceedings before the family division in Grafton and Rockingham counties. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Peter F. Bergin for Judiciary: This bill as, amended, will enable the adoption of a minor child by grandparents without going through lengthy procedures as is presently the case. The court may proceed directly to a hearing and decree in cases where the grandparent or grandparents seek to adopt a minor child provided the parents of the minor child have consented to the adoption and that the child has resided with the grandparent(s) at least 3 years prior to the adoption. The bill also provides that a de novo appeal to the superior court in abuse and neglect proceedings shall be provided in cases before the family division of the courts. Vote 12-0.

Amendment (4161h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to the adoption of a minor child by the grandparent or grandparents and relative to de novo appeals to the superior court in abuse and neglect proceedings before the family division of the courts.

Amend the bill by replacing section 1 with the following:

1 New Paragraph; Adoption; Adoption by Grandparent or Grandparents. Amend RSA 170-B:14 by inserting after paragraph IV the following new paragraph:

V. Notwithstanding the provisions of RSA 170-B:14, I and II, where a grandparent or grandparents seek to adopt the minor child, the court may proceed to a hearing and a decree without an investigation when both of the following circumstances are met:

(a) The parents of the minor child have consented to the adoption; and

(b) The minor child has resided with the grandparent or grandparents for at least 3 years prior to filing the petition for adoption.

Amend RSA 170-B:15, III (b) as inserted by section 2 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

(b) May issue a final decree of adoption where a grandparent or grandparents seek to adopt a minor child pursuant to RSA 170-B:14, V; or

Amend RSA 169-C:28, II as inserted by section 3 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

II. This section shall apply to all appeals under this chapter, including appeals in proceedings before the family division of the courts.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill provides that upon the fulfillment of certain criteria, the court may proceed directly to a hearing and decree in cases where the grandparent or grandparents seek to adopt a minor child. The bill also provides that a de novo appeal to the superior court in abuse and neglect proceedings shall be provided in cases before the family division of the courts.

SB 346, relative to court appearances by certain business owners. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE
Rep. John M. Pratt for Judiciary: It was the unanimous judgment of the committee that procedures presently exist within the court system to accomplish the purpose proposed by this legislation and therefore this legislation was not needed. Vote 13-0.

SB 312, relative to fluoride. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Jay Rosenfield for Municipal and County Government: This bill would have changed the percentage of town, city, or village water district voters needed to put a fluoridation question on a warrant or ballot from 10% to 5%. A change to 5% would make it easier to introduce the issue to fluoridate as well as to remove it from water supply systems. Testimony pro and con was heard from people on both sides of the fluoridation issue. The Municipal & County Government Committee felt that the status of fluoridation should not be in constant flux, and voted this bill ITL by an overwhelming majority. Vote 13-1.

SB 340, extending the reporting date of the committee to study the problems and possible regulation of outdoor lighting. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Paul A McGuirk for Municipal and County Government: The Committee studying the issue of outdoor lighting has requested an extension of its report date to November 1, 2000 and the Municipal & County Government Committee unanimously agreed to this request. Vote 14-0.

SB 344, relative to appointment of housing consumers to housing authority boards. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Marilyn A. Fraser for Municipal and County Government: The bill simply provides for the appointment of a sixth commissioner to a municipal housing authority board. Such sixth commissioner shall be a public housing resident of one of the projects administered by that housing authority board. A federal regulation in 1998 requires that a public housing resident be on the board. Rather than asking a standing member to step-down in order to appoint such a resident it seemed more prudent to add a sixth member. Vote 14-0.

SB 347-L, relative to the contributory retirement system of the city of Manchester. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Anthony F. Simon for Municipal and County Government: This bill would have allowed the City of Manchester to amend its retirement system by way of the Municipal Charter amendment procedures provided by RSA 49-B. This would change the current procedure that also requires legislative approval of any such changes. The sponsor appeared before the Committee to inform us that subsequent to the passage of this bill by the Senate, he received additional information from interested parties and is now opposed to it. He requested we report it Inexpedient to Legislate and we voted to do so unanimously. Vote 14-0.

SB 330, establishing a committee to study the impact of water withdrawals on instream flows. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Michael W. Downing for Resources, Recreation and Development: This bill establishes a committee to study the impact of water withdrawals on instream flows and the impact of instream flow rules on littoral and riparian property owners, including agriculture and business and industrial operations. It further allows the committee to review the proposed rules which will not be allowed to go into effect prior to July 1, 2001. The committee will then have time to evaluate the rules and their actual effect after they have been implemented and recommend the necessary changes. The committee felt that this provided the necessary oversight as these rules are developed and implemented. Vote 19-0.

Amendment (4244h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT establishing a committee to study the impact of water withdrawals on instream flows and the impact of instream flow rules on entities that withdraw water or are affected by instream flows.

Amend the bill by replacing section 1 with the following:

I Committee Established. There is established a committee to study the impact of water withdrawals on instream flows and the impact of instream flow rules on entities that withdraw water or are affected by instream flows, including the relationship between water withdrawals and instream flows on rivers designated for protection under RSA 483 and the potential need for the incorporation of criteria for the maintenance of instream flow into water quality standards under RSA 485-A:8.

Amend the bill by replacing section 3 with the following:

3 Duties.

I. The committee shall study the impact of water withdrawals on instream flows and the impact of instream flow rules on entities that withdraw water or are affected by instream flows, including the relationship between water withdrawals and instream flows on rivers designated for protection under RSA 483 and the potential need for the incorporation of criteria for the maintenance of instream flow into water quality standards under RSA 485-A:8. The committee shall evaluate the instream flow provisions of RSA 483, as implemented by the department of environmental services, and shall recommend changes to RSA 483 and/or RSA 485-A to accomplish the purposes of watershed management for maintenance of instream flows.

II. The committee shall evaluate the effects of instream flow regulation on the rights of littoral and riparian property owners, including agriculture and business and industrial operations.

Amend the bill by inserting after section 5 the following and renumbering the original section 6 to read as 7:

6 Establishment of Protected Instream Flows; Rulemaking. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no rules relative to instream flows under RSA 483:9-c, I shall take effect prior to July 1, 2001.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill establishes a committee to study the impact of water withdrawals on instream flows and the impact of instream flow rules on entities that withdraw water or are affected by instream flows.

SB 376, relative to the jurisdiction of the public utilities commission to determine consequential damages. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Jeffrey C. MacGillivray for Science, Technology and Energy: The bill as amended contains two provisions regarding municipal acquisitions of utility property. The original bill addressed a situation that occurs when a municipality acquires utility property and a determination of consequential damages (acquisition price of the utility property) must be made. The committee amendment clarifies that the utility shall be allowed to have consequential damages determined by federal regulators or by state regulators, but not both. The committee amendment also adds a provision requested by municipalities considering purchasing hydroelectric generation facilities within their borders. To reduce financing costs, this provision allows municipalities to jointly issue municipal revenue bonds or notes to finance the purchase of these hydroelectric generation facilities, if they choose. Vote 13-0.

Amendment (4049h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to the jurisdiction of the public utilities commission to determine consequential damages, and authorizing municipalities to jointly issue municipal revenue bonds for the purchase of hydro-electric generation facilities.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Findings. The general court finds that when a municipality acquires utility property, the utility should not be allowed to seek determination of consequential damages before both federal and state regulatory agencies, but instead shall be allowed to have consequential damages determined by exactly one regulatory agency, either federal or state, as provided by the federal regulatory agency.

2 New Section; Aggregate Municipal Revenue Bonds. Amend RSA 38 by inserting after section 13 the following new section:

38:13-a Aggregate Municipal Revenue Bonds. If the commission orders divestiture of generation facilities in the implementation of electric utility restructuring under RSA 374-F, any municipality which has voted to acquire a hydro-electric facility as provided in RSA 38 may jointly issue with any other municipality which has also voted to acquire a hydro-electric facility as provided in RSA 38 municipal revenue bonds and notes pursuant to RSA 33-B as may be necessary and expedient for the purpose of defraying the cost of purchasing or taking such hydro-electric generation facilities. Such municipal revenue bonds or notes may be in the aggregate of the total cost of purchasing or taking such generation facilities as set forth in RSA 33-B:3 and may be issued in the joint names of any such municipalities in accordance with their respective interests therein. In all other respects, the provisions of RSA 33-B shall apply to the issuance of such municipal revenue bonds and notes.

3 Amend RSA 38:33 to read as follows:

38:33 Consequential Damages. ~~[To the extent that]~~ In matters over which the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission does not have jurisdiction, or has jurisdiction but chooses to grant jurisdiction to the state, the commission shall determine, to a just and reasonable extent, the consequential damages such as stranded investment in generation, storage, or supply arrangements resulting from the purchase of plant and property from a utility and shall establish an appropriate recovery mechanism for such damages. The commission need not make such a determination when the municipality and utility agree upon the sale of utility plant and property.

4 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill authorizes municipalities to jointly issue municipal revenue bonds for the purchase of hydro-electric generation facilities. This bill clarifies the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission's authority to determine consequential damages in matters over which the commission does not have jurisdiction or has chosen to grant jurisdiction to the state.

REGULAR CALENDAR

SB 454, relative to penalties for engaging in the business of retail installment sales of motor vehicles after failure to renew a retail seller's license. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Joseph D. Kenney for Commerce: This bill establishes fines for failure to renew a retail seller's license prior to the license expiration date. Presently, the fine for retail installment sales of motor vehicles after failure to renew a retail seller's license is $25 per day. The committee felt that a fine should not exceed $250 on the first occurrence of failure to renew and $500 for any subsequent occurrence. This approach is more practical and would not over penalize sellers who forgot to renew their license. Also, this bill would change the license renewal date from January 1 to May 1 as requested by the NH Banking Department. Vote 10-3.

Adopted and ordered to third reading.

SB 420-FN, increasing the penalty for people convicted of purposeful cruelty to animals taking place in front of children and with intent to intimidate them and relative to criminal threatening. MAJORITY: OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT. MINORITY: INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE.

Rep. John E. Tholl, Jr. for the Majority of Criminal Justice and Public Safety: This bill provides that a person convicted of purposeful cruelty to animals while in the presence of a child under the age of 13 and with the intent of intimidating, threatening, coercing, or terrorizing such child may be sentenced to a term of imprisonment not exceeding 9 years. The original bill called for a mandatory minimum sentence of 1 year to a maximum of 9 years. The amendment removes the mandatory section and leaves the increased maximum of 9 years. Vote 9-3.

Reps. Robert M. Fesh, Everett A. Weare and Frank D. Callaghan for the Minority of Criminal Justice and Public Safety: Cruelty to animals is already a class B felony punishable by up to 3 ½ to 7 years in prison and is easier to prove. This is feel good legislation and not needed. RSA 644:8, III-a already provides that a person is guilty of a class B felony in New Hampshire, if he or she purposely beats, cruelly whips, tortures or mutilates any animal or causes any animal to be beaten, cruelly whipped, tortured, or mutilated. This legislation would be the first and only one in the nation like it. New Hampshire already has laws to protect all people of all ages not just those 13 years of age and under. This is unnecessary legislation.

Amendment (4203h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT increasing the maximum penalty for people convicted of purposeful cruelty to animals taking place in front of children and with intent to intimidate them and relative to criminal threatening.

Amend RSA 644:8, III-a(b) as inserted by section 4 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

(b) A person who commits a crime under subparagraph III-a(a) with the purpose of intimidating, threatening, coercing, or terrorizing a person under 13 years of age and while in the presence of such person under 13 years of age shall be guilty of a felony and may be sentenced to a maximum of 9 years imprisonment.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill provides that a person convicted of purposeful cruelty to animals while in the presence of a child under the age of 13 and with the intent of intimidating, threatening, coercing, or terrorizing such person may be sentenced to a term of imprisonment not exceeding 9 years. This bill makes the act of committing or threatening to commit cruelty to animals with the purpose of intimidating, threatening, coercing, or terrorizing another person a criminal threatening offense. This bill also provides that such an act that is committed with the use of a deadly weapon shall be a class B felony. Majority amendment adopted.

Rep. Fesh spoke against.

Rep. Tholl spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. Daniels requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the majority report.

Rep. Daniels moved Inexpedient to Legislate.

Adopted.

SB 219-FN-L, establishing a procedure for providing educational improvement assistance to local school districts and making an appropriation therefor. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Warren C. Henderson for Education: The Education Committee devoted extraordinary effort to crafting its position on school accountability. The House position on school accountability was established by the recent passage of HB 1521. Our school accountability bill keeps parents, teachers and our communities informed and involved in school improvement. It permits the state to offer any available assistance which school districts request and establishes a meaningful partnership among all those who share our commitment to education. SB 219 contains many of the elements in HB 1521, but it includes the objectionable provisions that could lead to a "state takeover" of targeted schools. SB 219, while undoubtedly well intended, transfers far too much power away from our schools into the state bureaucracy. SB 219 doesn't even have the provision to audit the Department of Education, a concept embraced by all sides in the House. Because of its broad inconsistencies with the established House position on school accountability, the committee recommends the bill be found inexpedient to legislate. Vote 12-4.

Rep. Burling requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the report.

SB 360, adopting a pupil safety and violence prevention act. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Susan B. Durham for Education: The committee agreed with the intent of this bill, that New Hampshire children attend a public school that is safe by developing a policy to address harassment and violence. The amendment replaces the bill because the committee felt local school boards should develop a policy that addresses bullying and harassment. The policy would address prevention, with opportunities to encourage awareness, knowledge, and skills of school employees to respond to pupil safety, and with a required report to superintendents of incidents of harassment that could provoke violence. Vote 12-5.

Amendment (4198h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 New Chapter; Pupil Safety and Violence Prevention. Amend RSA by inserting after chapter 193-E the following new chapter:

CHAPTER 193-F

Pupil Safety and Violence Prevention

193-F:1 Title. This chapter shall be known, and may be cited as the "Pupil Safety and Violence Prevention Act of 2000."

193-F:2 Purpose and Intent. The general court hereby finds that all pupils have the right to attend public schools that are safe, secure, and peaceful. One of the legislature's highest priorities must be to protect our children from violence by dealing with harassment, including "bullying", in our public schools.

193-F:3 Pupil Safety and Violence Prevention.

I. Each local school board shall adopt a pupil safety and violence prevention policy which addresses pupil harassment, also known as "bullying", and which is consistent with the provisions of this chapter.

II. Any school employee, or employee of a company under contract with a school or school district, who has witnessed or has reliable information that a pupil has been subjected to insults, taunts, or challenges, whether verbal or physical in nature, which are likely to intimidate or provoke a violent or disorderly response shall report such incident to the principal, or designee who shall in turn report the incident to the superintendent.

III. The remedy required in paragraph II shall be defined by the local school board. The local school board may provide opportunities for educators to have the knowledge and skills to prevent and respond to acts covered by this chapter.

IV. A school employee, or employee of a company under contract with a school or school district, who has reported violations under this chapter to the principal, or designee or who has intervened under paragraph II, shall be immune from any cause of action which may arise from the failure to remedy the reported incident.

193-F:4 Specific Curriculum Not Required. Nothing in this chapter requires the inclusion of any curriculum, textbook, presentation, or other material in any program or activity conducted by an educational institution. The omission of any curriculum, textbook, presentation, or other material in any program or activity conducted by an educational institution is not a violation of this chapter.

2 New Paragraph; Duties of the State Board of Education; Technical Assistance Advisory Relative to Pupil Safety and Violence Prevention Added. Amend RSA 186:11 by inserting after paragraph XXXV the following new paragraph:

XXXVI. PUPIL SAFETY AND VIOLENCE PREVENTION. Develop and distribute to school districts a technical assistance advisory for the purpose of providing guidance to school districts on the implementation of pupil safety and violence prevention policies as required under RSA 193-F.

3 Effective Date. This act shall take effect January 1, 2001.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill requires that each school district adopt, implement, and enforce its own pupil safety and violence prevention policy and provides that the state board of education shall issue a technical assistance advisory to school districts offering guidance on how to proceed.

Rep. Durham yielded to questions.

Rep. O'Hearn spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. O'Hearn requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the amendment.

Ordered to third reading.

HB 2000-FN-L, relative to a 10-year transportation plan. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT
Rep. David J. Alukonis for Finance: This bill re-establishes a "blueprint" for state highway construction over the next ten years. First established in 1986, the legislature re-visits the plan biennially in order to make adjustments in priorities and funding as conditions and funding sources have changed. The current proposal reflects a very aggressive program of highway construction and rehabilitation projects as a result of increased federal highway funds earmarked for New Hampshire via the Federal Transportation Efficiency Act for the 21st Century (TEA 21). In most categories, federal funds increase about 50% with a total baseline federal distribution to New Hampshire of over $140 million per year. The plan calls for a complete utilization of available federal funds. In general, for every eight dollars received from the federal government, two state dollars must be used as a match.

As a result of the increase in federal funds, the plan calls for: 1.) Funding $270 million for highway projects left unfunded in the previous plan; and 2.) Funding of $180 million for some 38 projects recommended by the Department and Regional Planning Commissions.

Of special note in the proposal is the significant measure of federal funding which will be used on the state's turnpike system. While non-turnpike funds have historically been used on the turnpikes, the current plan substantially increases such funding to a level of $150 million over the next ten years. The increased federal funds available, combined with an additional $100 million turnpike bond which will be paid by turnpike toll revenue, will virtually complete all anticipated turnpike projects which have been planned for many years.

The committee believes that there is a sustainable level of state funding available to support the entire program (turnpike and non-turnpike) without additional fees or increases in gasoline taxes, turnpike tolls, or decreases in turnpike toll discounts throughout the life of the current federal apportionment. However, for the years subsequent to the end of the current federal authorization (after 2004), the committee is less confident that a sustainable level of funding will be available. It is for this reason that the funding and priorities of the ten-year plan will be reviewed by the legislature once again in two years and every two years thereafter. The plan provides flexibility for the state to consider the possible removal of all or some of the tollbooths over the next ten to twenty years. The future of the tolls and the turnpike system is the subject of a study currently being conducted by a private consultant. That study, which will be received this summer, will illustrate the financial impacts of removing or reducing various tolls throughout the state.

HB 2000 does not change the current toll structure, nor does it call for the removal or addition of any present or future tollbooths. All such future actions will require additional legislative review and determination.

The increased federal funds available are not grants, but rather, are matches for various categories of highway construction projects. As such, they cannot be used to offset other current state expenditures (i.e. acceptance of the federal funds cannot be used to reduce the gasoline tax). The $150 million of federal funds which will be used for turnpike projects is part of a $345 + million federal obligation which can only be used on the highways that are part of the 800 miles of the National Highway System. These highways include all interstate highways, the turnpike system, proposed Manchester Airport access road, and other major state highways such as routes 2, 9, 101, 106, and 302. These National Highway System funds cannot be used on other state or local highways. This shift of federal funds to the turnpike system will not imperil the remainder of state and local highway responsibilities.

The committee amendment has four parts. Two changes made by the amendment correct for minor technical issues as noted by the committee and the department. The third aspect of the amendment adds a footnote to a certain budget line item in the Department of Transportation's budget for FY 2000. The footnote permits for an existing appropriation of $425,000 not to lapse until the end of the biennium. This change was made at the request of the department. The last portion of the committee amendment creates a legislative study committee to study the priority and funding of the turnpike projects as well as the policy of using federal funds for turnpike projects. Vote 22-0.

Amendment (4176h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to a 10-year transportation plan and establishing a committee to study the transportation plan projects.

Amend RSA 240:1 as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

240:1 Legislative Intent. This plan is predicated on the report submitted to the legislature by the governor dated January, 2000 and is intended to serve as the guideline for transportation projects in the state for the next decade.

Amend RSA 240:3, II as inserted by section 1 of the bill by inserting after subparagraph II(d) the following:

(e) NH 16/ US 4/ Spldg Tpk	Newington - Dover 11238	Widen turnpike including Little Bay bridges from Gosling Road to Dover toll
----------------------------------	----------------------------	---

Amend RSA 240:10, II(c) as inserted by section 1 of the bill by deleting it.

Amend the bill by replacing section 2 with the following:

2 Budget Footnote Added. Amend 1999, 159:1, 04, 01, 01, 01 as follows:

Strike out:	FY 2000	FY 2000
92 Maintenance - critical repairs	425,000	425,000

Insert in place thereof:

92 Maintenance - critical repairs F	425,000	425,000
-------------------------------------	---------	---------

3 Committee Established. There is established a committee to study the priority and funding of projects included in the 10-year transportation plan, established under RSA 240.

4 Membership and Compensation.

I. The members of the committee shall be as follows:

(a) Four members of the house of representatives, including a member of the house public works and highway committee and a member of the house finance committee, appointed by the speaker of the house.

(b) Four members of the senate, appointed by the president of the senate.

II. The committee shall solicit information from the commissioner of the department of transportation and from any other relevant source.

III. Members of the committee shall receive mileage at the legislative rate when attending to the duties of the committee.

5 Duties. The committee shall study the priority and funding of projects included in the 10-year transportation plan, established under RSA 240. The committee's study shall also include the policy of using federal funds for turnpike projects.

6 Chairperson; Quorum. The members of the study committee shall elect a chairperson from among the members. The first meeting of the committee shall be called by the first-named house member. The first meeting of the committee shall be held within 45 days of the effective date of this section. Five members of the committee shall constitute a quorum.

7 Report. The committee shall report its findings and any recommendations for proposed legislation to the speaker of the house of representatives, the senate president, the house clerk, the senate clerk, the governor, and the state library on or before November 1, 2000.

8 Effective Date.

I. Section 1 of this act shall take effect 60 days after its passage.

II. The remainder of this act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill updates the 10-year transportation plan to maintain the highways and bridges in the state.

This bill also adds a budget footnote to 1999, 159:1.

This bill also establishes a committee to study the priority and funding of the projects included in the 10-year transportation plan.

Rep. McCarty asked if the question was divisible. The Speaker ruled that the question was not divisible.

Rep. McCarty spoke against and yielded to questions.

Rep. Alukonis spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. McCarty requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the amendment.

SUSPENSION OF RULES

Rep. Chandler moved that the Rules be so far suspended as to permit referral to a second committee after the deadline on SB 401, establishing the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program and making an appropriation therefor.

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

SB 401-FN-A-L, establishing the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program and making an appropriation therefor. MAJORITY: OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT. MINORITY: OUGHT TO PASS.

Rep. H. Charles Royce for the Majority of Resources, Recreation and Development: Senate Bill 401, as amended, establishes the Land and Community Heritage Investment Program (LCHIP) to conserve and preserve New Hampshire's most important natural, cultural and historical resources. LCHIP would provide matching grants to municipalities and nonprofit organizations for the conservation, preservation and restoration of these critical resources. There will be an authority composed of 18 members of whom 12 are voting (quorum of 7) and includes the designees of 6 state agencies who are nonvoting members. This board shall establish criteria for acquisition of lands and other natural, cultural and historical resources. The committee amended the bill to provide a 50 percent match. By doing this the amendment eliminates the preferential treatment given in the original bill to those property wealthy communities better able to increase their percentage of the match. The committee also amended the bill to eliminate the participation of state agencies because it believes it to be unfair for the state agencies, which can come to the legislature with capital requests anyway, to compete with municipal and nonprofit applicants for these limited resources. Also, state agencies continue to have the ability to seek federal matching grants. LCHIP respects private property rights: all projects are willing seller and willing buyer only. Senate Bill 401 as amended confers no new regulatory authority to the state and prohibits LCHIP from using the state's power of eminent domain to enter any resource into the program. The majority of the Resources, Recreation and Development Committee believes that the LCHIP will go down in history as a milestone — a moment when we acted together on behalf of this wonderful place we call New Hampshire. Periodically, the people of this state have banded together with their officials to do something truly visionary with the state's natural resources. In 1901, we joined hands to create the White Mountain National Forest. In the 1930's, we worked together to establish the State Parks System. In the 1960's, it was Current Use Assessment. And in the 1980's, it was the Trust for New Hampshire Lands and the LCIP, which conserved 100,000 acres. Once again in 2000, the enactment of the Land and Community Heritage Investment Program will be one of those major milestones. Vote 18-1.

Rep. Amy E. Robb-Theroux for the Minority of Resources, Recreation and Development: SB 401 is arguably the most important conservation legislation that this House has considered in the last decade. There is tremendous bi-partisan, broadbased support for this legislation: 250 attended the hearing on the bill, over 5,000 pledge cards supporting SB 401 were presented at the hearing, and 104 communities from Coos to the sea passed town meeting or city council resolutions supporting this initiative. It is the product of over two years of hard work by a legislatively created commission and coalition supported by 116 organizations. The bill as amended and supported by the majority of the committee represents a hard fought and fragile compromise. The minority believes it is important for the House to know what was left out of the bill as the result of this compromise. First, the bill eliminated any opportunity for state agencies, most notably DRED and Fish and Game, to submit applications and compete for land conservation funding. While the focus of the program is appropriately on community based projects, the minority feels strongly that there will be potential state park or wildlife refuge projects that are best initiated by our state land managing agencies. In addition, New Hampshire, which annually sends much more in tax dollars to Washington, D.C. than it receives, may lose the opportunity to compete for millions in federal matching funds by not allowing state agencies to participate in this program. Second, the bill changes the municipal match percentage from 40:60 to 50:50. This change will make it more difficult for the communities with less property wealth to compete for matching funds. Because the program is strictly voluntary, the minority favors restoring the 40:60 match percentage recommended by the NH Land and Community Heritage Commission. The concessions made by the majority of the committee to get this legislation to the full House compromises the integrity of the bill and the work of the NH Land and Community Heritage Commission.

Amendment (4259h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

I New Chapter; Land and Community Heritage Investment Program. Amend RSA by inserting after chapter 227-L the following new chapter:

CHAPTER 227-MLAND AND COMMUNITY HERITAGE INVESTMENT PROGRAM

227-M:1 Purpose. The general court finds that in order to maintain New Hampshire's quality of life and economic vitality for its citizens, growth and development should be balanced with careful protection of the state's most important natural, cultural, and historical resources. Permanent protection of these resources, through acquisition of lands, buildings, and other physical assets, or interests in these assets, must be accomplished along with their planned long-term stewardship. The general court further recognizes the importance of public-private partnerships to achieve these ends. To protect and preserve New Hampshire's natural, cultural, and historical resources for this and future generations, the general court establishes in this chapter the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program. The intent of the program is to conserve and preserve this state's most important natural, cultural, and historical resources through the acquisition of lands, and cultural and historical resources, or interests therein, of local, regional, and statewide significance, in partnership with the state's municipalities and the private sector, for the primary purposes of protecting and ensuring the perpetual contribution of these resources to the state's economy, environment, and overall quality of life.

227-M:2 Definitions. In this chapter:

I. "Authority" means the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority.

II. "Board" means the board of directors of the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority.

III. "Building" means a construction made by humans and created to shelter human activity.

IV. "Easement interests" means conservation, historic preservation, or scenic easements, development rights, or any other similar protective interest in real property held in perpetuity.

V. "Eligible resource" means a natural, cultural, or historical resource including archaeological sites; historic buildings and structures which house cultural events and programs; historic properties including buildings and structures; historic and cultural lands and features; ecologically significant lands; existing and potential public water supply lands; farmland; forestland; habitat for rare species or important wildlife; lands for recreation; riverine, lake, estuarine, and ocean shorelands; scenic areas and viewsheds; and wetlands and associated uplands.

VI. "Monitoring" means the regular and systematic gathering of information about a resource asset to identify changes to the property over time to ensure that it is being used in accordance with any easement interest restrictions or other legal obligations entered into under this chapter.

VII. "Resource asset" means the lands, buildings, structures, and other physical assets or the easement interests in the lands, buildings, structures, and other physical assets that comprise the real property of an eligible resource.

VIII. "Stewardship" means planning for and taking the necessary actions over the long term to successfully preserve and protect the natural, cultural, or historical value of a resource asset. Such actions include, as applicable, managing the resource asset in accordance with all legal obligations entered into under this chapter, performing regular maintenance and upkeep, providing for necessary monitoring, educating or informing those that might negatively impact upon the resource asset about the need and/or legal obligation to protect and preserve it, paying tax or in-lieu-of tax obligations, obtaining liability insurance, and securing sufficient levels of financial resources to carry out all such necessary actions.

227-M:3 Land and Community Heritage Investment Program Established. There is hereby established the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program. The program shall acquire resource assets, through voluntary negotiations with property owners and utilization of all available federal, state, local, private, and other matching funds and incentives. The program shall also provide funding for restoration and rehabilitation of cultural and historical resources and for certain costs associated with the acquisition of resource assets. All deeds or other documents evidencing purchase of any fee interest or other easement interest in resources under this chapter shall be drawn and held in the name of the municipality, other political subdivision, or qualified publicly-supported nonprofit corporation purchasing the interest through the use of program funds. All easement interests and legal obligations that are attached in perpetuity to any property shall be recorded in the deed. The state of New Hampshire shall hold an executory interest in all easement interests acquired by the program and held by municipalities, other political subdivisions, or qualifying nonprofit corporations. There shall be no power by the state of New Hampshire to take any resource by eminent domain, nor shall any funds made available by this program be used to take by eminent domain except in cases involving the voluntary quieting of title. All acquisition projects shall involve a willing seller and willing buyer, or a willing donor of resource assets.

227-M:4 New Hampshire Land and Community Heritage Authority Established; Board of Directors.

I. There is hereby established the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority, a body corporate and politic. The authority is constituted a public instrumentality of the state. The exercise by the authority of the powers conferred by this chapter shall be deemed and held to be the performance of public and essential governmental functions. The authority shall be a nonprofit corporation organized under RSA 292.

II. The authority shall be governed by a board of directors composed of 18 members. Voting members shall not appoint designees to act in their places. The chairperson shall be elected from among the public members. Board membership shall be as follows:

- (a) Two members of the senate, to be appointed by the senate president.
- (b) Two members of the house of representatives, to be appointed by the speaker of the house.
- (c) Eight public members, to be appointed by the governor and council:
 - (1) Two of whom shall represent cultural and historic resource interests;
 - (2) One of whom shall represent natural resources interests;
 - (3) One of whom shall represent outdoor recreation interests;
 - (4) One of whom shall represent business or real estate interests;
 - (5) One of whom shall represent municipal interests;
 - (6) One of whom shall represent local planning interests; and
 - (7) One of whom shall represent regional planning commissions.
- (d) The director of the office of state planning, or designee.
- (e) The commissioner of the department of cultural resources, or designee.
- (f) The commissioner of the department of resources and economic development, or designee.
- (g) The commissioner of the department of environmental services, or designee.
- (h) The commissioner of the department of agriculture, markets, and food, or designee.
- (i) The executive director of the department of fish and game, or designee.

III. Members appointed under subparagraphs II(d) through II(i) shall be advisory, non-voting members.

IV.(a) The terms of the state agency members and the members of the senate and the house of representatives shall be coterminous with their respective terms in office. Members appointed by the governor and council under subparagraph II(c) shall serve a 4-year term, and may serve no more than 10 successive years.

(b) Members appointed by the governor and council may be removed from office for cause, by the governor and council. Cause for removal shall include, but not be limited to, incapacity or failure to perform the duties of a member of the board of directors. Vacancies shall be filled for the unexpired term of the office in the same manner as the original appointment. Legislative members shall be entitled to mileage reimbursement at the legislative rate.

V. Seven voting members shall constitute a quorum. Decisions shall be made by a majority of those present and voting. Each member appointed under subparagraphs II(a) through (c) shall have one vote on matters coming before the board. The board shall meet quarterly and at such other times as may be deemed necessary by the chairperson.

VI. Board members shall not be subject to civil liability for acts performed in accordance with their duties under this chapter.

227-M:5 Powers and Duties of the Authority. The authority shall have all the powers necessary and convenient to carry out and effectuate the purposes and provisions of this chapter and shall:

I. Adopt bylaws for the regulation of its affairs and the conduct of its business.

II. Adopt criteria and guidelines for:

- (a) The acquisition of resource assets;
- (b) The restoration or rehabilitation of cultural and historical buildings or structures; and

(c) The stewardship and monitoring of resource assets on which program funds are expended.

III. Adopt definitions deemed important or necessary to carry out the purposes of this chapter.

IV. Oversee and direct the expenditure of funds deposited in the trust fund of the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program in accordance with the purposes of this chapter. This includes, but is not limited to, the authority to draw upon funds for acquisition of resource assets, or related program purposes, and for the administrative costs of the program.

V. Make and execute contracts for services necessary to carry out the purposes of this chapter or necessary and convenient for the exercise of its powers and functions.

VI. Temporarily acquire real property or interests in real property, only when such acquisition is necessary or appropriate to protect or secure any investment in which the authority has an interest.

VII. Prepare an annual report to be presented no later than December 1 of each year to the president of the senate, the speaker of the house, and the governor and council, and filed with the state library. The report shall detail the activities of the program during the past year including a listing of all resource assets acquired and restoration and rehabilitation projects undertaken, along with the associated expenditures. All administrative costs shall be provided, as well as a complete financial accounting of the trust fund established under RSA 227-M:7. The report shall also include a historical summary of the program's activities to date. A copy of the report shall be made available to any interested person. The authority shall cause an audit by an independent certified public accountant of its books and accounts to be made each fiscal year.

VIII. In addition, the authority may:

(a) Adopt an official seal.

(b) Maintain an office and hire staff.

(c) Apply for and accept from any source gifts and donations of: money, including money from appropriate fundraising activities; labor, equipment, and supplies; land and other real property; interests in land and other real property; federal, local, private, and other matching funds and incentives; and other assets to be deposited in the fund for the purposes of this chapter and to aid the authority in the conduct of its affairs.

227-M:6 Executive Director. The board of directors shall nominate one or more persons for appointment by the governor and council to serve as executive director. The executive director shall serve a term of 5 years, with reappointment or a vacancy to be filled in the same manner as the original appointment. At the request of the board, the governor and council may remove the executive director for cause. The executive director shall:

I. Coordinate the activities of state agencies directly involved with the administration of the program in accordance with this chapter.

II. Evaluate the eligible resources proposed for protection or restoration under this program, and determine if these resources meet the criteria of the program, subsequent to instruction by the board.

III. At the direction of the board, administer the affairs of the program and be directly responsible for executing all policies of the board.

227-M:7 Trust Fund Established; Administration.

I. There is established in the office of the state treasurer the trust fund for the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program. Moneys in the fund shall be used for the purpose of this chapter and shall not be used for any other purpose. The trust fund shall be non-lapsing.

II. The state treasurer is instructed to invest the sums deposited in the fund in a prudent manner consistent with the purposes of this chapter. Interest earned on moneys in the fund shall accrue to the fund to the extent allowed under federal law.

III. No funds of any state agency shall be transferred to the trust fund without specific authorization from the general court. Federal funds accepted by the governor and council for purposes similar to those of this chapter may be deposited in the trust fund without general court authorization.

227-M:8 Program Administration; Eligible Applicants; Matching Funds.

I. The authority shall distribute funds to further the purposes of this chapter only to eligible applicants. Eligible applicants shall include:

(a) Municipalities or other political subdivisions of the state; and

(b) Publicly-supported nonprofit corporations exempt from federal income taxation under section 501(c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

II. Other parties wishing to participate in the program may partner with one or more eligible applicants. The applicant must demonstrate the commitment of the owner of the assets to participate in the proposed action.

III. Financial assistance to eligible applicants shall be provided through grants and block grants (grants to another organization for re-granting). Financial assistance may only be expended on eligible resources for the following purposes:

- (a) Acquisition of real property in fee simple.
- (b) Acquisition of easement interests in real property.
- (c) Restoration or rehabilitation of buildings or structures which are publicly-owned, or which are owned by a qualified publicly-supported nonprofit corporation.
- (d) Surveys, appraisals, title work, and other legal or ancillary work necessary to carry out acquisitions.
- (e) Resource inventories and planning.
- (f) Other professional services.

IV. The authority shall not fund more than 50 percent of the appraised market value of any resource asset acquisition or more than 50 percent of any other expense eligible for financial assistance under RSA 224-M:8, III(c)-(f).

V. All eligible applicants are required to provide a level of matching resources that is no less than 50 percent of the appraised market value for any resource asset acquisition and that is no less than 50 percent of any other expense for which financial assistance is sought under RSA 224-M:8, III(c)-(f). A minimum of one half of the applicant's minimum match requirement must be provided in cash to be used in the purchase of the resource asset. Nothing shall prevent the eligible applicant from using all cash to fulfill the match requirements of the program. The balance, if any, of the match requirement may be met through any combination of:

- (a) In-kind services;
- (b) The appraised market value of donated real property or interest in real property, provided such real property is located in the municipality or municipalities in which the applicant property is located;
- (c) Expenses specified under RSA 224-M:8, III(d)-(f), incurred or to be incurred; or
- (d) A one-time investment in a stewardship endowment fund established by the applicant for the resource asset.

VI. Qualifying matching funds from the applicant may include, but are not limited to, municipal appropriations, private donations, federal funds, and monies from a conservation fund established under RSA 36-A:5.

VII. Matching beyond the minimum shall be encouraged of all applicants. The board is authorized, for a particular project, to either reduce the applicant's minimum match requirements under paragraph V or exceed the amount of financial assistance allowed under paragraph IV, but only by an affirmative vote of 2/3 of all voting members.

227-M:9 Acquisition, Restoration, and Protection Criteria and Guidelines.

I. The criteria and guidelines adopted pursuant to RSA 227-M:5, II for acquiring resource assets shall include, but shall not be limited to, the following:

- (a) Imminence of threat to the land or property, such that land conservation projects in densely developed or rapidly developing areas of the state shall receive a higher ranking;
- (b) Uniqueness or significance of the resource;
- (c) Proximity to other protected resources;
- (d) Extent to which project meets multiple objectives of the program (natural, historic, and cultural);
- (e) Strength of local support, such that project applications accompanied by an affirmative vote of the governing body of the municipality or governing bodies of the municipalities in which the project is located shall receive a higher ranking;
- (f) Strength of private support;
- (g) Cooperation between or among communities;
- (h) Extent of leverage (ability of state funds to attract other public and private funds in a cost-share arrangement);
- (i) Demonstrated ability and qualifying stewardship plan of eligible applicant to provide stewardship for the resource being protected; and
- (j) Extent to which benefits can be conserved only through fee acquisition of the resource asset, weighed against acquisition through easement interest.

II. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require that each acquisition of a resource asset under this chapter must meet all the criteria listed in this section.

227-M:10 Management. Any owner of a resource asset acquired in fee simple under this chapter or for which program funds have been expended for restoration or rehabilitation work, shall manage such asset in accordance with any stewardship plan approved for the asset and any legal obligations entered into under this chapter pertaining to the resource asset. The authority shall assign such management responsibilities to a state agency when the state is the owner. The program shall not manage any resource asset, except to the extent permissible under RSA 227-M:5, VI.

227-M:11 Stewardship. All applications submitted for funding resource asset acquisitions or restoration or rehabilitation projects must contain a stewardship plan. Applicants shall be allowed flexibility in devising such plans, but the authority shall make an affirmative finding that the stewardship plan is acceptable before awarding funds. Applications to the program for activities such as resource inventories and engineering studies are not required to include stewardship plans.

227-M:12 Monitoring Endowment.

I. For every eligible resource protected under this chapter by an easement interest, a percentage of funds from the program or contributions from the applicant, as specified by the authority, shall be provided to the monitoring endowment established under RSA 162-C:8.

II. Funds added to the monitoring endowment pursuant to RSA 227-M:12, I shall be used to support monitoring by state agencies, local municipalities, and qualifying nonprofit corporations of easement interests acquired under this chapter. Such monitoring shall be to ensure that the resource protected through the program will be managed according to the legal agreements concerning easement interests in the resource.

227-M:13 Road Expansion.

I. Notwithstanding any other provisions of this chapter, the New Hampshire land and community heritage authority shall recognize that the interest and public safety and welfare may, from time to time, require minor expansion, minor modification, or minor alteration of existing roads within the state highway system. After review and approval by the authority, and notwithstanding RSA 227-M:14, the department of transportation may obtain interests in lands acquired by the authority under this chapter adjacent to state highways. Permissible expansion, modifications, or alterations under this section shall include drainage easements, slope easements, lane widening, the addition of a passing, climbing, or turning lane, or similar adjustments, but shall not include construction of a new highway or portion thereof, construction of a bypass for an existing highway, or similar major alterations. Approval shall not be granted if reasonable and prudent alternatives exist nor if individual or cumulative approvals are likely to materially impair the conservation or preservation purposes for which the parcel was originally protected. Projects determined by the authority to be outside of the scope permitted by this chapter shall require approval from the general court.

II. The review and approval process required by paragraph I shall give full consideration to the management provisions of this chapter. The department of transportation shall submit a written request to the board with plans and supporting documentation to demonstrate compliance with the provisions of this chapter. A quorum of the board, consisting of at least 7 members, shall hold a public hearing within 90 days of receipt of a complete request to release land and community heritage investment program interests. The board shall provide at least 10 calendar days notice in advance of such hearing. Notification shall be made, at the expense of the department, to the landowner, local governing body and conservation commission, abutters, the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests, the Nature Conservancy, the Audubon Society of New Hampshire, the New Hampshire Wildlife Federation, and the county conservation district, or their successors. Notification of the public hearing shall be published, by the department, in a paper of general circulation in the municipality and shall be posted, by the department, in at least 2 public places. At the hearing or within 15 days after the hearing, a majority of the board's members attending the hearing shall vote to approve or deny the application, unless a time extension is requested by the department. Aggrieved parties, which include all parties who must be notified under this paragraph, may appeal the board's decision to the superior court in the same manner as planning board decisions are appealed under RSA 677:15.

III. Compensation for any interest in land obtained by the department of transportation under this section shall be at the appraised full fair market value of those property interests at the time of the department's acquisition. Alternative forms of compensation such as replacement land with comparable conservation value, or a combination of monetary compensation and replacement land may be considered in appropriate circumstances, provided all parties owning an interest in the property agree to such terms.

IV. Compensation due to the state under this section shall be deposited in the trust fund of the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program and used for the purposes of this chapter. Compensation due to municipalities and nonprofit organizations shall be dedicated to the acquisition, managing, or monitoring of protected lands consistent with the purposes of this chapter. Compensation due landowners shall be as specified in the deed or as otherwise negotiated. Any party aggrieved by the amount of compensation may file a petition with the superior court in the same manner as damage appeals are filed from the board of tax and land appeals under RSA 498-A:27.

227-M:14 Public Trust. Resource assets acquired under this chapter through the use of the trust fund for the program shall be held in public trust and used and applied for the purposes of this chapter. Notwithstanding any other provision of law relating to the disposal of publicly-owned real estate, no deviation in the uses of any resource asset so acquired to uses or purposes not consistent with the purposes of this chapter shall be permitted. The sale, transfer, conveyance, or release of any resource asset from public trust is prohibited, except as provided in RSA 227-M:13.

227-M:15 Public Access; Liability. Lands and interests in lands purchased with funds from this program by any eligible applicant shall be open in perpetuity for passive recreational purposes. Language to be used in easement interests secured through the program shall approximate the intent of the following:

I. There is hereby conveyed pedestrian access to, on, and across the property for hunting, fishing, and transitory passive recreational purposes, but not camping, by members of the public. A grantor may reserve the right to post against vehicles, motorized or otherwise and against hunting on active livestock fields, against access to agricultural cropland during planting and growing season, and against access to forest land during harvesting or establishment of plantations.

II. The authority shall have the discretion to limit or prohibit passive recreational use on a case-by-case basis, where this activity would be inconsistent with the purpose for protecting the property and/or when public safety would be at risk. Additionally, the authority may stipulate, as a condition of funding, on a case-by-case basis where appropriate, that certain lands or interests in lands be available for motorized recreational uses.

III. No person, or successor in title, who has granted or sold rights of public access by virtue of an easement, right-of-way, development right, or other means in accordance with the purposes of this chapter shall be liable to a user of that right of access for injuries suffered on that portion of the access unless those injuries are caused by the willful or wanton misconduct of the grantor or successor in title.

2 Land Conservation Investment Program; Management. Amend RSA 162-C:6, VII to read as follows:

VII. Compensation due to the state under this section shall be ~~[maintained in a separate, non-lapsing land acquisition fund to be managed by the state treasurer. The council, as successors to the land conservation investment program board of directors, shall develop rules pursuant to RSA 541-A, whereby agencies and/or municipalities, shall have access to these funds from time to time as resources permit. Such funds must be used for the acquisition of land, or interests in land, consistent with the purposes of this chapter]~~ deposited in the trust fund of the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program established under RSA 227-M and used for the purposes of that program. Compensation due to municipalities shall be dedicated to the acquisition or monitoring of protected lands consistent with the purposes of this chapter. Compensation due to landowners of conservation easement lands shall be as specified in the conservation easement, deed, or as otherwise negotiated. Any party aggrieved by the amount of compensation may file a petition with the superior court in the same manner as damage appeals are filed from the board of tax and land appeals under RSA 498-A:27.

3 Land Conservation Investment Program; Office of State Planning; Powers and Duties. Amend RSA 162-C:7 to read as follows:

162-C:7 Powers and Duties. The council shall oversee, direct, and expend funds in the monitoring endowment of the former New Hampshire land conservation investment program in accordance with the purposes of this subdivision and RSA 227-M:12. This includes, but is not limited to, the authority to draw upon funds for the administrative costs of the endowment.

4 Land Conservation Investment Program; Monitoring Endowment. Amend RSA 162-C:8, I-III to read as follows:

I. The monitoring endowment established by the board of directors pursuant to former RSA 221-A:5, III shall be maintained in perpetuity and shall be utilized by the council only for the purposes of monitoring and enforcing the property rights of persons with ownership interests in property acquired through the former land conservation investment program and for the purposes of RSA 227-M:12.

II. The principal of the endowment shall be managed by the state treasurer for the sole purpose of providing interest earnings for the purposes set forth in this subdivision and RSA 227-M:12, and expenditures from the endowment for those purposes shall be limited to the interest earned thereon.

III. Any interest earned on the endowment principal which is not used for the purposes set forth in this subdivision and RSA 227-M:12 within the fiscal year in which it is earned shall be added to the principal amount. The state treasurer is authorized to accept gifts, donations, and grants, including federal gifts, donations, and grants, for the purposes set forth in this chapter, and such gifts, donations and grants shall be added to the principal amount.

5 Motor Vehicles; Certificates of Title and Registration; Conservation Number Plates; Fee. Amend RSA 261:97-a, I to read as follows:

I. The director is hereby authorized to issue special conservation number plates, in lieu of other number plates. The design of these special plates shall be determined as provided in RSA 261:97-d. The plates shall retain the "live free or die" logo. Such plates shall be issued only upon application and upon payment of a ~~[$25]~~ $30 fee that shall be in addition to the regular motor vehicle registration fee and any other number plate fees otherwise required.

6 Motor Vehicles; Certificates of Title and Registration; Conservation Number Plates; Fee. Amend RSA 261:97-a, III to read as follows:

III. Plates shall be renewed on an annual basis for ~~[$25]~~ $30 per set. Of this sum, the department shall retain an amount as is necessary to recover production and administrative costs as approved by the fiscal committee of the general court. The remaining funds shall be paid to the state treasurer and distributed as provided in RSA 261:97-b. The cost of replacement number plates shall be identical to the cost of initial number plates and the revenue from replacement number plates shall be distributed in the same manner as revenue derived from initial number plates.

7 Motor Vehicles; Certificates of Title and Registration; Conservation Number Plate Trust Fund; Distribution of Funds. Amend RSA 261:97-b, I to read as follows:

I. There is hereby established a conservation number plate trust fund under the administration of the state treasurer. The fund shall be used for the promotion, protection, and investment in the state's natural, cultural, and historic resources. The fund shall be nonlapsing. The state treasurer shall distribute the funds annually on July 1, except as provided in paragraph I-a, as follows: $5,000 of every $100,000 received, up to a total of $50,000, shall be distributed to the department of transportation for the expanded wild flower establishment program for use in planting native wild flowers; the remainder shall be distributed equally among the department of cultural resources, the department of fish and game, the department of resources and economic development, ~~and~~ the state conservation committee, and the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority.

I-a. The state treasurer shall distribute the share of funds due the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority, pursuant to RSA 261:97-b, I, on the first day of each month.

8 Motor Vehicles; Certificates of Title and Registration; Conservation Number Plate Trust Fund; Use of Funds. Amend RSA 261:97-c, V-VI to read as follows:

V. The funds transferred to the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority shall be used for the administration of the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program.

~~[V:]~~ VI. The funds transferred to the department of transportation shall be used for the expanded wildflower establishment program to be used in maintenance districts.

~~[V:]~~ VII. Any funds transferred from the conservation number plate trust fund which remain unexpended at the end of the fiscal year shall be non-lapsing.

9 Initial Appointees. The terms of the initial appointees by the governor and council to the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority under RSA 227-M:4, II(c) shall be staggered as follows:

I. The member representing regional planning commissions and the member representing business or real estate interests shall serve a one-year term.

II. The member representing municipal interests and the member representing local planning interests shall serve a 2-year term.

III. The member representing outdoor recreation interests and the member representing natural resources interests shall serve a 3-year term.

IV. The members representing cultural and historic resource interests shall each serve a 4-year term.

10 Appropriations; New Hampshire Land and Community Heritage Authority. The sums of $3,000,000 and $6,000,000 are hereby appropriated to the New Hampshire land and community heritage authority established in section 1 of this act for the purposes of this act for the fiscal years ending June 30, 2001 and June 30, 2002, respectively.

11 Bonds Authorized. To provide funds for the appropriations made in section 10 of this act, the state treasurer is hereby authorized to borrow upon the credit of the state not exceeding the sum of $3,000,000 for fiscal year 2001 and $6,000,000 for fiscal year 2002 and for said purpose may issue bonds and notes in the name of and on behalf of the state of New Hampshire in accordance with RSA 6-A. Payments of principal and interest on the bonds and notes shall be made from the general fund of the state. Issuance of bonds for fiscal year 2001 shall be no earlier than April 1, 2001.

12 Appropriation; Administrative Costs. The sum of $50,000 is appropriated to the New Hampshire land and community heritage authority established in section 1 of this act, for the purpose of funding administrative costs of the authority for the biennium ending June 30, 2001. The source of funds for the $50,000 shall be as follows:

I. $40,000 from the forest management and protection fund, established in RSA 227-G:5.

II. $5,000 from PAU 02, 03, 01, class 20, department of agriculture, markets, and food funds for the fiscal year 2000.

III. $5,000 from PAU 02, 03, 05, 01, class 24, department of agriculture, markets, and food funds for fiscal year 2000.

13 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Adopted.

Reps. Kennedy, Fuller Clark and Royce spoke in favor.

Rep. Fuller Clark requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the majority report.

SB 315, changing the form for writs of execution. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT
Rep. Martha S. Solow for Judiciary: When a judgment has been made against a debtor a writ of execution may be issued by a court against the assets of the defendant in order to recover what is owed to the plaintiff. This bill alters the written form of the document to go beyond "goods and chattels" to include rights or credit, property interest, personal estate and money to satisfy the judgment. Vote 13-0.

Amendment (4157h)

Amend RSA 527:12 as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

527:12 Form. Writs of execution shall be substantially in the following form:

THE STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

_____ ss. To the sheriff or deputy sheriff of any county [~~or his deputy~~]:
[L.S.] Whereas, _____, of _____, by the consideration of our justices of our court of _____, holden at _____, in said County of _____, on the _____ Tuesday of _____, recovered judgment against _____ of _____ for the sum of _____ dollars, and costs taxed at _____, as appears of record, whereof execution remains to be done. We command you, therefore, that of the money, goods, chattels [~~or~~], lands, personal estate, property interest, right or credit of the said debtor, in your precinct, you cause to be levied and paid to the said creditor the aforesaid sums, with lawful interest thereon, and _____ more for this writ and your own fees; and make return of this writ, with your doings thereon, to said court, to be holden at _____, in said county, upon the _____ Tuesday of _____ Witness, _____, Esquire, the _____ day of _____, _____, Clerk.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Reps. Garrish, Almy and Jacobson addressed the House.

Rep. Sabella moved that the remarks made by Rep. Garrish be printed in the Journal.

Adopted.

Rep. Garrish: Thank you, Madam Speaker. My esteemed colleagues, I rise today to ask your indulgence for just a few moments to speak on Holocaust remembrance. This past Tuesday, May 2nd, was observed internationally as the year 2000's day of remembrance, but the week is also recognized as a special time to remember. I am not Jewish and I do not personally know a Holocaust survivor. In my own life span, there will come a time when no survivors will live an earthly life. I am, however, Christian, and I do it because it just felt right. I humbly speak to you today about something we can never forget. I reach out to you who represent every nook and cranny of our great state of New Hampshire. I reach out to you as Jews, Christians, people of many faiths, belief systems and spiritual centers. I reach out to you as parents, grandparents, sisters, brothers, neighbors and friends. I reach out to you to remember, to never forget that time in the modern civilized world that shook humanity to its core. I ask you to frame that remembrance in the awareness of a growing tide of violence between our children and the violence of hate, not only in New Hampshire and in America but also in the world. But, we must remember, not just today, this week or this year, we must remember always. We must insure that our children, their children and children for all generation measure their thoughts and actions by the principles of justice, fairness, equality and non-violence so that times like the Holocaust will never happen again; so that differences within mankind are celebrated, not eliminated. I ask you as fellow leaders to do just that. Everything we do individually and collectively must be measured by those same principles even though we may do them differently. In closing, if I may paraphrase words so commonly used in the Holocaust remembrances: Never again, anytime, anywhere and to anyone. Thank you.

SB 310, relative to New Hampshire state-chartered banks and interstate banking. OUGHT TO PASS
Rep. Sheila T. Francoeur for Commerce: This bill will increase the maximum dollar volume of a bank's deposits as a percentage of the dollar volume of total bank deposits in the state from 20% to 30%. This total includes deposits, time, savings and demand accounts in state-chartered banks, national banks and federal savings and loan associations. Deposits in Credit Unions are not included in this total. The current deposit cap of 20% was instituted in 1963. Currently 40 states have deposit caps higher than New Hampshire. This bill also specifies the conditions required for an out-of-state bank to establish branches in New Hampshire and allows state-chartered banks to participate in activities authorized by the Financial Modernization Act. Vote 19-0.

SB 316, relative to "most favored nation" or "equally favored nation" provisions in insurance provider contracts. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Tim S. McGough for Commerce: Most favored or equally favored nation provisions in insurance provider contracts refer to language in a contract between a doctor or hospital and an insurance carrier that require the provider to give the same or better fee scale to any carrier with this clause in the contract. For example, an insurance plan negotiates a price for a given service from a hospital and they have a most favored nation clause in their contract, then another plan negotiates a better price from the same hospital. The hospital must now offer that better price to the first plan because of the MFN clause. The committee felt that this type of contract provision discourages competition in the market and unfairly allows certain insurance plans with very large market share to benefit from the negotiating of smaller plans trying to break into the New Hampshire health care marketplace. Although the committee is usually uncomfortable intruding into contract negotiations between private parties, the committee feels the health care consumer is best served by prohibiting this type of provision in order to encourage more insurance plans to enter into our state's market. In the past many types of legislative remedies involving health insurance contracts have passed including terms of payment, review period for new contracts and many benefit mandates. The committee examined this issue in subcommittee and found that many small providers such as small family practice physician groups are forced to "take it or leave it" when it comes to contracts with large insurance plans. Larger hospitals have the ability to refuse these provisions but many of the state's 26 acute-care hospitals do not have that luxury. Only one insurance plan, the state's largest, appeared in opposition to this bill, and the insurance department, the NH Medical Society, and several other insurance plans appeared in support. While we found only one such EFN agreement in place and no MFN clauses readily apparent, the committee believes passage of this legislation is in the best long-term interest of the New Hampshire health insurance market and in the best interest of the consumer. Vote 18-1.

SB 332, relative to risk-based capital for health organizations. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Tim S. McGough for Commerce: This bill adds health organizations to the law regarding risk-based capital for insurers. In doing so, health maintenance organizations, health service corporations, and dental and vision insurance plans will be subject to the same scrutiny to ensure fiscal soundness based on the amount of risk-based capital held by a given organization that life insurance plans currently are subject to. This bill was requested by the Department of Insurance and was not opposed by the industry because most companies affected by this legislation currently conform to its requirements. Vote 19-0.

SB 359, establishing a committee to study the issues relative to manufactured housing parks in New Hampshire. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Anthony R. DiFruscia for Commerce: The subject matter of this legislation is currently in interim study by the Senate so there is no need for this study committee. Vote 14-2.

SB 368, relative to insurance fraud. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Tim S. McGough for Commerce: In order to clarify the duties and powers of the insurance fraud investigation unit, this bill was requested by the New Hampshire Department of Insurance. The language in the amendment broadens the type of law enforcement agency the unit may assist or request assistance from in carrying out their duties to detect and prosecute insurance-related criminal activity, and corrects a typographical error in current statute. No one appeared in opposition to this legislation that the committee viewed as a positive step to protect the consumer from rising insurance costs due to fraudulent claims. Vote 13-0.

Amendment (4320h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Fraud Investigation Unit. Amend RSA 417:23 to read as follows:

417:23 Insurance Fraud Investigation Unit Established. There is established in the department of insurance the insurance fraud investigation unit. The unit shall assist the commissioner ~~(in administratively investigating allegations of)~~, or any law enforcement agency, in investigating insurance fraud or other insurance-related criminal activity and in developing and implementing programs to prevent insurance fraud and abuse. The unit shall have the power to subpoena witnesses and administer oaths in any ~~(proceeding before it)~~ investigation it conducts, and to compel the production of any books, papers or other memoranda or documents by subpoena duces tecum. The unit shall promptly notify the attorney general of any insurance application, claim, or activity which involves criminal conduct. When required by the commissioner and the attorney general, the unit shall cooperate with the attorney general in the investigation and prosecution of criminal violations.

2 Evidence Collection; Criminal Activity. Amend RSA 417:26 to read as follows:

417:26 Evidence Collection. If, by its own inquiries or as a result of complaints, the insurance department has any reason to believe that a person has engaged in, or is engaging in, any ~~(insurance fraud or has violated any provision of RSA 638:20)~~ criminal activity or any violations involving title XXXVII, it may administer oaths, serve subpoenas ordering the attendance of witnesses or production of material, and collect evidence.

3 Antifraud Initiatives. Amend RSA 417:30, 1(a)

(a) Fraud ~~(investigations)~~ investigators, who may be insurer employees or independent contractors; or

4 New Paragraph; Failure to Submit Plan; Penalty. Amend RSA 417:30 by inserting after paragraph III the following new paragraph:

IV. If the commissioner finds that an insurer licensed to do business in New Hampshire has failed to submit a plan, as required under paragraph I of this section, reasonably calculated to detect, prosecute, and prevent fraudulent insurance acts, or has submitted but failed to execute that plan, the commissioner may issue a fine or suspend the right of the insurer to do business in this state until such time as that insurer comes into compliance with the provisions of this chapter.

5 Concealment; Fraud. The unnumbered paragraph of RSA 407:22 relative to concealment, fraud is repealed and reenacted to read as follows:

Concealment, fraud.

Coverage under this policy shall be void for the insured who, whether before or after a loss, has intentionally concealed or misrepresented any material or circumstance; engaged in fraudulent conduct; or made false statements relating to this insurance.

6 Effective Date. This act shall take effect 60 days after its passage.

SB 375, relative to motor vehicle dealerships. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Gene B. Marshall for Commerce: As introduced, this bill totally restricted the circumstances under which any auto manufacturers could operate dealerships in competition with area dealers or franchisees. The committee worked with representatives of all concerned parties to craft a solution which meets the needs of all while preserving a high degree of protection for New Hampshire businesses and consumers alike. The bill also includes amendments requested by the Division of Motor Vehicle clarifying procedures of the NH Motor Vehicle Industry Board for dealing with challenges to (dealer service) chargebacks and with appeals from the board's decisions. Vote 14-0.

Amendment (4396h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Unfair Methods of Competition; Motor Vehicle Manufacturers or Distributors Prohibited from Acting As Dealers or Franchisees. RSA 357-C:3, III(k) is repealed and reenacted to read as follows:

(k) Compete with a motor vehicle dealer operating under an agreement or franchise from such manufacturer or distributor in the relevant market area; provided, however:

(1) If any manufacturer, distributor, distributor branch or division, or factory branch or division, either directly or indirectly, or through any subsidiary, affiliated entity or person, owns, operates or controls, in full or in part, a motor vehicle dealership in this state for the sale or service of motor vehicles in this state, the relevant market area shall be the area within the entire state of New Hampshire and, except for circumstances in which subparagraph (3) may apply, the New Hampshire motor vehicle industry board shall find good cause under RSA 357-C:9 before any such ownership, operation, or control shall be permitted. In addition to those factors listed in RSA 357-C:9, II, the board in such circumstances shall also consider in its determination of good cause whether the proposed dealership will create an unfair method of competition to other franchisees of the same manufacturer, distributor, distributor branch or division, factory branch or division, subsidiary or affiliated entity;

(2) That a manufacturer or distributor shall not be deemed to be competing when operating a dealership either temporarily, for a reasonable period in any case not to exceed 2 years; provided that if a manufacturer or distributor shows good cause, the board may extend this time limit and extensions may be granted by the board for periods of up to 12 months; or unless the manufacturer or dealer through a bona fide relationship in which an independent person has made a significant investment subject to loss in the dealership and can reasonably expect to acquire full ownership of such dealership on reasonable terms and conditions; and

(3) A manufacturer that has no more than 5 franchised new motor vehicle dealers licensed to do business in this state and that directly or indirectly owns one or more of them shall not be deemed to be competing with any unaffiliated new motor vehicle dealer trading in the manufacturer's line make at a distance of 18 miles or greater provided that:

(A) All the new motor vehicle dealerships selling such manufacturer's motor vehicles trade exclusively in the manufacturer's line make;

(B) As of March 1, 2000, the manufacturer shall have directly or indirectly owned one or more new motor vehicle dealers in this state for a continuous period of at least 1 year; and

(C) Neither the manufacturer nor any entity in which the manufacturer has a majority ownership interest shall acquire, operate, or control any dealership that the manufacturer did not directly or indirectly own as of March 1, 2000.

2 Chargebacks; Audits. Amend RSA 357-C:5, II (d)(5) to read as follows:

(5) Any chargeback resulting from any audit shall not be made until a final order is issued by the New Hampshire motor vehicle industry board if a protest to the proposed chargeback is filed within 30 days of the notification of the final amount claimed by the manufacturer, distributor, branch, or division to be due after exhausting any procedure established by the manufacturer, distributor, branch, or division to contest the chargeback, other than arbitration. If the chargeback is affirmed by a final order of the board, the dealer shall be liable for interest on the amount set forth in the order at a rate of the prime rate effective on the date of the order plus one percent per annum from the date of the filing of the protest. In the absence of fraud, the board may order, based on the equities and circumstances of the parties, that the chargeback plus applicable interest be paid in installments not exceeding 12 months. If the board finds that a warranty chargeback is the result of a fraudulent warranty claim, no installment payments shall be allowed by the board.

3 Appeals; Enforcement. Amend RSA 357-C:12, VII to read as follows:

VII. Within 20 days after any order or decision of the board, any party to the proceeding may apply for a rehearing with respect to any matter determined in the proceeding, or covered or included in the order or decision. The application for rehearing shall set forth fully every ground upon which it is claimed that the decision or order complained of is unlawful or unreasonable. No appeal from any order or decision of the board shall be taken unless the appellant makes an application for rehearing as provided in this paragraph, and when such application for rehearing has been made, no ground not set forth in the application shall be urged, relied on, or given any consideration by a court unless the court for good cause shown allows the appellant to specify additional grounds. Any party to the proceeding may appeal the final order, including all interlocutory orders or decisions, to the superior court within 30 days after the date the board rules on the application for reconsideration of the final order or decision. All findings of the board upon all questions of fact properly before the court shall be prima facie lawful and reasonable. The order or decision appealed from shall not be set aside or vacated except for errors of law. No additional evidence shall be heard or taken by the superior court on appeals from the board.

4 Effective Date. This act shall take effect January 1, 2001.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill restricts the circumstances whereby a motor vehicle manufacturer or distributor may operate a dealership in the state without engaging in unfair competition with area dealers or franchisees.

The bill also makes certain changes regarding chargebacks from audits and appeals from decisions and orders of the New Hampshire motor vehicle industry board.

SB 378, relative to Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Tara G. Reardon for Commerce: This bill changes the effective date of the computerized filing system for security interests under Article 9 of The Uniform Commercial Code from July 1, 2001 to the earlier of July 1, 2002 or a date 3 months after the secretary of state certifies to the governor that the participating cities and towns are prepared to accept filings on behalf of the centralized filing system. Additionally, the bill clarifies the fee for filing each debtor name and replaces the 75 cents per page copy fee inadvertently deleted from 382-A:9-407(2). Vote 17-0.

Amendment (4369h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Uniform Conditional Sales Law; Destruction of Certain Records Authorized; References Changed. Amend RSA 361:10-a to read as follows:

361:10-a Destruction of Certain Records Authorized. Any town or city clerk may destroy any financing statement required to be filed in a town under RSA 382-A:9-401(1)(c) as effective until ~~[July 1, 2001]~~ the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), and any amendments, continuation statements, termination statements, or other documents and records relating thereto after ~~[July 1]~~ 5 years after the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1). Any town or city clerk may destroy any financing statement required to be filed under RSA 382-A:9-401(1)(a) as effective until the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), and any amendments, continuation statements, termination statements, or other documents and records relating thereto 6 years after the filing of the last continuation statement.

2 Uniform Commercial Code; Secured Transactions, Sales of Accounts and Chattel Paper; Filing; Formal Requisites of Financing Statement, Amendments, Mortgage as Financing Statement; Amendments; Place of Filing. Amend RSA 382-A:9-402(4) to read as follows:

(4) A financing statement may be amended by filing a writing signed by both the debtor and the secured party. An amendment does not extend the period of effectiveness of a financing statement. If any amendment adds collateral, it is effective as to the added collateral only from the filing date of the amendment. In this Article, unless the context otherwise requires, the term "financing statement" means the original financing statement and any amendments. On and after ~~[July 1, 2001]~~ the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), any amendment to a financing statement filed ~~[in a city or town or]~~ prior to the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1)

(a) with the secretary of state under section ~~[401(a) or (c)]~~ 401(1)(c) of this Article, as effective until the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), ~~[prior to July 1, 2001]~~ shall only be filed with the clerk of a city or town participating in the centralized filing system administered by the secretary of state, and shall reference the date and file number of the financing statement filed with the secretary of state;

3 Uniform Commercial Code; Secured Transactions, Sales of Accounts and Chattel Paper; Filing; What Constitutes Filing, Duration of Filing, Effect of Lapsed Filing, Duties of Filing Officer; Continuation; Place of Filing. Amend RSA 382-A:9-403(3) to read as follows:

(3) A continuation statement may be filed by the secured party within 6 months prior to the expiration of the 5-year period specified in subsection (2). Any such continuation statement must be signed by the secured party, identify the original statement by file number, and state that the original statement is still effective. A continuation statement signed by a person other than the secured party of record must be accompanied by a separate written statement of assignment signed by the secured party of record and complying with subsection (2) of Section 9-405, including payment of the required fee. Upon timely filing of the continuation statement, the effectiveness of the original statement is continued for 5 years after the last date to which the filing was effective whereupon it lapses in the same manner as provided in subsection (2) unless another continuation statement is filed prior to such lapse. Succeeding continuation statements may be filed in the same manner to continue the effectiveness of the original statement. Unless a statute on disposition of public records provides otherwise, the filing officer may remove a lapsed statement from the files and destroy it immediately if ~~[he]~~ the filing officer has retained a microfilm, electronic, or other record conforming to the requirements of section 410 of this article, or in other cases after one year after the lapse. The filing officer shall so arrange matters by physical annexation of financing statements to continuation statements or other related filings, or by other means, that if ~~[he]~~ the filing officer physically destroys or electronically erases the financing statements of a period more than 5-years past, those which have been continued by a continuation statement or which are still effective under subsection (6) shall be retained. On and after ~~[July 1, 2001]~~ the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), any continuation statement to a financing statement filed ~~[in a city or town or]~~ prior to the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1)

8 Uniform Commercial Code; Secured Transactions, Sales of Accounts and Chattel Paper; Filing; Release of Collateral, Duties of Filing Officer, Fees; Place of Filing. Amend RSA 382-A:9-406 to read as follows:

382-A:9-406 Release of Collateral; Duties of Filing Officer; Fees.

(1) A secured party of record may by his or her signed statement release all or a part of any collateral described in a filed financing statement. The statement of release is sufficient if it contains a description of the collateral being released, the name and address of the debtor, the name and address of the secured party, and the file number of the financing statement. A statement of release signed by a person other than the secured party of record must be accompanied by a separate written statement of assignment signed by the secured party of record and complying with subsection (2) of Section 9-405, including payment of the required fee. Upon presentation of such a statement of release to the filing officer, ~~[he]~~ the filing officer shall mark the statement with the hour and date of filing and shall note the same upon the margin of the index of the filing of the financing statement. On and after ~~[July 1, 2001]~~ the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), any release of a financing statement filed ~~[in a city or town or] prior to the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1)~~

(a) with the secretary of state under section ~~[401(a) or (c)]~~ 401(1)(c) of this Article, as effective until the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), [prior to July 1, 2001] shall only be filed with the clerk of a city or town participating in the centralized filing system administered by the secretary of state, and shall reference the date and file number of the financing statement filed with the secretary of state;

(b) with the office of the clerk of a town under section 401(1)(a) of this Article, as effective until the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), shall only be filed according to RSA 382-A:9-412(3).

(2) The uniform fee for filing and noting such a statement of release shall be in accordance with the fees established pursuant to RSA 478:17-g.

9 Uniform Commercial Code; Secured Transactions; Information From Filing Officer. Amend RSA 382-A:9-407(2) to read as follows:

(2) Upon request of any person, the filing officer shall issue his certificate showing whether there is on file on the date and hour stated therein, any presently effective financing statement naming a particular debtor and any statement of assignment thereof and if there is, giving the date and hour of filing of each such statement and the names and addresses of each secured party therein. The fee for such a certificate shall be the sum of:

(a) $5 if the request for the certificate is in the standard form prescribed by the secretary of state and otherwise $7, plus

(b) A database search fee determined by the secretary of state pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-411(d) for any search or compilation of data in the centralized files maintained by the secretary of state.

In the case of certificates issued by the clerk of a city or town the fee charged under subparagraph (a) shall be retained by the city or town and the search fee under subparagraph (b) shall be transferred to the state treasurer to be administered in accord with RSA 293-A:1.37. The secretary of state may provide certificated and uncertificated search reports or compilations of data, charging database search fees to be determined by the secretary of state pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-411(d), and the resulting funds shall be administered in accordance with RSA 293-A:1.37. Upon request, the filing officer shall furnish a photocopy of any filed financing statement or statement of assignment for a uniform fee of $.75 per page.

10 Uniform Commercial Code; Secured Transactions, Sales of Accounts and Chattel Paper; Filing; Computerized Filing System; Date Changed. Amend RSA 382-A:9-411(b) to read as follows:

(b) The system shall, by ~~[July 1, 2001]~~ the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), permit filings to be made in electronic form from the clerk's office of any participating city or town.

11 New Section; Uniform Commercial Code; Secured Transactions, Sales of Accounts and Chattel Paper; Filing; Transition Provisions for Computerized Filing System. Amend RSA 382-A by inserting after section 9-411 the following new section:

382-A:9-412 Transition Provisions for Computerized Filing System.

(1) For purposes of this chapter, "certification date" shall mean either a date which shall be 3 months after the secretary of state certifies to the governor that the participating cities and towns are prepared to accept filings on behalf of the centralized filing system, or December 31, 2001, whichever occurs earlier.

(2) A financing statement filed prior to the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), at the office of the clerk of the town under section 9-401(1)(c) of this Article, as effective until the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), shall no longer be effective as of the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1). The related financing statement filed at the office of the secretary of state shall remain effective until lapsed, terminated, or continued according to this Article.

(3) A financing statement filed prior to the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), at the office of the clerk of the town under section 9-401(1)(a) of this Article, as effective until the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), shall remain effective until lapsed or terminated, subject to subsection (3).

(4) At such time on or after the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), that an amendment, assignment, release of collateral, continuation, or termination is required to a financing statement filed prior to the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-

412(1), at the office of the clerk of the town under section 9-401(1)(a) of this Article, as effective until the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), in which the city or town does not participate in the centralized filing system administered by the secretary of state, a new financing statement shall be filed with the clerk of a city or town participating in the centralized filing system administered by the secretary of state before the financing statement would otherwise lapse. The new financing statement shall state, "This financing statement continues the financing statement dated _____, file number _____, filed in the town (city) of _____." A copy of the financing statement so referenced, including any amendments, releases, assignments, and continuations, shall be attached to the new financing statement. The new financing statement continues the effectiveness of the financing statement so referenced.

(5) Any new financing statement or amendment, continuation, termination, assignment, or release of collateral, filed on or after the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), under section 9-401(1)(a) or section 9-401(1)(c) of this Article, as effective until the certification date pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), with the secretary of state or a clerk of a city or town not participating in the centralized filing system administered by the secretary of state shall not be effective.

12 Conveyances and Mortgages of Realty; Registers of Deeds; Fees; Date Changed. Amend RSA 478:17-g, IV to read as follows:

IV. Commencing [July 1, 2001] on the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), the secretary of state shall cease to accept filings of financing statements or amendments, assignments, releases, continuations, or terminations thereof (except for those pertaining to security interests in collateral of a transmitting utility). Commencing [July 1, 2001] on the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1), the secretary of state shall also cease to accept filings of attachments of personal property under RSA 511 and RSA 511-A. All such filings shall be made through the office of the clerk of a city or town participating in the centralized filing system administered by the secretary of state under RSA 382-A:9-411. Clerks of those cities and towns participating in the centralized filing system administered by the secretary of state under RSA 382-A shall charge a single fee of $30 for the first page of each filing under RSA 382-A and $8 for each additional page, one half of which shall be held for the use of the state and transferred quarterly to the state treasurer.

13 Amendments to Place of Filing; Effective Date Changed. Amend 1998, 382:16, I to read as follows:

I. Sections 2 and 13 of this act shall take effect [July 1, 2001] on the certification date established pursuant to RSA 382-A:9-412(1).

14 Effective Date.

I. Section 9 of this act shall take effect upon its passage.

II. The remainder of this act shall take effect 60 days after its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill changes the effective date of the computerized filing system for security interests under the Uniform Commercial Code from July 1, 2001 to a date which shall be 3 months after the secretary of state certifies to the governor that the participating cities and towns are prepared to accept filings on behalf of the centralized filing system, or December 31, 2001, whichever occurs earlier. This bill also establishes certain transition provisions for the filing system.

SB 383, requiring the department of health and human services and insurers to make prompt payments. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Sheila T. Francoeur for Commerce: This bill, as amended, requires payment from the department of health and human services within 45 days of the receipt of a clean claim. The bill also requires insurers to make payment within 45 calendar days upon receipt of a clean written claim or 15 calendar days upon receipt of a clean electronic claim. The amendment also provides an exception if the failure to make payment in a timely manner is caused by a directive from a federal, state, or court agency, or if the insurer is in liquidation or rehabilitation. Vote 17-0.

Amendment (4350h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 New Section; Prompt Payment Required. Amend RSA 126-A by inserting after section 12 the following new section:

126-A:12-a Prompt Payment Required. The department shall pay health care providers, including dental providers, within 45 days of receipt of a clean claim for services rendered to medicaid recipients. For the purposes of this section "clean claim" means a claim for payment of covered health care expenses that is submitted to the department on the department's standard claim form using the most current published procedural codes, with all the required fields completed with correct and complete information in accordance with the department's published filing requirements.

2 New Section; Prompt Payment Required. Amend RSA 415 by inserting after section 6-g the following new section:

415:6-h Prompt Payment Required.

I. Each insurer that issues or renews any individual policy of accident or health insurance providing benefits for medical or hospital expenses for its insured persons shall pay for services rendered by New Hampshire health care providers within 45 calendar days upon receipt of a clean written claim or 15 calendar days upon receipt of a clean electronic claim. If the insurer is denying or pending the claim, the insurer shall have 15 calendar days upon receipt of the claim to notify the health care provider or certificate holder of the reason for denying or pending the claim and what, if any, additional information is required to process the claim. The insurer's failure to comply with the time limits in this section shall not have the effect of requiring coverage for an otherwise non-covered claim. This section shall only apply to payments made on a claims basis and shall not apply to capitation or other forms of periodic payment.

II. In this section:

(a) "Clean claim" means a claim for payment of covered health care expenses that is submitted to an insurer on the insurer's standard claim form using the most current published procedural codes, with all the required fields completed with correct and complete information in accordance with the insurer's published filing requirements.

(b) "Electronic claim" means the transmission of data for purposes of payment of covered health care services in an electronic data format specified by the insurer.

III. Any claim not paid within the time periods specified in paragraph I shall be deemed overdue. When a claim is overdue, the health care provider may notify the insurer in writing of the insurer's noncompliance with this section. If the insurer fails to pay the claim within 10 days of receiving the notice, then:

(a) The amount of the overdue claim shall include an interest payment of 1.5 percent per month beginning from the date the payment was due; and

(b) The health care provider may recover from the insurer, upon a judicial finding of bad faith, reasonable attorney's fees for advising and representing a health care provider in a successful action against an insurer for payment of the claim.

IV. Exceptions to the requirements of this section are as follows:

(a) No insurer shall be in violation of this section for a claim submitted by a health care provider if:

(1) Failure to comply is caused by a directive from a court or a federal or state agency;

(2) The insurer is in liquidation or rehabilitation or is operating in compliance with a court-ordered plan of rehabilitation; or

(3) The insurer's compliance is rendered impossible due to matters beyond the insurer's control which are not caused by such insurer.

(b) No insurer shall be in violation of this section for any claim submitted more than 90 days after the service was rendered.

(c) No insurer shall be in violation of this section while the claim is pending due to a fraud investigation that has been reported to a state or federal agency, or an internal or external review process.

V. The commissioner may assess an administrative fine against any insurer or may suspend or revoke the license or certificate of authority of any insurer after determining that the insurer has established a pattern of overdue payments and that the contemplated enforcement action would not promote the deterioration of the financial condition of an at-risk insurer. Such fine shall be up to $5,000 per violation, not to exceed $100,000.

3 New Section; Prompt Payment Required. Amend RSA 415 by inserting after section 18-j the following new section:

415:18-k Prompt Payment Required.

I. Each insurer that issues or renews any policy of group or blanket accident or health insurance providing benefits for medical or hospital expenses for its insured persons shall pay for services rendered by New Hampshire health care providers within 45 calendar days upon receipt of a clean written claim or 15 calendar days upon receipt of a clean electronic claim. If the insurer is denying or pending the claim, the insurer shall have 15 calendar days upon receipt of the claim to notify the health care provider or certificate holder of the reason for denying or pending the claim and what, if any, additional information is required to process the claim. The insurer's failure to comply with the time limits in this section shall not have the effect of requiring coverage for an otherwise non-covered claim. This section shall only apply to payments made on a claims basis and shall not apply to capitation or other forms of periodic payment.

II. In this section:

(a) "Clean claim" means a claim for payment of covered health care expenses that is submitted to an insurer on the insurer's standard claim form using the most current published procedural codes, with all the required fields completed with correct and complete information in accordance with the insurer's published filing requirements.

(b) "Electronic claim" means the transmission of data for purposes of payment of covered health care services in an electronic data format specified by the insurer.

III. Any claim not paid within the time periods specified in paragraph I shall be deemed overdue. When a claim is overdue, the health care provider may notify the insurer in writing of the insurer's noncompliance with this section. If the insurer fails to pay the claim within 10 days of receiving the notice, then:

(a) The amount of the overdue claim shall include an interest payment of 1.5 percent per month beginning from the date the payment was due; and

(b) The health care provider may recover from the insurer, upon a judicial finding of bad faith, reasonable attorney's fees for advising and representing a health care provider in a successful action against an insurer for payment of the claim.

IV. Exceptions to the requirements of this section are as follows:

(a) No insurer shall be in violation of this section for a claim submitted by a health care provider if:

(1) Failure to comply is caused by a directive from a court or a federal or state agency;

(2) The insurer is in liquidation or rehabilitation or is operating in compliance with a court-ordered plan of rehabilitation; or

(3) The insurer's compliance is rendered impossible due to matters beyond the insurer's control which are not caused by such insurer.

(b) No insurer shall be in violation of this section for any claim submitted more than 90 days after the service was rendered.

(c) No insurer shall be in violation of this section while the claim is pending due to a fraud investigation that has been reported to a state or federal agency, or an internal or external review process.

V. The commissioner may assess an administrative fine against any insurer or may suspend or revoke the license or certificate of authority of any insurer after determining that the insurer has established a pattern of overdue payments and that the contemplated enforcement action would not promote the deterioration of the financial condition of an at-risk insurer. Such fine shall be up to $5,000 per violation, not to exceed $100,000.

4 New Section; Prompt Payment Required. Amend RSA 420-A by inserting after section 17-c the following new section:

420-A:17-d Prompt Payment Required.

I. Every health service corporation, and every other similar corporation licensed under the laws of another state that issues or renews any policy of individual or group blanket accident or health insurance providing benefits for medical or hospital expenses for its insured persons shall pay for services rendered by New Hampshire health care providers within 45 calendar days upon receipt of a clean written claim or 15 calendar days upon receipt of a clean electronic claim. If the health service corporation is denying or pending the claim, the corporation shall have 15 calendar days upon receipt of the claim to notify the health care provider or subscriber of the reason for denying or pending the claim and what, if any, additional information is required to process the claim. The corporation's failure to comply with the time limits in this section shall not have the effect of requiring coverage for an otherwise non-covered claim. This section shall only apply to payments made on a claims basis and shall not apply to capitation or other forms of periodic payment.

II. In this section:

(a) "Clean claim" means a claim for payment of covered health care expenses that is submitted to a health service corporation on the corporation's standard claim form using the most current published procedural codes, with all the required fields completed with correct and complete information in accordance with the corporation's published filing requirements.

(b) "Electronic claim" means the transmission of data for purposes of payment of covered health care services in an electronic data format specified by the corporation.

III. Any claim not paid within the time periods specified in paragraph I shall be deemed overdue. When a claim is overdue, the health care provider may notify the health service corporation in writing of the health service corporation's noncompliance with this section. If the health service corporation fails to pay the claim within 10 days of receiving the notice, then:

(a) The amount of the overdue claim shall include an interest payment of 1.5 percent per month beginning from the date the payment was due; and

(b) The health care provider may recover from the health service corporation, upon a judicial finding of bad faith, reasonable attorney's fees for advising and representing a health care provider in a successful action against an health service corporation for payment of the claim.

IV. Exceptions to the requirements of this section are as follows:

(a) No health service corporation shall be in violation of this section for a claim submitted by a health care provider if:

(1) Failure to comply is caused by a directive from a court or a federal or state agency;

(2) The corporation is in liquidation or rehabilitation or is operating in compliance with a court-ordered plan of rehabilitation; or

(3) The corporation's compliance is rendered impossible due to matters beyond the corporation's control which are not caused by such corporation.

(b) No health service corporation shall be in violation of this section for any claim submitted more than 90 days after the service was rendered.

(c) No health service corporation shall be in violation of this section while the claim is pending due to a fraud investigation that has been reported to a state or federal agency, or an internal or external review process.

V. The commissioner may assess an administrative fine against any health service corporation or may suspend or revoke the license or certificate of authority of any health service corporation after determining that the health service corporation has established a pattern of overdue payments and that the contemplated enforcement action would not promote the deterioration of the financial condition of an at-risk insurer. Such fine shall be up to $5,000 per violation, not to exceed $100,000.

5 New Section; Prompt Payment Required. Amend RSA 420-J by inserting after section 8 the following new section:

420-J:8-a Prompt Payment Required.

I. Health carriers issuing health benefit plans subject to this chapter shall pay claims submitted by health care providers for services rendered in New Hampshire to covered persons within 45 calendar days upon receipt of a clean written claim or 15 calendar days upon receipt of a clean electronic claim. If the health carrier is denying or pending the claim, the carrier shall have 15 calendar days upon receipt of the claim to notify the health care provider or covered person of the reason for denying or pending the claim and what, if any, additional information is required to process the claim. The health carrier's failure to comply with the time limits in this section shall not have the effect of requiring coverage for an otherwise non-covered claim. This section shall only apply to payments made on a claims basis and shall not apply to capitation or other forms of periodic payment.

II. In this section:

(a) "Clean claim" means a claim for payment of covered health care expenses that is submitted to a health carrier on the carrier's standard claim form using the most current published procedural codes, with all the required fields completed with correct and complete information in accordance with the carrier's published filing requirements.

(b) "Electronic claim" means the transmission of data for purposes of payment of covered health care services in an electronic data format specified by the health carrier.

III. Any claim not paid within the time periods specified in paragraph I shall be deemed overdue. When a claim is overdue, the health care provider may notify the health carrier in writing of the carrier's noncompliance with this section. If the health carrier fails to pay the claim within 10 days of receiving the notice, then:

(a) The amount of the overdue claim shall include an interest payment of 1.5 percent per month beginning from the date the payment was due; and

(b) The health care provider may recover from the carrier, upon a judicial finding of bad faith, reasonable attorney's fees for advising and representing a health care provider in a successful action against an carrier for payment of the claim.

IV. Exceptions to the requirements of this section are as follows:

(a) No health carrier shall be in violation of this section for a claim submitted by a health care provider if:

(1) Failure to comply is caused by a directive from a court or a federal or state agency;

(2) The health carrier is in liquidation or rehabilitation or is operating in compliance with a court-ordered plan of rehabilitation; or

(3) The carrier's compliance is rendered impossible due to matters beyond the carrier's control which are not caused by such carrier.

(b) No health carrier shall be in violation of this section for any claim submitted more than 90 days after the service was rendered.

(c) No health carrier shall be in violation of this section while the claim is pending due to a fraud investigation that has been reported to a state or federal agency, or an internal or external review determination pursuant to RSA 420-J:5, or RSA 420-J:5-a-e.

V. The commissioner may assess an administrative fine against any health carrier or may suspend or revoke the license or certificate of authority of any health carrier after determining that the health carrier has established a pattern of overdue payments and that the contemplated enforcement action would not promote the deterioration of the financial condition of an at-risk insurer. Such fine shall be up to $5,000 per violation, not to exceed $100,000.

6 Effective Date. This act shall take effect January 1, 2001.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill requires the department of health and human services to pay its dental and other health care providers for services rendered to medicaid recipients promptly.

This bill also requires insurers offering health benefit plans to pay health care providers in a timely manner.

SB 425-FN, relative to the private activity bond limit. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Gene B. Marshall for Commerce: This bill proposed an ongoing formula for allocating the state ceiling on private activity bond capitalization among users, including provisions for future increases in the ceiling. Establishing a stable, predictable base level of support for higher education loan programs was of particular interest. The committee felt that a statutory allocation was too rigid, and the matter could better be settled by agreements among the parties. The parties succeeded in arriving at written agreements acceptable to all, making this bill unnecessary. Vote 16-0.

SB 437-FN, relative to retail selling. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Stephen G. Avery for Commerce: This bill would have negated a bill that the House passed just last year. The committee felt it should not be a burden for businesses to supply both a phone number and an address for people with complaints or other inquires to access. Vote 14-2.

SB 302, relative to certain employment requirements for liquor licensees. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Robert M. Fesh for Criminal Justice and Public Safety: This bill specifies that restrictions on liquor licensees relating to the employment of convicted felons apply only to the designation of persons to be in charge of the premises. This bill also establishes a limited time period (60 days) within which to obtain the necessary waiver for the designation as a person to be in charge of the premises if the licensee is to employ a convicted felon to sell, serve, or otherwise handle alcoholic beverages. It also establishes a fine for noncompliance. The liquor commission agreed to this bill as amended. The bill would take effect 30 days after passage. Vote 15-0.

Amendment (4268h)

Amend RSA 179:23 as inserted by section 1 of the bill by inserting after paragraph V the following new paragraph:

VI. Notwithstanding paragraph V, a licensee may employ a person convicted of a felony to sell, serve or otherwise handle alcoholic beverages in a non-managerial capacity for a period of 60 days without meeting the provisions of paragraph V. A convicted felon employed under this section shall not be allowed to work longer than 60 days without the licensee complying with the provisions of paragraph V. Any licensee knowingly employing a person convicted of a felony to serve alcoholic beverages longer than 60 days without obtaining a waiver under paragraph V shall be fined not more than $50 per day for each day of employment beyond 60 days.

Amend the bill by replacing section 3 with the following:

3 Effective Date. This act shall take effect 30 days after passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill specifies that restrictions on liquor licensees relating to the employment of convicted felons apply only to the designation of persons to be in charge of the premises. The bill limits the amount of time that a licensee can employ a convicted felon prior to obtaining the necessary waiver. It also establishes a fine for noncompliance.

SB 413-FN, relative to confidentiality of addresses for victims of domestic violence, stalking or sexual assault. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. William V. Knowles for Criminal Justice and Public Safety: This legislation makes it more difficult for a perpetrator to locate his or her victim in cases of domestic violence, stalking or sexual assault. They may use the address of the attorney general's office as their official address and he will forward their first class mail to them at their confidential address. Vote 15-0.

Amendment (4324h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

I New Subdivision; Address Confidentiality Program for Victims of Domestic Violence, Stalking, and Sexual Assault. Amend RSA 7 by inserting after section 40 the following new subdivision:

Address Confidentiality Program for Victims of Domestic Violence, Stalking, or Sexual Assault

7:41 Findings and Purpose. The legislature finds that persons attempting to escape from actual or threatened domestic violence, stalking, or sexual assault frequently establish new addresses in order to prevent their assailants or probable assailants from finding them. The purpose of this program is to enable state and local agencies to respond to requests for public records without disclosing the location of a victim of domestic violence, stalking, or sexual assault, to enable interagency cooperation with the attorney general in providing address confidentiality for victims of domestic violence, stalking, or sexual assault, and to enable state and local agencies to accept a program participant's use of an address designated by the attorney general as a substitute mailing address.

7:42 Definitions. As used in this subdivision:

I. "Address" means a residential street address, school address, or work address of an individual, as specified on the individual's application to be a program participant under this subdivision.

II. "Program participant" means a person certified as a program participant under RSA 7:43.

III. "Domestic violence" means an act as defined in RSA 173-B and includes a threat of such acts committed against an individual in a domestic situation, regardless of whether these acts or threats have been reported to law enforcement officers.

IV. "Sexual assault" means an act as defined in RSA 632-A.

V. "Stalking" means an act as defined in RSA 633:3-a.

7:43 Address Confidentiality Program.

I. An adult person, a parent or guardian acting on behalf of a minor, or a guardian acting on behalf of an incapacitated person, may apply to the attorney general to have an address designated by the attorney general serve as the person's address or the address of the minor or incapacitated person. The attorney general shall approve an application if it is filed in the manner and on the form prescribed by the attorney general and if it contains:

(a) A sworn statement by the applicant that the applicant has good reason to believe that the applicant, or the minor or incapacitated person on whose behalf the application is made, is a victim of domestic violence, stalking, or sexual assault; and that the applicant fears for his or her safety, or his or her children's safety, or the safety of the minor or incapacitated person on whose behalf the application is made.

(b) A designation of the attorney general as agent for purposes of service of process and for the purpose of receipt of mail.

(c) The mailing address where the applicant can be contacted by the attorney general, and the phone number or numbers where the applicant can be called by the attorney general.

(d) The new address or addresses that the applicant requests not be disclosed for the reason that disclosure will increase the risk of domestic violence, stalking, or sexual assault; and

(e) The signature of the applicant and the date on which the applicant signed the application.

II. Applications shall be filed with the attorney general.

III. Upon filing a properly completed application, the attorney general shall certify the applicant as a program participant. Applicants shall be certified for 4 years following the date of filing unless the certification is withdrawn or invalidated before that date.

IV. A person who falsely attests in an application that disclosure of the applicant's address would endanger the applicant's safety or the safety of the applicant's children or the minor or incapacitated person on whose behalf the application is made, or who knowingly provides false or incorrect information upon making an application, shall be guilty of a class B misdemeanor.

7:44 Certification Cancellation.

I. If the program participant obtains a name change, he or she loses certification as a program participant and may immediately reapply for certification under their new name.

II. The attorney general may cancel a program participant's certification if there is a change in the residential address from the one listed on the application, unless the program participant provides the attorney general notice of the change of address within 7 days.

III. The attorney general may cancel certification of a program participant if mail forwarded by the secretary to the program participant's address is returned as nondeliverable.

IV. The attorney general shall cancel certification of a program participant who applies using false information.

7:45 Agency Use of Designated Address.

I. A program participant may request the state and local agencies use the address designated by the attorney general as his or her address. When creating a new public record, state and local agencies shall accept the address designated by the attorney general as a program participant's substitute address, unless the attorney general had determined that:

(a) The agency has a bona fide statutory or administrative requirement for the use of the address which would otherwise be confidential under this subdivision; and

(b) This address will be used only for those statutory and administrative purposes.

II. A program participant may use the address designated by the attorney general as his or her work address.

III. The attorney general shall forward all first class mail to the appropriate program participants.

7:46 Voting by Program Participants.

I. A program participant who is otherwise qualified to vote may apply as a absentee voter. The program participant shall automatically receive absentee ballots for all elections in the jurisdictions for which that individual resides in the same manner as absentee voters pursuant to RSA 657:15. Notwithstanding RSA 654, neither the name nor the address of a program participant shall be included in any list of registered voters available to the public.

II. The city or town clerk shall not make the participant's address contained in voter registration records available for public inspection or copying except under the following circumstances:

(a) If requested by a law enforcement agency, to the law enforcement agency; and

(b) If directed by a court order, to a person identified in the order.

7:47 Disclosure of Records Prohibited; Exceptions. The attorney general shall not make any records in a program participant's file available for inspection or copying, other than the address designated by the attorney general, except under the following circumstances:

I. If requested by a law enforcement agency, to the law enforcement agency.

II. If directed by a court order, to a person identified in the order.

III. If certification has been cancelled; or

IV. To verify the participation of a specific program participant, in which case the attorney general may only confirm participation in the program.

7:48 Assistance for Program Applicants. The attorney general shall refer participants to crisis centers that provide counseling and shelter services to either victims of domestic violence, stalking, or sexual assault to assist persons applying to be program participants.

2 Effective Date. This act shall take effect January 1, 2001.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill establishes in the office of the attorney general an address confidentiality program for victims of domestic violence, stalking, or sexual assault which would allow victims to establish the attorney general as their mailing address for purposes of requests for public records by state and local agencies, and for receiving service of process and regular mail.

SB 444-FN, relative to methadone maintenance treatment. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE
Rep. Maxwell D. Sargent for Criminal Justice and Public Safety: The committee received two methadone maintenance bills at the same time, SB 444-FN and SB 445-FN. The decision was made to combine the material from both into SB 445-FN, and therefore, this bill was no longer needed. Vote 14-0.

SB 470, relative to the administrative authority of the board of trustees for the regional community-technical colleges. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT
Rep. Warren C. Henderson for Education: As amended, SB 470 directs the Commission on the status of community-technical education to examine the feasibility of allowing the regional community-technical college board of trustees to appoint and fix the compensation of the college presidents, as part of their existing study. That report is due by November 1, 2000. The committee supports the goals and the work of the community-technical college system and believes that this measure will assure that the subject of compensation for the community-technical college presidents is addressed within the context of other issues related to the system. Vote 12-0.

Amendment (4409h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to the duties of the commission on the status of community-technical education.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Commission on the Status of Community-Technical Education; Duties Expanded. Amend 1998, 272:37, II to read as follows:

II. The areas of study shall include, but are not limited to:

(a) The classified state employee classification series.

(b) The rights and benefits provided to all faculty and staff of the New Hampshire regional community-technical colleges including wages, insurance, pension, personnel rules, and bargaining rights.

(c) The feasibility of allowing the regional community-technical college board of trustees to appoint and fix the compensation of the presidents of the regional community-technical college system.

(d) Any other area of inquiry that the commission deems relevant or necessary to its main purpose.

2 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill expands the duties of the commission on the status of community-technical education established in 1998, 272 to include studying the feasibility of allowing the regional community-technical college board of trustees to appoint and fix the compensation of the presidents of the regional community-technical colleges.

HB 1369-FN-L, clarifying authority to regulate asbestos. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT
Rep. Robert S. Mercer for Executive Departments and Administration: This bill was referred to the Executive Departments and Administration Committee to review the rulemaking provisions. The committee amended the bill to clarify certain authority given to the Commissioner of Health and Human Services and the Commissioner of Environmental Services to regulate asbestos licensing and disposal sites. No changes were made that would compromise the states authority to run the federal program. No changes were made regarding the policy established by the House Environment and Agriculture Committee. Vote 16-0.

Amendment (4349h)

Amend RSA 141-E:1, IV and V as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

IV. Relative to asbestos abatement activities, as defined by RSA 141-E:2, II, it shall be the responsibility of the department of health and human services, in consultation with the commissioner of environmental services, to carry out this policy in accordance with RSA 141-E:3, I and RSA 141-E:6-11, and in such a manner as to avoid direct conflict with other state and federal requirements.

V. Relative to management of asbestos disposal sites, as defined by RSA 141-E:2, III, it shall be the responsibility of the department of environmental services, in consultation with the department of health and human services, to carry out this policy in accordance with RSA 141-E:3, II and RSA 141-E:21-25, in lieu of RSA 149-M as previously carried out, and in such a manner as to avoid direct conflict with other state and federal requirements.

Amend RSA 141-E:4, I(1) as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

(1) Procedures for exemption and waiver from the requirements of RSA 141-E:10 and RSA 141-E:11.

Amend RSA 141-E:5, I and II as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

I. The governor or the governor's designee;

II. The attorney general or the attorney general's designee;

Amend RSA 141-E:10, I as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

I. Any contractor, employer, or individual which engages in asbestos abatement activities or activities involving the disturbance of asbestos at asbestos disposal sites shall first obtain a license from the department, except for:

(a) Individuals exempt pursuant to paragraph II below;

(b) Individuals exempt by rules adopted by the commissioner of health and human services in accordance with RSA 141-E:4, I(1);

(c) Owners of single family owner occupied properties who personally perform asbestos abatement within the confines of their private properties; and

(d) Individuals who obtain a waiver from the licensing requirements of this section.

Amend RSA 141-E:10, IV as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

IV. The license or a certified copy thereof shall be available at the worksite for inspection by representatives of the department, the commissioner of environmental services, or an authorized representative of the local government.

Amend RSA 141-E:11, I as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

I. Employees and other individuals who engage in asbestos abatement, school asbestos abatement planning, or disturbance of asbestos at any asbestos disposal site shall first obtain a certificate of training from the department, except for:

(a) Individuals exempt pursuant to rules adopted by the commissioner of health and human services in accordance with RSA 141-E:4, I(1);

(b) Owners of single family owner occupied properties who personally perform asbestos abatement within the confines of their private properties; and

(c) Individuals who obtain a waiver from the certification requirements of this section.

Amend RSA 141-E:11, III as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

III. The certificate or a certified copy thereof shall be readily available at the worksite for inspection by the representatives of the department, the commissioner of environmental services, or an authorized representative of the local government.

Amend RSA 141-E:13, II as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

II. If the property owner refuses to consent to the inspection, the commissioner of health and human services or the commissioner of environmental services may obtain an administrative inspection warrant under RSA 595-B.

III. Any information, other than asbestos contamination or exposure data, relating to secret processes or methods of manufacture or production obtained in the course of such inspection shall not be disclosed by any representative of the department of health and human services or commissioner of environmental services without permission of the person whose worksite is inspected.

Amend RSA 141-E:14, II as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

II. Whenever the commissioner of environmental services has reason to believe that any provision of RSA 141-E:9 or any rule adopted by the commissioner of environmental services under this chapter has been violated, the commissioner of environmental services shall issue a notice of violation and an order of abatement. The commissioner of environmental services may request the attorney general to bring a civil action in superior court for appropriate relief, including a temporary or permanent injunction or both, to enforce any provision of RSA 141-E:9 or any rule adopted by him or her under this chapter, or any order issued by him or her pursuant to this chapter.

Amend RSA 141-E:15, II as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

II. Notwithstanding RSA 651:2, any person found guilty pursuant to paragraph I above may, in addition to any sentence of imprisonment, probation, or conditional discharge, be fined not more than $25,000. Each day of violation shall constitute a separate offense.

Amend RSA 141-E:19 as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

141-E:19 Discharge of or Discrimination Against Employees. Pursuant to RSA 275-E, no employer shall discharge or cause to be discharged or otherwise discipline or in any manner discriminate against any employee, prospective employee, or employee representative because that person has filed any complaint or has instituted or caused to be instituted any proceeding related to the provisions of this chapter.

Amend RSA 141-E:21 as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

141-E:21 Release Prohibited; Asbestos Waste Sites.

I. No person shall cause or allow asbestos fibers to be released to the environment from an asbestos disposal site.

II. A site owner who has complied with the disclosure requirements in RSA 141-E:23 shall not be subject to penalties under this chapter due to a release caused by any person to whom disclosure was provided in accordance with RSA 141-E:23, III, provided that the owner takes steps to prevent further release of asbestos fibers.

III. A site owner who causes a release because the existence of asbestos on the property was unknown prior to causing the release, shall not be subject to penalties under this chapter, provided that the owner reports the situation to the department of environmental services upon discovery and takes steps to prevent further release of asbestos fibers.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill clarifies the authority of the department of environmental services to regulate asbestos disposal sites in a manner consistent with federal law. This bill authorizes the department of health and human services to expand its asbestos licensing program to include persons who disturb asbestos waste at asbestos disposal sites. This bill authorizes the department of environmental services to consult with local officials to determine an effective means to implement best management practices for those properties where asbestos waste materials were disposed of in substantial quantity in the past. This bill also provides that a site owner who complies with disclosure requirements or who did not know of the existence of asbestos on the property prior to release and subsequently reports the situation, and takes steps to prevent further release of asbestos, shall not be subject to penalties under RSA 141-E.

This bill is a request of the department of environmental services.

SB 226-FN, relative to the real estate practice act and the powers and duties of the real estate commission. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Alida I. Millham for Executive Departments and Administration: The New Hampshire Real Estate Practice Act regulates the practice of real estate brokers and salespersons. This bill makes revisions in the act that are mostly clarifying and editorial in nature. Also included is a process for appointing and swearing in alternate members to ensure a quorum for hearings; a requirement of 60 hours of approved study as a qualification for licensure; and revising the law regarding prohibited conduct about paying commissions to unlicensed persons. Vote 16-0.

Amendment (4235h)

Amend the bill by replacing sections 3 and 4 with the following:

3 Commission Members; Alternates. Amend RSA 331-A:5, VIII to read as follows:

VIII. The commission shall hold at least 4 regular meetings each year. A simple majority of the commission members currently serving shall constitute a quorum of the commission. Whenever a quorum of commission members is unable to hear a particular case, the commission may appoint one or more former commission members as alternates to hear that case, starting with the most recent member to leave the commission and proceeding in reverse chronological order of former members. Alternates shall be appointed and sworn in on a case-by-case basis only, and shall receive compensation as provided for members under RSA 331-A:5, VI.

4 Qualifications for Licensure. Amend RSA 331-A:10 to read as follows:

331-A:10 Qualifications For Licensure. The executive director shall issue a license to any applicant who:

I. Has attained the age of ~~[majority]~~ 18, if a salesperson applicant.

II. Has successfully completed an examination administered or approved by the commission which demonstrates satisfactory knowledge and understanding of the principles of real estate practice. The executive director shall only accept for registration to take the examination for a broker's license, an applicant who:

(a) Has been employed full time by an active broker for at least one year; or

(b) Has at least 2,000 part-time hours as a licensed salesperson in this state; or

(c) Proves to the commission that the applicant has experience equivalent to the experience required by subparagraph (a) or (b).

III. Shows proof of completion of 60 hours of approved study.

IV. Demonstrates no record of unprofessional conduct.

~~[V]~~V. Furnishes any evidence required by the commission relative to good reputation for honesty, trustworthiness and integrity.

~~[V]~~VI. For ~~[an individual]~~ a broker ~~[license including]~~ acting as a principal broker or a managing broker, but excluding associate brokers or a corporation, partnership, limited liability company, or association, files a surety bond with the commission which shall be held in accordance with RSA ~~[331-A:13]~~ 331-A:14.

Amend the bill by replacing section 19 with the following:

19 Prohibited Conduct; Consideration Shared with Out-of-State Brokers. Amend RSA 331-A:26, XXIV to read as follows:

XXIV. Paying or offering to pay valuable consideration, as defined by the commission, to any person not licensed under this chapter ~~[or not a member of an exempted class under RSA 331-A]~~, except that valuable consideration may be shared with a licensed broker of another jurisdiction who is doing business regularly and legally within that broker's own jurisdiction. No licensee shall knowingly pay a commission or other valuable consideration to a licensed person knowing that the licensee will in turn pay a portion or all of that which is received to a person who does not hold a valid real estate license. A licensee who has allowed his or her license to expire or who has changed to inactive status or who has transferred to another responsible broker may receive compensation from the previous responsible broker for transactions in which the person participated during the time that the licensee was under the supervision of that responsible broker. Amend the bill by deleting sections 5-6 and renumbering the original sections 7-24 to read as 5-22, respectively.

Amend the bill by replacing section 22 with the following:

22 Effective Date. This act shall take effect January 1, 2001.

SB 326, relative to the joint health council. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Alida I. Millham for Executive Departments and Administration: The amendment replaces the entire bill. It provides for the appointment to membership of the joint health council by staggering terms. This includes the appointment of two newly added council members. The committee agreed that without the amendment, too much institutional memory could be lost. Vote 15-0.

Amendment (4347h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Joint Health Council; Terms. Upon the enactment of HB 1410 of the 2000 legislative session into law, members of the joint health council serving on the council as of the effective date of that act shall complete their existing terms of appointment. Upon expiration of those terms, members shall be appointed pursuant to RSA 326-B:10-a, I(a).

2 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill allows current members of the joint health council to serve out the duration of their terms of appointment, notwithstanding the passage of HB 1410 of the 2000 legislative session.

SB 328, making corrections to statutory references in certain fish and game laws and adding a rulemaking provision. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Robert S. Mercer for Executive Departments and Administration: This bill was referred to the Executive Departments and Administration Committee to review the rulemaking provisions. The committee amended the bill to change the procedure for adopting rules relating to the regulation of marine species. The amendment allows the executive director of the Fish and Game Department to promulgate rules with the approval of the Fish and Game Commission and upon the advice and cooperation of the advisory committee on shore fisheries. This continues the present practice and maintains the sportsmen's voice on these matters. Vote 15-0.

Amendment (4237h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT making corrections to statutory references in certain fish and game laws.

Amend the bill by deleting section 5 and renumbering the original section 6 to read as 5.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill corrects certain references to licensing provisions in the fish and game laws.

SB 446, relative to the integration of information technology at the state, county and municipal levels. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Sylvia A. Holley for Executive Departments and Administration: This bill clarifies the process for developing information technology plans and modifies the membership of the New Hampshire Council on Applied Technology and Innovation. The amendment defines the term "stakeholder". Vote 16-0.

Amendment (4209h)

Amend the bill by inserting after section 5 the following and renumbering the original section 6 to read as section 7:

6 Definition of Stakeholder. Amend RSA 9:1 to read as follows:

9:1 Terms Used. In this chapter, the term "department" or "establishment" means any executive department, commission, board, institution, bureau, office, or other agency of the state government, by whatever name called, other than the legislature and the state judicial branch, that uses, expends or receives any state funds; the term "state funds" means any and all moneys appropriated by the legislature, or money collected by or for the state, or any agency thereof, pursuant to authority granted in any of its laws; the term "budget" means the budget document by this chapter required to be transmitted to the legislature[-]; the term "stakeholder" means a person and/or group which can affect or is affected by the development, design, an/or development of information technology systems.

SB 461, establishing a committee to study the creation of a flag to honor all police departments in the state. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. David G. Poulin for Executive Departments and Administration: The majority of the committee does not feel that a study committee is needed or appropriate to design a flag that honors police departments. The majority believes that the appropriate design for such a flag would best be created by the members of law enforcement agencies themselves. No need exists for legislature involvement in this matter except to approve the final design, which represents all police departments in the state. The majority is not opposed to creation of a flag but does not see the need for a study committee. Vote 15-0.

HB 1469, relative to the organization of the juvenile justice system in New Hampshire and making an appropriation therefor. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Marjorie K. Smith for Finance: The amendment to this bill is supported by both the Finance and Children and Family Law (CFL) committees. The chair and several CFL committee members participated in Division III's executive sessions concerning HB 1469, and other key House members particularly interested in the subject matter of the bill were consulted and agreed to the amendment. As amended, the bill accomplishes two important tasks. First, it creates an advisory board to review the activities of the Department of Youth Development Services and to make recommendations about program and other matters to the administration of DYDS as well as to the Governor, President of the Senate and Speaker of the House. It is the committee's hope that the work of the board will result in increased accountability, improved services for juveniles under the jurisdiction of DYDS, and better fiscal management. Secondly, the bill, as amended, changes the job title of those DHHS employees who work directly with Children in Need of Services (CHINS) and delinquents from "Juvenile Services Officers" to "Juvenile Probation and Parole Officers". The legislation makes clear that the change in title does not reflect any change in job responsibilities and will not result in eligibility for Group II retirement, the law enforcement salary schedule, or for certification and training at the Police Standards and Training Council, except as otherwise provided by statute. The name change is supported by the department and the JSOs, the latter having advocated for this change for many years. Vote 24-0.

Amendment (4482h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT establishing a department of youth development services, advisory board, and relative to changing the name of juvenile services officers.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

I Statement of Purpose. The general court hereby states that the change from "juvenile services officer" to "juvenile probation and parole officer" in this act is intended simply to change the job title and does not reflect a change in job responsibilities. It is the specific intent of the general court that juvenile probation and parole officers shall not be eligible for group II retirement benefits within the New Hampshire retirement system, for participation in the law enforcement salary schedule, or for certification or training from the police standards and training council, except as provided in RSA 188-F:32.

2 New Subdivision; Department of Youth Development Services; Advisory Board Established. Amend RSA 621-A by inserting after section 8 the following new subdivision:
Advisory Board

621-A:9 Department of Youth Development Services Advisory Board Established; Membership.

I. There is hereby established a department of youth development services advisory board. The board shall act in an advisory capacity and make recommendations to the commissioner relative to programs and services provided to children referred to the department pursuant to RSA 169-B.

II. The board shall be composed of the following members:

(a) Two members from the house of representatives, one of whom shall be a member of the house finance committee, appointed by the speaker of the house.

(b) One member from the senate, appointed by the president of the senate.

(c) The commissioner of the department of youth development services or designee, who shall serve as an ex officio member.

(d) The commissioner of the department of health and human services or designee, who shall serve as an ex officio member.

(e) The commissioner of the department of education or designee, who shall serve as an ex officio member.

(f) One district or family court judge, appointed by the administrative justice of the district courts.

(g) Two human services administrators, one from an urban county and one from a rural county, appointed by the executive director or other appropriate appointing authority of the New Hampshire Association of Counties.

(h) Six members, appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the council, which shall include 2 members representing the interests of business and industry, 2 parents of children who are receiving or have received services from the department, one member of state or local law enforcement, and one member from the general public.

III. Members of the advisory board shall serve without compensation provided that legislative members shall receive mileage at the legislative rate while attending to the duties of the board.

621-A:10 Terms of Office; Organization.

I. The legislative members and the members listed in RSA 621-A:9, II(c) – (f) shall serve terms which are coterminous with their terms in office. The members listed in RSA 621-A:12, II(g) shall serve for 3 years. Three of the members listed in RSA 621-A:9, II(h) shall serve for 4 years, and 3 members shall serve for 3 years.

II. Each appointed member of the advisory board shall hold office until a successor is appointed and qualified. The appointment of successors for the filling of vacancies for unexpired terms shall be by appointment in the same manner as the original appointment.

III. The advisory board shall elect its own chairperson and officers annually. The board shall meet monthly, or as deemed necessary, provided that the board shall meet at least once every 3 months.

621-A:11 Duties of the Advisory Board.

I. The advisory board shall act in an advisory capacity to assist the commissioner of the department of youth development services relative to programs and services provided to children who are referred to the department. The board may also provide advice and input on fiscal and budgetary matters within the department, the availability of state and federal grants, business partnerships, and other funding sources available to the department.

II. Beginning in December 2000, and annually thereafter, the board shall submit a written report to the speaker of the house, the president of the senate, and the governor detailing the activities of the board and any recommendations made by the board to the department.

3 New Hampshire Retirement System; Definitions; Juvenile Probation, and Parole Officers Excluded from Group II Membership. Amend RSA 100-A:1, VII-a (b) to read as follows:

(b) Any bingo or lucky 7 inspector, security officer appointed pursuant to RSA 135:41, any juvenile probation and parole officer, or any person employed in the bureau of trails of the department of resources and economic development; or

4 Youth Development Center; Definitions; Juvenile Probation and Parole Officer Inserted. Amend RSA 621:3, VIII to read as follows:

VIII. "Parole" means a conditional release from the center which allows the child to serve the remainder of his or her commitment outside the center, supervised by a juvenile probation and parole officer, contingent upon satisfactory compliance with the terms and conditions set forth in the parole agreement.

5 Reference Changes. Amend the following RSA provisions by replacing "juvenile services officer" with "juvenile probation and parole officer": RSA 169-B:2, VIII(c); 169-B:9, I; 169-B:9-a; 169-B:10, II; 169-B:19, I(j) the unnumbered concluding paragraph of 169-B:24; 169-B:25; 169-B:30; 169-C:3, XXIV; 169-C:6, I-III; 169-C:34, IV; 169-D:8, II; 169-D:9, I; 169-D:9-a; and 170-G:1, VI.

6 Reference Changes. Amend the following RSA provisions by replacing "juvenile service officers" with "juvenile probation and parole officers": RSA 169-B:35, II; 169-D:2, VI(c); 169-D:25, II; 170-G:3, III; 170-G:4, II-a; 170-G:15; and 170-G:16.

7 Effective Date. This act shall take effect July 1, 2000.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill establishes a department of youth development services advisory board for the purpose of making recommendations to the commissioner relative to programs and services provided to children referred to the department. The bill also changes the title of "juvenile services officer" to "juvenile probation and parole officer."

SB 136-FN, allowing certain state employees to take paid leave to participate in disaster relief service work. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Margaret A. Lynch for Finance: This bill allows the State of New Hampshire to join forty other states in promoting volunteerism among state employees. It allows a certified disaster relief services volunteer, employed by the state, to take up to fifteen working days a year of paid leave if requested for service by the American Red Cross. The leave must be approved by the employee's supervisor and would only be granted if there were no additional financial burdens caused by the employee's leave. There are currently only three state employees certified by the Red Cross as a "disaster relief volunteer." The amendment clarifies the intent of the sponsor of the bill and the ED&A Committee that the leave is intended to cover requests for assistance anywhere within the United States and not restricted to service only in New Hampshire.

Training and expenses for participating employees are provided by the American Red Cross. Vote 25-0.

Amendment (4264h)

Amend paragraph I of section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

I. Disaster leave for state employees will increase the number of local, trained, and experienced disaster workers. Training and expenses for participating employees are provided by the American Red Cross at no cost to the state or to the volunteers and leave days for employees are limited and require approval from their supervisor to assure orderly granting of requests based on competing demands. Experience on disaster assignments is an opportunity for state employees to learn new skills and gain supervisory experience that will benefit them personally, their agencies, and the citizens they serve. Their experience and training will make them ready to immediately serve when a disaster event occurs.

SB 318-FN, relative to proposed joint maintenance agreements. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Norman L. Major for Finance: This bill is the product of a study committee and enables school districts to utilize joint maintenance agreements and to issue bonds and be eligible for school building aid grants. It also amends existing legislation by repealing a specific existing joint maintenance agreement that was never consummated. This bill provides a process for school districts to combine for the purposes of building and maintaining a high school or other public school. The LBAO is unable to estimate the fiscal impact of this bill because the school districts that would enter into a joint maintenance agreement are unknown; the effect on local expenditures as a result of a joint maintenance agreement is not known; the cost of building and maintaining a school may be more or less costly than the existing tuition contracts; and the increase in the amount the state will pay for building aid as a result of joint maintenance agreements cannot be estimated. Despite this uncertainty it is believed the fiscal impact will not be significant. Vote 22-1.

SB 324, relative to personal care services and providers. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Francine Wendelboe for Finance: This bill allows certain individuals eligible under Medicaid to receive home care services the option of receiving personal care services, including consumer-directed services, from a home health agency or other qualified agency. This option would increase consumer choice, provide improved services and availability of caregivers and potentially reduce costs. There was strong policy support during the hearing. The Department of Health and Human Services gave strong assurances that this would neither expand eligibility nor increase costs. Finance amended the bill to include periodic fiscal and quality-based reports on the results of this option. The definition of eligible consumer was also clarified. Vote 24-0.

Amendment (4479h)

Amend RSA 161-I:2, IV as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

IV. "Eligible consumer" means a child with special health care needs eligible for in-home supports or a person eligible for the home and community-based care waiver for the elderly and chronically ill.

Amend RSA 161-I:4 as inserted by section 1 of the bill by inserting after paragraph V the following new paragraph:

VI. Beginning September 2000, the department shall provide a quarterly report to the governor, the president of the senate, and the speaker of the house of representatives relative to the number of clients served and expenditures under the home and community-based care waiver for the elderly and chronically ill, and beginning in December 2000 an annual report on such qualitative measures on the care delivered as the department deems appropriate.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill allows certain individuals and families of these individuals the option of receiving personal care services, including consumer-directed services, from a home health agency or other qualified agency. This bill gives the commissioner of health and human services rulemaking authority relative to requirements for the use of consumer-directed services for department programs and the provision of personal care services. This bill also requires the department of health and human services to provide a quarterly report relative to the number of clients served and expenditures under the home and community-based care waiver for the elderly and chronically ill, and an annual report on qualitative measures on the care delivered as the department deems appropriate.

SB 389-FN, relative to benefit options for surviving spouses and designated beneficiaries of deceased members of the retirement system. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Joseph E. Stone for Finance: This bill updates the year of eligibility of active and retired group II members for the payment of medical benefits costs by the New Hampshire retirement system. The system indicates this bill extends group II medical benefits to policemen and firemen who became members of the retirement system prior to July 1, 1997 and group II employees who became members between July 1, 1997 and July 1, 2000, and subsequently become disabled at any time in the future. The current provisions under RSA 100-A:55 limit this benefit to only those who became members of the system before July 1, 1995. There will be no fiscal impact on state, county and local revenues or expenditures according to the New Hampshire retirement system. Vote 22-1.

SB 392-FN, relative to the use of nonlapsed funds by the regional community-technical colleges. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Linda T. Foster for Finance: This bill gives the community technical colleges needed flexibility to respond to emergency expenditures without resorting to raising tuition costs. Presently, the community technical colleges can use lapsed funds only for establishing or enhancing academic offerings. In other state agencies, lapses are deposited in a salary adjustment account. The technical colleges currently budget and pay for these adjustments from revenue. Under this bill they will continue that practice. Moreover, the case for determining an "emergency" would still be made before the commissioner, the board of trustees, the fiscal committee and the governor and council. Vote 25-0.

SB 399-FN-A, making an appropriation to the fish and game department for the purposes of the wildlife damage control program. REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY

Rep. Dennis F. Abbott for Finance: This bill, as passed by the Senate, appropriates the sum of one dollar for establishing a game damage fund. Obviously this amount will not accomplish the intended result. Also, the bill does not address the necessary details needed to establish such a program. For example, who will administer the program and funds, who will be eligible to participate, what crops will be considered in the program and how much funding would be required? But the most important question will be whether or not the legislature wishes to expend general funds for such purposes. Presently the Fish and Game Department is beginning a major fencing program required by the passage of HB 704 earlier this year and it would be prudent to monitor the results of that program as it relates to the crop damage issue. It would be in the best interest to at least establish a direction for further legislation if deemed appropriate by the legislature so it is recommended that this bill be referred to study. Vote 23-1.

SB 415-FN-L, relative to payment of group health insurance premiums for eligible retired members of the retirement system. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Margaret A. Lynch for Finance: This bill provides for the payment of the cost of group health insurance for eligible retired political subdivision employees. The cost of this benefit has no fiscal impact on the general fund. The bill is terminally funded from the special account. The cost figures have been adjusted to reflect the actual cost of the terminal funding and the amendment reflects the correct figures ($36,384,000 from the group I employee special account and $16,781,000 from the group I teacher special account). Vote 21-1.

Amendment (4270h)

Amend the bill by replacing section 8 with the following:

8 Funding.

I. The sum of $36,384,000 is hereby transferred from the group I employee special account balance existing on June 30, 2000 for the purpose of funding RSA 100-A:52-a and RSA 100-A:53-c as inserted by this act.

II. The sum of $16,781,000 is hereby transferred from the group I teacher special account balance existing on June 30, 2000 for the purpose of funding RSA 100-A:52-a as inserted by this act.

SB 422-FN, relative to the housing security guarantee loan program. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Marjorie K. Smith for Finance: This bill clarifies the process of securing funding for the Department of Health and Human Services housing security guarantee loan program and establishes reporting requirements. Vote 23-0.

Amendment (4352h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after section 1 with the following:

2 Definitions; Guarantee Certificates. Amend RSA 126-A:52, II to read as follows:

II. "Guarantee certificate" means a document issued under this subdivision ~~[that pledges the full faith and credit of the state of New Hampshire]~~ for the payment of the security deposit it guarantees.

3 Allocation of the Housing Security Guarantee Program. Amend RSA 126-A:53, I to read as follows:

I. Upon application from a local housing security provider in such form as the department may require, the department may allocate and commit itself to issue, and the local housing security provider may be authorized to process applications and provide the ancillary services connected with the issuance of, guarantee certificates for the purposes of this subdivision. In no event shall the aggregate guarantee amounts allocated by the department to all local housing security providers exceed ~~[$1,000,000]~~ $2,000,000. The department shall allocate the aggregate guarantee certificate capacity authorized by this section in a manner which takes into account both housing needs and geographic diversity.

4 New Paragraph; Funding; Housing Security Guarantee Program. Amend RSA 126-A:53 by inserting after paragraph I the following new paragraph:

I-a. The department shall make payments either directly to the landlord or through the local housing security provider to the extent of the state's obligation under the terms of the guarantee certificates. The department shall be subrogated to the landlord's right title and interest in any amounts received pursuant to the lease or rental agreement. At the end of each fiscal year, the state treasurer shall reimburse the department for these amounts from funds not otherwise appropriated. The governor is hereby authorized to draw a warrant from funds not otherwise appropriated for the purposes of this subdivision.

5 New Paragraph; Reporting Requirements. Amend RSA 126-A:53 by inserting after paragraph II the following new paragraph:

III. The department shall make a report on or before December 1 of each year to the speaker of the house of representatives, the president of the senate, and the governor and council on the usage of the program and the success of its participants.

6 Periodic Payment Requirement. Amend RSA 126-A:56 to read as follows:

126-A:56 Periodic Payment Requirement. Beginning with the first month of tenancy and each month thereafter, a qualified tenant participating in this program shall make a monthly payment to the department of a fractional amount of the qualifying security deposit amount, which amount is determined by and adjustable with the approval of the local housing security provider. Notice of all adjustments to required payment amounts shall be forwarded to the department by the local housing security provider. The payments shall be made until the full amount of the security deposit guarantee has been received by the department. ~~[Amounts received by the department shall be held in a fund, known as the security deposit fund, established in RSA 126-A:62 for this purpose.]~~ In no event shall a qualified tenant's failure to make the periodic payments required by this section create a default under any lease or rental agreement for a subject housing unit. All amounts received by the department pursuant to RSA 126-A:56 shall not be a "security deposit" as defined by RSA 540-A:5, II.

7 Tenant's Right to Refund. Amend RSA 126-A:58 to read as follows:

126-A:58 Tenant's Right to Refund. In the event a tenancy is terminated before all periodic payments have been made to the department and no claim for redemption is brought by the landlord within the period specified, a qualified tenant may claim a refund of all payments made by the tenant and a cancellation of the tenant's written agreement to make any additional payments. The claims shall be brought by tenants within one year from the date of the termination of the tenancy. ~~[All payment amounts unclaimed at the end of the one-year period shall be held in a fund established in RSA 126-A:62 for the purpose of making payments upon redemption of guarantee certificates.]~~

8 Repeal. The following are repealed:

I. RSA 6:12, I(ggg), relative to the nonlapsing security deposit fund.

II. RSA 126-A:60, relative to guarantees of credit.

III. RSA 126-A:62, relative to the establishment of the nonlapsing security deposit fund.

9 Effective Date. This act shall take effect July 1, 2000.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill clarifies the process of securing funding for the department of health and human services' housing security guarantee loan program, and repeals certain references to the nonlapsing security deposit fund.

SB 428-FN-A, relative to the development of certain public health initiatives and making an appropriation therefor. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. William S. Belvin for Finance: This bill, as originally drafted and passed by the Senate, concerns the funding of the Health Care Fund used to financially support grants to local health agencies and organizations. These programs usually have been quite successful. However, by agreement with the Department of Health and Human Services and the Senate prime sponsor, the amendment removes sections 1 through 3 on purpose, a million dollar appropriation, and a reporting requirement. The remaining two sections in the original bill, continually appropriating Health Care Fund earnings to the fund, and maintaining the July 1, 2000 effective date, now constitute the entire bill. This approach accomplishes much of the original intent while recognizing the state's current fiscal circumstances. Vote 25-0.

Amendment (4271h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to the health care fund.

Amend the bill by deleting sections 1-3 and renumbering the original sections 4 and 5 to read as sections 1 and 2, respectively.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill authorizes interest earnings from the health care fund to be continually appropriated to the department of health and human services.

SB 432-FN-A, relative to state assistance for teachers applying for national board certification. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Charles L. Vaughn for Finance: The chairman of the Education Committee and the bill's prime sponsor deemed the bill unnecessary. Although both wholeheartedly support teachers pursuing national professional teaching certification, thereby becoming master teachers, sufficient funding exists within the Department of Education for implementing the intent and purposes of the bill. Vote 20-4.

SB 448, establishing a guardians ad litem board. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Susan W. Almy for Finance: This bill came to Finance without funding or administrative attachment, but will have difficulty achieving its purpose without both. The Judicial Council agreed to give the new board a home and advocate for it, and we have transferred the never-used appropriation of $10,000 per annum for guardian ad litem regulation from the Judicial Branch's budget to fund the start-up of this new board, which will fulfill the same functions as the original budget line. Vote 21-3.

Amendment (4304h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT establishing a guardian ad litem board.

Amend RSA 463:33 as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

463:33 Board Established. There is hereby established a guardian ad litem board which shall be responsible for overseeing the credentialing, activities, and discipline for guardians ad litem appointed in New Hampshire.

Amend section 1 of the bill by inserting after RSA 463:37 the following new RSA section:

463:38 Administrative Attachment. The board shall be administratively attached to the judicial council.

Amend the bill by replacing all after section 1 with the following:

5 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill establishes a guardian ad litem board responsible for the training, licensing, discipline, and other activities of guardians ad litem in New Hampshire and also provides that the board shall be administratively attached to the judicial council. The bill also provides $10,000 in startup costs to the board.

This bill is a request of the study committee established in 1999, 30 (SB 130).

SB 450-FN, prohibiting the importation of tobacco products that violate federal law. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Charles L. Vaughn for Finance: This bill prohibits the importation of tobacco products that violate federal law. The legislation protects revenues to which the state is entitled under the Master Settlement Agreement, at the same time contributing to public health and safety. Amendments were added with the advice and consent of the attorney general's office refining legal definitions and terms in the original bill. The enforcement of the bill can be accomplished with existing resources in the Department of Revenue Administration. Vote 24-0.

Amendment (4476h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 New Subdivision; Importation of Certain Tobacco Products Prohibited. Amend RSA 78 by inserting after section 32 the following new subdivision:

Importation of Certain Tobacco Products Prohibited

78:33 Preservation of Revenues. The general court hereby finds, determines, and declares that this subdivision is necessary for the protection of revenues to which the state is entitled under the Master Settlement Agreement between the state and the tobacco industry. The general court also finds, determines, and declares that this subdivision is necessary for the preservation of the public health and safety.

78:34 Federal Requirements; Cigarettes and Other Tobacco Products; Placement of Labels; Penalty.

I. No person shall import into this state any package of tobacco products that does not comply with all federal requirements for the placement of labels, warnings and other information on a package of tobacco products manufactured, packaged, or imported for sale, distribution or use in the United States, including but not limited to the precise warning labels specified in the Federal Cigarette Labeling and Advertising Act, 15 U.S.C. 1333.

II. No person shall knowingly sell or offer to sell a package of tobacco products or affix the stamp or imprint required by this title on a package of tobacco products unless that package of tobacco products complies with all federal tax laws, federal trademark and copyright laws, and federal laws regarding the placement of labels, warnings, or any other information upon a package of tobacco products.

III. No person shall knowingly sell or offer to sell a package of tobacco products or affix the stamp or imprint required by this title on a package of cigarettes if the package bears any mark indicating that the manufacturer did not intend the tobacco products to be sold, distributed or used in the United States, including but not limited to labels stating "For Export Only," "U.S. Tax-Exempt," "For Use Outside U.S.," or similar wording, or if any label or language has been altered from the manufacturer's original packaging and labeling to conceal the fact that the product or package was manufactured for use outside of the United States.

IV. No person shall knowingly sell or offer to sell a package of tobacco products or affix the stamp or imprint required by this title on a package of cigarettes if the tobacco products were imported into the United States in violation of 26 U.S.C. 5754 or any other federal law, or implementing federal regulations, or if the person knows or has reason to know that the manufacturer did not intend the tobacco product to be sold, distributed or used in the United States.

V. No person shall knowingly sell or offer to sell a package of cigarettes or affix the stamp or imprint required by this title on a package of cigarettes if there has not been submitted to the Secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services the list or lists of ingredients added to tobacco in the manufacture of such cigarettes required by the Federal Cigarette Labeling and Advertising Act, 15 U.S.C. 1335a.

VI.(a) No person shall alter the package of any tobacco product prior to sale to the ultimate consumer, so as to remove, conceal or obscure the fact that the package was manufactured for use outside of the United States.

(b) No person shall knowingly sell or offer to sell a package of tobacco products that has been altered in violation of subparagraph (a).

VII. The penalty for violation of any provision of this section is loss of license for a period of 90 days for a first offense, loss of license for a period of one year for subsequent offenses, and a fine to be determined by the commissioner which shall not exceed $10,000.

VIII.(a) Any tobacco product or package of tobacco products found for sale at retail or wholesale at any place in this state in violation of this section shall be subject to forfeiture pursuant to RSA 78:16. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the commissioner to confiscate packages of tobacco products in quantities of one carton or less when the commissioner has reason to believe that the owner possesses the tobacco products for personal use.

(b) Any tobacco products seized by virtue of the provisions of subparagraph (a) shall be confiscated, and the department shall cause such confiscated goods to be destroyed.

IX. This subdivision shall not apply to:

(a) Tobacco products allowed to be imported or brought into the United States for personal use; and

(b) Tobacco products sold or intended to be sold as duty-free merchandise by a duty-free sales enterprise in accordance with the provisions of 19 U.S.C. 1555(b) and any implementing regulations, provided, however, that this act shall apply to any such tobacco products that are brought back into the customs territory for resale within the customs territory.

2 Effective Date. This act shall take effect January 1, 2001.

SB 453, relative to the expending of legacies or gifts and the transfer of funds by the regional community-technical colleges. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Norman L. Major for Finance: This bill allows the regional community-technical colleges to expend legacies and gifts without the approval of the governor and council and allows for the transfer of funds between line items within and among any budgetary unit in the regional community-technical colleges. This is largely a housekeeping bill that restores and clarifies flexibility within the community and technical colleges in two important areas. 1.) The first area is in the acceptance of legacies and gifts by the foundation. When the community and technical college system foundation was created in SB 503 (1998), the dollar limitation that could be accepted by the agency without governor and council approval was removed. When the dollar amount was removed, the language that allowed acceptance without governor and council approval was inadvertently dropped. This bill restores that language. 2.) The second area is in the ability to transfer funds between line items within and among any budgetary unit. As a revenue-generating agency, the community and technical colleges may move funds throughout the system as necessary. The agency has been exercising this ability for several years. Recently, administrative services noticed that the last sentence of section 188-F:14, section I, contradicts that flexibility. This bill removes the contradictory language. Vote 24-2.

SB 367, establishing a prescription drug access study committee. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Marion L. Copenhaver for Health, Human Services and Elderly Affairs: The committee strongly supported this prescription drug access study committee. The cost of prescription drugs is the "number one" issue facing the public today. Both the House and Senate are fully committed to doing a thorough study of this most important issue. Vote 18-0.

SCR 5, urging the New England states and New York to consider cooperative strategies to address the challenge of the high cost of prescription medicines. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Phyllis M. Katsakiores for Health, Human Services and Elderly Affairs: The committee voted Ought to Pass on this very important issue. The high price of prescription drugs in this country impacts most severely those most unable to pay, including many of our senior citizens. A recent study indicates that New Hampshire seniors pay a much greater amount for prescriptions than preferred customers, who obtain their prescription drugs through HMO's, hospitals, the federal government and other large insurers. It was agreed that an ongoing multi-state working group was needed to explore a range of options, including the feasibility of multi-state group purchasing agreements and the benefits of sharing best practices. Vote 17-0.

SB 335, allowing physicians to make a report when a person is unfit to drive a motor vehicle. REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY

Rep. Cynthia J. Dokmo for Judiciary: The intent of this legislation is to provide immunity to physicians who choose to notify the department of safety of the physician's concern that a person poses a risk to him/herself or to others by operating a motor vehicle. The committee wishes to study this matter to explore the concept of a medical review board and also to take into consideration a recent Supreme Court case regarding a physician's duty to warn. Vote 12-0.

SB 338, relative to trustee process. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. James W. Craig for Judiciary: Trustee process is the term used to describe the legal means by which a person can tie up another person's assets which are held by a third party such as a bank. This bill changes many of the technical aspects of the existing statute and it is the result of input and compromise by the legal and banking communities. Vote 12-0.

Amendment (4447h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Trustee Process; Writ; Trustee Disclosure Form. Amend RSA 512:3 to read as follows:

512:3 Writ. The trustee writ shall be an attachment and summons, and shall be served upon the defendant and trustee like a writ of summons, and the goods and estate of the defendant may be attached thereon. Concurrently therewith, the trustee shall be served with a trustee disclosure form in compliance with RSA 512:9-d. The first page of the attachment shall bear a notice in bold-face, in at least 12-point type, advising the trustee to complete and file the enclosed disclosure of trustee form with the court, the plaintiff, and the defendant within 30 days of receipt or suffer the risk of default. Return of the trustee disclosure form shall operate as an answer and an appearance on behalf of the trustee. A corporation summoned as trustee may appear and answer through its cashier, treasurer, clerk, or such other officer or employee as it shall appoint.

2 Trustee Process; Bank Accounts; Service. Amend RSA 512:9-b to read as follows:

512:9-b Bank Accounts. When a bank, trust company, building and loan association, or similar corporation is named as trustee, the trustee shall be summoned by service ~~on an officer, person in~~ charge, teller, or office employee of such bank, trust company, building and loan association, or similar corporation at its office if service is made during banking hours, and, if service is made at a time other than banking hours, by service on an officer of such bank, trust company, building and loan association, or similar corporation, and not otherwise. The trustee so served shall not be chargeable for any goods, rights, or credits of the defendant except as shall be in the hands of the trustee at the time of service] only upon a bank officer, branch supervisor, or head teller of a branch only from 8:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., Monday through Friday except bank holidays. The trustee so served shall be chargeable only for any money, goods, chattels, rights, or credits of the defendant in the trustee's hands at the time of service, subject to any reductions due the trustee for account fees, amounts alleged or determined not to belong to the defendant or other priority claims to defendant's money, goods, chattels, rights, or credits. If summoned by service after 3:00 p.m., the trustee shall have until the beginning of the next business day to effect the attachment.

3 New Sections; Trustee Process; Duties of Trustee; Trustee Disclosure Form; Extension for Filing Disclosure Form. Amend RSA 512 by inserting after section 9-b the following new sections:

512:9-c Duties of Trustee. The trustee so served shall place a hold on money, goods, chattels, rights, or credits of the defendant that are in the trustee's hands at the time of service, but shall have no duty to collect money, goods, chattels, rights, or credits either belonging to the defendant or that may become due or owing the defendant after that time.

512:9-d Trustee Disclosure Form. The trustee disclosure form served upon the trustee in compliance with RSA 512:3 shall include only the following interrogatories and nothing more:

"I. On what date were the trustee writ (including attachment and summons) and trustee disclosure form served upon you?";

"II. What money, rights, goods, chattels, and/or credits belonging to or due defendant did you hold at the time of service?";

"III. Are any of the money, rights, goods, chattels, and/or credits disclosed by you in response to interrogatory II subject to reductions for account fees and/or amounts alleged or determined not to belong to the defendant? If so, please state the amount and the basis."; and

"IV. At this time, are you aware whether the money, rights, goods, chattels, and/or credits disclosed by you in response to interrogatory II are subject to priority claims of other people? If so, please state the amount, the basis for the priority claims, and the claimants."

4 Trustee Process; Default of Trustee. Amend RSA 512:10 to read as follows:

512:10 Default. No person summoned as trustee in an action shall be charged on default until ~~he~~ that person shall have neglected to ~~answer in the action~~ file a properly served trustee disclosure form in a timely manner, after such notice as the court ~~or justice, at the term when the action is entered or at some subsequent term;~~ may order.

5 Trustee Process; Effect of Default. Amend RSA 512:11 to read as follows:

512:11 Effect. If the trustee ~~makes default after the notice provided in RSA 512:10 he~~ fails to file a trustee disclosure form with the court within 30 days of service of the trustee writ on the trustee, the trustee ~~shall~~ may be adjudged chargeable ~~for the amount of the judgment which may be recovered by the plaintiff against the defendant~~ for a sum up to the amount of the judgment which may be recovered by the plaintiff against the defendant.

6 Trustee Process; Taking of Trustee's Deposition. Amend RSA 512:12 to read as follows:

512:12 Taking. ~~Disclosure of trustees may be given or taken by any party to the action at any time after the service of the writ upon the trustee;~~ Within 30 days of the filing of the trustee disclosure with the court, the plaintiff or defendant shall be entitled to take trustee's deposition on the issue of trustee's chargeability upon such notice to the ~~adverse party~~ trustee as is required in taking depositions under court rules and upon the payment ~~or tender~~ to the trustee of ~~his~~ fees for travel and attendance ~~as in the case of witnesses~~.

7 New Section; Trustee Process; Evidentiary Hearing. Amend RSA 512 by inserting after section 18 the following new section:

512:18-a Evidentiary Hearing. If the court receives no objection to a trustee disclosure within 30 days of the date of receipt of such disclosure, the disclosure shall determine the chargeability of the trustee. If the plaintiff or the defendant files a written objection to the trustee disclosure within 30 days of receipt of the trustee's disclosure, or if the trustee fails to file a trustee disclosure form with the court within 30 days of service of the trustee writ on the trustee, the court shall schedule an evidentiary hearing on the extent of the trustee's chargeability.

8 Trustee Process; Charging Trustee. Amend RSA 512:20 to read as follows:

512:20 Charging Trustee. ~~[H:] Upon the filing of trustee disclosure not objected to within 60 days of filing [depositions in the case], or, [if there is a trial by jury:] upon the [verdict of the jury] court's decision following an evidentiary hearing on the trustee's chargeability, [it appears that] the court shall charge the trustee [had in his possession at the time of the service of the writ upon him, or at any time after:] for any money, goods, chattels, rights, or credits of the defendant in the trustee's possession at the time of the service of the writ and not exempted from trustee process, [he] or subject to any reductions for account fees, amounts alleged or determined not to belong to the defendant [shall be adjudged chargeable therefor] or other priority claims to defendant's money, goods, chattels, rights, or credits.~~

9 Trustee Process; Receiver for Property Disclosed; Refusal to Deliver. Amend RSA 512:32 to read as follows:

512:32 Refusal to Deliver. If the ~~[person summoned as]~~ trustee ~~[shall refuse]~~ refuses to deliver to ~~[the] a receiver[, agreeably to the order of court:]~~ appointed under RSA 512:29 or RSA 512:30 any note, security for money, evidence of debt, chose in action or other property, ~~[he shall be adjudged trustee for the value thereof] on the grounds that such property is not subject to trustee process, the court shall schedule an evidentiary hearing to determine the validity of such refusal. If, after the evidentiary hearing, the court determines that the property is subject to trustee process and orders the trustee to deliver the property, the trustee shall be adjudged chargeable for the value thereof.~~

10 Trustee Process; Paying Into Court. Amend RSA 512:39 to read as follows:

512:39 Paying into Court. The defendant or trustee may discharge the liability of the trustee by paying into court the sum for which the trustee is charged. Payment into court by the trustee shall discharge the trustee as a party to the underlying lawsuit.

11 Trustee Process; Costs; Order of Court. Amend RSA 512:43 to read as follows:

512:43 Order of Court. The trustee shall recover ~~[his]~~ the trustee's costs in all cases from the plaintiff except as provided in this chapter, unless otherwise ordered by the court, and the court shall adjust all costs in matters relating to trustee process as between the plaintiff and trustee or any claimant of property in the hands of the trustee as shall seem equitable. Such costs shall be retained by the trustee from the amount chargeable.

12 Trustee Process; Application of Provisions. Amend RSA 512:48 to read as follows:

512:48 Application of Provisions. The provisions of this chapter, so far as they are applicable to actions in municipal and district courts, shall apply to actions and proceedings therein and to process issued therefrom~~[-but no party summoned as trustee shall have judgment entered against him until after notice has been given him to disclose, or after disclosure made].~~

13 Effective Date. This act shall take effect January 1, 2001.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill:

I. Provides a process whereby filing with the court an inventory of assets held by a third-party trustee and due defendant shall constitute an appearance and no other formalities need be satisfied by the trustee, unless the inventory is challenged.

II. Provides that if a bank, trust company, or similar corporation is named as third-party trustee, and receives notice of attachment after 3:00 p.m. on a business day, such trustee shall have until the beginning of the next business day to effect the attachment.

III. Provides what constitutes default and the consequences of such default by a third-party trustee.

IV. Provides for an evidentiary hearing if the plaintiff or defendant disputes the extent of a third-party trustee's chargeability, or if the trustee denies property is subject to trustee process.

V. Provides a procedure whereby a trustee may pay assets into the court or turn assets over to a court-appointed receiver.

SB 464, relative to the use of municipal and school district facilities for stunt biking and relative to the sale of bicycles at public auction. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Loren J. Jean for Judiciary: This bill limits the liability of municipalities and school districts which allow stunt biking on public facilities by adding stunt biking to the statute which already limits liability for skateboarding. The amendment further amends RSA 471-C:13 to allow police departments to sell abandoned or lost bicycles regardless of their value (present statute sets a value of less than $250) and the monies from the sale to be used for the support of local bicycle safety programs. Vote 12-0.

Amendment (4364h)

Amend the bill by replacing section 2 with the following:

2 Custody and Escheat; Bicycles Held by Police Departments. Amend RSA 471-C:13 to read as follows:

471-C:13 Property Held in Police Department Property Rooms. Notwithstanding any other provisions of law to the contrary, all noncontraband abandoned or lost personal property which has been held in a police department property room for a period of at least 180 days may be disposed of by the police department by returning it to the finder, if known, if the finder was other than a police officer who discovered the property during the course of the police officer's usual police duties. If the property cannot be returned to the finder, the property shall be sold at public auction with the proceeds to be turned over to the town or city treasurer. Except that any bicycle which has been held in a police department property room for a period of 180 days or more shall be sold at public auction with the proceeds to be used for the support of local bicycle safety programs, or, if no local bicycle safety programs are available, then with the consent of the local governing body, to be used for any other purpose. The police department shall be relieved of all liability for any claim thereafter arising or made with respect to property disposed of under this section.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill limits the liability of municipalities and school districts which allow stunt biking in certain municipal or school district facilities and provides that bicycles held by police departments for 180 days or more shall be sold at public auction with the proceeds to be used for bicycle safety programs in the city or town.

SB 467, relative to the exemption from regulation of certain elevating devices. OUGHT TO PASS Rep. Robert E. Clegg, Jr. for Labor, Industrial and Rehabilitative Services: This bill allows the Commissioner of Labor to exempt from certain elevator requirements, elevating devices used as "dumbwaiters" in restaurants. Vote 12-0.

SB 345, relative to real estate transfers. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Anthony F. Simon for Municipal and County Government: There was considerable testimony on this bill. While the sponsors' intent is laudable, the Committee is concerned about the negative unintended consequences. There was testimony that eliminating a filing requirement would make it more difficult to detect fraudulent, or less than full value, real estate transfers. Additionally, at least some municipal officers utilize the data contained in the filings involving small consideration transfers. The Committee also feels that municipal officials already have sufficient authority to properly administer the reconveyance of tax taken property. Vote 19-0.

SB 471, relative to authorizing the town of Seabrook to establish a reserve fund for tax stabilization related to the decommissioning of the Seabrook nuclear plant and ratifying articles 12 of the 1999 Seabrook annual town meeting. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Betsey L. Patten for Municipal and County Government: This bill enables the town of Seabrook to create a tax stabilization fund to offset the potential tax rate increases due to future property devaluation caused by the decommissioning of Seabrook nuclear plant. The bill also ratifies the Newfields School District annual meeting and the Milan Annual Town Meeting, both held in March 2000. The Hampton Beach Village District needs to clarify their charter definition of "single family dwelling". Since the charter was created by statute, the Municipal and County Government Committee voted to enable the district to hold a referendum vote. Vote 18-0.

Amendment (4430h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to authorizing the town of Seabrook to establish a reserve fund for tax stabilization related to the decommissioning of the Seabrook nuclear plant; relative to ratifying certain annual meetings in Newfields and Milan; and relative to amending the Hampton Beach village district charter.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Town of Seabrook; Nonlapsing Special Reserve Fund Authorized. Notwithstanding any provisions of law to the contrary, the town of Seabrook is hereby authorized to establish and maintain a nonlapsing special reserve fund for the purpose of tax stabilization to offset potential tax rate increases due to the decommissioning of the Seabrook nuclear power plant. Moneys appropriated or transferred to this fund shall be used as a revenue source to mitigate tax rate increases due to property valuation decreases at the time the Seabrook nuclear power plant is decommissioned.

2 Ratification of the March 6, 2000 Newfields School District Annual Meeting. All acts, votes, notices, and proceedings relating to article 1 of the Newfields school district annual meeting held on March 6, 2000, and the related public hearing, and notice thereof, held on January 29, 2000, are hereby legalized, ratified, and confirmed.

3 Ratification of the March 12, 2000 Milan Annual Town Meeting. All acts, votes, notices, and proceedings relating to article 2 of the Milan annual town meeting held on March 12, 2000 are hereby legalized, ratified, and confirmed.

4 Hampton Beach Village District; Charter Amendment; Tax Exemption Amended. Amend 1979, 414:6 to read as follows:

414:6 Hampton Beach Village District; Charter Amendment. The Hampton Beach village district is authorized to exempt owners of single family, owner-occupied residential dwellings in the Hampton Beach village district, which have not been rented at any time during the tax year, from that portion of the village district property tax attributable to the promotion of Hampton Beach as a tourist attraction.

5 Hampton Beach Village District; Referendum; Ballot Question Language Amended. Amend 1979, 414:7 to read as follows:

414:7 Referendum. Section 6 of this act shall not take effect unless it is adopted by a majority vote of those present and voting at a special meeting of the Hampton Beach village district warned and held within 60 days of passage of this act for that purpose. The district commissioners shall include in the warrant for said special meeting the following article: "to see if the village district will vote to adopt the provisions of an act of the 1979 general court amending the Hampton Beach village district charter to provide that owners of single family, owner-occupied residential dwellings in the Hampton Beach village district, which have not been rented at any time during the tax year, shall be exempt from that portion of the village district property tax attributable to the promotion of Hampton Beach as a tourist attraction." No official ballot shall be used for the voting on said article. If a majority of those present and voting on this question vote in the affirmative, section 6 of this act shall be declared to have been adopted. Within 10 days after said referendum the district clerk shall certify to the secretary of state the results of said vote.

6 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill:

I. Authorizes the town of Seabrook to establish a nonlapsing special reserve fund for tax stabilization related to the decommissioning of the Seabrook nuclear plant.

II. Ratifies the acts, votes, notices, and proceedings of an article of the Newfields school district meeting held March 6, 2000, and the Milan annual town meeting held March 12, 2000.

III. Makes a change to the Hampton Beach village district charter relative to a village district property tax exemption.

SB 72, exempting certain portions of Seabrook Beach Village District and certain portions of Hampton Beach from certain provisions of the excavating, filling, and construction permit laws. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Richard T. Cooney for Resources, Recreation and Development: This bill addresses problems obtaining building permits and their associated wetland permits for areas in the vicinity of Seabrook and Hampton Beaches. The Committee agrees that this is a significant issue which should be addressed. The Department of Environmental Services (DES) has assured the committee that rules will be in place in a reasonable time which will satisfy the intent of the bill. Therefore, this bill is not needed. Vote 15-0.

SB 406-FN-L, prohibiting the use of reformulated gasoline with watercraft on or in bodies of water that provide public water supplies. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. David M. Lawton for Resources, Recreation and Development: HB 406 would prohibit the operation of gasoline-powered watercraft on all waters of the state which are sources of drinking water. Among the many lakes that would be closed would be the state's largest lake, Lake Winnepesaukee, as well as the Connecticut River, the Merrimack River and Lake Sunapee. Such a broad-reaching boating ban would devastate both recreational and tourist-related industries throughout the state. Further, this bill would be impossible and dangerous to enforce since both reformulated gas and normal (mbte-lite) gas are readily available and therefore would require open-water fuel sampling by Marine Patrol to determine which type of fuel was in the fuel tank. Phasing out reformulated gasoline across the fuel market place is the solution to this problem with mbte. Vote 15-0.

SB 460-FN, establishing a grant program to reimburse eligible districts served by municipal waste combustors. REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY

Rep. Harold V. Lynde for Science, Technology and Energy: The committee is supportive of the goal of the bill's sponsors in reducing mercury emissions at the Claremont municipal waste incinerator, but felt certain aspects of the bill required more study. The committee is also aware the subject matter of this bill has been added to HB 1349 by the Senate and will come before the House for action. Vote 17-0.

SCR 7, urging the federal government to consider the impacts on New Hampshire and the smaller states of interstate waste legislation. REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY

Rep. James J. Fenton for State-Federal Relations and Veterans Affairs: Public testimony left the committee with concerns relative to the solid waste disposal costs to our communities. Further investigation indicated two firms control waste management in New Hampshire. This coupled with the efforts to discourage the use of community incinerators may create a quasi-monopoly thus establishing "tipping" fees in a "hostage" environment. The community wishes to study this waste problem and voted to refer to interim study. Vote 14-0.

SJR 1, concerning the status of the White Mountain National Forest within the U.S. Forest Service's forest management plan. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Margaret E. Lynott for State-Federal Relations and Veterans Affairs: The White Mountain National Forest has successfully operated by the guidelines set in the 1911 Weeks Act for 90 years. Diversion from this approach will have an adverse affect on the ability to continue to meet the needs of the communities of the North Country and its 5,000,000 users per year. The traditional income generating uses of the forest that will provide a stable source of revenue to the forest, the state, and the towns should be continued and Congress should define ways to allow the revenues from these forest service related activities to remain with the White Mountain National Forest with a portion reimbursed to local communities. If the White Mountain National Forest is to continue under budgetary constraints and Congress does not fully fund its payments in lieu of taxes, the citizens of the North Country should be exempt from the Fee Pilot Program. Vote 14-0.

SB 337-FN, requiring any new resident applying for a permanent driver's license to be checked through the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) for outstanding warrants or court defaults, as a precondition to issuance, and authorizing interest penalties on unpaid violations. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Robert J. Letourneau for Transportation: This bill would require any new resident applying for a permanent New Hampshire driver's license to be checked through the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) for outstanding warrants or court defaults as a precondition to issuance. This bill, while having a worthwhile intent, has many problems with its drafting. During the public hearing it was revealed that the Department of Safety did a pilot program in 1995. The department ran 16,000 checks yielding 1,600 possible hits which were then reviewed by civilian personnel in the NHSP. All but 33 were then ruled out. These 33 were then turned over to SIU (State Police Intelligence Unit), of these 7 were correct. Of these 7, 3 should no longer be listed on the NCIC, leaving 4 names on the list. State Troopers were dispatched to the last known address of these individuals and none of the 4 could be located. This would be a labor-intensive program requiring at a minimum a labor grade 8 to 13 clerk in licensing, a second clerk in SIU, and a labor grade 17+ trooper to investigate possible hits. Each of these persons would require special NCIC system training. There would be the cost of additional troopers going into the field to check positive hits. The department estimates that the cost of this program would be a half a million dollars in the first half of 2001, with an annual cost of approximately $350,000, if all license renewals were considered. This bill as amended by the Senate would only require those coming from out of state to be checked. Startup cost associated with this version would be approximately $272,000, with an annual cost of approximately $100,000 plus. However, this would cause the constitutionality of this measure to be suspect. To pass constitutional muster you must be able to show that out of state drivers are more likely to be criminals or have outstanding warrants or unpaid fines, thereby forcing the state to consider all license renewals. The committee also felt that this bill came with an incorrect fiscal note and was not able to properly consider the bill in the short time available to work on this proposed legislation. There were many doubts that this legislation would produce successful results. With the state in a fiscal deficit, the committee felt that the state resources could be better employed. Vote 15-0.

SUSPENSION OF RULES

Reps. Chandler and Burling moved that the Rules be so far suspended as to permit third reading and final passage at the present time of all Consent Calendar bills that had Committee reports of Ought to Pass or Ought to Pass with amendment.

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

MOTION ON CONSENT CALENDAR BILLS

Rep. Chandler moved that all Consent Calendar bills that had Committee reports of Ought to Pass or Ought to Pass with amendment, be read a third time and passed.

Adopted.

REGULAR CALENDAR

SB 231, relative to termination of water service from a water utility in the town of Pittsfield. MAJORITY: OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT. MINORITY: INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE.

Rep. Richard T. Cooney for the Majority of Resources, Recreation and Development: This bill, as passed by the Senate, would prohibit anyone from disconnecting from the local public water utility and then secure water from an alternative source. The ban would last for 2 years, but the committee amendment reduced the interval to one year. This would allow the town of Pittsfield to take appropriate measures to insure the water safety of the community and to address the increasing financial burden on the customers of the water system. The majority of the committee felt this would be an appropriate response to this problem. Vote 9-8.

Rep. John T. Gallus for the Minority of Resources, Recreation and Development: This bill would prohibit the public from disconnecting from the privately owned water system in the town of Pittsfield, New Hampshire for a period of one year, as amended. Public safety issues are not addressed by this bill and the general public is protected by the New Hampshire Safe Drinking Water Act. The minority felt the town of Pittsfield, New Hampshire should address any problems with local ordinances and that this bill is unfair to local citizens and ratepayers. This bill is precedent setting and should be voted down as it was in its first committee vote of ITL of 9-5.

Amendment (4023h)

Amend the bill by replacing section 3 with the following:

3 Effective Date.

I. Section 2 of this act shall take effect one year after the effective date of the remainder of this act.

II. The remainder of this act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill provides that no customers of a water utility serving the town of Pittsfield shall have the right to terminate water service and secure water from an alternate source for a one-year period.

Adopted.

Rep. Gallus spoke against.

Rep. Cooney spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

The majority report failed.

Rep. Gallus moved Inexpedient to Legislate.

Adopted.

SB 472, relative to final authorization of electric rate reduction financing and commission action. MAJORITY: OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT. MINORITY: REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY.

Rep. Jeb E. Bradley for the Majority of Science, Technology and Energy: This bill is the legislation necessary to implement the secure bonding provision (securitization) of the Settlement with PSNH. Work on this legislation began when HB 464 was enacted last July and in earnest in October when consultants were hired to advise the joint House and Senate Electric Utility Restructuring Oversight Committee. Members of the STE Committee have met numerous times with these consultants as well as senior staff of the PUC to review the Settlement, analyze other options, and draft this legislation. Per this amendment the average rate reduction of all customers in the first year will be 16.3% and remain relatively stable. The consultant has built in price increases for the actual electricity (the competitive portion of a customer's bill) due to inflation and pressure on fossil fuel prices. Other analyses do not take these factors into account. It should be noted that residential customers will see about 3% greater immediate rate reduction than industrial customers. It is anticipated that this will be balanced by industrial customers' likely future ability to buy actual power at a slightly lower cost. The majority amendment clarifies that PSNH must write-off or otherwise reduce their stranded costs by $474 million or securitization will not be available to PSNH. The majority amendment also insists upon other key conditions as a quid pro quo for securitization, including minimizing costs that could be deferred into the future, using realistic power prices in the first years of deregulation, barring PSNH from bidding to reacquire their generation assets, and establishing dates by which customer choice shall begin and the generation assets sold. Other key conditions include a five-year cap on the delivery charge if a merger occurs in order to capture savings from the merger, and a ban on recovery in delivery rates of any premium paid for PSNH in a merger. The amendment limits total securitization for PSNH itself to $688 million, minus $6 million per month of implementation delay, since customers are paying that $6 million to PSNH every month in existing rates. The bill also allows for up to $137 million of additional securitization financing to reduce the financing costs of the high price wood and trash plant contracts if agreements can be renegotiated with any of those plants. The majority believes that, although securitization creates a guaranteed recovery of the bonds from PSNH customers, it also provides considerable financing savings on these amounts that customers are already currently paying in their bills. The majority believes these conditions in the amendment, in particular the $474 million reduction of stranded costs by PSNH, are critical. The conditions make the upfront securitization payment to PSNH balanced for both customers and PSNH, and produces net benefits for customers.

The committee and its consultants also carefully examined other alternatives to the Settlement, most notably a rate case. Some people believe that a rate case produces a better outcome than the Settlement when securitization is combined with a "Best Case" rate case outcome. The consultant's analysis has consistently concluded that though the amendment and the "Best Case" rate case have similar outcomes, the Settlement with the conditions imposed by amendment is about $114 million better for customers over 13 years than the "Best Case" rate case. Competition is also implemented immediately. The downside risk of an outcome far worse for customers than a "Best Case" in a rate case is also eliminated. It should be noted that this legislation does not approve the entire Settlement, nor does it create any guaranteed obligations on the part of PSNH customers other than payment of the bonds, which are costs customers are already paying in existing rates. Finally, this Settlement with the conditions imposed on securitization will substantially reduce the rate gap between New Hampshire and other Northeastern states and will provide long term economic benefits to the state's economy. Vote 17-2.

Rep. Gary R. Gilmore for the Minority of Science, Technology and Energy: Despite the extremely diligent and meritorious work of the committee, the minority recommends this legislation be referred for interim study. Competition is not the panacea one might be expecting. The savings (if any) will come with serious risks incurred by the state in the form of securitization. While ratepayers will initially receive a significant decrease in rates, it is what happens over the next 3 to 8 years that most concerns the minority especially since PSNH ratepayers will almost certainly be paying the highest stranded cost charges in the nation.

Amendment (4471h)

Amend RSA 369-B:1 as inserted by section 2 of the bill by inserting after paragraph IX the following new paragraphs:

X. The differences among rate classes in the amount of the stranded cost recovery charge in the April 19 order are in the public interest. When these differences are combined with the differences in the delivery service charge among rate classes (based on the cost of service), and with the differences in the likely market price of energy among rate classes, the overall total rate reduction is likely to be very close to an equal percentage for all rate classes, which is consistent with the benefits for all customers principle of RSA 374-F:3, VI. However, it is also in the public interest that any further adjustments to charges between the April 19 order and the final commission order approving the settlement be applied equally in cents per kilowatt-hour for all rate classes.

XI. The renegotiation of the wholesale power purchase agreements between PSNH and the 6 wood-to-energy facilities and the one trash-to-energy facility is in the public interest in order to reduce the total cost to ratepayers of these agreements, and the sharing of the benefits among all of the parties involved in the renegotiations is in the public interest.

XII. It is in the public interest in the event that the price of transition service prior to March 1, 2001, exceeds PSNH's actual, prudent and reasonable costs of providing such power so as to create a credit to customers that must be reconciled, that the distribution of this credit between reducing the amount of the stranded cost recovery charge and reducing the duration of the stranded cost recovery charge be made by the commission in a manner that it finds to be in the public interest.

XIII. Low income programs currently administered by Granite State Electric Company and by the New Hampshire electric cooperative appear to be achieving the goals of RSA 374-F. The commission should design low income program details so as to achieve similar low overhead and operating efficiency, and to maximize the fraction of the money spent that goes to the intended beneficiaries of the low income program.

Amend RSA 369-B:2-3 as inserted by section 2 of the bill replacing it with the following:

369-B:2 Definitions. In this chapter:

I. "April 19 order" means commission Order No. 23,443 in Docket DE 99-099 as it was issued on April 19, 2000, excluding any subsequent amendments.

II. "Commission" means the public utilities commission established in RSA 363, as it may be constituted from time to time, and any successor agency exercising functions similar in purpose to such commission.

III. "Competition day" means competition day as defined in the original proposed settlement.

IV. "Electric utility" means a public utility that provides retail electric service.

V. "End user" means any person or entity consuming electricity, including all retail customers.

VI. "Finance order" means an order of the commission adopted prior to or following the effective date of this chapter pursuant to 1999, 289:3, I, pursuant to this chapter, or pursuant to both 1999, 289:3, I and this chapter.

VII. "Financing entity" means any special purpose trust, limited liability company, non-profit corporation, or other entity that is authorized in accordance with the terms of a finance order to issue rate reduction bonds, acquire RRB property, or both on behalf of the electric utility, or any combination of such entities.

VIII. "Original proposed settlement" means the "Public Service Company of New Hampshire Restructuring Settlement Agreement" filed with the commission on August 2, 1999.

IX. "PSNH" means the Public Service Company of New Hampshire.

X. "Rate reduction bonds" ("RRB") means bonds, notes, certificates of participation or beneficial interest, or other evidences of indebtedness or ownership, issued pursuant to an executed indenture or other agreement of a financing entity, in accordance with this chapter, 1999, 289:3, I and II, and RSA 369-A, the proceeds of which are used, directly or indirectly, to provide, recover, finance, or refinance RRB costs, and which, directly or indirectly, are secured by, evidence ownership interests in, or are payable from, RRB property.

XI. "Retail customer" means any person or entity purchasing directly or otherwise obtaining or being supplied directly with retail electric service for end use consumption, including those served under special contracts.

XII. "Retail electric service" means the delivery of electric power through the provision of transmission and/or distribution service by an electric utility to a retail customer within its service territory or territories, regardless of such retail customer's source of electric power, and shall include any back-up, maintenance, emergency, and other delivery service provided to a retail customer by an electric utility.

XIII. "RRB charge" means those retail electric service rates and similar charges that are authorized by the commission in a finance order to recover those RRB costs that are eligible to be funded with the proceeds of rate reduction bonds pursuant to this chapter and the costs of providing, recovering, financing, or refinancing such RRB costs through a plan approved by the commission in the finance order, including the costs of issuing, servicing, and retiring rate reduction bonds. The RRB retail electric service rate or charge authorized by the commission may vary by cost of service, customer class, and between special contract customers. All RRB charges shall be assessed on a per kilowatt-hour basis.

XIV. "RRB costs" means expenditures which are incurred by an electric utility or which an electric utility is obligated to incur either prior to or subsequent to the effective date of this chapter, and costs approved by the commission to mitigate such expenditures, as shall be designated in a finance order approved by the commission and which may include but are not limited to:

(a) Expenditures incurred in respect of generation assets, entitlements, and acquisition premiums.

(b) Expenditures incurred in respect to the buyout, buydown, restructuring or renegotiation of wholesale purchase power contracts.

(c) Expenditures incurred in respect to regulatory assets.

(d) Expenditures incurred to refinance or retire existing debt or existing equity capital of the electric utility and any costs related thereto.

(e) Amounts necessary to recover federal or state taxes actually paid by an electric utility, which tax liability recovery is modified by the transactions approved in a finance order issued by the commission pursuant to this chapter.

(f) Reasonable costs, as approved by the commission, relating to the issue, servicing, or refinancing of rate reduction bonds under the provisions of this chapter, including, without limitation, principal and interest payments and accruals, sinking fund payments, debt service and other reserves, costs of credit enhancement, indemnities, if any, owed to the state or the trustee for the rate reduction bonds, issuance costs and redemption premiums, if any, and all other reasonable fees, costs, and charges in respect of rate reduction bonds.

XV. "RRB property" means the irrevocable vested property right created pursuant to this chapter and one or more finance orders, including, without limitation, the right, title, and interest of an electric utility or a financing entity in and to all revenues, collections, claims, payments, money, or proceeds of or arising from the RRB charge authorized to be imposed and collected pursuant to such finance orders to recover RRB costs and the costs of paying, financing, reimbursing, or refinancing the RRB costs, including the reasonable costs of issuing, servicing, and retiring rate reduction bonds, and in and to all rights to obtain adjustments to such RRB charge pursuant to the terms of RSA 369-B:4, III and the finance order, all as determined by the commission in its approval of such finance orders. "RRB property" shall constitute a current and irrevocable vested property right, notwithstanding the fact that the value of such property right may depend upon electricity usage or the performance of certain services.

XVI. "Security interest" means a security interest as defined in RSA 382-A:1-201(37).

XVII. "Service territory" means, with respect to any electric utility, the geographic area established by the commission as the retail electric service territory of such electric utility, as such territory is depicted on the "Electric Utilities Franchise Areas" map issued by the commission, dated July 1, 1993, together with any other geographic area in which such electric utility actually provided retail electric service on such date.

369-B:3 Authority to Issue Finance Orders to Finance RRB Costs.

I. The commission is authorized, upon the petition of an electric utility and after a hearing, to issue one or more finance orders pursuant to which rate reduction bonds shall be issued, if the commission finds that the issuance of such finance order or finance orders is in the public interest as set forth in RSA 369-B:1, IX. Any finance order adopted pursuant to 1999, 289:3, I and II prior to the effective date of this chapter shall, following the effective date of this chapter, be deemed to be authorized by this chapter, provided the commission has made the required finding pursuant to RSA 369-B:3, IV(b).

II. Notwithstanding any law, rule, or regulation to the contrary, except as otherwise provided in RSA 369-B:4, III with respect to RRB property, the finance orders and the RRB charge authorized to be imposed and collected pursuant to such finance orders shall be irrevocable, and the commission shall not have authority either by rescinding, altering, or amending the finance order or otherwise, to directly or indirectly, revalue or revise for ratemaking purposes the RRB costs, or the costs of providing, recovering, financing, or refinancing the RRB costs, determine that such RRB charge is unjust or unreasonable, or in any way reduce or impair the value of RRB property either directly or indirectly by taking such RRB charge (other than any portion of such RRB charge constituting a servicing fee payable to the electric utility) into account when setting other rates for the electric utility; nor shall the amount of revenues arising with respect thereto be subject to reduction, impairment, postponement, or termination.

III. Notwithstanding any law, rule, or regulation to the contrary, any requirement under this chapter, under 1999, 289:3, I and II, under RSA 369-A, or under a finance order that the commission take action with respect to the subject matter of a finance order shall be binding upon the commission, and the commission shall have no authority to rescind, alter, or amend that requirement.

IV. The commission shall only issue finance orders that:

(a) Authorize the issuance of a total of no more than $137,000,000 in rate reduction bonds to finance renegotiated agreements of the existing wholesale power purchase agreements between PSNH and the 6 wood-to-energy facilities and the one trash-to-energy facility; or

(b) Authorize the issuance of a total of no more than $688,000,000, minus $6,000,000 for each month from July 1, 2000 to competition day, in rate reduction bonds. This authorization is in addition to any amount authorized in subparagraph (a). This issuance must be part of a settlement approved by the commission under RSA 374-F to implement electric utility restructuring within the service territory of PSNH. Any finance order that is issued under this subparagraph (b) shall contain a finding by the commission that the rate reduction bonds authorized by the finance order are consistent with the April 19 order, plus any subsequent amendments, and that implementing the terms of the April 19 order, plus any subsequent amendments, shall result in the following:

(1)(A) Prior to March 1, 2001, PSNH shall supply transition service and default service in its retail electric service territory. Subsequent to February 28, 2001, any provider or providers of transition service shall have been chosen through a competitive bid process, administered by the commission, to provide such service. The commission may, if it finds it to be in the public interest, divide the competitive bid process into multiple categories or multiple competitive bids;

(B)(i) Transition service for residential customers and small commercial customers that do not have installed demand meters shall be available through February 28, 2003. Through February 28, 2001, the price of transition service for these customers shall be $0.044 per kilowatt-hour. From March 1, 2001 to February 28, 2002, the price of transition service for these customers shall be $0.044 per kilowatt-hour, or the competitively bid price for transition service, whichever is less. From March 1, 2002 to February 28, 2003, the price of transition service for these customers shall be $0.046 per kilowatt-hour, or the competitively bid price for transition service for these customers, whichever is less. If the competitively bid price exceeds these fixed prices, the differences shall be reconciled for these customers in the manner prescribed in the original proposed settlement;

(ii) At the end of the transition service period, up to 25 percent of the residential customers and small commercial customers that do not have installed demand meters and who have not chosen a competitive supplier may be assigned randomly to registered competitive suppliers other than the transition service supplier or suppliers. The commission must find such random assignment to be in the public interest. The commission shall develop procedures and regulations for this assignment process. Any random assignment must be approved by an individual customer;

(C) Transition service for all other customers shall be available through February 28, 2002. Through February 28, 2001, the price of transition service for these customers shall be $0.044 per kilowatt-hour. From March 1, 2001 to February 28, 2002, the price of transition service for these customers shall be the competitively bid price for transition service;

(D) Any difference between the price of transition service prior to March 1, 2001, and PSNH's actual, prudent and reasonable costs of providing such power shall first be separated between the 2 groups of customers described in subparagraphs (B) and (C), and then reconciled for that group of customers in the manner prescribed in the original proposed settlement, or, if the commission finds it to be in the public interest, a decrease in the stranded cost recovery charge;

(E) The commission shall retain the authority to reject any or all bids for transition service at its sole discretion if it finds such action to be in the public interest. Except as specifically provided in this section, the commission may not accept any bid or implement any pricing strategy for transition service that creates any deferrals;

(F) The selection of a provider or providers of default service prior to March 1, 2003 may be combined with the selection of a provider or providers of transition service to the extent that the commission finds it to be in the public interest;

(2) No amount shall be securitized which was not listed as part of the $688,000,000 proposed for securitization in the April 19 order, as reduced by any subsequent amortization;

(3) Customer savings through reductions of stranded costs shall be not less than the total amount of $474,200,000 contained in the April 19 order, including the $367,000,000 contained in the original proposed settlement, the $6,200,000 resulting from the settlement of issues pertaining to the New Hampshire electric cooperative, and all additional amounts contained in the April 19 order;

(4) In the event that PSNH or its parent company is acquired or otherwise sold or merged, such merger, acquisition, or sale shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the commission under RSA 369, RSA 374, RSA 378 or other relevant provisions of law, and the merger, acquisition, or sale shall be approved only if it is shown to be in the public interest;

(5)(A) The delivery service charge shall be fixed for a period of 30 months from competition day, except as provided herein, at $0.027 per kilowatt-hour for the first year and $0.028 per kilowatt-hour for months 13 through 30;

(B) In the event of a merger, acquisition or sale of PSNH or its parent company prior to 5 years after competition day:

(i) The delivery service charge shall be fixed, except as provided herein, at $0.027 per kilowatt-hour from the effective date of the merger, acquisition or sale until 5 years after competition day;

(ii) At any time after such a merger, acquisition or sale, the commission has the authority to reduce the delivery service charge, upon petition by other parties or under its own authority, to reflect additional cost savings that result from the merger, acquisition or sale in excess of those assumed to create the rate savings in subparagraph (b)(5)(B)(i);

(iii) From 30 months after competition day until 60 months after competition day, the commission shall, upon petition and demonstration by PSNH that its achieved return on equity for the previous 12 months is less than 5 percent before taxes, increase this delivery service charge by an amount that will allow return on equity of 5 percent before taxes;

(iv) No acquisition premium paid by an acquiring company for the assets or securities of an acquired company, resulting from any such merger, acquisition or sale, may in any way increase rates at any time from what they would have been without the acquisition premium.

(6) If any rated rate reduction bonds, rated Triple-A by any major bond credit rating specialist, are issued prior to October 31, 2000, with an all-in cost greater than 7.25 percent, PSNH assumes all incremental costs of servicing the bonds resulting from exceeding the 7.25 percent rate;

(7) The total systems benefit charge shall be fixed at $0.002 per kilowatt-hour for 36 months from the effective date of the commission-approved settlement, divided equally between low-income assistance and energy efficiency/conservation programs. In the event that money is collected but not spent during the initial 12-month period or any succeeding 12-month period, it shall be refunded to ratepayers;

(8) All currently existing opportunities shall be continued for retail customers to generate or acquire electricity for their own use, other than through retail electric service, without an exit fee;

(9) Non-discriminatory, open access to PSNH's transmission system shall be available to wholesale customers, electricity suppliers, marketers, aggregators, and municipal electric utilities, with charges based only on rates set by federal regulations, plus the actual cost of service for any services not subject to federal price regulation;

(10) The stranded cost recovery charge, averaged over all customers, shall not exceed $0.0340 per kilowatt-hour, and its duration shall not exceed the estimated term as provided in the April 19 order, except in accordance with the provisions for adjustment contained in the April 19 order. Any changes in the delivery service charge, stranded cost recovery charge, transition service charge, systems benefit charge, or any other charge from those estimated in the April 19 order shall be applied as an equal change in the cost per kilowatt-hour for all customer classes;

(11) There shall be no changes to the April 19 order that have or may have, as determined by the commission in the finance order, an adverse financial impact on ratepayers, unless additional write-offs or other ratepayer benefits are provided, in addition to those provided by the conditions of this subparagraph (b) and by the April 19 order, to adequately compensate for such adverse financial impacts;

(12) The commission may not order changes in the total rates of customers taking service under special contracts approved pursuant to RSA 378:18 for the duration of those special contracts in effect as of May 1, 2000. The commission may require special contract customers to use reasonable diligence whenever they acquire electricity;

(13) During any sale of electricity generation assets required by this settlement, neither PSNH, nor any affiliate of PSNH, nor any company that would become an affiliate of PSNH if an announced merger, acquisition or sale were to be consummated, may bid for those assets;

(14) During any competitive bid process to determine a provider or providers of transition service or default service, neither PSNH, nor any affiliate of PSNH, nor any company that would become an affiliate of PSNH if an announced merger, acquisition or sale were to be consummated, may bid to provide such service;

(15) The commission shall administer the liquidation of any electricity generation assets required to be sold by the settlement. Any sale of assets located in the state of New Hampshire that are administered by the commission pursuant to this paragraph shall be conducted in this state. The commission shall hire an independent, qualified asset sale specialist to conduct the asset sale process. PSNH shall be allowed to comment prior to the selection of any such specialist;

(16) The commission shall administer any competitive bid process for transition service or default service required by the settlement;

(17) Competition day shall be not later than October 1, 2000, unless the commission finds due to circumstances beyond its control that further delay is in the public interest;

(18) The sale of fossil generation assets shall take place no later than July 1, 2001, unless the commission finds due to circumstances beyond its control that further delay is in the public interest;

(19) In the event that the commission does not approve a sale of Seabrook, the return on equity shall be increased from 7 percent to 150 basis points more than the average 10-year Treasury bond yield for the preceding 6 months, but not less than 7 percent nor more than 11 percent, from the time of the disapproved sale until Seabrook is sold. If this time period is more than 6 months, the return on equity shall be readjusted at the end of every 6 months; and

(20) No final finance order shall be effective until PSNH has withdrawn all pending litigation in Federal court.

Amend RSA 369-B:4, VII as inserted by section 2 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

VII. Notwithstanding any statutory or regulatory language to the contrary, end users who generate or acquire on-site electricity for their own use as permitted by existing law and regulation in effect as of January 1, 2000, shall not be subject to an exit fee in whole or in part. An exit fee is any rate or charge that is based in whole or in part on the amount of electric power and/or retail electric service a customer might have purchased from or through an electric utility but does not, for any reason. End users who generate electricity for their own use shall include joint users of electricity, including their on-site successors and assigns, who are using electricity generated primarily for their own use at a site owned by one or more of such users, and such users or their predecessors were sharing the provision of power as of January 1, 2000.

Amend RSA 369-B:5, I as inserted by section 2 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

I. An electric utility or financing entity may, from time to time, after approval by the commission in a finance order or orders, issue rate reduction bonds. The power and authority of such electric utility or financing entity to issue such bonds shall expire on December 31, 2002.

Amend RSA 369-B:5, VII(a) as inserted by section 2 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

(a) Securities in which all public officers and public bodies of the state and its political subdivisions, all insurance companies, state banks and trust companies, national banking associations, savings banks, savings and loan associations, investment companies, executors, administrators, trustees and other fiduciaries and electric utility consumers may properly and legally invest funds, including capital in their control or belonging to them; and

Amend RSA 369-B:5, VIII as inserted by section 2 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

VIII. Rate reduction bonds shall mature at such time or times approved by the commission in the finance order, but not more than 14 years after competition day.

Amend RSA 369-B:6, III as inserted by section 2 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

III. An electric utility may sell and assign all or portions of its interest in RRB property to an affiliate to the extent approved in the pertinent finance orders. An electric utility or its affiliate may sell or assign its interests to one or more financing entities that make that property the basis for issuance of rate reduction bonds to the extent approved in the pertinent finance orders. An electric utility, its affiliate, or a financing entity may pledge RRB property as collateral, directly or indirectly, for rate reduction bonds to the extent approved in the pertinent finance orders providing for a security interest in the RRB property, in the manner set forth in RSA 369-B:7. In addition, RRB property may be sold or assigned by:

(a) The financing entity or a trustee for the holders of rate reduction bonds in connection with the exercise of remedies upon a default; or

(b) Any person acquiring the RRB property after a sale or assignment pursuant to this paragraph.

Amend the bill by replacing all after section 2 with the following:

3 Restructuring Policy Principles; Universal Service. Amend RSA 374-F:3, V(b) to read as follows:

(b) As competitive markets emerge, customers should have the option of stable and predictable ceiling electricity prices through a reasonable transition period, consistent with the near term rate relief principle of RSA 374-F:3, XI. Upon the implementation of retail choice, transition service should be available for at least [2] one but not more than 4 years after the start of competition, for customers who have not yet chosen a competitive electricity supplier. Transition service should be procured through competitive means and may be administered by independent third parties. The price of transition service should increase over time to encourage customers to choose a competitive electricity supplier during the transition period. Such transition service should be separate and distinct from default service.

4 New Subparagraph; System Benefits Charge; Limitations. Amend RSA 374-F:4, VIII by inserting after subparagraph (f) the following new subparagraph:

(g) The portion of the system benefits charge due to programs for low-income customers shall not exceed 1.0 mills per kilowatt-hour in any part of the state for a period of 3 years starting on competition day for PSNH as defined in RSA 369-B:2, III.

5 Option for Municipalities Purchasing Certain Electric Facilities. Municipalities which seek to purchase PSNH hydro-electric small-scale electric facilities, as defined in RSA 374-D:1, may with the consent of the governing body, prior to October 1, 2000, petition the commission pursuant to RSA 38:9, prior to holding the vote of qualified voters provided for in RSA 38:3, RSA 38:4, or RSA 38:5, for a determination of the fair market value of the facility in the event that the municipality and PSNH are unable to agree to a price to be paid for the facility. The cost of the determination shall be at the expense of the requesting municipality. The commission should hire an independent, qualified asset valuation specialist to conduct the asset valuation process. If this option is chosen, all votes required by RSA 38:3, RSA 38:4, or RSA 38:5 must be held prior to the expiration of the time limit required for the ratification vote under RSA 38:13.

6 Public Utilities Commission Action. If by August 1, 2000, the public utilities commission has not made an affirmative finding as part of a finance order under RSA 369-B:3, IV(b), relative to a settlement involving PSNH, or PSNH has not agreed to the conditions of the approved settlement for which the commission has made an affirmative finding under RSA 369-B:3, IV(b), then the commission shall:

I. Suspend the Public Service Company of New Hampshire (PSNH) Restructuring Settlement Docket No. 99-099 and resume, as allowed by law, all other dockets stayed by the commission as it addressed Docket No. 99-099.

II. Take such action as is in the public interest regarding temporary rates as authorized by RSA 378:27.

III. Proceed with litigation at the New Hampshire supreme court on whether the 1989 Rate Agreement is a contract and on whether PSNH and Northeast Utilities may have breached any such contract or, by their actions, allowed any such contract to be voided.

7 Effective Date. This date shall take effect upon its passage.
Adopted.

Reps. Phinizy and Gilmore spoke against and yielded to questions.

Reps. Rose, Dickinson and Donald White spoke against.
 Rep. MacGillivray spoke in favor.
 Reps. Guay, Naida Kaen, Norelli and Bradley spoke in favor and yielded to questions.
 Rep. Bradley requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.
 The question being the adoption of the majority report.

DEBATE ON SENATE BILL 472

Rep. Burling moved that the debate be printed in the Journal.

Adopted.

Rep. Phinizy: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. Before I start, I would like to thank the honorable colleague and representative from Wolfeboro, the Chairman of the Science and Technology Committee and his entire committee. Throughout this entire debate and discussion our honorable colleague has been very open, evenhanded and very fair in his handling of this matter and I would like this body to commend him for that. That being said, I rise in opposition to Senate Bill 472, as amended, and would ask this body to overturn the committee report and consider the minority position of Interim Study. While it may be represented that this legislation is the definitive approach to a settlement, deregulation and, therefore, competition, it really represents nothing more than a corporate entitlement and does not achieve the desired end, true laissez-faire competition. We are told that securitization is considered the linchpin to reach a settlement, attain competition and justifiable compensation to Public Service of New Hampshire for stranded costs. But, what are stranded costs? They are nothing more than unrecoverable costs which the utility could not pass on to its customers in a fair and competitive market. They are, among other things, the purchase premium Northeast made for Public Service over the budget costs of Seabrook and premium costs of the power producers. They are costs as a result of erroneous projections in the past and poor management. Securitization is nothing more or less than a cash settlement on the utility and an advance for these costs. The customer, however, is going to be obligated for 12 years to pay over $825 million regardless, and I say regardless, of whether or not rates rise and regardless of whether or not Public Service or, if the merger goes through, Consolidated Edison is even financially solvent in six or seven years. Now, one criteria for securitization is the sale of Public Service's fossil and hydro-generation plants. A requirement of the sale is that these plants may not be bought or bid by Public Service, Northeast Utilities or its potential acquisition partner, Consolidated Edison. Competition, accordingly, would be assured and deregulation incontrovertible if this were to occur. But will it occur? Actually, acquisition of these assets by Consolidated Edison is absolutely unnecessary for it already has generation capacity rendering moot the criteria for divestiture or rendering moot the argument that they should or shouldn't be able to pick-up these generation assets. In reality, competition will not be any more immediate as a result of this. Deregulation and competitive choice will not be advanced any sooner. Are we not exchanging a smaller fish for a larger one in the financial food chain? Securitization will merely transfer the burden, which is a result of previous market mistakes, from the utility to you all and your constituents, the ratepayers. It has been represented that securitization, issuing rate reduction bonds, is much like refinancing high credit card debt with lower interest home equity loans. Were this the case, there truly would be more of an incentive for the ratepayer as there would be a tangible asset upon repayment. But, there isn't. In the case of securitization, it is more like a collateral note where not only does the ratepayer actually be the co-signer for another's debt and not only does the ratepayer pay down the principal and interest as well, but there is only a hint of a benefit and nothing more tangible possibly than three, four or five years of reduced rates. Let's look at some of the aspects of the amended version of Senate Bill 472 and I would refer you to your Calendar if you would like to look at it; specifically, on page 1287 and I believe it is RSA 369-B:3 IV, section (5) (B) (iii) "From 30 months after competition day until 60 months after competition day, the commission shall, upon petition and demonstration by PSNH that its achieved return on equity for the previous 12 months is less than five percent before taxes, increase this delivery service charge by an amount that will allow return on equity of 5 percent before taxes." Think about that. Is this conducive to competition? Is this a level playing field? It looks suspiciously like a glass floor through which rates will not go should the utility suffer at the hands of competition or bad management. Let's go to another page, on page 1288, RSA 369-B:4, VII "Notwithstanding any statutory or regulatory language to the contrary, end users who generate or acquire on-site electricity for their own use as permitted by existing law and regulation in effect as of January 1, 2000, shall not be subject to an exit fee in whole or in part. An exit fee is any rate or charge that is based in whole or in part on the amount of electric power and/or retail electric service a customer might have purchased from or through an electric utility but does not, for any reason. End users who generate electricity for their own use shall include joint users of electricity, including their on-site successors and assigns, who are using electricity generated primarily for their own use at a site owned by one or more of such users, and such users or their predecessors were sharing the provision of power as of January 1, 2000." Now, is this laissez-faire competition or, in reality captured market? By requiring customers, we, as I said before, the end users, are to pay securitization charges regardless of choice. It is an attempt to lose load-loss. Load-loss is basically the concern which will be explained and load-loss has to deal with growth in electric usage or consumption. It is definitely to insulate the utility from competitive market forces. I refer to the transcript of the Joint Electric Oversight Restructuring Committee on Monday, May 1st and I'd like you to read some selections because if you don't mind and you'll indulge me, I think there is a bit of confusion in here and I think this is why we need to go to the interim study. The honorable member from Loudon asked one of technicians or one of the experts a very interesting question and his question was: "In your formula here, where are the assumptions? Are they just in energy costs? Why should we at this point agree that those are probably accurate over the next 12 years?" Now, bear in mind that 12 years is basically the life of the note or the life of rate-recovery bonds. He also asked: "Wouldn't we be better off not signing on to something that is going to bind us for 12 years?" The expert replied: "I mean it is an excellent question. We did make assumptions in 1989 or whoever was involved with — and I'm going to have to edit here by saying with the settlement at that time — made assumptions that didn't pan out. There are some protections in the settlement agreement and modifications to the eventuality occurring here as well. The primary assumptions built into this are energy cost forecasts. They have two effects on the analysis. One effect is critical to your support." Now, let's go on. He sums it up by saying: "So, for example, if energy prices" — and this is interesting about the stranded costs, — "if energy prices go way up, alright, then what ends up happening is that in the future, not in an unpredictable manner, then we would have paid over this period, or we will end up paying over this period, too much for stranded costs. The reason for that is because we will have effectively sold off all our generating assets for too little money." He continues to go on and he says, "We can't forecast energy prices perfectly." And, he sums up the thought by saying: "That's the bed we are making, in many respects as a result of the entire process." I then continued on and I was reading this transcript. I attended the hearing, and I was reading this transcript and the honorable member from Dover who will address you a little bit later on, asked a very interesting question regarding securitization and regarding load-loss: "But, would you also say that there are some other assumptions you have accepted and that is that there wouldn't be significant load-loss?" The response was: "Well, there is in all of this analysis not only is there not load-loss, there is an average two percent a year load-growth." This is a key issue. At this point the honorable representative from Dover responded by saying: "I mean certainly if we look at a paper mill, such as one up in Groveton going off line, we are looking at a fairly significant load-loss initially. I just want to get on the record that this could be an underpinning that could actually collapse and we could be looking at another huge dilemma six or seven years from now." I could go on and I could read to you aspects about this and you will see within this transcript there are contradictions. At one point, you have the experts and the committee discussing whether or not utilities will grow; whether or not there will be a growth and load factor and just exactly what is going to happen and what is the justification. One of the summations I thought was utterly phenomenal that justified this two percent growth and, therefore, why we should have securitization was: "There is a very close correlation between income and electricity consumption and we find that this phenomenon, when you decrease rates by 16 or 18 percent, you allow the consumer surplus to stay in the hands of the ratepayers and they will spend some of the money on more electricity." Now, is that a scientific analysis – and they will spend some of the money on more electricity? It's automatic. They'll buy an appliance that consumes more electricity or they will buy an additional appliance. Now, is that what we call logical analysis of the situation as to why we are expecting about a 35 percent growth and I'm doing a simple compound over the next few years? I don't think so. At any rate, what is evident is that securitization is somewhat based upon the growth in load or as we want to call it colloquially, the demand for electricity. Growth in this formula is absolutely necessary. Where have we seen this before? Should projected growth not occur and load or demand taper off, then the obligation to the ratepayer will be extended for two additional years to a total of 14 years. So in actuality this is a note that could go two years beyond the original projection day. Regardless of competition and regardless of whether one self-generates and regardless of whether the utility is even around by year 14, this is a problem and should load growth significantly grow, then we will have paid way too much. I consider this a lose-lose situation. Yet, load growth is based upon uncertainties and faulty assumptions. Remember what was in the transcript quotes and the principle is we can't forecast energy crises perfectly or, "there is a very close correlation between income and electricity consumption." When you decrease rates by 16 to 18 percent, you allow consumer surplus to stay in the hands of ratepayers. Now, we are making some assumptions based on the very simple fact that this whole growth pattern is going to continue for another 10 to 12 years and we are already into about 10 years of what I consider a very strong growth cycle. I consider the projections to be somewhat faulty. At any rate, this presumes that we will have continued economic growth for the next 12 years and we will continue to use wasteful gadgets and that we will not strive towards advances in alternative generation. There are contradictions that are well, well established in a lot of these assumptions. I stand in opposition to securitization as it does not offer a level playing field where companies can compete in a heads-up manner and I want to read one last thing and I thank you for your indulgence. This comes from a fellow who has been the Attorney General for the state of Michigan since the mid 60s and he stated in his opposition to securitization, I think this is a very important point: "A competitive market exists when there are few, if any, barriers to entry such that many buyers and many sellers can come together to allow competition to drive down the price of electricity. Real and meaningful competition in an open market also must include a level playing field for all competitors, not just the current local monopoly utilities. No participant in the electric marketplace should have artificial advantage derived as a result of the previous regulatory scheme." Now, think about that. The single greatest failing of the securitization concept is that it does not allow, and in fact impedes, competition. It creates barriers to entry and a playing field skewed in favor of the incumbent providers and thus the price of electricity will not be driven down. It does not benefit, therefore, the ratepayer, the customer or the end user. It does not benefit the utility but it does benefit the utility and stockholder as evidenced by ConEdison's rather precipitous quick acquisition offer. I wonder if it were a true quid pro quo, meaning to say, that if there really were a true equation to this, that if it were a true quid pro quo and an equitable trade, would Consolidated Edison have been so quick off the mark with an offer to purchase Northeast Utilities? I'd like you think about that. Now, as an investment advisor looking at the protections and the cash asset position due to securitization as a result of the stranded costs, I definitely would recommend acquisition of the utility by another utility. However, as an advisor to my constituents I cannot recommend securitization.

Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you all very much for your indulgence.

Speaker: Would the member yield to questions? Rep. Cloutier, you may inquire.

Rep. Cloutier: Rep. Phinizy, I'm going to ask you the opposite sort of question I asked the Chairman of the Science, Technology and Energy Committee this morning. Can you tell me why should I vote against this agreement because frankly I'm one of the representatives and there are some out there who live in communities where we are not serviced by PSNH and if I vote for or against it, it is really not going to affect my constituents that much in my opinion. So I'm wondering why I should vote against this since the overwhelming majority of the Science, Technology and Energy Committee has approved this bill.

Rep. Phinizy: Thank you very much for your question. I could indulge this body with another speech for about 20 minutes, but I don't think they would appreciate that. Why you would want to vote against this is, very simply, it is not good enough of a financial arrangement. If we look at New Hampshire as a corporation and we consider our bond rating as far superior to the bond rating of Northeast Utilities, I feel that what we should be getting out of securitization is a much bigger bang for our buck. I've filed legislation to that effect requesting, effectively, an annual premium and little bit of an action or play with any profits that may be derived from the sale or the merger of the utility. So, if you subscribe to securitization and you like the idea of the indebtedness, the only thing that would justify it would be us receiving more of a kickback. Does that answer your question? So, therefore, I wouldn't vote for it for that reason.

Rep. Guay: Thank you, Madam Chairman. Before I start, on the table in the back there are some charts that have been prepared by the consultants as well as the Science and Technology Committee so if you want more information on charts that is going to be discussed later by Reps. Bradley, MacGillivray and Norelli. I'd like to say that this is not a new item. On Science and Technology, we have been at this for at least four or five years. The first thing that happened were the roundtable discussions that took place at the PUC. From there, I believe that the Attorney General at that time was Jeff Howard or Steve Merrill, so we go back a little ways on this. It is not something new that just came out that was presented this year that we are going to be acting upon. To this date, we have heard a lot of scenarios. We've seen at least, I would say, about 12 feet of documents that were presented between the PUC, the electric industry and some of the members that were involved in the restructuring. Jeff MacGillivray, the MIT professor that we utilize in writing a lot of our material on the Science and Technology and we pay the huge sum of $100 a year, tells me that it is more like 20 feet rather than 12 feet so I take his word for it because he read much more than I did. I'd like to say this afternoon you are going to be hearing a lot of people that will come in before you, probably, saying this is not a good bill, that we should be doing something else. Just think for a minute, I had the idea, let's buy them out. Many of them thought the same way. How many years in court would we be? We checked with our consultants that we have hired. We could be forever in court in trying to acquire by eminent domain. So the committee, in looking in all the aspects of it, is more or less ruling that out. There are a lot of good things that could happen but what we are presenting to you here this afternoon is factual, what did happen, and just a start. When we started on this particular restructuring we had the principles that we had a bill on 1492, I believe it was that time or 1392, and we established the criteria of how we were going to move and do something. To bring you up to date and furthermore before we go any further, the Science and Technology Committee has asked the leadership of the House not to whip this bill. It should stand on its own merits and we have done a lot of work on it and I think we understand it much better than those probably that would be doing the whipping. We asked that this bill would not be whipped. Hopefully, we can convince you this afternoon to pass this bill because it is very crucial that we move ahead. If we don't do that, we will have business as usual and we will still be the highest in the state, just remember that. That could do it without us and still be much higher. Securitization, if they want it let them pay for it. I can tell you right now that Public Service Company is not happy about the Science and Technology Committee. They have never been happy. I don't think they are going to be any happier if we pass this bill this afternoon. Just this last year, on June 14, 1999, a memorandum of understanding was filed with the PUC by the settling parties who included the Governor and the Energy Office, the AG, certain staff of the PUC, Public Service Company and Northeast Utilities. It provided a basic outline for settlement of restructuring Public Service Company with the signatory agreement to work towards the development of a formal settlement document. At the end of the session of the legislature, House Bill 464 that we passed established the criteria for the Public Utilities Commission to use when judging the anticipated Public Service Company settlement proposal and it should include securitization. Though the bill did not contain securitization at that time on House Bill 464, it provided a means for Public Service Company for the PUC's deliberation on the anticipated settlement. To compare the settlement to the alternative scenarios just as completing the existing Public Service rate case and you are going to be hearing about the rate case which we evaluated completely with our consultants. That bill also authorized the legislature to hire a consultant to assist reviewing and anticipating settlements of other electric restructuring matters. At the end of July, the Electric Utility Oversight Committee issued a request for proposals to hire a consultant for the General Court and established a select subcommittee to review the submissions and to make recommendations to the full committee on the oversight. The selections subcommittee reviewed 11 proposals submitted in response to the RFPs and held interviews with five of the responders in August. On September 8th, the Oversight Committee agreed that the team of Dr. Richard Silkman and Attorney Anthony Buxton should be hired as the General Court consultants to recommend by selection of the sub-committee. The Oversight Committee has held 12 meetings with the consultants. The meetings have been dedicated to reviewing the Public Service settlement proposals. The Oversight Committee has taken the following action: On January 14th, they adopted the preliminary position on needed changes on the Public Service Company settlement which subsequently filed with the PUC by Representative Bradley. Those long English words, you know, are sometimes a little hard to say. They are better off in French. I can write them but the tongue is in French. On February 23rd, they adopted a position of General Court of Representative Bradley's final brief to the Public Service settlement docket. We had discussed this on the Oversight Committee. We agreed on it. Jeb Bradley filed it on benefit of the Committee and we reviewed possible securitization legislation. The consultants have prepared the following document for the committee. We didn't come into this House and just write the bill ourselves, the consultant that we hired, which is the best in the country and they are out of Portland, Maine, they always fought for the consumers. I made sure when I was on the Review Committee that it was not somebody involved with public utilities, that we could be getting some wrong signals. So, they never, according to them, they always represented the majority of the consumers and the customers. A preliminary settlement comparing the proposed settlement with the likely range of the outcome should the traditional rate case be pursued, with or without securitization. That was done by our consultant. So we are not coming in today blind and say that we should have a rate case. We have done it, we've been through it, we've examined it and we feel this is the best way that we are presenting it to you the way the bill is today. The preliminary legal analysis concluded that the 1989 rate agreement between the state and the Northeast Utility is not a contract and even if it is, Northeast Utilities has breached it by failing to fulfill its commitment under the energy-sharing agreement as referred to in the 1989 rate agreement and that was prepared by our attorney, Buxton. The preliminary proposed change in the Public Service settlement based on the preliminary position documented and adopted by the committee on January 14th, the PUC action on August 2nd, the settling party filed with the PUC the proposed Public Service settlement. In mid-August, the PUC opened the docket on the proposed Public Service settlement and used other Public Service Company of New Hampshire proceedings, such as the rate case pending the outcome of the settlement review. The settlement proceedings were broken in two phases. The first phase in mid-August to mid-November, the PUC heard testimony from settling parties who were questioned by non-settling parties on the merits of the settlement and decided that the settlement was worth further consideration and proceeding to Phase II. In Phase II in November through the present, the PUC heard testimony from non-settling parties who were questioned by the settling parties and have taken final briefs from all including one filed by Representatives Bradley and Gilmore. The PUC issued an order on April 19 approving the settlement with certain conditions. Public Service of New Hampshire accepted most of the conditions but requested and was granted re-hearing at the PUC concerning IRS restrictions on $78.6 million and certain additional stranded cost reductions. Now we are in the year 2000 of the legislation. Sen. Below, who was a good member of the House at one time, with numerous House and Senate co-sponsors, introduced Senate Bill 472 the day after the PUC order was issued, but we had been working on that bill for several weeks prior to that as a whole committee between the Senate and the House. It authorized securitization for Public Service of New Hampshire should certain conditions be met similar to those contained in the PUC order. Senate Bill 472 passed the Senate with the amendment on May 3rd and the bill is here to be voted on today. I would ask you, I think this is the time that we have been waiting for. I would hope that you vote for this particular bill. I have been here for 22 years. I've seen what happened to the others and it is nothing compared to what happened in 1989. We never spent that much time in the House but we did this time and I think we did a tremendous job. I praise the Science and Technology Committee and praise the people on that Science and Technology Committee, the engineers, a graduate of Dartmouth, of Tufts University, ATT and Bell Atlantic and all the good people that we know and they know what the utilities are. When you deal with utilities and you have utility people on the other side that really understand the questions that they want heard have to come out one way or the other. I would ask you today to be very cautious in hearing from the other side, because, actually we wished that the other side would have sat with us for the last six years. The questions they bring out to you are legitimate. There is no question about that. I had the question that we wanted 6.5 cents a kilowatt hour and that is it, but to be factual it may happen in five years, it may happen in six years, but to tell you actually what we did in the restructuring of utilities as far as the telephone company you are just starting to see something happening, where they call you up and they say five cents a minute, six cents a minute. Before it was a monopoly just like the utility. The market took place and the market is going to take place on this one here. I just hope that those who have been coming up to me many times and saying: "Let's buy them out, let's do this, let's do that," were the same people who at one time were involved in the other Granite State Electric to a certain extent. I don't want the United Kingdom to come out and buy everything here. I think we threw the kings and the queens away a long time ago and they are not about to come in and control this part of the country and I hope that ConEd, when they merge with NU, hopefully that this is it. So, I would ask you today to be very careful in listening and especially listen to Rep. Bradley who has certain things to be talked about, Rep. Norelli that has something else on the technical part as well as Rep. Bradley and possibly Rep. MacGillivray, which I don't know what happened but somebody shut his transformer off. He can't talk. He's got laryngitis, but he may be able to say a few words. So bear with us and hopefully before the day is over, that we need to pass this so we can have a committee of conference and I don't anticipate much changes in the committee of conference but it will come back to this House. So please, help us out. Let's conclude. Let's do it and I hope you vote for it.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Dickinson, you may inquire.

Rep. Dickinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Rep. Guay I take it then that you are very pleased and proud of the deal you put together.

Rep. Guay: I've been looking at utilities since 1970. I've never been proud of any deal that they make with us. Actually, I'm proud of what the Committee is doing, but I would be more proud if we could cut it in half, but it's not going to happen. You have to be factual. You have to be realistic and you have to move ahead. And if we don't then I'd hate to see the future.

Rep. Dickinson: Are you aware of the fact that Wall Street has a lot of confidence in what you've done because the price of the Northeast Utilities stock hit a four-year high last week?

Rep. Guay: I didn't know that because I don't buy the stock. I don't buy stock. But I can tell you when we first started in here in New Hampshire, we were one of the first ones that started the deregulation and this is across the country and the natural gas has got a lot to do with that. Actually, we are going to become one of the last ones to pass it. So, we have been cautious. We've been careful. We refined and refined all these documents until today. Does that answer all your questions?

Speaker Sytek: Does the member yield? Rep. Marple, you may inquire.

Rep. Marple: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The concern that I have is on this securitization here. This is what was put out by Reps. Bradley and Norelli and MacGillivray on May 11th. My concern is over this part here: the securitization is a process that creates a bond of $688 million for PSNH in stranded costs. Now, PSNH receives cash of $688 million and the bonds are guaranteed for repayment by customers per this legislation. My question is: is this constitutional? Can this legislature encumber everyone of the people that are purchasing this electricity in the future? Do we have a contract here? How can we contract the people that are purchasing this from a private corporation?

Rep. Guay: To answer your question, I believe that our attorney, which is one of the best and they have 65 members in their law firm, I think if we get into that problem, they would have told us. My understanding is that it is constitutional. But as far as it goes on this, on the technical questions of the merits, I would leave to Reps. Bradley, Norelli and MacGillivray which we assigned for that for today's purpose so that we don't answer twice. We want to give the right answer.

Rep. Rose: Thank you, Madam Speaker and members of the House. I am against the majority Ought to Pass motion but I agree with the minority report for Interim Study. I feel that there are too many unanswered questions with this, even though we have a lot of information. We almost have too much information and it makes it as if you are looking into a fog when you look at the PUC booklet especially. As many people say, the settlement or the agreement or contract or whatever it is or will be, because it hasn't come to the point where there is a contract or an agreement yet. This is just a preliminary until the PUC and the legislature can reconcile some of the differences and there are some differences in one and the other. This $688 million plus $137 million to buy down the wood-to-power generating plants is actually only part of the stranded costs. There are many millions more involved and we will be paying the stranded costs for a long, long time; probably until 2026 or even until 2030. Who knows? Nobody knows. The PUC does say, in its docket and you have a copy of it, 99099, that quote, this is a quote from the PUC booklet: "Ratepayers will shoulder approximately $1.9 billion to $2.3 billion of claimed stranded costs." By the way, we have never really had substantiation of what these claimed stranded costs are. They just give us a total. That's not much. This is a quote: "Despite the benefits of the settlement, rates will remain high, above the regional average for a significant period." This is the PUC talking: "...and the commission finds, that the settlement as filed, is not in the public interest." Changes, orders or recommendations are in docket 99099 if you want to look it. They did say that stranded costs must be reduced by $78.6 million and this is why today they are having that hearing down at the PUC because PS — I call them PS because I don't like to put the NH on there, it is not a naughty thing, just I like to call them PS — PS doesn't agree with that, that's why they are going for a consultation I guess you'd call it, and a consultant, that Larry Guay was talking about, the consultant to the joint committee said: "NUPS may have overstated its stranded costs." May have overstated it. Many people think it is way out of line. They may have overstated it by about $400 million. That is quite a lot. Since they are writing off the same amount, they are actually recovering most of their stranded costs, basic stranded costs. What they are giving to ratepayers is two or three years of a nice little carrot in the first two or three years but then they are going to tuck it to us. I'm pretty sure. Can we really trust NUPS management? I use that word management because it is probably only two or three people, because of the merger, two or three people are running this whole thing, I believe. Can we trust them to abide by any new agreement or contract if you want to call it that? By the way, we should figure out and the PUC should figure out is this what the contract is going to be or is this just an agreement? Perhaps we do need a contract. Last time, we had an agreement and they called it a contract. Now, we should call it a contract. They will probably call it an agreement. Who knows? They violated the 1989 agreement in 1997 and I think it was last year. I think it was last year, wasn't it, that they were fined $10 million by the federal government for violating safety regulations at their nuclear plants in Connecticut, Millstone I, II or III, I forget. I can't remember a lot of things about deregulation and utility industry competition. Are we going to have competition? It doesn't look like it from this angle. Where is the competition coming from? I don't think there is going to be any. Now, if Con Edison merges with NUPS, I believe that competition will be largely a myth and will evaporate over time. Now, here is my effort at a little comedy here. The electric cow in the electric pasture could evolve into an electric bull elephant and who can compete with a bull elephant if their names are Ed, NU and PS, I mean ConEd, NU and PS? Finally -how do you like that word "finally" — new babies born this year, new babies born this year in the hospitals in New Hampshire and maybe others that will move here when they grow up and get married, have a house or an apartment and living in bliss, they will look at their electric bill, and guess what? They will be paying stranded costs of the Seabrook nuclear plant until at least 2026. Do we want to leave this kind of legacy to our children and grandchildren? I don't think so. A long time ago, Nelson Rockefeller was running for President and he said that we should pay as you go. Is this pay as you go or is this pay and pay and pay and make our grandchildren pay? Thank you very much.

Rep. Naida Kaen: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Members of the House, I don't think it would be very productive to go through every detail. I was elected to this House in 1995 and have been on the Science, Technology and Energy Committee since then. Soon after my election, since we were in the throes of drafting the legislation presumably for competition, I was honored along with the members then of Science, Technology and Energy who stood before this House and were applauded because we were the first state to vote in a bill to presumably move us forward into competition. Now, competition in the electric industry is possible only in terms of the purchase of your energy.

We will still have a monopoly when all is said and done in terms of the delivery of that energy to our homes. Keep that in mind. We'll be left with a utility that will continue to be a monopoly but we'd like to move away from that because monopolies aren't very efficient. They aren't forced to be cost effective. In place of the market controlling them, we have a Public Utilities Commission who attempts to screen and scrutinize the costs that they incur. That is the situation we've had for all these years now in terms of this natural monopoly. We now have an opportunity to spring free of a piece of that. Only a few months ago, I stood in front of you and argued that we ought to tread softly. I spoke against securitization at that point in time. I'm not speaking against securitization now because I think it is the best course of action that stands before us. We need to forget the past. This state and this state's government participated in the 1989 rate agreement. We bear some responsibility for that and so do the shareholders of Public Service Company of New Hampshire and their successors. However, what we do now today must be what is in the best economic interests of the state of New Hampshire. We have to look ahead and decide what are our choices. We can continue to hold firm and refuse to offer this legislation as security for the bonds that are going to be issued and we can continue to pay stranded costs until litigation, years and years of it; continue and in the meantime we continue to pay stranded costs. We have no way of knowing how long that will take until we reach resolution. I have been on the fence on this issue for a long time. I'm concerned about the irrevocable nature of what we will do here today if we vote this in. However, in contrast to that we are approached by businesses who are concerned about being able to budget for the future, being able to make decisions for 10 or 12 years into the future about just what will happen. In my private life, I have recently taken up real estate. What I have discovered is that when there is a good deal of uncertainty with regard to a property, people assign an enormous discount. If you can make that property look very nice, as though there is nothing wrong with it at all before you sell it, people will often offer the asking price. But, if there is some question about the septic system or about the roof, they are going to assign the highest possible cost in their own minds to protect themselves. Well, businesses will do the same as far as the state of New Hampshire and expansion and location here are concerned. They will hesitate because we have not achieved resolution and they will assign a very big discount to the probability of things going even more awry in the future and that, basically, is why I have decided to come down in favor of this legislation and no longer to sign on with the skunk button bearers that you see among you today. I think we need to come to closure and we have before us and heard before us from the consultants who are very creditable experts in the field, their assessment that this is probably the best deal that we can cut, that this is probably as far as we can go without being accused of taking a public utilities property. In that interest, I stand here before you and ask you to vote for the legislation that is in front of you and hope that, and I assure you I will be watching as well as every member of my Committee, that what comes out of a committee of conference will, in fact, result in an outcome that will give us a competitive market in one aspect, the energy section. Maybe someday we will be free of the rest of the monopoly as well. This is the best we can do for today. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Alger, you may inquire.

Rep. Alger: Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you, Representative, for taking my question. I commend you for the thought of competition, I agree with that. But, I understand there are four states in New England that are trying to do the same but they haven't gotten to it yet because of competition not coming to the prices. Now, I understand from my co-op which is now in competition, pure and simple, that is what we went to, that we are going to have a price of about five cents over the next year, so why in this deal don't we just go to competition and face into the five cents rather than having what looks like to me ...(tape change).. deferred because of the fact it is 4.2/4.4 why didn't we go directly to competition? Thank you.

Rep. Naida Kaen: I think there was some concern we've already shortened that transition period. There was some concern that there are among us individual consumers who would be shocked by having and perhaps completely confused by having to deal with the same thing we are currently dealing with as far as telephone choices and this constitutes really a compromise. I took your position, too, Representative, to some extent, but I was persuaded by the argument that we need a transition period. I think a two-year period will allow that market to develop.

Rep. Alger: In the Wall Street Journal on May 11th, there was an article about the problem of generation. We are not seeing gas-fired generation being built so I am very skeptical to your point that we will see that and these New England states are already hung-up. Isn't it possible that we'll just get hung up on transition pricing and never be willing to face the market and be back in some form of regulated utility again?

Rep. Naida Kaen: I'm sure anything is possible but I certainly don't envision that. I do hope that when the two years are over with, we've had enough attraction to the market and a critical mass among other the states in the area so that this will develop as it did in the telephone industry. I'm sorry, I don't have perfect foresight either.

Rep. Dickinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker and fellow members. I rise in opposition to the majority report and I'd like to put this in some historical perspective. I've been here for 26 years. I was here when the Clamshell Alliance was holding up Seabrook down at the shore and that is the reason we are here today with these problems. They completely shutdown Seabrook and cost PSNH an incredible amount of money. That was followed up by a restriction against being able to charge construction works in progress. The telephone company can charge this and does it all the time, but PSNH couldn't. We now realize that was a tremendous mistake and that was made in the late 70s. Now, we have about every 10 or 11 years this kind of thing happens. So, of course the thing that happened was, of course, PSNH went flat broke and bankrupt and in 1989 we were persuaded to make a deal which was absolutely terrible and we are all paying for it now. Now, I understand that the Science, Technology and Energy Committee is very pleased and proud with all the effort they put into this proposal that you have before you. I would be, too. It has taken a tremendous effort on their part and they really have done the best they could do given the circumstances. The only problem is we are not good at making these deals. The private sector, ConEd, Northeast Utilities, pay hundreds of thousands of dollars to individuals to figure out a deal which makes sense to them. I'm not saying we shouldn't be able to compete, but somehow we, the state, never seem to get a good deal and I am very nervous about the current proposal. I'm ashamed to say I voted for the deal in 1989 and I'm not going to do it again and I ask all of you to please vote down the committee report and let's see what happens. There are those who say the consumer will make out much better if we go to a rate case and I'm inclined to agree with them. The stockholders of Northeast Utilities will not make out better and I'm not worried about them because what I'm worried about and concerned about are the people who pay for electricity in this state of New Hampshire. Thank you very much, Madam Speaker.

Rep. MacGillivray: Madam Speaker and ladies and gentlemen, I rise in support. My voice won't hold out long so you won't get a very long speech today. That should please some of you. First, I would like to draw your attention to the chart that has been shown to many of you that says business as usual is worth about $200 million dollars more than Senate Bill 472. Ladies and gentlemen, we've been asking our financial consultants since day one to please give us apples-to-apples comparisons to make sure we have similar assumptions in every case so that we don't have problems like that. Unfortunately, that chart is not apples-to-apples. I can add and subtract and it is just not there. If you use different energy prices and make a few other different assumptions, you'll get a funny comparison. You need to look beyond the first eight years because after the first eight years all sorts of good things happen under Senate Bill 472 that don't happen under business as usual. One of the things that SB 472 does is it takes a large block of costs which we would be paying for Seabrook between now and 2026, it gets them all out of the way by 2012, so you have savings in those future years and they are worth something. The PUC stopped its chart after eight years, so the person doing the comparison stopped his chart after eight years. But in the ninth year, as you can see from other charts we did, there is a huge saving for Senate Bill 472 because at that point the stranded costs charge goes down because at that point a whole bunch of stranded costs have been either paid or won't ever be paid and PSNH will have to eat them. I'd like to comment further on an assumption that is built into the business-as-usual scenario. To make it look good, they ask you to assume that you can securitize, that is refinance, a whole bunch of money while you are litigating whether you have to pay it or not. Ladies and gentlemen, one of the fundamental principles of securitization refinancing is that you don't refinance an amount and agree to pay it until you are done arguing over whether you are going to pay. So, we would wind up waiting a few extra years for the litigation to be completed before we could do that. What securitization is doing – we talk about this guarantee that ratepayers will have to pay this, but ladies and gentlemen, the ratepayers are paying these costs now, and under business-as-usual they are going to keep paying these costs, and the way they stop paying these costs is if they go off the system and if they go off the system under business-as-usual or Senate Bill 472 they stop paying these costs so that doesn't change. All of the red herrings regarding what if people leave the system, are just that, red herrings, because they come into play in both scenarios. The only difference is that people are less likely to walk off the system if the prices are lower. The lower the prices the less attractive generating your own electricity is. Securitization simply takes costs ratepayers are paying now and would have continued paying anyway and refinances them at a lower interest rate. It is sort of like taking credit card debt at 12 or 13 or some other percent and refinancing it. Once you've figured out that you are going to pay it, why not bring the interest rate down to seven-and-a-quarter percent? You'll save a bunch of money that way. If the ratepayers are going to have to pay the costs anyway, why not reduce the carrying costs? Delay in securitization costs customers money. About three years ago, the PUC had a chance to approve some deals between PSNH and six of the wood-fired power plants. These deals would have produced $150 million of customer savings by, in effect, refinancing some and not running the plants quite as much and the PUC decided there weren't enough dollars there for us. So what has happened, if we went back and tried to recreate those deals today we might get $80 or $100 million instead of $150 million. During the past few years, we have paid those stranded costs and the potential savings as a result of the delay have quite literally gone up in smoke. If a rate case were conducted, suppose we were extremely fortunate, suppose we get an outcome better than what the PUC thinks is reasonable best case, an outcome better than what our consultant thinks is a reasonable best case. Suppose we get the $200 million extra but given that PSNH has taken us to court over everything else, they'll probably litigate this one as well and after a few years, we may find that even if litigation goes as well as we have any reason to hope, the extra delay in securitization winds up costing us back all the dollars we got from a better settlement in litigation. Now, as you know, our track record on litigation has not been actually stellar. We haven't won too many an, quite frankly, what we may be doing is comparing what we might get with what we can get and it may turn out that what we might get, the extra $200 million, is not only a low probability occurrence but it is one that is accompanied by enough extra costs that we don't really win. Of course, if we lose the litigation, then we will be even worse off because we won't get the $474 million in write-offs. We won't get the $300 million in securitization savings because time has gone by. We'll get a smaller number. So, to come out ahead with a rate case we'd need an extremely good result from litigation, inconsistent with our track record, and we'd have to get it fast enough that delays in securitization savings didn't offset that almost-entire gain. Me - based on what I've been told by our consultant who told us from the start, the settlement, as proposed, isn't good enough just like the PUC said, but who also said put another $100 million into this and it is a better deal for ratepayers which, incidentally, is what the PUC also said with $101 million extra this is in the public interest - I'd rather take a bird in the hand than the promise of three-quarters of a bird in the bush. How soon will we see real competition? We are setting our energy price higher than most other places that have tried to set a ceiling on prices. People said they don't see the gas plants being built. Well, we've got our gas plants permitted in New Hampshire, we're just waiting for the folks in the power grid to hook them up and give them permission to connect. What we are seeing are some other plants are under construction and should be up and running within a few months, not necessarily in time for the tight market this summer when we will be very close to capacity. But, between these immediate plants coming on this fall and a bunch more coming on in the next year, we will have a more competitive market with some reserve capacity in place for the future. Ladies and gentlemen, this issue is too important for politics. We're paying all of these costs now. We're overwhelmingly likely to be required to keep paying them in the future. Senate Bill 472 gives us $474 million in PSNH write-offs, $101 million more than the original settlement, and sets us up for over $300 million of refinancing savings now. That is a lot of savings and we've looked at a lot of alternatives and none of them look like if you put a reasonable expectation on how things will come out in the long run and put in reasonable probabilities of different things happening, all of the alternatives look 100 million or more worse. Ladies and gentlemen, we've been digging into this issue for six years. We've had our consultants working for six months. We are ready to say this is about the best we are going to do. I hope we can convince you to vote with us in favor of the committee recommendation of Ought to Pass with Amendment. Thank you.

Rep. Donald White: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise before the body today to speak against this bill. With reference to one of the prior speakers, I'm glad that he brought it up because I am an engineer. The way I look at things is in the way in which I was educated to examine each component and if I ever designed a machine the way this situation has evolved into this rather sad component we call legislation, I would have been drummed out of the industry years ago. With respect to my friend from the North country, I have been at this for six years myself. I've read every document. I'm a pretty good reader, I understand very well what I read and I can interpret it very well. That gentleman was in the unfortunate position of having to translate into French, which is not so easy. But this bill is called the final bill, perhaps. But it might be the final blow to ratepayers because if you notice that every single item that PSNH might think might be used to their advantage, they have pushed and shoved and whined and resisted right to the end, back to before the PUC again. They found another technicality and I imagine that they will do that as long as they are in existence. But that is not the real question. We are looking at and you have heard considerable about securitization so I'm not going to explain it, but to put it to you on the basis that unless you guarantee them this special treatment, and that is all it is, I don't know that the state has ever given this to anyone else for any reason, it is a bribe and unless they get it there is no deal. I think that is a wonderful situation for a committee to face. Give us the money or there is no deal. They have a certain amount, I don't know what it will eventually come down to if it is passed on to the end user. But the amount of money they will be able to use freely will help them let you pay over the next ten years about $90 million a year in excess stranded costs that we should not be paying for in return for a savings if we securitize about $22 to $23 million that they are going to give us. If you play that to each year, you'll see it as a considerable difference. That is really not something I would understand is really logical, it would be to big business. The blurb also mentioned the fact that if they did not securitize immediately or take advantage of it, we would be paying about $6 million a month that they would have to deduct. Now, we have been told: "Let's not look back", but I think maybe you should consider a couple of things. If you take $6 million a month and you apply it over the past 132 months they've handled over or approximately $800 million. These are not exact figures because the months may be a little bit off. During that period of time they transferred NU from themselves and from Seabrook in excess of $400 million. I didn't see that anywhere in anything that they wrote down prior to this point, and yet we are told we should forget the past. It is an interesting situation to me. We were also told that the rate case had been calculated. It certainly has not. That again offends me as an engineer. If it had been done on parallel lines and they could prove conclusively that one was better than the other, I would stand here and tell you that it was, because an engineer must when he sees the figures. What it is, is speculation on what might happen best or worse case without the real foundation that you need to have. I respect the intelligence, the expertise of these people but as an individual who represents other people who trust me, I must know that this is an accurate projection and I don't know that and I'm very concerned about that. Then I have in front of me a lawyer's letter, seven pages, and I believe everyone on the committee and the other people have had it, and this letter states emphatically that there is no rate agreement. There is no rate agreement and why it has not been taken to court before this I can't explain to you. Why the PUC in its order I can't explain to you. I think this is a travesty. The letter goes on to say that if indeed there were that the companies have already abrogated that agreement by failing to do certain things that they were supposed to do under that set agreement and I have all the data and that disturbs me too because no one looked at that. So, I think you are being rushed to judgment. Now, I was also on the floor when the banner of HB 1392 was unfurled before this body. It was an outline of just and idealistic principles that I felt would direct this state towards something equitable for the people who have paid the bill for so long and I'm talking about the average individual, I'm not talking about business. They have succeeded and they have, in spite of the problems and in spite of the individuals who think that this might inhibit them in the future, kept coming into the state and have made this a better place. They will also by this agreement prosper in the next few years much more so than the average individual so that there should be no fear of any economic development interference whatsoever, regardless of what you do today. Our job is to see what we can do for the many. But, what I see you being asked to do is have that flag struck, folded and then placed away into a storage area for legislative dunnage to be looked on by historians in the future and wonder why these people did this and they saw no result. So, I will repeat that business has always had the courage to move ahead but they usually moved ahead on the basis of technology. If you look at the bill and examine it you will see there is a great possibility that the use of technology by individuals or groups to manufacture their own electricity at a lesser rate could be prohibited because PSNH feels that if this were the case, if this were allowed, they would not get the triple A bond that they desire so that they can get the money they want us to pay on an irrevocable basis. This is a very strange situation to me. It is something that I have been wrestling with for months. Should I free people from this discourse, from this irritation that is constant, or should we decide to be a little bolder, maybe a little braver and say the heck with it, we are going to dig in our heels and we are going to take these people to court and we are going to beat them and I think we can? But, if we don't do that and we inhibit technology every other state in this country will adopt that technology. Then, if you are worried about the economic future of this state, then you have a real concern. You can't ignore that advance. You can't inhibit that advance and you have to, where it is useful to the individuals of this state, you must adopt that advance. But for me it goes even further than that, and I'll digress a little bit from statistics or opinion or speculation because a lot of it is. I'm a member of a school board. The past week has been one of the most stressful weeks I have had in my entire life. I sat in judgment in committee, in judgment on children who made bomb threats. This is a very hard thing to imagine. I had never run into it before where you are looking at these young people and understand how serious what occurred and the effect it had on the other children, the parents, the town and in the case of individual concern as well as economy. But I learned something else and as old as I am I guess you can continue to learn and to feel. When I looked at some of the parents, most of them are average people, many of them I think had troubles. One way or the other, the children were doing quite well but they had some aberrations that I guess helped cause what they did. It was a very touching thing to see, but what impressed me were these people of average income, of average intelligence, were decent people. They were very interested in justice. They admitted the crime. They said, "There has to be a penalty. What can we do?" Looking at these for the first time I think I saw the people I have been talking about for six years. Those are of real concern to me. Are we doing them the type of justice that I would expect. Are they gaining from this what I would like them to have? I just don't think so and I am very concerned about that. I don't like to lay that burden upon you but we all represent people like that, that don't know us. They are the unknown faces but yet they trust us and they expect us to do as well as we can for them. I think that is what I am asking today, that when you vote, you think of those people and what you may be able to do for them, if not now maybe at some other time. I think that is why we are here. I would hope that you support me but I will understand if you do not and I thank you for your kind attention.

Rep. Norelli: Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you, colleagues. I know it has been a long afternoon. You've had an awful lot of information thrown at you. Keep in mind that the Science, Technology and Energy Committee has been working on this legislation for quite some time now. We have, indeed, spent a lot of time looking at all the nitty-gritty details and trying to make sure that we have crafted the best deal for the ratepayers of PSNH that we could craft. So, I want to make sure that we know exactly what those details are. As Representative Kaen told you before, the only part of the electric utility industry that will be undergoing restructuring or competition is generation. In a traditional market, we had a regulated monopoly utility. They had an obligation to serve everybody in their franchise territory and in return for that they were insured that if they invested prudent costs that they would recover those costs at a fixed rate of return. In fact, that is why utility stocks are considered very low risk stocks because they are going to recover their costs. When the legislature passed RSA 374-F, we made the determination that moving to competition was in the public interest. I happen to agree that that is still the case. In a restructured market, we'll still, as Rep. Kaen mentioned, we'll still have a regulated monopoly utility whose only job will be to distribute, transmit and distribute that power. The generation of power will actually be open to competition. This is similar to what happened with the breakup of AT&T. You still continue to have a "Baby Bell" that provided your local service while at the same time you were free to shop about for the best deal that you could get on your long distance service. Competition, we believe, will do several things. It will continue to drive the costs of energy down. It will provide customer choice. It will provide new services and products. Who would have thought 10 years ago that we would be debating here on the floor whether or not to ban the use of cell phones in automobiles? Who knows what new products and services will become about from electric utility restructuring. These changes occurred with the telephone industry not overnight, but they have occurred. But I think the biggest impact of competition is one that was addressed by Rep. Phinizy and that is the issue of the economic and operational risk of generation assets and under a regulated market we, as customers, bear that risk. We make the utility and the regulators or whoever else makes mistakes away along the way, prudent mistakes but mistakes nevertheless. They make mistakes and the customers bear the risk of that. In a deregulated market the utility owners, the investors, I mean the generation supply owners, the investors in that company, are the ones that bear the risk. Unfortunately, we have been unable to achieve restructuring. We've been tied up in federal court in litigation We haven't been doing too well there. Therefore, we believe that the settlement agreement in Senate Bill 472 which provides significant benefits for customers is definitely a preferable way to get to competition as opposed to a prolonged contentious court battle where we have no idea of what the outcome will be. The debate that we have been having mostly is about what are the stranded costs of PSNH, how much are they and who should be paying them. In a competitive market, if a company makes investments, as I said, the investors take on all the risk. If they spend $60,000 and they are only able to recover $40,000, the investors lose $20,000. In a regulated market, if $60,000 is prudently invested, that company will recover $60,000. If a company begins, as PSNH did, in a regulated market but we moved, transitioned to a competitive market, and they invested $60,000 under regulation when they were required to serve everybody and were assured that they would recover their costs, they invested $60,000 in that environment. We are changing the rules. Now, in a competitive market if that same investment is only worth $40,000, that difference of $20,000 is what we are referring to when we are talking about stranded costs. It is very important to note that while a company is in the regulated market and that includes PSNH, myself as a PSNH customer and everyone else in here who is a PSNH customer, each and every one of us is paying stranded costs today. We are paying them imbedded in our rates, and we will continue, after competition, to pay some portion of those stranded costs except it will be a separate charge, broken out as a separate charge called the stranded-cost-recovery charge on your bill. The first question is: what did we do with Senate Bill 472 to insure that customers were treated fairly with respect to the amount of stranded costs that we had to assume? PSNH claims a total of $2.3 billion in stranded costs after asset sales. Roughly speaking, about $1 billion of those are Seabrook-related costs and another $1 billion of those are costs related to, as it has been described to us, iron-clad agreements that have been made with the independent power producers, the wood-to-energy and the trash-to-energy plants. In other words, we will be paying back those costs. The settlement agreement required that PSNH would write off $367 million of that $2.3 billion in stranded costs. The Public Utilities Commission, as did the Electric Utility Restructuring Oversight Committee, did not believe that that was a sufficient exchange for the use of securitization. Our committee recommended additional write-offs and, in fact, the final order of the Public Utilities Commission required an additional $100 million in write-offs. Senate Bill 472, as amended by the House, actually locks in the bottom line. Without $474.2 million of write-offs by PSNH, they cannot use securitization. In addition, PSNH must sell their generation assets. This could, perhaps, lower stranded costs even further. The proceeds of all fossil and hydro generation plants above book value will go to reducing stranded costs. In the agreement, Seabrook is valued at $100 million. If it sold for anything less than $100 million, the $100 million still comes off stranded costs; but if it sells for anything over $100 million, they have to write-off the entire amount. So, we are insured at least $100 million against stranded costs for Seabrook. One of the other issues that has to do with stranded costs and the risk that customers versus investors make, one of the things we've put in here, is risk-sharing by PSNH. As part of the settlement agreement, a portion of the stranded costs actually, it was calculated how much would have to be paid over the next roughly seven years if there was two percent load growth in electricity. So, what happens, as Rep. Phinizy suggested, if there is less than a two percent load growth? And if I'm incorrect on that number, I'm sure Rep. Bradley will correct me when he comes up. But suppose that there is an economic downturn. Suppose that technology advances change much more rapidly than we expect and the load growth is less than two percent. What happens? Well, then what happens is when we reach that recovery end date about seven years down the road, whatever PSNH hasn't recovered, they have to write it off. So, unlike the 1989 agreement, this agreement includes risk sharing by the investors of PSNH. Remember, the stranded costs for the company that is moving from a regulated to a competitive market. If the Public Utilities Commission determined that $18,000 of those stranded costs were, in effect, prudently incurred under regulated market, then over time customers would continue to pay back that $18,000 in the separate line item that's called stranded-cost-recovery charge on your bill. Suppose company C doesn't have a very good credit rating, and, in fact, PSNH does not. Securitization is a financing mechanism that would allow them to restructure their debt at a much lower interest rate. Because of the guarantee involved this requires legislation. Senate Bill 472 provides that authorization for securitization. It guarantees that the ratepayers of PSNH will continue to pay that amount over the next 12 years through a charge on their bill. This company then uses this guaranteed stream of revenue as security to go out and issue bonds and because of this security they will get a much better bond rating. They will get much lower interest costs and they will be able to restructure their company. The company gets the $18,000 in cash up front. This is a big deal. Don't let anybody think that this is not a big deal. They get it up front. But what do customers get? Customers get, first of all, lower rates, because the company is paying lower interest rates and with Senate Bill 472 we have assured that we are also getting things like additional write-offs. The settlement agreement allows the company, PSNH/NU, to securitize up to $725 million of their stranded costs — stranded costs, remember, that we will be repaying as customers, competition or no competition. The Public Utilities Commission, in their final order, determined that the benefits to PSNH of the settlement and in particular of securitization were, and I believe that their exact words were: "significant and immediate." They have an end to litigation. They haven't been doing very well on Wall Street. This helps them out. They are able to replace regulatory uncertainty with a guaranteed recovery of some portion of their stranded costs and they get that up-front cash payment of a portion of their stranded costs. In fact, these benefits were so good that now ConEdison is interested in acquiring them. The Public Utilities Commission, in their final order, also determined that benefits accrued to customers, but unlike the immediate benefits to PSNH, benefits to customers accrue over time. We believe, that is the majority of the Science, Technology and Energy Committee, that it is fair that ratepayers receive a quid pro quo in exchange for these significant benefits to PSNH, that is they are guaranteed repayment and up-front cash. The final order required an additional write-off in addition to the $367 million in the settlement agreement of over $100 million. PSNH is actually contesting a portion of that additional write-off. But Senate Bill 472 requires that the bottom line benefit to customers will be $474.2 million a write-off of stranded costs. Remember, again, I can't say this enough, we are paying those stranded costs now and we continue to pay them every time we pay our electric bill. In fact, the Public Utilities Commission, recognized that and the assumed-competition day in the settlement agreement, it's anticipated that we won't get to competition by that day and the commission's estimate was for July 1st and so what they said was that every month customers are paying $6 million of those stranded costs that are proposed to be securitized and so they reduced the amount of securitization that would be allowed to PSNH by $37 million to $688 million. They also allowed that difference of $37 million to be securitized but that money can only be used if they successfully renegotiate the contracts, the long-term, ironclad contracts that I mentioned before, through which we are paying extremely high rates for electric energy. Senate Bill 472 requires that the $688 million continues to be reduced by $60 million a month for every month after July 1st until we reach the actual competition day. We have increased the amount of securitization that the company can use though, only to renegotiate, if they successfully renegotiate the independent power producer contract. There are two things that I want to clear up. Lots of people have been coming up during the day and asking questions. They heard this here or heard that there and there are two questions that I have been asked a few times and I just want to make sure that they get answered in case there are other people out there with these questions. The first was that they were under the impression that if the nuclear decommissioning was over-funded that the company that purchases Seabrook would get to keep those costs. That is incorrect. In fact, the settlement agreement did have that in it, the Public Utilities Commission, in its final order, said no, that's not a good idea. Maybe you think that's a good idea but it is not legal. They have to be returned; after funding must be returned to customers. The second, and perhaps someone will hit this again, is the chart that is going around that shows that our consultants' rate path is higher than the rate path assumed by the Public Utilities Commission. One of the significant differences between those two rate paths is the amount of money that they have assumed for the cost of energy. But, the cost of energy will be what the cost is. In the settlement agreement, they have assumed an energy cost of 3.7 cents. The Public Utilities Commission said 4.0 cents. Our consultant says, you know it's really 4.5 cents, so in Senate Bill 472 we call for 4.4 cents and then 4.6 cents for energy costs. Now, if you take the chart that is floating around and you adjust the Senate Bill 472 graph so that you account for an assumption, and that is all it is an assumption, that the energy costs will be less, than you'll get a graph that falls below the Public Utilities Commission's best scenario. For anybody that hasn't seen it, I think there are some more of those charts out on the table in the back that explain the differences between that graph and the graph that the Science, Technology and Energy Committee was using. I understand that this is a lot to take in. We've tried to give you as much information in the last hour or so as we've taken in the last year. But the Science, Technology and Energy Committee vote of 17-2 is a statement that we believe that this legislation achieves appropriate and sufficient ratepayer benefits in exchange for PSNH's right to securitize a portion of their stranded costs. I would ask you to support the committee position of Ought to Pass. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to questions? Rep. Thomas, you may inquire.

Rep. Thomas: Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you, Rep. Norelli and I hate to belabor a point but a lot of people have talked to me about why not let this go to a rate case. You've done a commendable job of explaining that we shouldn't, but would you suggest with our history, with PSNH's history of taking us to court over rate cases that in a less than friendly out-of-state federal court that we would make out any better?

Rep. Norelli: Rep. Thomas, I think that one of the reasons we are all so frustrated is because PSNH and NU have been as successful as they have been in court in Rhode Island. They went to court in February of 1997, believe it or not, and we still have not resolved that. Going back to court, our record has been poor. It will be prolonged. It will be contentious and in the interim, as I've said before, we will continue to pay those stranded costs without the benefits of competition.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question. Rep. Jacobson you may inquire.

Rep. Jacobson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative, I was here in 1989 and the big argument then was that we cannot let Public Service Company go broke and so, though I opposed the legislation then, it was voted in. But, today you said something that I have never heard before and I would like to know the authority for that and it is this: that unlike private corporations, regulated corporations cannot go broke because the ratepayers are bound to pay off the debt. Now, I never heard that before. Could you explain that a little further and give us the legislative authority for it? Rep. Norelli: Thank you, Rep. Jacobson. Actually I don't believe that I said that they couldn't go bankrupt. What I did say was that in a regulated market when utilities make prudent investments that they are assured that they will have a fixed rate of return for recovery of those prudent investments with a fixed rate of return and I will admit to you that I don't know what that fixed rate of return is today but I'm sure that Rep. Bradley could let you know.

Rep. Jacobson: Now, you didn't use the word prudent on the first round and what I'd like to understand is who determines what is prudent or not?

Rep. Norelli: In a regulated market, it is the job of the regulators of that industry, in the case of New Hampshire the Public Utilities Commission, to make those determinations. That is part of the process that they go through when they are setting rates in a traditional rate case to determine what investments are prudent, what they should recover and then what the rate should be the per kilowatt hour charge should be, for the electricity in order for them to recover those prudent investments at that fixed rate of return.

Rep. Jacobson: Did the Public Utilities Commission approve the investment costs that were made that have now become the stranded costs as prudent investments?

Rep. Norelli: Rep. Jacobson, unlike you, unfortunately, I was not here in 1989 so I would like to defer that question to Rep. Bradley who has a little bit better handle on the history of what happened in the past than I do.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to other questions? Rep. Chase, you may inquire.

Rep. Chase: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I think many of us are having considerable difficulty in deciding which way to vote on this. It is not an easy question. You and I are both former mathematics teachers. Twice today you have used the phrase, "much lower finance charge," that is interest rates. Would you quantify that, "much lower?"

Rep. Norelli: Thank you for your question. Actually, according to the settlement agreement, Public Service Company, when the bonds are triple-A rated, then they get a lower interest rate than Public Service Company of New Hampshire could get now with the rating that they have. In the settlement agreement, Public Service Company of New Hampshire has guaranteed that as long as the rate, whatever the rate, is below 7.25 percent that is what we would get. If the rate were to go above 7.25 percent they would guarantee the 7.25 percent rate through July 1 and in Senate Bill 472 as amended by the House, we actually extended that date to October 31st.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Marple, you may inquire.

Rep. Marple: Thank you, Madam Speaker and Rep. Norelli. I'm going to confine my question to the information that you co-authored here and it also involves mathematics. Previously, I did some quick mathematics and according to what is revealed here, $688 million, which at a simple 6 percent interest per annum yields a little in excess of $41 million a year and for 12 years the multiplication comes out to be about a half a billion dollars in interest that would be compelled performance on the part of the ratepayers in addition to the principle on those bonds and I really am questioning the mathematics here. The Public Service Company is going to get $688 million up front and what are they going to do with that? Are they going to reduce? How does the ratepayer benefit with the mathematics that we have in front of us here?

Rep. Norelli: Well, as I said before, these stranded costs that Public Service would securitize are costs that we are currently paying back with a rate of return. Again, I'll defer to Rep. Bradley to tell you exactly what that rate of return is, but it is higher than 7.25 percent, so we are paying them back now and we are paying them back at a higher rate than we would pay them back with securitization which would get a lower rate.

Rep. Marple: The fact still remains though that we have got, as I said, over a half a billion, that is spelled with a B, billion dollars, in addition to fronting the money for the bonds and that is in the next 12 to 14 years. If it goes 14, it is going to be more than a half a billion in interest. I'm wondering, can you tell me how the ratepayer is going to benefit? We have no numbers here to show, yes the ratepayer is going to benefit or no over here. I don't see these numbers. This is my question.

Rep. Norelli: Well, I would say that the first thing is to take a look at the graph as prepared by the legislature's consultant, Dr. Silkman, which shows that we benefit over time through slightly lower rates than we could get with the best case scenario from a rate case and whatever additional benefits could be derived from actual competition. I think that the answer to your question is that in fact we would be paying back all those same costs to which you refer even without securitization. But, we would be paying them back with higher interest over time through that fixed rate of return than we will pay back through the 7.25 percent or less that they can get from securitization.

Rep. Martel: You mentioned quid pro quo. Does not the benefit that the customer, the consumer, the ratepayer, receive here is nothing more than really paying for these so-called stranded costs? Now, each one of the ratepayers is paying, right now as we speak, $8.40 a month over and above the cost of generating and delivering that power. That is a fixed cost of $8.40. You can take the mathematics and figure out for a hundred thousand how much that company is getting per month in addition, over and above the cost of generating and delivering the power that they deliver. Multiply that by 12 and then multiply that by another 12 for the next 12 to 14 years that these rate payers are going to be paying that fixed charge of whatever they come up with, I've seen it gradually go up every month for the last 20 years. It goes up every month. It is $8.40. Why is that not factored in because we are talking some big bucks?

Rep. Norelli: Actually, I think that it is factored in. What you are saying is that we are paying a lot more now than the actual costs of generating and operating the generation supply assets and in fact that is true. Much of the stranded costs come from the capital investments in those generation assets and by restructuring the company, by requiring that they write off $474 million of those stranded costs to which you refer, and by securitizing another $700 million of those at a lower interest rate than what we are paying now. That is where the savings will come from.

Rep. Marple: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am still confused. Thank you, Rep. Norelli.

Rep. Gilmore: Madam Speaker, I rise in opposition to this legislation for two reasons. It is not fair to rate payers, consumers. There are alternatives available. I stole that line from the 1989 rate agreement, the debate of which I read this morning, so it wasn't right on the tip of my tongue. A number of other things we spoke of in 1989 and for the proponents who were pushing it, all proponents of the 1989 agreement said the same thing, "We've got to do this because we can't risk going to court." The bad judge in 1989 was Judge Yacos. The bad judge today is Judge Lagueux. We spoke in 1989. Again, it was not a perfect agreement but the best we could do. We spoke that this would resolve, finally resolve the problem. We thanked our experts for their great advice and how they had guided us to this conclusion. I don't want to forget 1989 because there is too much there we must remember before we repeat it again. If history has taught us anything, it is that it can repeat itself. If history has taught us anything, it is that dramatic changes will occur, that things will not proceed in a normal, steady fashion as we project it to. It doesn't happen that way. I don't even know if we want it to happen that way, really, but it certainly doesn't happen that way. If you look back to the last 10 years, 10 years ago when I was in this body in the Science, Technology and Energy Committee we had all these divisive debates about cable. Well, right now you have an alternative to cable. You have direct TV. We've seen cell phones explode, so you have an alternative to AT&T. There are alternatives today available. The technology has changed so dramatically and nobody predicted it. I would hate to look into that crystal ball and tell you that things are not going to change because the certainty is we don't know and the certainty is that it is almost certain to change and certain to change in dramatic ways. There are alternatives. What we know from the PUC rate order through their benchmarking is that we can ask, immediately, for an 8 to 10 percent reduction, immediately. We know we can adjudicate a rate case. We know we can adjudicate stranded costs. Now, I've got to talk about stranded costs because a number of erroneous things were stated. We state that we are paying them all off. Well, that's not exactly true. We're not. Now, in this settlement, PSNH says they have $2.3 billion worth of stranded costs - $2.3 billion. Do we know that's true? They said it but we don't know it is true because the next step has been stopped. It has not gone to the PUC. The PUC has not adjudicated if those stranded costs are real. Now, we know in Connecticut, when NU went through the same procedure, that a large, a significant amount, largely, several hundred million, I believe three or four hundred million dollars that they claimed as stranded costs, their PUC kicked out. They said they aren't real. There is some testimony from the PUC's own staff that the stranded cost numbers should be significantly lower. I also haven't adjudicated whether the stranded costs, so called stranded costs, are prudent and the collection of some of those stranded costs has been deferred. We aren't collecting them. The PUC has ordered that we don't collect them. It is not happening. We are collecting a significant amount of stranded costs without question. But some of those stranded costs, like the wood burners that we've heard of for quite awhile now, will go away entirely in the year 2027 if we don't agree to this today. It won't go away so quickly if we don't because we will be paying them over 12 years. Our experts said there has been a breach in the rate agreement. Now, again in the 1989 proceedings in this House, one of the cornerstones of the rate agreement was that NU would supply us with power. Our experts have said they've breached that and that's worth hundreds of millions of dollars if we litigate. If we go forward today, we lose that opportunity. We will not recover that value. We will not recover it. Finally, if we vote "no" today, it's not over. We are not asking you to kill this legislation. We're asking for interim study and I believe that if NU, if ConEd want their agreement they'll be back and they'll be back bearing gifts, a better deal, a better deal that is in their best interests and in our best interests. Securitization of $800 million, which we will be paying, which PSNH will be receiving, $700, $800 million up front, is roughly what they earn in the course of the year. That is an awful lot of largesse to give to that company. It is also very concerning when you look at what they are writing off with it. And, principally, what they are writing off is the Seabrook power contract. Now, the Seabrook power contract postulates that we will continue paying for nuclear power for 39 years. Now, I don't know about you, but I'm not willing to make that risk. No plant has lasted that long and what I think every expert in the field says is that if we build the gas plants they won't be able to compete. Nuclear plants are expensive to run, expensive to maintain. They just won't be able to compete. Now, the opposite side of that is if we don't build the gas plants, then with the rising costs of the electricity those so called stranded costs are not going to be stranded. They'll be valuable. They are only stranded if they are not something we can use and then we can use them. If we don't build the gas plants, the face of competition in this state will likely be very dire. Now, in the amendment they have before you, when you look at the transition price, you know, we tag it at 4.4 and 4.6 cents. Now, right now, the real world price for power as determined by the most recent bid that was received which was the co-op which was earlier this year, is roughly 5 cents, 5.1, 5.2 cents. Now, in a competitive environment, that translates to 5.5 to 5.6 cents. Nobody has done a rate path using real-world numbers. If we believe in competition so much, if we really believe in it, then why aren't we saying that the transition price will be what the price is in the real world? Well, we're not going to say that, folks, because we can't give you savings. And, we can't sell this plan unless we give you savings. If competition results in prices of this nature or higher and prices have been rising fairly dramatically — it is not a good deal. The other issue about competition, energy prices are extraordinarily volatile. You have incredible peaks and then you have a fairly consistent level. Those peaks would make our concerns about the fuel oil minor in comparison. If your constituents ever have to face the wrath of having to pay those peaks, I think you'll be paying for your constituents wrath. The market hasn't evolved. It isn't working. We have competition in four other states but nobody is doing it. Nobody is competing. The PUC forum we had here a couple of years ago, not here but up the street, energy suppliers came in and they said New Hampshire is just too small. We won't have anything to do with you unless your neighboring states are competing. Well, our neighboring states can compete. Nobody is competing. New Hampshire's ability to collect the benefits, the so called benefits of competition, are extremely remote at the present time and my fear is if we go forward we'll look fairly foolish in a couple of years when the whole impact of this will come due. And, again in 1989, we sort of went forward but we didn't really see it for what it was until two to three years. Similarly, there is no way you will understand this settlement again for a couple of years and then it is just too late. We are locking ourselves in.

We are locking ourselves in to 12 years. Final point: we speak of competition and that there will be no more Seabrooks. Well, again in the real world, nobody is building Seabrooks. In the real world, actually, independent power producers are building the power plants that are powering the nation and they are doing it whether there is competition or there is no competition and I assume they are doing it for a couple of reasons — that they can do it cheaper and that they are not regulated; they can make a better profit. That's what will occur whether we do competition or not. That is what will occur as it has been. I would urge this body — and you have been wonderfully attentive through this whole debate — I would strongly urge this body not to lock us in to a rate path that will leave us inflexible to change, inflexible to respond to the changing market. I would urge this body to, at this time, vote this legislation down. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to questions. Rep. Burling, you may inquire.

Rep. Burling: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative, I particularly liked the Representative from New London taking us back 11 years. Eleven years ago you were in I-28 and I was in I-29 and both of us voted against the worst energy deal we'd ever seen, and yet today we take different perspectives. I wanted to ask you about two specific assumptions that you make. The first is that there is an alternative to this proposal and that is further litigation. My question on that issue is: Am I irrational in believing that given the fact the Providence court has declared the 1989 agreement to be a contract binding on the state and given the fact that Judge Lagueux has determined that he has continuing jurisdiction over any and all orders of our Public Utilities Commission, would I be irrational to believe that if we do something against the interests of PSNH we're likely to pay for it in the Providence court?

Rep. Gilmore: Actually, Peter, I sat in Division 1, seat 31. Well, it's sort of like the question. The litigation I'm talking about is one that the state would be the aggressor. It is one in which the state would be going forward. If the rate agreement is determined to be a contract, that litigation would be even more in our favor than less in our favor because they have breached that contract. What a certain judge would or would not do or whether it would even be before that judge because it is a totally separate matter, is rather foolish of me to even speculate, especially given what our expert legal counsel has said. I mean, he thinks it is an extremely strong case. I'm sorry, I would certainly be the last one to doubt his word.

Rep. Burling: Thank you. The second part of my question is: Would I be irrational, coming from a town which is served by five utilities, to think that if competition were made available, particularly to those of us in the western part of the state, that we might quickly move to buy the cheapest possible power since all of it is available? I can get it from the Co-op, from Granite State, from PSNH, the town or city of Claremont has four utilities which provide power, why would I be irrational to try to get that competitive power, that access to a competitive market?

Rep. Gilmore: Actually, Peter, your neighbors who are not served by PSNH, who are served by Granite State electricity, who are served by the Co-op, anyway, those have access to competitive power today but I suspect if you ask any of your neighbors who have them as their supplier that they are not using competition because competition is not working, not only in New Hampshire where we have it in many utilities, but also everywhere in New England where it is available and it is available in New England in all but Vermont and PSNH and Seabrook territory in New Hampshire, I think Unitil territory, excuse me. But, it is available and nobody is using it. So, I guess you should ask your neighbors.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. French, you may inquire.

Rep. French: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Rep. Gilmore. I have a concern about another issue that we haven't talked about today and that is about a recent study that was done by the Harvard School of Public Health which documents that asthma attacks, emergency room visits and premature deaths occur in the area around older power plants, coal and oil burning. Now, since New Hampshire has three of these and we have this potential for the increased associated health risks, I'd like to know if there is any provision made for doing something about these older power plants. Rep. Gilmore: Thank you, representative. This is actually one of the things that severely upsets me about this settlement and that is that we are doing nothing about cleaning up the New Hampshire plants. Indeed, what we are doing is perpetuating them. And that Harvard Medical Health study, which I got this morning, actually speaks of 160 people who died prematurely, 300,000 people who are daily incidents. And they look at two plants, Salem and Brighton Point, and those plants usually have been linked with the Bow plant in terms of their undue environmental effect. Now, this was a major issue for the Conservation Law Foundation. They stressed it in the proceedings and they also stressed it in their brief. It is also a major issue for other environmental groups, that instead of doing something to clean it up what we're doing is something that will certainly perpetuate the problem and result in bad health for our New Hampshire residents.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Brown, you may inquire.

Rep. George Brown: Would you believe that as a customer of PSNH for a number years, that I feel like that with this bill I am losing for the fourth time with this settlement with PSNH? Number one: PSNH promised me, after they got the Seabrook plant built that that would go online that I would be getting cheap electricity. It never happened. Number two: My broker of many years ago said that PSNH was a good stock to buy so I bought some at 19 and 5/8 and later on I sold at 43 cents a piece. Number three: PSNH, last settlement, I paid five percent for seven years to create the highest rate in the country. That is a total of 35 percent increase. Number four: This time, their settlement promises an 18 percent decrease for the first year, but there are clauses for increases for the next 12 years. What am I getting in for now?

Rep. Gilmore: I agree, Representative, that you have every reason to be concerned, especially given the history that you have, as many of us have also endured.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. White, you may inquire.

Rep. White: Thank you, Representative. Thank you, Madam Speaker. With respect to an earlier question, would you agree with me that we received on February 3rd a document from a law firm in Maine which specifically tells us that the rate agreement is not a contract and that there should be no fear of litigation?

Rep. Gilmore: I would agree.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Kennedy, you may inquire.

Rep. Kennedy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative, I understand where you are coming from, but being an old capitalist at heart, I figure if I make a deal and blow it, it is my problem, not my customers'. But, putting that aside, sir, it is my understanding that you wish to go Interim Study whereas I would personally like to kill this thing. But if you are correct, and on rare occasions I actually do agree with you, would your motion which you wish to make if we get to it, to Interim Study, keep this alive so we can still possibly negotiate and perhaps find a better way?

Rep. Gilmore: Thank you, Representative. Again, that is the intent of this, to keep it alive so that we can do a better deal if it presents itself.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Tuthill, you may inquire.

Rep. Tuthill: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative, it is my understanding that the settlement agreement before us today is predicated on load growth. In other words, increased consumption of electricity in the state of New Hampshire, and that many of the cost projections and the sharing of the risks and the benefits would anticipate that there would be, I believe, a roughly two percent growth in consumption per year through the terms of the settlement. Does it strike you that this will provide an economic disincentive to increased investment and energy efficiency in this state?

Rep. Gilmore: One of the frightening similarities, and there are many — in fact they are very numerous — to the 1989 rate agreement is that like this one, it projected a two percent load growth. In the 1989 agreement, when it did not occur that way — in fact it was load loss for most of those years — what we saw was rapidly escalating rates in comparison to the rest of the nation where rates went down. To make such a projection, well, you know, my faith in projections is so limited as to be fairly nonexistent, but I would certainly agree that this legislation could hinder energy efficiency under some scenarios and yet in other scenarios, given that we are putting some money aside for energy efficiency, it could help. But I don't think there is any certainty in that regard.

Rep. Bradley: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. Friends and colleagues, there are times in our lives when we are asked to get behind this microphone or that microphone or, if you are fortunate enough to be the Speaker, behind those two microphones, and there are times in our lives that it is indeed lonely to be in front of one of these microphones and I can attest to the fact that today, for me, personally, it is indeed lonely to be at this microphone and ask you to do what I know is very difficult to do, given the history with regard to PSNH in the state of New Hampshire. I know all about fear, uncertainty and doubt. We face it every day in every decision that we will ever make in our lives. And this decision, ladies and gentlemen, however you vote, is no different. Madam Speaker, indulge me for a moment if I depart from what I usually do, which is speak with my head, and speak with my heart, but, if I ask you folks to vote with your heads. Indulge me for a moment,

Madam Speaker, if I feel a bit like Winston Churchill when he said: "Democracy is the worst form of government, except for all the others." Because, quite frankly, that is a bit like how I feel today. I know there are skeptics. There are lots of skeptics. It is good to have skeptics. It has forced the Science, Technology and Energy Committee to have kicked the tires to see if we, indeed, have what we believe is a good deal. There are those who believe that we could get a better outcome and, quite frankly, if PSNH rejects this deal, they will get their wish. Read section 6 of the bill which says go to a rate case and litigate the contracts issues if they reject, if PSNH rejects this deal. You've all heard, I've certainly heard it and I'm sick of hearing it, how PSNH is "supporting our life in every moment." I would say to you that if you vote no today, indeed, you'll be giving them more money in all likelihood and you will be supporting their life in every moment. I hope we've had enough of that, and I hope we change that today. I'd like to first thank everybody for having voted for the amendment. Now, we're on the bill and I would also like to thank Representative Gilmore, in committee, for having voted for the amendment because he recognized that the amendment is a better result than what came to us from the Senate. If I can, Madam Speaker, knowing that the hour is getting late and that people are getting tired, just briefly touch upon what I believe we've attempted to accomplish in that amendment. Appropriate burden sharing, quid pro quos, concessions on stranded costs, write-offs by PSNH - something they have done too precious little of since 1989. We have insisted upon, and in fact drawn a line in the sand, that Public Service of New Hampshire, should they choose to meet us half way in this deal, will have to absorb, write-off, whatever you want to call it, $474.2 million dollars of their stranded costs if they are to receive this benefit of securitization. For some of you, I know, that is not enough. Just listen to what I'll say later on. I would maintain that that's a little bit less than 80 percent recovery of their stranded costs. Could we do better? Perhaps. I'm not going to tell you this deal is perfect. It's not. And I'm not going to guarantee for you the outcomes are going to be rosy because I can't. I can only tell you that I believe and I believe that the majority, the 17-to-2 majority, of the Science, Technology and Energy Committee believes, indeed, that this is likely to be the best that we'll do, $472 million write-off, line in the sand for stranded costs. Next issue of improvement, the merger, certainly got the hair up on everybody's back. I think I told you two or three weeks ago it certainly has raised the hairs on my back. It's made them gray, perhaps not as gray as my friend from New London, but I'm fortunate I still have some, but maybe after today it will fall out. We've insisted as a quid pro quo in this amendment that they have to share any savings that come when you combine and consolidate two companies. Are they happy about that? Absolutely not and I can tell you they are not happy about the $474 million either. They have not agreed to it publicly. They have not agreed to it privately. And there is some risk, even from our point of view, the advocates of this bill, if we reject it, that they walk away, but that's where we are. Let's turn to the competitive aspect of this. There has been an awful lot of talk about that and since Rep. MacGillivray had to croak his way like a frog through his speech, I'm left to talk about this one-page graph which you all have. I will tell you that the author of that has taken the Public Utility Commission numbers, which low-ball the actual real market price of power, used that assumption and taken Dr. Silkman's, our consultant's, numbers, which are accurate real-world market prices, and compared the two. It is not apples-to-apples. I'm sorry, it just isn't. And, if you have had the opportunity to have looked through these charts, compare on page 5 the top line with the bottom line and you will find that when you subtract for the lowball market prices in that analysis, that Dr. Silkman's estimates are, indeed, better. I'm not going to tell you that in a best-case rate case outcome we'd do terrifically better. I'm not going to sugarcoat this for you. You can look at the graph on the first page and see that. But, that is a best case, rate-case outcome. Rhode Island, a great state. I love Block Island. Everybody is talking about Rhode Island today. It gets PSNH to do something, as I said before, they've done precious too little of which is to write-off their stranded costs. Yes, it is a tremendous benefit to them. It's the end of uncertainty, the end of litigation, improves their bond rating. They get cash, improved risk profile, better customer relations. They get to upstream money to the parent company and, yes, it helps them in their merger prospect. That's the carrot that gets what we need in this deal. Remember, in life you can't always get what you want. Hopefully, with this deal we've gotten what we need which is a large write-off, lower returns and the returns today are in the 11 percent range. And if it is a return on equity, which is dollars that they have on their balance sheet, you have to account for taxes in that. It is really an 18 percent return. Those returns go down for their stranded costs to eight percent. The merger dollars are in this amendment. We have lower rates, a 16 percent rate reduction, which for residential customers, per the Commission's order, is 18 percent and for the large industrial customers that are going to do better in a competitive world, it's 13 percent and we finally move to competition and we end the litigation. Competition is not a panacea. It's not going to solve every problem overnight. Our consultants have told us, though, that by not low balling the actual price of power, that for the larger customers, initially, there will be competition in New Hampshire. It is not going to happen overnight for the residential customers. That is why there is transition service. That is why there is assignment of those customers after transition service, should they not choose a competitive supplier. But just as with the breakup of AT&T, it took time for there to be 50 percent subscription for people choosing MCI or Sprint or what have you. It will take some time, but residential customers will benefit also. Let's lastly talk about better outcomes because here is where fear, uncertainty and doubt come into play. I can't guarantee you any of this. I can only speak from my heart having looked at this issue for six years with my head and tell you that I believe that this is not only a good outcome, but one that we are likely to achieve and better than all the others and here is why. People have said, "Let's do a rate case." That's fine if PSNH rejects this deal, that's what will happen. If we are to do better in a rate case, we have to achieve the best-case rate case outcome. It will be litigated. It is not, as some would claim, without negligible risk that we'll lose that. I'm sorry, that's not the case. PSNH had the rate case enjoined in Rhode Island in the federal district court until there was an agreement to allow it to proceed, so don't think for one moment that there is negligible litigation risk in a rate case because I'll tell you I don't believe that's the case. We have to achieve the best-case rate case outcome, number one, battle number one, has got to be won and got to be won decisively. Battle number two, the opponents of this bill have been talking about using a rate case outcome and then using securitization. Imagine how, if you feel uncertainty and doubt today, how you're going to feel about securitization in the context of a rate case. And if you didn't like the Commission's stranded costs order, if it wasn't aggressive to you, remember their rate case order may also not be aggressive enough for you because they are constitutionally obligated to balance the interests of customers and utilities. But even if we succeed in a rate case and then we securitize, we have a problem because people want to litigate the contracts issue, they do not want to pay PSNH those stranded costs. Fine. Neither do I. But, you cannot securitize when you have not settled upon how many dollars a utility should get. So, I would tell you, in all likelihood, securitization in that case, a rate case, is not going to happen. It is not impossible, it is just impractical and it is very, very unlikely to happen. Our consultant has told us many times, and we have had him analyze this six ways to Sunday, that even if we win those first two battles, we achieve the best case outcome in a rate case and we achieve securitization in the context of a rate case. If you folks all vote for that, we're still behind. We're still behind by almost $115 million over the 12-or-13 year period the net total savings that Senate Bill 472 seeks to achieve. That's what he has told us. Those are the facts as we know them per our consultant's analysis. So, we achieve the best-case outcome in a rate case and somehow we manage to securitize. I don't know how that is possible but let's assume that we can. In order to do better, this is what has to happen next. We have to win on the contracts issue. Now, it is easy to claim that the rate agreement is not a contract. I believe that. I absolutely do believe it and I think that to a person on the Science, Technology and Energy Committee we all believe that it is not a contract and I believe that the people who negotiated the settlement will agree with that. We have to win it, we'll probably have to win it at the United States Supreme Court. If we win it, then we have to convince that court that we should be able to disallow PSNH more costs than the $474 million that's on the table. So we have to win on the contracts issue and win on a larger disallowance. And thirdly we have to do it in a rather quick time frame so that you get the benefits of the refinancing done in a timely fashion because, quite frankly, we're paying those stranded costs every day and that brings me to my conclusion. When the settlement was filed, those of you who remember, the securitization number was $725 million. Today, it's $688 million and here is why. The $725 million was modeled on a start date of competition of January 1, in the year 2000. The PUC's order models that on July 1, 2000 and so the number has been reduced by the Commission from $725 million to $688 million. What happened to that $37 million? Poof! – Did it disappear? Did PSNH write it off? No. Every time a customer of PSNH pays his or her light bill, and thankfully these lights are not PSNH lights, but every time you folks who are PSNH customers paid that light bill, you paid those $37 million and you're paying that $6 million a month for just that portion of stranded costs. Let's talk about the IPPs for a moment. Rep. MacGillivray mentioned that but because he was croaking I'm sort of going to go through that again. We had deals on the table that unfortunately the Commission rejected, five out of six, that would have lowered stranded costs for customers over the course of that by $150 million. The one deal that the Commission approved was worth $50 million. There was a bill that passed the House. It was a forerunner of this bill and it was killed in the Senate, ironically enough. And there is irony in life sometimes, by the same folks that are today arguing that we should use securitization in the context of a rate case. Well, that bill was killed in the Senate by the same folks. And guess what? Those deals, if they were brought back today as Rep. MacGillivray said, would be worth $80 million, maybe $100 million, if we could get them to closure and if we could finance them. So, yes, the people you represent, their money has been burned. It has gone up in smoke. I would maintain there are not better outcomes that are likely to be achieved. That's why a number of organizations have come out in support of this bill. You know what? It's not just the BIA. Yes, they supported the 1989 rate agreement. A lot of people have held that against them ever since. We have individual businesses supporting it. We have chambers of commerce supporting it. We have the Consumer Advocate, one of the biggest proponents of a rate case, turning in a card at the Senate in support of this bill. Lastly, and perhaps most importantly, one of PSNH's most implacable foes over the years, Cabletron, is supportive of this bill. I believe it is because no one else has shown a clear path to a better, more achievable outcome. If that clear path to a better, more achievable outcome had been anywhere in the state of New Hampshire, I think the members of the Science, Technology and Energy Committee would have overturned that rock, found that better outcome and would have brought it to you today. We, like you, are tired of the highest rates in the nation. And we, like you, are tired of what's gone on. But I would say that we believe this is the best outcome that we are likely to get. And if we choose to reject it, we best be prepared for an outcome that is significantly worse. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Grant, you may inquire.

Rep. Grant: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative Bradley, I am fortunate that a substantial portion of my district is not serviced by Public Service of New Hampshire and, therefore, a substantial portion of my constituents have been blessed with low utility rates so I always come to the overreaching question any legislation should have an advantage to the people of New Hampshire, should serve the public interest and offer those advantages and opportunities. What are those advantages and opportunities?

Rep. Bradley: You are fortunate, indeed, Rep. Grant to be served by Unitil as people are fortunate to be served by Granite State Electric, some of the lowest rates in New England. I would say to you, Rep. Grant, and as a member of the committee who voted for this bill, that the benefits for your part of the state are the overall economic benefits that the state will enjoy from significantly lower electric rates, a better economy and the end of litigation and with regard to that last subject, your constituents are paying whatever fraction of the costs that are being paid to litigate this issue. So I contend that your folks would benefit a bit from that, too.

SB 393, relative to single producer licensing. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Tim S. McGough for Commerce: This legislation is a request of the New Hampshire Department of Insurance and has been worked and reworked over the course of the last year to resemble a model act put forth by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners. When passed it will streamline the licensing process for insurance agents and simplify the requirements to keep a license current. No persons appeared in opposition to the bill and the fee structure was agreed to by all involved. The industry professionals request support of this revised process to facilitate ease of licensing and consolidation of fees. The amendment makes minor technical changes recommended by the Commissioner after the bill passed the Senate. Vote 14-0.

Amendment (4435h)

Amend RSA 402-J:2, VIII as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

VIII. "Limited line credit insurance producer" means a person who sells, solicits or negotiates one or more forms of limited line credit insurance coverage to individuals through a master, corporate, group, or individual policy.

Amend RSA 402-J:5 as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

402-J:5 Application for Examination. Except for limited line credit insurance producers, a resident individual applying for an insurance producer license shall pass a written examination unless exempt pursuant to RSA 402-J:9. The examination shall test the knowledge of the individual concerning the class or classes of insurance for which application is made, the duties and responsibilities of an insurance producer and the insurance laws and regulations of this state. The commissioner may make arrangements for administering examinations. Examinations required by this section shall be developed and conducted under title XXXVII and rules adopted by the commissioner. Amend the introductory paragraph of RSA 402-J:6, I as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

I. A person applying for a resident insurance producer license shall make application to the commissioner on a uniform application and declare under penalty of refusal, suspension, or revocation of the license that the statements made in the application are true, correct, and complete to the best of the individual's knowledge and belief. Before approving the application, the commissioner shall find that the individual:

Amend RSA 402-J:9, I and II as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

I. An individual who applies for an insurance producer license in this state who was previously licensed for the same lines of authority in another state shall not be required to complete any pre-license education or examination. This exemption is only available if the person is currently licensed in said state, or if the application is received within 90 days of the cancellation of the applicant's previous license and if the prior state issues a certification that, at the time of cancellation, the applicant was in good standing in that state for the lines of authority requested.

II. A person licensed as an insurance producer in another state who moves to this state shall make application within 90 days of establishing legal residence to become a resident licensee pursuant to RSA 402-J:6, except that no pre-license education or examination shall be required of that person to obtain any line of authority previously held in the prior state.

Amend RSA 402-J:12, I as inserted by section 1 of the bill by deleting subparagraph (m).

Amend RSA 402-J:12. IV as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

IV. In addition to or in lieu of any applicable denial, suspension, or revocation of a license, a person violating this chapter may, after hearing, be subject to an administrative fine pursuant to RSA 400-A:15, III.

Amend RSA 402-J:14, II as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

II. To appoint a producer as its agent, the appointing insurer shall verify the eligibility of the applicant and file, in a form and format approved by the commissioner, a notice of appointment within 15 days from the date the agency contract is executed or the first insurance application is submitted. An insurer may also elect to appoint a producer to all or some insurers within the insurer's holding company system or group by the filing of a single appointment request.

Amend RSA 400-A:29, X as inserted by section 4 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

X. [Brokers] Producers

(a) Application [examination] fee	[$15]	$ 60
(b) Original license	[$30]	$150
(c) Biennial renewal	[$30]	$150
(d) Amendment to license		$ 50

Adopted.

Rep. Hunt offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4566h)

Amend RSA 400-A:29, X as inserted by section 4 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

X. [Brokers] Producers

(a) Application [examination] fee	[$15]	$ 60
(b) Original license	[$30]	$160
(c) Biennial renewal	[$30]	$160
(d) Amendment to license		$ 50

Adopted.

SB 436-FN, relative to permanent revocation of drivers' licenses for causing a fatality or serious bodily injury while driving intoxicated. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Andrew Christie, Jr. for Criminal Justice and Public Safety: The committee amended the bill to provide that an indefinite license revocation may be ordered by the sentencing judge in those cases where a person has been convicted of manslaughter or DWI negligent homicide resulting from the driving of a motor vehicle. A further amendment just clarifies that certified habitual offenders with a prior DWI, felony or misdemeanor offenses, who drive under license suspension are guilty of a felony. Those certified habitual offenders who without a prior DWI, felony or misdemeanor traffic offense, drive under license suspension are guilty of a Class A misdemeanor. Additionally, the committee has added the House passed version of HB 1621 which allows the court to order certain misdemeanor habitual offenders, those in county jails, to be sentenced to home confinement. Vote 15-0.

Amendment (4361h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to revocation of drivers' licenses for causing a fatality and allowing administrative home confinement for habitual offenders.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Habitual Offenders; Felony Penalties; Home Confinement. Amend RSA 262:23, I to read as follows:

I. It shall be unlawful for any person to drive any motor vehicle on the ways of this state while an order of the director or the court prohibiting such driving remains in effect. If any person found to be an habitual offender under the provisions of this chapter is convicted of driving a motor vehicle on the ways of this state while an order of the director or the court prohibiting such operation is in effect, he or she shall be guilty of a felony and shall be sentenced, notwithstanding the provisions of RSA title LXII, to imprisonment for not less than one year nor more than 5 years. No portion of the minimum mandatory sentence shall be suspended, and no case brought to enforce this chapter shall be continued for sentencing; provided, however, that any sentence or part thereof imposed pursuant to this section may be suspended in cases in which the driving of a motor vehicle was necessitated by situations of apparent extreme emergency which required such operation to save life or limb. Any sentence of one year or less imposed pursuant to this paragraph shall be served in a county correctional facility and the court may order that any such offender may serve his or her sentence under home confinement pursuant to RSA 651:19 on such terms and conditions as the court may order, for the minimum mandatory term or any portion thereof. Any sentence of more than one year imposed pursuant to this paragraph shall be served in the state prison.

2 Habitual Offender; Misdemeanor Penalties. Amend RSA 262:23, III to read as follows:

III. Notwithstanding paragraph I, any person who qualifies under RSA 259:39, who does not have a conviction under RSA 265:82 or any misdemeanor or felony motor vehicle convictions pursuant to RSA title XXI, shall not be subject to the minimum mandatory provisions of paragraph I; provided, however, that any such person shall be guilty of a class A misdemeanor and may be sentenced to one year or less. Any person incarcerated upon the effective date of this paragraph, pursuant to certification as an habitual offender under RSA 259:39, who does not have a conviction under RSA 265:82 or any misdemeanor or felony motor vehicle convictions pursuant to RSA title XXI, may apply immediately to the superior court for sentence review and reduction.

3 New Paragraph; Manslaughter; License Revocation in Certain Cases. Amend RSA 630:2 by inserting after paragraph II the following new paragraph:

III. In addition to any other penalty imposed, if the death of another person resulted from the driving of a motor vehicle, the court may revoke the license or driving privilege of the convicted person indefinitely.

4 Negligent Homicide; License Revocation Period. Amend RSA 630:3, III to read as follows:

III. In addition to any other penalty imposed, if the death of another person resulted from the negligent driving of a motor vehicle, the court may revoke the license or driving privilege of the convicted person for up to 7 years. In cases where the person is convicted under paragraph II, the court may revoke the license or driving privilege of the convicted person indefinitely and the person shall not petition for eligibility to reapply for a driver's license for at least 7 years.

5 Discretionary Sentences; Release for Purpose of Gainful Employment or Rehabilitation; Home Confinement. Amend RSA 651:19 to read as follows:

651:19 Release for Purpose of Gainful Employment [or], Rehabilitation or Home Confinement. Any person who has been committed to a penal institution other than state prison under a criminal sentence may be released therefrom by the sentencing court at the time of sentence or at any time during the term of sentence, for the purpose of obtaining and working at gainful employment, for the performance of uncompensated public service as provided in RSA 651:68-70, or to serve the sentence under home confinement, or for such other purpose as the court may deem conducive to his or her rehabilitation, for such times or intervals of time and under such terms and conditions as the court may order. Any part of a day spent in the free community, or in home confinement, under such a release order shall be counted as a full day toward the serving of the sentence unless otherwise provided by the court. If a person violates the terms and conditions laid down for his or her conduct, custody and employment, he or she shall be returned to the sentencing court. The court may then require that the balance of the person's sentence be spent in actual confinement and may cancel any earned reduction of his or her term.

6 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill establishes provisions for the revocation of driver's license privileges for certain manslaughter and negligent homicide convictions.

This bill also provides for home confinement as a means to serve habitual offender sentences and certain discretionary sentences.

Adopted.

Rep. Christie offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4535h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to revocation of drivers' licenses for causing a fatality, allowing administrative home confinement for habitual offenders, and authorizing certain impaired driver intervention programs for restoration of driving privileges.

Amend the bill by replacing section 6 with the following:

6 New Paragraph; Impaired Driver Intervention Programs; Authorized Programs for Restoration of Privileges. Amend RSA 172-B:2-a by inserting after paragraph I the following new paragraph:

I-a. Notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, the impaired driver intervention programs operated by the department of corrections shall be deemed approved programs for purposes of the attendance required at such programs for restoration of driver's licenses or driving privileges under RSA 263:65-a.

7 New Subparagraph; Authorized Impaired Driver Intervention Programs. Amend RSA 263:65-a, I by inserting after subparagraph (b) the following new subparagraph:

(c) Operated by the department of corrections and approved pursuant to RSA 172-B:2-a, I-a.

8 Department of Corrections' Impaired Driver Intervention Programs. Amend RSA 263:65-a, III to read as follows:

III. Successful completion shall also include payment of all assessed I.D.I.P., M.O.P., and equivalent program fees, except in the case of attendance at programs operated by the department of corrections. Failure of the offender to make full payment of the assessed fee may also result in petition for contempt of court charges against the offender.

9 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill provides for revocation of drivers' licenses for causing a fatality, allows administrative home confinement for habitual offenders, and authorizes certain impaired driver intervention programs for restoration of driving privileges.

Rep. Christie spoke in favor.

Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

SB 439-FN, relative to motor vehicle offenses resulting in serious bodily injury. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. John E. Tholl, Jr. for Criminal Justice and Public Safety: This bill creates a misdemeanor to the motor vehicle code to fill the gap between a violation of the rules of the road and negligent homicide. The language mirrors the changes made to RSA 263:64, driving after revocation. It provides for an increased penalty for violating rules of the road when death or serious bodily injury results. Vote 14-2.

Amendment (4354h)

Amend the bill by replacing section 1 with the following:

1 New Section; Vehicular Assault. Amend RSA 265 by inserting after section 79 the following new section:

265:79-a Vehicular Assault. Any person who, without intent, causes death or serious bodily injury as defined in RSA 625:11, VI to another while using a propelled vehicle or vessel as defined in RSA 637:9, III shall be guilty of a class A misdemeanor, where such person's unlawful operation of the propelled vehicle or vessel causes or materially contributes to the collision. Evidence that the driver violated any of the rules of the road shall be prima facie evidence that the driver caused or materially contributed to the collision.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill creates a motor vehicle classification for vehicular assault.

Adopted.

Rep. Packard offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4528h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to motor vehicle offenses resulting in serious bodily injury, and relative to driver record information.

Amend the bill by replacing all after section 1 with the following:

2 Review of Motor Vehicle Record Requests. Amend RSA 260:14, III to read as follows:

III. Motor vehicle records ~~[shall]~~ may be made available in response to a request from a state, a political subdivision of a state, pursuant to a court order, the federal government, or a law enforcement agency for use in official business. The request shall be on a case-by-case basis. Any records received pursuant to this section shall not be further transferred or otherwise made available to any other person or listed entity not authorized under this paragraph.

3 Use of Personal Information Records. Amend RSA 260:14, IV to read as follows:

IV.(a) Except for a person's photograph, computerized image and social security number, motor vehicle records shall be made available, upon proof of the identity of the person requesting the records and representation by such person on a form satisfactory to the department that the ~~[use of the]~~ records will be strictly limited to one of the following described uses:

a Motor vehicle manufacturers, or their authorized agents, for use in connection with matters of motor vehicle or driver safety and theft; motor vehicle emissions; motor vehicle product alterations, recalls, or advisories; performance monitoring of motor vehicles and dealers by motor vehicle manufacturers; and removal of non-owner records from the original owner records of motor vehicle manufacturers to carry out the purposes of the Automobile Information Disclosure Act, the Motor Vehicle Information and Cost Saving Act, the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act of 1966, the Anti-Car Theft Act of 1992, and the Clean Air Act.

b Insurance companies authorized to write automobile insurance policies in this state, or by self-insured entities, or their authorized agents, for use in connection with claims investigation activities, anti-fraud activities, rating or underwriting.

(b) No motor vehicle records made available under this section shall be sold, rented, transferred or otherwise made available in whole or in part, in any form or format, directly or indirectly, to another person, except that an authorized agent may make such records available to any principal on whose behalf the records were sought if the name of that principal was provided to the department at the time the records were sought.

4 Restriction on Uses of Motor Vehicle Records. Amend the introductory paragraph of RSA 260:14, V(a) to read as follows:

V.(a) Except for a person's photograph, computerized image and social security number, motor vehicle records may be made available upon proof of the identity of the person requesting the records and representation by such person on a form satisfactory to the department that the use of the records will be strictly limited to one or more of the following described uses. ~~[each such use to be separately described]~~ which use shall be specified in the request:

5 Access to Motor Vehicle Records by Banking Institutions. RSA 260:14, V(a)(3) is repealed and reenacted to read as follows:

(3) For use with respect to a request for a named person's motor vehicle records by a banking or similar institution, in the normal course of business, but only to verify the accuracy of personal information submitted by the individual to the bank and if such information is incorrect, to obtain the correct information, but only for the purposes of preventing fraud by, pursuing legal remedies against, or recovering on a debt or security interest against, the individual.

6 Access to Motor Vehicle Records for the Purpose of Bulk Distribution for Surveys, Marketing or Solicitation. Amend RSA 260:14, V(a)(8) and (9) to read as follows:

(8) ~~For bulk distribution for surveys, marketing or solicitations [if the department has implemented methods and procedures to ensure that~~

~~(i) Persons are provided an opportunity, in a clear, simple and conspicuous manner, to prohibit such uses by means of an option to opt out;~~

~~(ii) The information will be used, rented, or sold solely for bulk distribution for surveys, marketing, and solicitations, and that surveys, marketing, and solicitations will not be directed at those persons who have requested in a timely fashion that they not be directed at them. Such opportunity shall be provided at any time on request. In addition, the department shall provide posted conspicuous notices of the opportunities to make the selection at each of its offices at which it requests personal information. The department shall also request that the same be done by municipal agents of the department appointed pursuant to RSA 261:74-a], provided that the express consent of each person to whom such motor vehicle records pertain has been obtained. Such consent may be withdrawn at any time.~~

(9) For use with respect to a request for a named person's motor vehicle records by a public utility, as defined in RSA 362:2 and over which the public utilities commission exercised jurisdiction on July 1, 1996, to perform its public service obligations, provided that the named person's express consent has been obtained. Such consent may be withdrawn at any time.

7 Restrictions on Motor Vehicle Record Availability. RSA 260:14, V(b) is repealed and reenacted to read as follows:

(b)(1) A person may elect at any time not to have any personal information pertaining to such person made available as provided in subparagraphs V(a)(1), (2), (4), (5), (6) and (7). A person who so elects shall inform the department in writing, and the department shall not thereafter make the personal information available, nor shall the department make available a list of the persons who have so elected. Any elections previously made under this section shall continue in effect. A person may elect at any time not to have any personal information pertaining to such person made available as provided in subparagraphs V(a)(1), (2), (3), (4), (5), (6) and (7). A person who so elects shall inform the department in writing, and the department shall not thereafter make the personal information available, nor shall the department make available a list of the persons who have so elected. Any elections previously made under this section shall continue in effect.

(2) The department shall inform members of the public in a clear, simple and conspicuous manner of their right to make the election permitted by this subparagraph at each of its offices at which it requests personal information. The department shall also request that the same be done by municipal agents of the department appointed pursuant to RSA 261:74-a.

8 New Subparagraph: Parameters of Consent. Amend RSA 260:14, V by inserting after subparagraph (b) the following new subparagraph:

(c)(1) No person shall be required to provide his or her express consent to the release of personal information as a condition of doing business with any other person.

(2) For purposes of this section, "express consent" means upon knowledge and affirmative agreement of the person to whom the personal information pertains in a written statement dated and executed by that person that is separate and distinct from any other document and that contains at least the following:

(A) A specific description of the personal information to be disclosed.

(B) The name of the entity that is authorized to make the disclosure.

(C) Identification of the entity or entities authorized to receive the disclosure and a specific description of the purpose for which such disclosure will be made.

(D) The expiration date of the authorization, which shall be no more than 2 years from the date of its execution.

(E) A clear, simple, and conspicuous statement that providing express consent to the release of personal information is not required in order to do business with the entity that is authorized to make the disclosure.

(F) An acknowledgment by the person executing the statement that he or she has the right to revoke the authorization at any time.

9 Sale or Transfer of Motor Vehicle Records. RSA 260:14, VI is repealed and reenacted to read as follows:

VI.(a) Except as provided in subparagraph (b), an authorized recipient of personal information for a particular use under the provisions of subparagraph V(a) may not use the information, sell, rent, transfer, or make the information available to another person for the same or for any other use.

(b) An authorized recipient of personal information for a particular use under subparagraphs V(a)(4), (8), and (9) may sell, rent, transfer or make the information available to another person for the same use only, subject to the limitations in the particular subparagraph.

(c) An authorized recipient of personal information for a particular use under the provisions of subparagraph VI(b) who sells, rents, transfers or uses the information, or makes the information available to another person, for the same use shall be required by the department to (1) maintain for a period of not less than 5 years records identifying each person who receives the information and the permitted purpose for which the information will be used; and (2) make such records available to the department on request.

10 Penalties for Unlawful Use of Motor Vehicle Records. Amend RSA 260:14, IX to read as follows:

IX.(a) A person is guilty of a [~~class B~~] misdemeanor if such person knowingly discloses information from a department record to a person known by such person to be an unauthorized person; knowingly makes a false representation to obtain information from a department record; or knowingly uses such information for any use other than the use authorized by the department. In addition, any professional or business license issued by this state and held by such person may, upon conviction and at the discretion of the court, be revoked permanently or suspended. Each such unauthorized disclosure, unauthorized use or false representation shall be considered a separate offense.

(b) A person is guilty of a class B felony if, in the course of business, such person knowingly sells, rents, offers, or exposes for sale motor vehicle records to another person in violation of this section.

11 New Paragraphs; Fees for Release of Motor Vehicle Records. Amend RSA 260:14 by inserting after paragraph XII the following new paragraphs:

XIII. Notwithstanding the provisions of RSA 91-A, the department may charge reasonable fees for the release of information under this section. In determining a reasonable fee, the department shall consider factors such as labor and production costs, as well as the market value of the information.

XIV. Any person determined by the commissioner, after hearing, to have violated any provisions of this section may be barred from receiving motor vehicle records for a period not to exceed 5 years.

XV.(a) Motor vehicle records obtained from the department under the provisions of subparagraph V(a)(4) and (8) shall be obtained separately for each use specified under subparagraph V(a)(4) and (8), one use to a request, provided that the commissioner may grant a request from a legitimate business for multiple uses if:

(1) The commissioner determines the legitimate business has responsible business practices including, but not limited to, data privacy and security policies.

(2) The legitimate business provides the commissioner with a list of all users of the information, including the name and address of the business, provided, however, that such list shall not be a public record available for public inspection pursuant to RSA 91-A.

(3) The subsequent users are required by the legitimate business to certify compliance with RSA 260:14 and shall be conspicuously informed that they are prohibited from reselling, transferring, or assigning any motor vehicle record information, including personal information.

(4) The legitimate business certifies its compliance with RSA 260:14 on a form prescribed by the department, including posting a bond if required by the commissioner.

(b) All legitimate businesses approved under this paragraph shall be charged a reasonable fee as determined by the commissioner that reflects the number of multiple uses authorized, the volume of the legitimate business' resale business, and the market value of the information.

XVI. The commissioner may limit the information contained in motor vehicle records released to any person under this section if it is determined by the commissioner that the release of certain personal information is unnecessary.

XVII. The provisions of this section shall be severable if any phrase, clause, sentence or provision is declared contrary to the constitution of this state or the United States.

12 Effective Date.

I. Section 1 of this act shall take effect January 1, 2001.

II. The remainder of this act shall take effect 60 days after its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill creates a new criminal classification for aggravated vehicular assault. The bill also further defines the various circumstances under which a person's motor vehicle record may be released, and provides added measures of security to those persons wishing to restrict its use.

Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

SB 457, relative to ownership of certified public accounting firms. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Carolyn A. Virtue for Executive Departments and Administration: SB 457 changes the ownership requirements for firms of certified public accountants and public accountants from 66 2/3 percent to 51 percent. The bill maintains majority ownership be held by a licensee, but allows more flexibility for firms wishing to retain non-CPA employees. All actions of the firms will still be subject to the laws and rules of the board of accountancy. Vote 13-1.

Reps. Rosenfield and Goulet spoke against.

The report failed.

Rep. Goulet moved Refer for Interim Study.

Adopted.

SB 424, relative to controlled substances used for pain management. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Robert H. Rowe for Judiciary: This bill clarifies the professional use of controlled substances for pain management and encourages physicians in the proper application of pain medication. Physicians testified that appropriate pain management greatly aids patients with acute or chronic pain. This bill enhances the quality of life for those who are terminally ill. SB 424 does not provide immunity from liability when drugs are used in an improper manner or for the illegal purpose of causing death. Vote 13-0.

Amendment (4156h)

Amend the bill by replacing section 2 with the following:

2 New Paragraph; Professional Use of Controlled Substances. Amend RSA 318-B:10 by inserting after paragraph VIII the following new paragraph:

IX. If, in the judgment of a physician licensed under RSA 329, appropriate pain management warrants a high dosage of controlled drugs and the benefit of the relief expected outweighs the risk of the high dosage, the licensed physician may administer or cause to be administered such a dosage, even if its use may increase the risk of death, so long as it is not furnished for the purpose of causing, or the purpose of assisting in causing, death for any reason and so long as it falls within rules of the board of medicine.

Amend RSA 329:9, XV-a as inserted by section 3 of this act by replacing it with the following:

XV-a. Procedures for appropriate pain management pursuant to RSA 318-B:10, IX.

Adopted.

Rep. Lozeau spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Adopted and ordered to third reading.

RESOLUTION

Rep. Chandler offered the following: RESOLVED, that the House now adjourn from the early session, that the business of the late session be in order at the present time, that the reading of bills be by title only and resolutions by caption only and that all bills ordered to third reading be read a third time by this resolution, and that all titles of bills be the same as adopted, and that they be passed at the present time, and when the House adjourns today it be to meet Thursday, May 18, 2000 at 10:00 a.m.

Adopted.

REGULAR CALENDAR

SB 334, relative to credit unemployment insurance. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Tim S. McGough for Commerce: This bill authorizes insurers to sell credit unemployment insurance. This insurance product is similar in nature to credit life and disability insurance commonly offered by credit card companies and banks in conjunction with credit card and loan accounts. It provides for payment of credit accounts in case of loss of employment. The practice of offering this product is common and has been overseen by the Department of Insurance but no statutory authority exists so this bill was submitted to clarify that this product can be offered and is subject to the constraints and controls of any insurance product sold in New Hampshire. Although the product has already been sold commonly in our state, in order to protect the consumer the majority of the committee felt that it was important to include this type of insurance under the purview of the insurance department and to formally mention it in statute. Vote 14-5.

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

SB 353, relative to sales of insurance by financial institutions. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Sheila T. Francoeur for Commerce: This bill amends the laws regulating the sale of insurance by financial institutions and removes the restriction on financial institutions offering insurance products in communities exceeding populations of 5000. The bill also includes provisions regarding the separation of banking and insurance activities. The amendment gives the Commissioner of Insurance rule-making authority for the administration of any provision or provisions required by the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act of 1999 (public law 106-102) which relates to insurance. Vote 11-7.

Amendment (4286h)

Amend the bill by inserting after section 11 the following and renumbering the original sections 12-13 to read as 13-14, respectively:

12 Rules and Regulations. Amend RSA 400-A:15, I to read as follows:

I. The commissioner shall have full power and authority to make, promulgate, amend and rescind reasonable rules and regulations for, or as an aid to, the administration or effectuation of any provision or provisions of this title or of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act of 1999 (public law 106-102) which relate to insurance and such other rules and regulations as are reasonably necessary to implement ~~[the]~~ such provisions ~~[of this title]~~.

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

CLERK'S NOTE

The constitutionally required two-thirds of the membership was declared present.

SB 353 (CONT'D.)

Rep. Kurk offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4554h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to sales of insurance by financial institutions and the disclosure of customer financial information by financial institutions.

Amend the bill by replacing all after section 12 with the following:

13 Findings and Purpose.

I. It is the policy of this state to protect the privacy of customers of financial institutions without unduly inhibiting the free flow of commerce or legitimate law enforcement activities.

II. Privacy is a fundamental right of the citizens of the state of New Hampshire. The evolution of information technology, including the means of collecting, analyzing and transmitting data, now permits uses of personal information that severely threaten the privacy of the citizens of this state.

III. The sale, exchange, and dissemination of information relating to customers of financial institutions, for purposes not directly related to providing services customers have purchased or applied for, have caused significant harm to the people and the economy of this state. Such sale, exchange, and dissemination of information subjects consumers to fraudulent, misleading, deceptive, or intrusive telephone, direct mail, or internet solicitations; to fraud and abuse, including identity theft and unauthorized charges; and to discrimination in the offer or sale of products or services.

IV. Customers' relations with financial institutions are based on trust and confidence. Such trust and confidence are severely threatened by lack of adequate information concerning such institutions' privacy policies and information practices and by lack of customer control over the use and dissemination of their personal information. The customer trust necessary to the proper functioning of financial institutions depends on customers understanding and having opportunities to prevent disclosure of personal information for purposes not directly related to providing the services customers choose to purchase or apply for.

14 New Chapter; Disclosure of Customer Financial Information by Financial Institutions. Amend RSA by inserting after chapter 383 the following new chapter:

CHAPTER 383-A

DISCLOSURE OF CUSTOMER FINANCIAL INFORMATION

383-A:1 Definitions. In this chapter:

I. "Affiliate" means "affiliate" as defined in the federal Financial Services Modernization Act of 1999.

II. "Credit reporting agency" means any person which, for monetary fees, dues, or on a cooperative nonprofit basis, regularly engages in whole or in part in the practice of assembling or evaluating consumer credit information or other information on consumers for the purpose of reporting to third parties on the credit rating or creditworthiness of any consumer.

III. "Customer" means any person who deposits, borrows, invests, or insures with a financial institution, including a surety or a guarantor on a loan.

IV. "Financial information" means an original or copy of, or information derived from:

- (a) A document that grants signature authority over a deposit or share account;
- (b) A statement, ledger card, or other record of a deposit or share account that shows transactions in or with respect to that deposit or account;
- (c) A check, clear draft, or money order that is drawn on a financial institution or issued and payable by or through a financial institution;
- (d) Any item, other than an institutional or periodic charge, that is made under an agreement between a financial institution and another person's deposit or share account;
- (e) Any information that relates to a deposit or share account, an application for a deposit or share account, a loan account or an application for a loan; or
- (f) Evidence of a transaction conducted by electronic or telephonic means.
- (g) Any information that relates to an insurance policy or application for such policy including in each case health information and medical and family history however obtained.
- (h) Any information that relates to a securities account or an application for such account.
- (i) Any information that relates to a customer of an affiliate of a financial institution.

V. "Financial institution" means a bank, savings and loan association, credit union, bank subsidiary, lender, loan servicer, loan or mortgage broker, sales finance company, or similar organization licensed or required to be licensed pursuant to the laws of New Hampshire, or under the laws of the United States, or under the laws of any other state or territory of the United States, and an affiliate of any of them, including any institution which sells, services or underwrites insurance or insurance products, or securities or securities products.

VI. "Mercantile agency" means any person, which for monetary fees, dues, or on a cooperative nonprofit basis, regularly engages in whole or in part in the practice of assembling or evaluating business credit information or other information on businesses for the purpose of reporting to third parties on the credit rating or creditworthiness of any business.

383-A:2 Disclosure of Financial Records Prohibited. Except as otherwise expressly provided in this chapter, a financial institution, its officers, employees, agents, and directors shall not disclose to any person any financial information relating to a customer who has elected to bar such disclosure. A customer shall be notified of the right to so elect in the same form and timing as is provided for similar elections in the Financial Services Modernization Act of 1999. A financial institution may not refuse to do business with a customer or potential customer who makes such an election.

383-A:3 Exceptions.

I. The provisions of this chapter shall not prohibit any of the following activities with respect to disclosures of financial information of a customer who has elected to bar disclosure of financial information pursuant to RSA 383-A:2:

- (a) Disclosure of information to the customer after proper identification.
- (b) Disclosure of information sought by the department of health and human services, office of child support pursuant to its authority and obligations under RSA 161-C:3-a, or by an agency of similar function of another state, pursuant to similar authority.
- (c) Disclosure of information sought by the department of health and human services pursuant to its authority and obligations regarding public assistance under RSA 167.
- (d) Disclosure sought by higher education loan corporations pursuant to the authority and obligations under RSA 195-E.

(e) The preparation, examination, handling, or maintenance of financial records by any officer, employee, or agent of a financial institution that has custody of the records.

(f) The examination of financial records by a certified public accountant while engaged by the financial institution to perform an independent audit.

(g) The disclosure of information to a collection agency, its employees or agents, or to any person engaged by the financial institution to assist in recovering an amount owed to the financial institution, if such disclosure is made in the furtherance of recovering such amount.

(h) The examination of financial records by, or the disclosure of financial records to, any officer, employee, or agent of a state or federal regulatory agency under authority of state or federal law for use only in the exercise of that person's duties as an officer, employee, or agent.

(i) The publication of information derived from financial records if the information cannot be identified to any particular customer, deposit, or account.

(j) The making of reports, disclosures, or returns required by federal or state laws.

(k) The disclosure of any information permitted to be disclosed under the laws governing dishonor of negotiable instruments.

(l) The exchange, in the regular course of business, of credit information between a financial institution and a credit reporting agency, provided such exchange is in compliance with the fair credit reporting act, RSA 359-B, and the federal Fair Credit Reporting Act, 15 U.S.C. section 1681 et. seq.

(m) The exchange, in the regular course of business, of information between a financial institution and a mercantile agency, provided such exchange is solely for the purpose of reporting to third parties on the credit rating or creditworthiness of any business, and is in compliance with the fair credit reporting act, RSA 359-B, and the federal Fair Credit Reporting Act, 15 U.S.C. section 1681 et. seq.

(n) The exchange of loan information that specifically affects a sale, foreclosure, or loan closing, provided such exchange is for the purpose of accomplishing such sale, foreclosure, or loan closing.

(o) The disclosure to civil or criminal law enforcement authorities for use in the exercise of such authority's duties, or the sharing of information, within an industry network, of suspected criminal activities.

(p) Disclosures requested pursuant to a summons for trustee process.

(q) Disclosure requested pursuant to subpoena or civil investigative demand, provided that no disclosure shall be made until 10 days after the financial institution has notified the customer that financial information has been requested by subpoena or civil investigative demand. Such notice shall be served by first class mail to the customer at the most recent address known to the financial institution. The provisions of this chapter shall not apply where the subpoena or civil investigative demand is issued by or on behalf of a regulatory, criminal, or civil law enforcement agency.

(r) Disclosure required by order of court.

(s) Disclosure of customer financial information among directors, officers, employees, or agents of affiliated financial institutions, provided that such disclosure is limited to information necessary or appropriate to the fulfillment of any such persons' duties and responsibilities to the financial institution or institutions to facilitate transactions or the delivery of services requested by a customer or otherwise necessary to provide services in connection with applications for or existing contractual or service relationships between a customer and a financial institution.

(t) Disclosure of customer financial information of one financial institution to another financial institution in connection with a proposed merger, consolidation, acquisition or other reorganization transaction involving such institution, provided that no further disclosure is made except in compliance with this chapter, and provided further that such disclosure is made in compliance with the fair credit reporting act, RSA 359-B, and the federal Fair Credit Reporting Act, 15 U.S.C. section 1681 et. seq.

(u) Disclosure sought by the department of revenue administration pursuant to its authority and obligations under RSA 21-J or by federal or other state taxing or revenue authorities

II. This section shall not be construed to:

(a) Require any financial institution to make any disclosure not otherwise required by law.

(b) Require or encourage any financial institution to alter any procedures or practices not inconsistent with this chapter.

(c) Expand or create any authority in any person or entity other than a financial institution.
 383-A:4 Rulemaking. The bank commissioner and the insurance commissioner may adopt separate and/or joint rules, pursuant to RSA 541-A, relative to the administration and enforcement of this chapter.

383-A:5 Penalties; Civil Actions.

I. In addition to any authority granted to the bank commissioner under this title, the bank commissioner may impose an administrative penalty of not less than $1,000 for each violation of this chapter resulting from willful conduct, or from a failure by a financial institution to reasonably supervise its employees to prevent violations of this chapter.

II. A customer of a financial institution whose customer information was negligently or willfully disclosed in violation of this chapter may recover in a civil action the actual damages and any attorneys' fees, provided that a customer prevailing in such an action shall be awarded not less than $1,000.

15 Effective Date.

I. Sections 13-14 of this act shall take effect January 1, 2001.

II. The remainder of this act shall take effect 60 days after its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill makes changes to the laws regulating sale of insurance by financial institutions, including removing the "place of 5,000" restriction on insurance sales, changing provisions regarding the separation of banking and insurance activities, and repealing certain rulemaking provisions.

This bill also limits the disclosure of information relating to a customer by financial institutions to certain specified activities and establishes penalties for willful or negligent disclosure of customer financial information.

Rep. Kurk spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. Hunt spoke against.

Rep. Vachon spoke in favor.

Rep. Hunt requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the floor amendment.

RECONSIDERATION

Having voted with the prevailing side, Rep. Kurk moved that the House reconsider its action whereby it ordered to third reading SB 353, relative to sales of insurance by financial institutions, and spoke against.

Rep. Hunt spoke in favor.

On a division vote, 132 members having voted in the affirmative and 182 in the negative, reconsideration failed.

SB 363, relative to the sale of malt beverages. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Stephen G. Avery for Commerce: This legislation will give the police and liquor enforcement personnel an important tool in helping find people who supply alcohol to minors. It requires that all kegs of beer that are sold directly to consumers have identification on them so that if a keg is found at an underage drinking party, it can be traced to the purchaser. While all direct purchasers are now required to produce identification and to register when purchasing kegs of beer, there has been no way to trace particular kegs. Also in this bill is an easing of the requirements for out-of-state alcohol beverage manufacturers and importers to register for in-state direct shipping, and a reorganization of wine vendor fees and the repeal of the registration requirement of wine brand sizes. This bill is strongly supported by the Liquor Commission, Police Chiefs Association, and colleges and universities within the state. Vote 15-1.

Amendment (4424h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to the sale of malt beverages, direct shipper permits, and registration requirements for wine and liquor licenses.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 New Section; Alcoholic Beverages; Enforcement, Requirements, and Penalties; Kegs of Malt Beverages. Amend RSA 179 by inserting after section 5 the following new section:

179:5-a Sale of Kegs of Malt Beverages; Penalty.

I. The commission by rule shall require the identification of kegs of malt beverages sold directly to consumers who are not licensees of the commission and the signing of a receipt therefor by the purchaser in order to allow the kegs to be traced if the contents are consumed in violation of the Title XIII. The keg identification shall be in a form prescribed by the commission which identifies the seller and which is removable or obliterated when the keg is processed for refilling. The receipt shall be on a form prescribed and supplied by the commission and shall include the purchaser's name, address, and motor vehicle operator's license number, if any. The receipt shall contain a statement that shall be signed by the purchaser that, under penalty of unsworn falsification, the purchaser shall not allow consumption of any malt beverage in the keg in violation of the provisions of RSA 179:5. A copy of the receipt shall be given to the purchaser and the seller shall retain the original receipt for such period as the commission by rule may require.

II. Possession of a keg containing malt beverage, which is not identified as required by paragraph I of this section, shall be a violation.

III. Any person, other than a beverage manufacturer or wholesaler, who removes the identification prescribed by paragraph I shall be guilty of a violation.

IV. A person who signs a receipt described in paragraph I in order to obtain a keg, knowing the receipt to be false, or who falsifies any information required on the receipt, is guilty of unsworn falsification as prescribed by RSA 641:3.

V. As used in this section, "keg" means any brewery-sealed, individual container of malt beverage having a liquid capacity of more than 7 gallons.

2 Liquor Licenses and Fees; Direct Shippers; Permits. Amend RSA 178:14-a, I to read as follows:

1.(a) Notwithstanding any law, rule or regulation to the contrary, any person currently licensed in its state of domicile as an alcohol beverage manufacturer, importer, wholesaler or retailer shall apply for a registration permit from the liquor commission [~~as a direct shipper for a fee of $228 per year~~].

(b) Applicants for a direct shipper permit shall be exempt from the requirement of RSA 178:1, I, which requires registration with the secretary of state, if the applicant is duly organized and registered to do business under the laws of the state in which the applicant is domiciled.

3 Liquor Licenses and Fees; Direct Shippers; Permits; Rulemaking. Amend RSA 178:14-a, VI (a) to read as follows:

(a) The application procedures [~~and~~], form, and fee for the direct shipper registration permit authorized under paragraph I.

4 Liquor Licenses and Fees; Annual Wine and Liquor Licenses. Amend 178:27, V(c) to read as follows:

(c) Wine vendors:

(1) [~~Initial license, $228~~] Sales of less than 1,000 cases per year, $300.

(2) [~~Sales of less than 1,000 cases per year, $228~~] Sales of between 1,000 and 5,000 cases per year, $1,500.

(3) Sales of between [~~1,000~~] 5,000 and [~~5,000~~] 10,000 cases per year, [~~$1,140~~] $3,000.

(4) Sales of between [~~5,000 and~~] 10,000 and 25,000 cases per year, [~~$2,256~~] $6,000.

(5) Sales of [~~over 10,000 cases per year, $4,800~~] between 25,000 and 50,000 cases per year, $9,000.

(6) Sales of over $50,000 cases per year, $12,000.

5 Repeal. RSA 179:36, relative to registration of wine brand sizes, is repealed.

6 Effective Date. This act shall take effect January 1, 2001.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill:

I. Requires the identification of kegs of malt beverages sold directly to consumers.

II. Requires that consumers who purchase kegs of malt beverages sign a receipt prescribed by the liquor commission and makes falsification of the receipt a crime.

III. Amends the requirements governing direct shipper permits for alcohol beverage manufacturers and distributors.

IV. Amends the fee requirements for annual wine and liquor licenses and repeals the registration requirement of wine brand sizes.

Rep. Kurk requested that Section 1. of the amendment be voted on separately. The Speaker ruled the question was divisible.

Rep. Kurk spoke against.

Rep. Avery spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. Avery requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of Section 1.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

SB 409-FN, relative to health insurance coverage of qualified clinical trials. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Sheila T. Francoeur for Commerce: This bill, as amended, requires a policy, plan or contract to provide coverage for all medically necessary, routine patient care costs, when the covered person is participating in Phase III or Phase IV clinical trials for cancer, or if the treatment is being provided for any other life-threatening condition. Coverage for Phase I or Phase II clinical trials shall be decided on a case by case basis. Routine patient care costs are those for which the health plan regularly reimburses its members and would not include the cost of drugs and devices subject to the clinical trial. The amendment specifies that a clinical trial must meet certain criteria. The bill also requires that the health plans and the providers participating in clinical trials develop a process to share clinical and financial data on the progress and outcome of clinical trials. Also, the member's primary care provider shall be informed of the clinical data. The amendment also provides for the establishment of a committee to study whether mandatory insurance coverage for autologous bone marrow transplants for treatment of breast cancer should continue. Recent data suggests that this treatment is not effective and this new legislation would cover the current application on this previously passed mandate. The committee felt that this issue should be reviewed in-depth this summer for potential repeal next year. Vote 18-0.

Amendment (4346h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to health insurance coverage of qualified clinical trials and establishing a committee to study the coverage for autologous bone marrow transplants.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 New Section; Coverage for Qualified Clinical Trials. Amend RSA 415 by inserting after section 18-j the following new section:

415:18-k Coverage Required for Qualified Clinical Trials.

I. In this section:

(a) "Clinical trials of emerging technologies" mean Phase I and Phase II clinical trials.

(b) "Clinical trials of leading therapeutic or diagnostic alternatives" mean Phase III and Phase IV clinical trials.

(c) "Cooperative group" means a formal network of facilities that collaborate on research projects and have an established National Institute of Health (NIH) approved peer review program operating within the group.

(d) "FDA" means the federal Food and Drug Administration.

(e) "Member" means the policyholder, subscriber, insured, or certificate holder, or a covered dependent of a policyholder, subscriber, insured, or certificate holder.

(f) "Multiple project assurance contract" means a contract between an institution and the federal Department of Health and Human Services, that defines the relationship of the institution to the federal Department of Health and Human Services and sets out the responsibilities of the institution and the procedures that will be used by the institution to protect human subjects.

(g) "NIH" means the National Institutes of Health.

(h) "Non-routine patient care cost" means:

(1) The cost of an investigational new drug or device that is not approved for market for any indication by the FDA.

(2) The cost of a non-health care service that a member may be required to receive as a result of the treatment being provided for the purposes of the clinical trial.

(3) The costs of services that are clearly inconsistent with widely accepted and established regional or national standards of care for a particular diagnosis.

(4) Costs associated with managing the research associated with the clinical trial.

(5) Non-covered costs under the member's policy, plan, or contract.

(i) "Routine patient care cost" means the cost of any medically necessary health care service that is incurred as a result of the treatment being provided to a member of a health plan. Routine costs are those for which the health plan regularly reimburses its members, health care providers, or health care institutions subject to the terms and conditions of the member's policy and the provider's service agreement with the insurer.

II. A policy, plan, or contract subject to this section shall provide coverage for all medically necessary routine patient care costs incurred as a result of a treatment being provided in accordance with a clinical trial to the extent such costs would be covered for noninvestigational treatments if the treatment is being provided or the studies are being conducted in a phase I, phase II, phase III, or phase IV clinical trial for cancer or the treatment is being provided for any other life-threatening condition. Coverage for phase I or phase II clinical trials shall be decided on a case by case basis.

III. The coverage required under paragraph II shall be required if:

(a) The treatment is being provided to the member in a clinical trial approved by:

(1) One of the National Institutes of Health;

(2) An NIH cooperative group or an NIH center;

(3) The FDA in the form of an investigational new drug application or exemption;

(4) The federal department of Veterans Affairs or Defense; or

(5) An institutional review board of an institution in this state that has a multiple assurance contract approved by the Office of Protection from Research Risks of the NIH.

(b) Standard treatment has been or would be ineffective, does not exist, or there is no superior non-investigational treatment alternative;

(c) The facility and personnel providing the treatment are capable of doing so by virtue of their experience, training, and volume of patients treated to maintain expertise; and

(d) The available clinical or preclinical data provide a reasonable expectation that the treatment will be at least as effective as the non-investigational alternative.

IV. A policy, plan, or contract subject to this section shall provide coverage for routine patient care costs incurred for drugs and devices provided to the member during the clinical trial, which are not the subject of the clinical trial, provided that those drugs or devices have been approved for sale by the FDA, whether or not the FDA has approved the drug or device for use in treating the member's particular condition. Nothing in this section shall be construed to abrogate the provisions of RSA 415:6-g or RSA 420-J:7-b. This coverage shall include coverage for reasonable and medically necessary services necessary to administer the drug or use the device under evaluation in the clinical trial.

V. The provisions of this section shall apply to group hospital and medical expense policies subject to RSA 415, health service corporations under RSA 420-A, health maintenance organizations under RSA 420-B, and managed care organizations under RSA 420-J.

VI. For the purposes of this section, providers participating in clinical trials shall obtain a patient's informed consent for participation in the clinical trial in a manner that is consistent with current legal and ethical standards. Such document shall be available to the health insurer upon request.

VII. Health plans providing coverage under this section and the providers participating in those same clinical trials shall develop a mutually agreed upon process to share appropriate aggregate clinical and financial data on the progress and outcome of clinical trials subject to this section. Health plans and the providers participating in clinical trials shall establish reasonable requirements for communication with the member's primary care provider regarding the member's clinical data.

VIII. The provisions of this section shall not apply to a policy, plan, or contract paid for under the federal Medicare program nor the state children's health insurance program.

2 Committee Established. There is established a committee to study insurance coverage for autologous bone marrow transplants.

3 Membership and Compensation.

I. The members of the committee shall be as follows:

(a) Three members of the house of representatives, appointed by the speaker of the house.

(b) Three members of the senate, appointed by the president of the senate.

II. Members of the committee shall receive mileage at the legislative rate when attending to the duties of the committee.

4 Duties. The committee shall study whether mandatory insurance coverage for autologous bone marrow transplants for treatment of breast cancer under RSA 415:18-c, RSA 420-A:13, and RSA 420-B:8-e should continue. Specifically, the committee's study shall include, but not be limited to, whether the treatment is standard treatment, the effectiveness of the treatment, and the results of recent trials.

5 Chairperson; Quorum. The members of the study committee shall elect a chairperson from among the members. The first meeting of the committee shall be called by the first-named house member. The first meeting of the committee shall be held within 45 days of the effective date of this section. Four members of the committee shall constitute a quorum.

6 Report. The committee shall report its findings and any recommendations for proposed legislation to the speaker of the house of representatives, the senate president, the house clerk, the senate clerk, the governor, and the state library on or before November 1, 2000.

7 Effective Date.

I. Section 1 of this act shall take effect January 1, 2001.

II. The remainder of this act shall take effect 60 days after its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill requires insurers, including managed care plans and health service corporations, to provide coverage for certain routine patient care costs incurred as a result of treatment provided to a patient in certain clinical trials.

This bill also establishes a committee to study the coverage for autologous bone marrow transplants for treatment of breast cancer.

Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

SPECIAL ORDER

SB 459, relative to underinsured motorists. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Griffin T. Dalianis for Commerce: The Committee found no evidence that consumers were disadvantaged in any way by the existing system. Even the proponents of this bill acknowledged that the problem, if it exists, is very rare, and the Committee felt that the solution proposed was worse than the problem. Vote 16-0.

Rep. Craig spoke against.

Rep. DiFruscia spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. Hunt requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the report.

RECONSIDERATION

Having voted on the prevailing side, Rep. Hunt moved that the House reconsider its action whereby it voted Inexpedient to Legislate on SB 459, relative to underinsured motorists and spoke against. On a division vote 168 members having voted in the affirmative and 152 in the negative, reconsideration prevailed.

MOTION TO LAY ON THE TABLE

Rep. Hunt moved that SB 459, relative to underinsured motorists be laid on the table.
 Rep. Hunt requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

MOTION TO SPECIAL ORDER

Rep. Chandler moved that SB 459, relative to underinsured motorists, be made a Special Order for the end of the day's calendar.

Rep. Burling spoke in favor.

On a division vote, 250 members having voted in the affirmative and 76 in the negative, the motion was adopted.

SB 469, relative to mutual insurance holding companies. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Griffin T. Dalianis for Commerce: This bill authorizes mutual insurance companies in New Hampshire to convert to stock ownership and establish a holding company. The bill requires an affirmative vote of policyholders and approval of the Insurance Commissioner following a public hearing. This is important legislation for the handful of mutual insurance companies incorporated in New Hampshire. This bill creates opportunities for those companies to raise capital to become stronger. Under the provisions of the Gramm, Leach, Bliley Act, states are encouraged to pass this legislation; if a state does not have such a law, its domestic mutual insurance companies can leave the state, preempting state laws to the contrary. Half the states have already enacted this legislation, most recently the State of Maine. The Committee believes this legislation will encourage existing insurers to stay in New Hampshire and may make our state more attractive to other insurers. The Insurance Department participated in the drafting of this bill and strongly supports it. Vote 13-3.

Adopted and ordered to third reading.

Without objection, the Speaker called for consideration of Senate Bill 401.

SB 401-FN-A-L, establishing the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program and making an appropriation therefor. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. David J. Alukonis for Finance: Senate Bill 401 is landmark legislation which establishes the Land and Community Heritage Investment Program (LCHIP). The Finance Committee concurs with the overwhelming House vote previously taken on this bill in now unanimously recommending this proposal as ought to pass with amendment. The most important component of the committee amendment regards the initial appropriation for the program. Rather than being funded with a bonded appropriation, the amendment calls for an appropriation of $3,000,000 from the New Hampshire Economic Development Fund. This money has recently been realized and received from a significant return on investments made by the fund over the past nine years. The state's general fund was the original source of the funds which were so wisely invested in venture capital funds which had invested in New Hampshire. The $3,000,000 will be transferred to the fund upon passage, but will not be available for distribution until April 1, 2001. This delay will allow the LCHIP Authority to organize itself and to accept private and federal funds. In addition, and most importantly, this time lag will allow our local communities to go through an annual town meeting and budget cycle prior to the actual distribution of funds. This puts all potential applicants (cities, towns, and non profits) on equal footing with the equal opportunity to be "at the door when the store opens." The administrative funding remains as previously passed by the House with the exception that the authority may draw no more than $200,000 annually from the conservation plate fee fund for the purposes of administration of the authority. The committee amendment also requires that the $3,000,000 appropriation "and any interest thereon, shall not be for administrative purposes." The amendment also requires that any interest earned on the fund accrue to the fund and not to the general fund. Numerous technical and minor changes were also made to the bill in order to clarify the legislation and to accurately reflect the intent of this noteworthy legislation. These changes were made in consultation with the sponsors of the bill as well as with its champions and supporters. The Finance Committee amendment also adds a "recapture clause" which requires that any LCHIP funds invested in a property be returned to the LCHIP Fund upon the sale or transfer of any interest in such property to an otherwise not eligible applicant. Vote 24-0.

Amendment (4497h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 New Chapter; Land and Community Heritage Investment Program. Amend RSA by inserting after chapter 227-L the following new chapter:

CHAPTER 227-M

LAND AND COMMUNITY HERITAGE INVESTMENT PROGRAM

227-M:1 Purpose. The general court finds that in order to maintain New Hampshire's quality of life and economic vitality for its citizens, growth and development should be balanced with careful protection of the state's most important natural, cultural, and historical resources. Permanent protection of these resources, through acquisition of lands, buildings, and other physical assets, or interests in these assets, must be accomplished along with their planned long-term stewardship. The general court further recognizes the importance of public-private partnerships to achieve these ends. To protect and preserve New Hampshire's natural, cultural, and historical resources for this and future generations, the general court establishes in this chapter the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program. The intent of the program is to conserve and preserve this state's most important natural, cultural, and historical resources through the acquisition of lands, and cultural and historical resources, or interests therein, of local, regional, and statewide significance, in partnership with the state's municipalities and the private sector, for the primary purposes of protecting and ensuring the perpetual contribution of these resources to the state's economy, environment, and overall quality of life.

227-M:2 Definitions. In this chapter:

- I. "Authority" means the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority.
- II. "Board" means the board of directors of the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority.
- III. "Building" means a construction made by humans and created to shelter human activity.
- IV. "Easement interests" means conservation, historic preservation, or scenic easements, development rights, or any other similar protective interest in real property held in perpetuity.
- V. "Eligible resource" means a natural, cultural, or historical resource including archaeological sites; historic buildings and structures which house cultural events and programs; historic properties including buildings and structures; historic and cultural lands and features; ecologically significant lands; existing and potential public water supply lands; farmland; forestland; habitat for rare species or important wildlife; lands for recreation; riverine, lake, estuarine, and ocean shorelands; scenic areas and viewsheds; and wetlands and associated uplands.
- VI. "Monitoring" means the regular and systematic gathering of information about a resource asset to identify changes to the property over time to ensure that it is being used in accordance with any easement interest restrictions or other legal obligations entered into under this chapter.
- VII. "Resource asset" means the lands, buildings, structures, and other physical assets or the easement interests in the lands, buildings, structures, and other physical assets that comprise the real property of an eligible resource.
- VIII. "Stewardship" means planning for and taking the necessary actions over the long term to successfully preserve and protect the natural, cultural, or historical value of a resource asset. Such actions include, as applicable, managing the resource asset in accordance with all legal obligations entered into under this chapter, performing regular maintenance and upkeep, providing for necessary monitoring, educating or informing those that might negatively impact upon the resource asset about the need and/or legal obligation to protect and preserve it, paying tax or in-lieu-of tax obligations, obtaining liability insurance, and securing sufficient levels of financial resources to carry out all such necessary actions.

227-M:3 Land and Community Heritage Investment Program Established. There is hereby established the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program. The program shall acquire resource assets, through voluntary negotiations with property owners and utilization of all available federal, state, local, private, and other matching funds and incentives. The program shall also provide funding for restoration and rehabilitation of cultural and historical resources and for certain costs associated with the acquisition of resource assets. All deeds or other documents evidencing purchase of any fee interest or other easement interest in resources under this chapter shall be drawn and held in the name of the municipality, other political subdivision, or qualified publicly-supported nonprofit corporation purchasing the interest through the use of program funds. All easement interests and legal obligations that are attached in perpetuity to any property shall be recorded in the deed. The state of New Hampshire shall hold an executory interest in all easement interests acquired by the program and held by municipalities, other political subdivisions, or qualifying nonprofit corporations. There shall be no power by the state of New Hampshire to take any resource by eminent domain, nor shall any funds made available by this program be used to take by eminent domain except in cases involving the voluntary quieting of title. All acquisition projects shall involve a willing seller and willing buyer, or a willing donor of resource assets.

227-M:4 New Hampshire Land and Community Heritage Authority Established; Board of Directors.

I. There is hereby established the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority, a body corporate and politic. The authority is constituted a public instrumentality of the state. The exercise by the authority of the powers conferred by this chapter shall be deemed and held to be the performance of public and essential governmental functions. The authority shall be a nonprofit corporation organized under RSA 292.

II. The authority shall be governed by a board of directors composed of 18 members. Voting members shall not appoint designees to act in their places. The chairperson shall be elected from among the public members. Board membership shall be as follows:

- (a) Two members of the senate, to be appointed by the senate president.
- (b) Two members of the house of representatives, to be appointed by the speaker of the house.
- (c) Eight public members, to be appointed by the governor and council:
 - (1) Two of whom shall represent cultural and historic resource interests;
 - (2) One of whom shall represent natural resources interests;
 - (3) One of whom shall represent outdoor recreation interests;
 - (4) One of whom shall represent business or real estate interests;
 - (5) One of whom shall represent municipal interests;
 - (6) One of whom shall represent local planning interests; and
 - (7) One of whom shall represent regional planning commissions.
- (d) The director of the office of state planning, or designee.
- (e) The commissioner of the department of cultural resources, or designee.
- (f) The commissioner of the department of resources and economic development, or designee.
- (g) The commissioner of the department of environmental services, or designee.
- (h) The commissioner of the department of agriculture, markets, and food, or designee.
- (i) The executive director of the department of fish and game, or designee.

III. Members appointed under subparagraphs II(d) through II(i) shall be advisory, non-voting members.

IV.(a) The terms of the state agency members and the members of the senate and the house of representatives shall be coterminous with their respective terms in office. Members appointed by the governor and council under subparagraph II(c) shall serve a 4-year term, and may serve no more than 10 successive years.

(b) Members appointed by the governor and council may be removed from office for cause, by the governor and council. Cause for removal shall include, but not be limited to, incapacity or failure to perform the duties of a member of the board of directors. Vacancies shall be filled for the unexpired term of the office in the same manner as the original appointment. Legislative members shall be entitled to mileage reimbursement at the legislative rate.

V. Seven voting members shall constitute a quorum. Decisions shall be made by a majority of those present and voting. Each member appointed under subparagraphs II(a) through (c) shall have one vote on matters coming before the board. The board shall meet quarterly and at such other times as may be deemed necessary by the chairperson.

VI. Board members shall not be subject to civil liability for acts performed in accordance with their duties under this chapter.

227-M:5 Powers and Duties of the Authority. The authority shall have all the powers necessary and convenient to carry out and effectuate the purposes and provisions of this chapter and shall:

I. Adopt bylaws for the regulation of its affairs and the conduct of its business.

II. Adopt criteria and guidelines for:

- (a) The acquisition of resource assets;
- (b) The restoration or rehabilitation of cultural and historical buildings or structures; and
- (c) The stewardship and monitoring of resource assets on which program funds are expended.

III. Adopt definitions deemed important or necessary to carry out the purposes of this chapter.

IV. Oversee and direct the expenditure of funds deposited in the trust fund of the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program in accordance with the purposes of this chapter. This includes, but is not limited to, the authority to draw upon funds for acquisition of resource assets, or related program purposes, and for the administrative costs of the program.

V. Make and execute contracts for services necessary to carry out the purposes of this chapter or necessary and convenient for the exercise of its powers and functions.

VI. Temporarily acquire real property or interests in real property, only when such acquisition is necessary or appropriate to protect or secure any investment in which the authority has an interest.

VII. Prepare an annual report to be presented no later than December 1 of each year to the president of the senate, the speaker of the house, and the governor and council, and filed with the state library. The report shall detail the activities of the program during the past year including a listing of all resource assets acquired and restoration and rehabilitation projects undertaken, along with the associated expenditures. All administrative costs shall be provided, as well as a complete financial accounting of the trust fund established under RSA 227-M:7. The report shall also include a historical summary of the program's activities to date. A copy of the report shall be made available to any interested person. The authority shall cause an audit by an independent certified public accountant of its books and accounts to be made each fiscal year.

VIII. In addition, the authority may:

(a) Adopt an official seal.

(b) Maintain an office and hire staff.

(c) Apply for and accept from any source gifts and donations of: money, including money from appropriate fundraising activities; labor, equipment, and supplies; land and other real property; interests in land and other real property; federal, local, private, and other matching funds and incentives; and other assets to be deposited in the fund for the purposes of this chapter and to aid the authority in the conduct of its affairs.

227-M:6 Executive Director. The board of directors shall nominate one or more persons for appointment by the governor and council to serve as executive director. The executive director shall serve a term of 5 years, with reappointment or a vacancy to be filled in the same manner as the original appointment. At the request of the board, the governor and council may remove the executive director for cause. The executive director shall:

I. Coordinate the activities of state agencies directly involved with the administration of the program in accordance with this chapter.

II. Evaluate the eligible resources proposed for protection or restoration under this program, and determine if these resources meet the criteria of the program, subsequent to instruction by the board.

III. At the direction of the board, administer the affairs of the program and be directly responsible for executing all policies of the board.

227-M:7 Trust Fund Established; Administration.

I. There is established in the office of the state treasurer the trust fund for the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program. Moneys in the fund and any interest earned on the fund shall be used for the purpose of this chapter and shall not be used for any other purpose. The trust fund shall be non-lapsing.

II. The state treasurer is instructed to invest the sums deposited in the fund in a prudent manner consistent with the purposes of this chapter. Interest earned on moneys in the fund shall accrue to the fund to the extent allowed under federal law.

III. No funds of any state agency shall be transferred to the trust fund without specific authorization from the general court. Federal funds accepted by the fiscal committee and governor and council for purposes similar to those of this chapter may be deposited in the trust fund.

227-M:8 Program Administration; Eligible Applicants; Matching Funds.

I. The authority shall distribute funds to further the purposes of this chapter only to eligible applicants. Eligible applicants shall include:

(a) Municipalities or other political subdivisions of the state; and

(b) Publicly-supported nonprofit corporations exempt from federal income taxation under section 501(c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

II. Other parties wishing to participate in the program may partner with one or more eligible applicants. The applicant must demonstrate the commitment of the owner of the assets to participate in the proposed action.

III. Financial assistance to eligible applicants shall be provided through grants and block grants (grants to another organization for re-granting). Financial assistance may only be expended on eligible resources for the following purposes:

(a) Acquisition of real property in fee simple.

(b) Acquisition of easement interests in real property.

(c) Restoration or rehabilitation of buildings or structures which are publicly-owned, or which are owned by a qualified publicly-supported nonprofit corporation.

(d) Surveys, appraisals, title work, and other legal or ancillary work necessary to carry out acquisitions.

(e) Resource inventories and planning.

(f) Other professional services.

IV. The authority shall not fund more than 50 percent of the appraised market value of any resource asset acquisition or more than 50 percent of any other expense eligible for financial assistance under RSA 227-M:8, III(c)-(f).

V. All eligible applicants are required to provide a level of matching resources that is no less than 50 percent of the appraised market value for any resource asset acquisition and that is no less than 50 percent of any other expense for which financial assistance is sought under RSA 227-M:8, III(c)-(f). A minimum of one half of the applicant's minimum match requirement must be provided in cash to be used in the purchase or preservation of the resource asset. Nothing shall prevent the eligible applicant from using all cash to fulfill the match requirements of the program. The balance, if any, of the non-cash match requirement may be met through any combination of:

(a) In-kind services;

(b) The appraised market value of donated real property or interest in real property, provided such real property is located in the municipality or municipalities in which the applicant property is located;

(c) Expenses specified under RSA 227-M:8, III(c)-(f), incurred or to be incurred; or

(d) A one-time investment in a stewardship endowment fund established by the applicant for the resource asset.

VI. Qualifying matching funds from the applicant may include, but are not limited to, municipal appropriations, private donations, federal funds, and monies from a conservation fund established under RSA 36-A:5.

VII. Matching beyond the minimum shall be encouraged of all applicants. The board is authorized, for a particular project, to either reduce the applicant's minimum match requirements under paragraph V or exceed the amount of financial assistance allowed under paragraph IV, but only by an affirmative vote of 9 voting members.

227-M:9 Acquisition, Restoration, and Protection Criteria and Guidelines.

I. The criteria and guidelines adopted pursuant to RSA 227-M:5, II for acquiring resource assets shall include, but shall not be limited to, the following:

(a) Imminence of threat to the land or property, such that the preservation of endangered structures and land conservation projects in densely developed or rapidly developing areas of the state shall receive a higher ranking;

(b) Uniqueness or significance of the resource;

(c) Proximity to other protected resources;

(d) Extent to which project meets multiple objectives of the program (natural, historic, and cultural);

(e) Strength of local support, such that project applications accompanied by an affirmative vote of the governing body of the municipality or governing bodies of the municipalities in which the project is located shall receive a higher ranking;

(f) Strength of private support;

(g) Cooperation between or among communities;

(h) Extent of leverage (ability of state funds to attract other public and private funds in a cost-share arrangement);

(i) Demonstrated ability and qualifying stewardship plan of eligible applicant to provide stewardship for the resource being protected; and

(j) Extent to which benefits can be conserved only through fee acquisition of the resource asset, weighed against acquisition through easement interest.

II. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require that each acquisition of a resource asset under this chapter must meet all the criteria listed in this section.

227-M:10 Management. Any owner of a resource asset acquired in fee simple under this chapter or for which program funds have been expended for restoration or rehabilitation work, shall manage such asset in accordance with any stewardship plan approved for the asset and any legal obligations entered into under this chapter pertaining to the resource asset. The program shall not manage any resource asset, except to the extent permissible under RSA 227-M:5, VI.

227-M:11 Stewardship. All applications submitted for funding resource asset acquisitions or restoration or rehabilitation projects must contain a stewardship plan. Applicants shall be allowed flexibility in devising such plans, but the authority shall make an affirmative finding that the stewardship plan is acceptable before awarding funds. Applications to the program for activities such as resource inventories and engineering studies are not required to include stewardship plans.

227-M:12 Monitoring Endowment.

I. For every eligible resource protected under this chapter by an easement interest, a percentage of funds from the program or contributions from the applicant, as specified by the authority, shall be provided to the monitoring endowment established under RSA 162-C:8.

II. Funds added to the monitoring endowment pursuant to RSA 227-M:12, I shall be used to support monitoring by state agencies, local municipalities, and qualifying nonprofit corporations of easement interests acquired under this chapter. Such monitoring shall be to ensure that the resource protected through the program will be managed according to the legal agreements concerning easement interests in the resource.

227-M:13 Road Expansion.

I. Notwithstanding any other provisions of this chapter, the New Hampshire land and community heritage authority shall recognize that the interest and public safety and welfare may, from time to time, require minor expansion, minor modification, or minor alteration of existing roads within the state highway system. After review and approval by the authority, and notwithstanding RSA 227-M:14, the department of transportation may obtain interests in lands acquired by the authority under this chapter adjacent to state highways. Permissible expansion, modifications, or alterations under this section shall include drainage easements, slope easements, lane widening, the addition of a passing, climbing, or turning lane, or similar adjustments, but shall not include construction of a new highway or portion thereof, construction of a bypass for an existing highway, or similar major alterations. Approval shall not be granted if reasonable and prudent alternatives exist nor if individual or cumulative approvals are likely to materially impair the conservation or preservation purposes for which the parcel was originally protected. Projects determined by the authority to be outside of the scope permitted by this chapter shall require approval from the general court.

II. The department of transportation shall submit a written request to the authority with plans and supporting documentation to demonstrate compliance with the provisions of this chapter. The authority shall hold a public hearing within 90 days of receipt of a complete request to release land and community heritage investment program interests. The authority shall provide at least 10 calendar days notice in advance of such hearing. Notification shall be made, at the expense of the department, to the landowner, local governing body and conservation commission, abutters, the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests, the Nature Conservancy, the Audubon Society of New Hampshire, the New Hampshire Wildlife Federation, the New Hampshire Preservation Alliance, the local historic district commission or the local heritage commission, or both, and the county conservation district, or their successors. Notification of the public hearing shall be published, by the department, in a paper of general circulation in the municipality and shall be posted, by the department, in at least 2 public places. At the hearing or within 15 days after the hearing, a majority of the authority's voting members shall vote to approve or deny the application, unless a time extension is requested by the department. Aggrieved parties, which include all parties who must be notified under this paragraph, may appeal the authority's decision to the superior court in the same manner as planning board decisions are appealed under RSA 677:15.

III. Compensation for any interest in land obtained by the department of transportation under this section shall be at the appraised full fair market value of those property interests at the time of the department's acquisition. Alternative forms of compensation such as replacement land with comparable conservation value, or a combination of monetary compensation and replacement land may be considered in appropriate circumstances, provided all parties owning an interest in the property agree to such terms.

IV. Compensation due to municipalities and nonprofit organizations shall be dedicated to the acquisition, managing, or monitoring of protected lands consistent with the purposes of this chapter. Compensation due landowners shall be as specified in the deed or as otherwise negotiated. Any party aggrieved by the amount of compensation may file a petition with the superior court in the same manner as damage appeals are filed from the board of tax and land appeals under RSA 498-A:27.

227-M:14 Public Trust. Resource assets acquired under this chapter through the use of the trust fund for the program shall be held in public trust and used and applied for the purposes of this chapter. Notwithstanding any other provision of law relating to the disposal of publicly-owned real estate, no deviation in the uses of any resource asset so acquired to uses or purposes not consistent with the purposes of this chapter shall be permitted. The sale, transfer, conveyance, or release of any resource asset from public trust is prohibited, except as provided in RSA 227-M:13.

227-M:15 Public Access; Liability. Lands and interests in lands purchased with funds from this program by any eligible applicant shall be open in perpetuity for passive recreational purposes. Language to be used in easement interests secured through the program shall approximate the intent of the following:

I. There is hereby conveyed pedestrian access to, on, and across the property for hunting, fishing, and transitory passive recreational purposes, but not camping, by members of the public. A grantor may reserve the right to post against vehicles, motorized or otherwise and against hunting on active livestock fields, against access to agricultural cropland during planting and growing season, and against access to forest land during harvesting or establishment of plantations.

II. The authority shall have the discretion to limit or prohibit passive recreational use on a case-by-case basis, where this activity would be inconsistent with the purpose for protecting the property and/or when public safety would be at risk. Additionally, the authority may stipulate, as a condition of funding, on a case-by-case basis where appropriate, that certain lands or interests in lands be available for motorized recreational uses.

III. No person, or successor in title, who has granted or sold rights of public access by virtue of an easement, right-of-way, development right, or other means in accordance with the purposes of this chapter shall be liable to a user of that right of access for injuries suffered on that portion of the access unless those injuries are caused by the willful or wanton misconduct of the grantor or successor in title.

227-M:16 Recapture. If property is sold, by a seller who has received funds under this program regarding such property, to a non-eligible applicant, the program trust fund's cash investment in the property shall be returned to the program trust fund by the property seller. This section shall not apply to a sale between eligible applicants.

227-M:17 Receipt of Grant Recorded in Registry of Deeds. Receipt of a grant award under this program and conditions of such award shall be recorded in the registry of deeds for the county in which the property is located.

2 Land Conservation Investment Program; Management. Amend RSA 162-C:6, VII to read as follows:

VII. Compensation due to the state under this section shall be ~~maintained in a separate, non-lapsing land acquisition fund to be managed by the state treasurer. The council, as successors to the land conservation investment program board of directors, shall develop rules pursuant to RSA 541-A, whereby agencies and/or municipalities, shall have access to these funds from time to time as resources permit. Such funds must be used for the acquisition of land, or interests in land, consistent with the purposes of this chapter~~ deposited in the trust fund of the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program established under RSA 227-M and used for the purposes of that program. Compensation due to municipalities shall be dedicated to the acquisition or monitoring of protected lands consistent with the purposes of this chapter. Compensation due to landowners of conservation easement lands shall be as specified in the conservation easement, deed, or as otherwise negotiated. Any party aggrieved by the amount of compensation may file a petition with the superior court in the same manner as damage appeals are filed from the board of tax and land appeals under RSA 498-A:27.

3 Land Conservation Investment Program; Office of State Planning; Powers and Duties. Amend RSA 162-C:7 to read as follows:

162-C:7 Powers and Duties. The council shall oversee, direct, and expend funds in the monitoring endowment of the former New Hampshire land conservation investment program in accordance with the purposes of this subdivision and RSA 227-M:12. This includes, but is not limited to, the authority to draw upon funds for the administrative costs of the endowment.

4 Land Conservation Investment Program; Monitoring Endowment. Amend RSA 162-C:8, I-III to read as follows:

I. The monitoring endowment established by the board of directors pursuant to former RSA 221-A:5, III shall be maintained in perpetuity and shall be utilized by the council only for the purposes of monitoring and enforcing the property rights of persons with ownership interests in property acquired through the former land conservation investment program and for the purposes of RSA 227-M:12.

II. The principal of the endowment shall be managed by the state treasurer for the sole purpose of providing interest earnings for the purposes set forth in this subdivision and RSA 227-M:12, and expenditures from the endowment for those purposes shall be limited to the interest earned thereon.

III. Any interest earned on the endowment principal which is not used for the purposes set forth in this subdivision and RSA 227-M:12 within the fiscal year in which it is earned shall be added to the principal amount. The state treasurer is authorized to accept gifts, donations, and grants, including federal gifts, donations, and grants, for the purposes set forth in this chapter, and such gifts, donations and grants shall be added to the principal amount.

5 Motor Vehicles; Certificates of Title and Registration; Conservation Number Plates; Fee. Amend RSA 261:97-a, I to read as follows:

I. The director is hereby authorized to issue special conservation number plates, in lieu of other number plates. The design of these special plates shall be determined as provided in RSA 261:97-d. The plates shall retain the "live free or die" logo. Such plates shall be issued only upon application and upon payment of a ~~[$25]~~ $30 fee that shall be in addition to the regular motor vehicle registration fee and any other number plate fees otherwise required.

6 Motor Vehicles; Certificates of Title and Registration; Conservation Number Plates; Fee. Amend RSA 261:97-a, III to read as follows:

III. Plates shall be renewed on an annual basis for ~~[$25]~~ $30 per set. Of this sum, the department shall retain an amount as is necessary to recover production and administrative costs as approved by the fiscal committee of the general court. The remaining funds shall be paid to the state treasurer and distributed as provided in RSA 261:97-b. The cost of replacement number plates shall be identical to the cost of initial number plates and the revenue from replacement number plates shall be distributed in the same manner as revenue derived from initial number plates.

7 Motor Vehicles; Certificates of Title and Registration; Conservation Number Plate Trust Fund; Distribution of Funds. Amend RSA 261:97-b, I to read as follows:

I. There is hereby established a conservation number plate trust fund under the administration of the state treasurer. The fund shall be used for the promotion, protection, and investment in the state's natural, cultural, and historic resources. The fund shall be nonlapsing. The state treasurer shall distribute the funds annually on July 1, except as provided in paragraph I-a, as follows: $5,000 of every $100,000 received, up to a total of $50,000, shall be distributed to the department of transportation for the expanded wild flower establishment program for use in planting native wild flowers; the remainder shall be distributed equally among the department of cultural resources, the department of fish and game, the department of resources and economic development, ~~and~~ the state conservation committee, and the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority.

I-a. The state treasurer shall distribute the share of funds due the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority, pursuant to RSA 261:97-b, I, on the first day of each month. The total amount shall not exceed $200,000 per fiscal year.

8 Motor Vehicles; Certificates of Title and Registration; Conservation Number Plate Trust Fund; Use of Funds. Amend RSA 261:97-c, V-VI to read as follows:

V. The funds transferred to the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority shall be used for the administration of the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program.

~~[V]~~ VI. The funds transferred to the department of transportation shall be used for the expanded wildflower establishment program to be used in maintenance districts.

~~[V]~~ VII. Any funds transferred from the conservation number plate trust fund which remain unexpended at the end of the fiscal year shall be non-lapsing.

9 Initial Appointees. The terms of the initial appointees by the governor and council to the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority under RSA 227-M:4, II(c) shall be staggered as follows:

I. The member representing regional planning commissions and the member representing business or real estate interests shall serve a one-year term.

II. The member representing municipal interests and the member representing local planning interests shall serve a 2-year term.

III. The member representing outdoor recreation interests and the member representing natural resources interests shall serve a 3-year term.

IV. The members representing cultural and historic resource interests shall each serve a 4-year term.

10 Transfer. The sum of $3,000,000 from the New Hampshire economic development fund established under RSA 12-A:2-e, 1 shall be transferred to the trust fund established under RSA 227-M:7, 1 upon passage of this act, but shall not be available for distribution until April 1, 2001. This sum, and any interest earned thereon, shall not be used for administrative purposes.

11 Appropriation; Administrative Costs. The sum of $50,000 is appropriated to the New Hampshire land and community heritage authority established in section 1 of this act, for the purpose of funding administrative costs of the authority for the biennium ending June 30, 2001. The source of funds for the $50,000 shall be as follows:

I. Notwithstanding the purpose of RSA 227-G:5, $40,000 from the forest management and protection fund, established in RSA 227-G:5.

II. $5,000 from PAU 02, 03, 01, class 20, department of agriculture, markets, and food funds for the fiscal year 2000.

III. $5,000 from PAU 02, 03, 05, 01, class 24, department of agriculture, markets, and food funds for fiscal year 2000.

12 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill:

I. Establishes the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program.

II. Establishes the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority, and establishes its powers, duties, and authority.

III. Establishes membership on the authority's board of directors.

IV. Establishes criteria for acquisition of lands and other natural, cultural, and historical resources.

V. Increases the fee charged for the issuance of special conservation number plates from $25 to $30.

VI. Provides that a portion of funds received in the conservation numbers plate trust fund shall be distributed monthly to the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment authority for the purpose of administering the New Hampshire land and community heritage investment program.

VII. Provides a $50,000 appropriation for the purpose of administering the program for the biennium ending June 30, 2001, with such funds being transferred from the forest management and protection fund and the department of agriculture, markets, and food.

VIII. Provides for a transfer of $3,000,000 to the program from the New Hampshire economic development fund.

IX. Transfers responsibility for the administration of the land conservation investment program and monitoring endowment under RSA 162-C to the office of state planning.

Adopted.

Reps. Kennedy and Fuller Clark spoke in favor.

Rep. Fuller Clark requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the report.

SB 419-FN, establishing the crime of negligent storage of a firearm. MAJORITY: OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT. MINORITY: REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY.

Rep. Beth Rodd for Criminal the Majority of Justice and Public Safety: The committee agreed that the original version of the bill was unnecessarily punitive towards negligent gun owners, criminalizing behaviors that could be better addressed through education. The amended version removes the incarceration penalty, a class A misdemeanor, and replaces it with a violation with a possible fine of up to 1,000 dollars. It also lowers the age of a "child" under the bill from 18 years to less than 16 years old. Youths who have passed the state hunter education course can obtain a hunting license at age 16. The added language, section V (a), is true to the original intent of the bill because it focuses primarily on education and safety to prevent harm or loss of life without interfering with the right of gun owners to constitutionally protected rights to keep and bear arms. The amended version of this bill more fairly and sensibly addresses issues associated with the negligent storage of firearms and accessibility by children, protects responsible gun owners and holds negligent owners responsible for their failure to ensure the safety of children if a child obtains access to an easily accessible firearm. Existing statutes allow for civil penalties when harm is done. Vote 11-3.

Rep. John E. Tholl, Jr. for the Minority of Criminal Justice and Public Safety: Last year, SB 163 was enacted into law. It established a commission (reducing violent incidence involving children and guns commission) to study ways to reduce violence with children and guns. This commission is made up of a broad spectrum of members from legislators, medical professionals, mental health professionals, educators, firearms manufacturers and sportsmen's clubs among others. The commission has been meeting and is not due to report until November 2000. Rather than wait for its recommendations, the prime sponsor of SB 163 filed several bills pertaining to the subject, including SB 419. The filing of these bills was premature since the commission wasn't due to file its report for at least 11 months. SB 419 will not prevent injuries or deaths, it will only punish. The minority of the Criminal Justice and Public Safety Committee feels that SB 419 should be referred for Interim Study.

Amendment (4356h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 New Chapter; Negligent Storage of Firearms. Amend RSA by inserting after chapter 650-B the following new chapter:

CHAPTER 650-C

NEGLIGENT STORAGE OF FIREARMS

650-C:1 Negligent Storage of Firearms.

I. Nothing in this section shall be construed to reduce or limit any existing right to purchase and own firearms or ammunition, or both, or to provide authority to any state or local agency to infringe upon the privacy of any family, home or business except by lawful warrant.

II. As used in this section, "child," "juvenile" or "youth" shall mean any person under 16 years of age.

III. Any person who stores or leaves on premises under that person's control a loaded firearm, and who knows or reasonably should know that a child is likely to gain access to the firearm without the permission of the child's parent or guardian, is guilty of a violation if a child gains access to a firearm and:

- (a) The firearm is used in a reckless or threatening manner;
- (b) The firearm is used during the commission of any misdemeanor or felony; or
- (c) The firearm is negligently or recklessly discharged.

IV. Any person who violates paragraph III shall be fined not more than $1,000.

V. This section shall not apply whenever any of the following occurs:

(a) The child has completed firearm safety instructions by a certified firearms safety instructor or has successfully completed a certified hunter safety course.

(b) The firearm is kept secured in a locked box, gun safe, or other secure locked space, or in a location which a reasonable person would believe to be secure, or is secured with a trigger lock or similar device that prevents the firearm from discharging.

(c) The firearm is carried on the person or within such a close proximity thereto so that the individual can readily retrieve and use the firearm as if carried on the person.

(d) The child obtains or obtains and discharges the firearm in a lawful act of self-defense or defense of another person.

(e) The person who keeps a loaded firearm on any premises which are under such person's custody or control has no reasonable expectation, based on objective facts and circumstances, that a child is likely to be present on the premises.

(f) The child obtains the firearm as a result of an illegal entry of any premises by any person or an illegal taking of the firearm from the premises of the owner without permission of the owner.

VI. A parent or guardian of a child who is injured or who dies of an accidental shooting shall be prosecuted under this section only in those instances in which the parent or guardian behaved in a grossly negligent manner.

VII. Licensees shall conspicuously post at each purchase counter the following warning in bold type not less than one inch in height: "IT IS IMPORTANT THAT THE OWNER OF A FIREARM SEEK FIREARM SAFETY INSTRUCTIONS FROM A CERTIFIED FIREARMS INSTRUCTOR AND KEEP FIREARMS SECURED FROM UNAUTHORIZED USE." A licensee failing to display this warning to the purchaser of a firearm shall be guilty of a violation.

2 Effective Date. This act shall take effect January 1, 2001.

Rep. McGough requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the majority amendment.

SUSPENSION OF RULES

Reps. Chandler and Burling move that the Rules be so far suspended as to permit third reading and final passage at the present time of SB 353, relative to sales of insurance by financial institutions, SB 363, relative to the sale of malt beverages, SB 409-FN, relative to health insurance coverage of qualified clinical trials and SB 419-FN-L, establishing the crime of negligent storage of a firearm.

Adopted by the necessary two thirds.

MOTION ON SENATE BILLS

Rep. Chandler moved that, SB 353, relative to sales of insurance by financial institutions, SB 363, relative to the sale of malt beverages, SB 409-FN, relative to health insurance coverage of qualified clinical trials and SB 419-FN-L, establishing the crime of negligent storage of a firearm, be read a third time and passed.

Adopted.

Third reading and final passage

SB 353, relative to sales of insurance by financial institutions.

SB 363, relative to the sale of malt beverages.

SB 409-FN, relative to health insurance coverage of qualified clinical trials.

SB 419-FN-L, establishing the crime of negligent storage of a firearm.

SB 445-FN, relative to methadone maintenance treatment. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Kathleen M. Flora for Criminal Justice and Public Safety: This bill, as amended, closes a loophole in current law by repealing RSA 318-B:10, VII under which methadone detoxification treatment programs for heroin addiction have been allowed to operate without the oversight of state rules. The amendment requires the Commissioner of Health and Human Services to adopt rules relative to methadone detoxification and methadone maintenance treatment for heroin addiction by June 30, 2001. In addition, SB 445, as amended, allows methadone maintenance treatment programs to operate in New Hampshire once rules are adopted. These rules will require that methadone maintenance be provided within a rehabilitative framework. This brings New Hampshire law for the treatment of heroin addiction in line with the most current recommendations of the National Institute of Health, the National Institute on Drug Abuse, the New Hampshire State Medical Society and our own division of Alcohol, Drug Abuse Prevention and Recovery as an effective treatment modality for this addiction. Testimony from the medical community strongly supports this action to enable the addicted persons to return as quickly as possible to contributing members of society. Patients on methadone are able to become functional members of their families and communities. They are able to maintain employment and get the necessary counseling, needed to achieve long term success in defeating their addiction. Law enforcement officials including the New Hampshire Attorney General supported enforcement, education and treatment as a three pronged approach to eradicate illegal drug use in the State of New Hampshire. Studies have demonstrated a decrease in criminal activity corresponding to the initiation of methadone treatment. We have a growing, state-wide heroin problem in New Hampshire. SB 445, as amended, allows for the provision of well-regulated comprehensive treatment and rehabilitation for heroin addiction. Vote 13-2.

Amendment (4358h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

I Methadone Maintenance Treatment; Rulemaking. RSA 318-B:10, VII is repealed and reenacted to read as follows:

VII.(a) The department of health and human services is hereby declared to be the state methadone authority.

(b) The commissioner of the department of health and human services shall, on or before June 30, 2001, adopt and have in effect rules, pursuant to RSA 541-A, relative to detoxification and methadone maintenance programs as follows:

(1) Application procedure and standards for approval for certification and re-certification of providers to operate detoxification and methadone maintenance programs, including certification period, for each type of certification.

(2) Eligibility of individuals for admission to such programs.

(3) Qualifications of program personnel.

(4) Program content, including, but not limited to, services to be offered by the program.

(5) Mandatory records and reports to the department.

(6) Security measures to prevent diversion of methadone to illegal use.

(7) Confidentiality and disclosure of identifying information, records and reports.

(8) Financial responsibility.

(9) Any other provisions necessary to implement the purposes of this paragraph.

(c) Providers may operate a methadone detoxification or methadone maintenance program, or both, in the state of New Hampshire only if the providers are certified to operate pursuant to rules adopted under subparagraph VII(b). In implementing subparagraph VII(b), the commissioner shall not use the interim rulemaking process in RSA 541-A:19.

(d) For the purposes of this paragraph:

(1) "Heroin" means an illegal semi-synthetic drug produced from the morphine contained in sap of the opium poppy, and known to have the potential for devastating addictive properties in vulnerable individuals.

(2) "Methadone" means a legal drug, methadone hydrochloride, which is a synthetic opiod that has been demonstrated to be an effective treatment agent for heroin abuse and dependence.

(3) "Methadone detoxification treatment" means the dispensing of methadone or similar substance in decreasing doses to an individual in order to reduce or eliminate adverse physiological or psychological effects incident to the withdrawal from the sustained use of heroin.

(4) "Methadone maintenance program" means a substance abuse treatment program substituting methadone or any of its derivatives, over time, to relieve withdrawal symptoms of heroin dependence, to reduce craving, and to permit normal functioning and engagement in rehabilitative services.

(e) Nothing in this paragraph shall prohibit a licensed health care practitioner from administering, prescribing, or dispensing a controlled drug under paragraph I.

2 Applicability. Notwithstanding RSA 318-B:10, VII(c) as inserted by section 1 of this act, methadone detoxification programs licensed pursuant to federal statute and regulations may operate without certification under paragraph VII for up to 90 days after the effective date of rules adopted under RSA 318-B:10, VII(b) as inserted by section 1 of this act.

3 Applicability.

I. Notwithstanding the above, nothing in this act shall be construed as prohibiting or limiting the provision of methadone detoxification treatment or from prohibiting or limiting treatment for those persons in treatment under RSA 318-B:10, VIII. Any other methadone detoxification treatment shall cease to operate on June 30, 2001 if the rules required under section 1 of this act have not been adopted.

II. Any provider under this section may provide treatment as long as the provider meets Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities (CARF) accreditation standards and is licensed by the federal Food and Drug Administration and the federal Drug Enforcement Administration, and otherwise meets all applicable state and federal laws and regulations.

4 New Paragraph; Definition Added. Amend RSA 318:1 by inserting after paragraph VII the following new paragraph:

VII-a. "Limited retail drug distributor" means federally funded clinics operated under contract with the department of health and human services and drug abuse treatment centers, where legend and controlled drugs are held, stored or dispensed to patients pursuant to the order of an authorized practitioner.

5 New Section; Licensing of Limited Retail Drug Distributors Required.

318:51-b Licensing of Limited Retail Drug Distributors Required.

I. No person shall operate as a limited retail drug distributor, as defined in RSA 318:1, VII-a, without first having obtained a license to do so from the board. Such license shall expire annually on June 30. An application together with a reasonable fee as established by the board shall be filed annually on or before July 1.

II. No license shall be issued under this section unless the applicant has furnished proof satisfactory to the board that:

(a) The applicant is of good moral character or, if that applicant is an association or corporation, that the managing officers are of good moral character.

(b) The applicant has sufficient space and security equipment as to properly carry on the business described in the application.

(c) The license granted by this chapter shall at all times be displayed in a conspicuous place in the facility for which it is issued.

(d) The applicant has a written contract with a pharmacist licensed in the state to serve as a consultant on all matters relating to the storage and dispensing of prescription drugs.

III. No license shall be granted to any person who has within 5 years been convicted of a violation of any law of the United States, or of any state, relating to drugs, as defined in this chapter or RSA 318-B, or to any person who is a drug-dependent person.

IV. Any person licensed pursuant to this section is subject to the provisions of RSA 318:29.

6 Licensure Required. RSA 318:42, VII(d) is repealed and reenacted to read as follows:

(d) The clinic, except for clinics operated directly by the department of health and human services, possesses a current limited retail drug distributor's license under RSA 318:51-b.

7 Repeal. RSA 318:42, VII(e), relative to drug wholesaler's license is repealed.

8 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill requires the commissioner of the department of health and human services to adopt rules relative to methadone maintenance treatment.

This bill also requires limited retail drug distributors to be licensed by the New Hampshire pharmacy board.

Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

ENROLLED BILLS REPORT

The Committee on Enrolled Bills has examined and found correctly enrolled House Bill 1548 and Senate Bills 143 and 376.

Rep. Ronald Nowe for the Committee

CACR 20, relating to the election of governor and senators. Providing that beginning with the 2002 general election, and every 4 years thereafter, the governor and senators shall be elected. MAJORITY: INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE. MINORITY: OUGHT TO PASS.

Rep. Lynn C. Horton for the Majority of Election Law: The majority of the committee feels that the present system of having to be elected every two years for governor and senators keeps them closer to the people and more accountable for their actions. Vote 11-6.

Rep. Christine M. Konys for the Minority of Election Law: The minority of the committee feels that the state of New Hampshire would be better served with four-year terms for governor and senators. Instead of spending a great part of their second year in office focusing on running a campaign, those officials could instead take the necessary time to thoroughly explore and address complex issues facing the legislature.

Rep. Arndt requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the majority report.

SB 303, relative to campaign contributions by business organizations. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Robert J. Letourneau for Election Law: As amended, this bill is the work of a bipartisan subcommittee of Election Law. It also has the unanimous support from the Election Law Committee. The bill, as amended, is true campaign finance reform. A recent court decision declared New Hampshire's longstanding ban on corporate contributions unconstitutional. The judge also noted that a similar ban on union contributions was likely unconstitutional, but has yet to be challenged in court. This area is also addressed in this bill. During testimony on these bills, the Election Law Committee also heard a need to further refine our laws concerning campaign finance. The committee amendment provides that both corporate and union contributions must come from segregated accounts (PAC's). Neither can force employees or members to contribute to the PAC, nor can dues or deductions be placed in the PAC without the permission of the employee or member. Candidates under the amended bill will now be required to report all money received and expended. The bill also addresses the practice of not reporting certain contributions until after the election. In addition, the bill provides that all candidates must report any new contributions and expenditures within 24 hours during the week before the primary or general elections. As under current law, candidates who do not receive or spend $500 on the campaign would not have to file a report. Now voters will know who or what special interest is financing the campaign before they go to the ballot box. The committee also heard complaints about the costs of voter lists. With the advent of technology, lists are now computerized. The cost to copy the list onto disk or tape is far less than the old method of employees going to the copy machine. Under the amended version, no checklist of voters in a community will cost more than $25. The committee feels this amended bill is true campaign finance reform which members of both parties have been requesting for years. The voters should go to the ballot box with full knowledge of whose interests will be served. A knowledgeable voter means a better government. Vote 17-0.

Amendment (4383h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to campaign finance reporting requirements, availability of voter checklists on computer disks, and permissible campaign contributions by business organizations.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 New Paragraphs; Political Expenditures and Contributions; Definitions; Segregated Accounts; Coordinated Expenditure. Amend RSA 664:2 by inserting after paragraph XVII the following new paragraphs:

XVIII. "Segregated accounts" mean accounts funded by contributions solicited from a business organization's, labor union's, or group of labor unions' employees, officers, shareholders, directors, partners, or members for political purposes.

XIX. "Coordinated expenditure" means an expenditure by a political party, a political committee of a political party, or other entity, on behalf of a candidate or candidate's committee in a state primary or general election with the consent of the candidate. Any expenditure that is not an independent expenditure or direct expenditure shall be considered to be a coordinated expenditure.

2 Political Expenditures and Contributions; Definitions; Independent Expenditures. Amend RSA 664:2, XI to read as follows:

XI. "Independent expenditures" means expenditures by a person, political committee, or other entity ~~[expressly]~~ advocating the election or defeat of a clearly identified candidate which are not made ~~[without cooperation or consultation]~~ in conjunction or coordination with any candidate, or any authorized committee or agent of such candidate, and which are not made in ~~[concert]~~ coordination with, or at the request or suggestion of, any candidate, or any authorized committee or agent of such candidate. As used in this paragraph, "clearly identified" means that the name of the candidate involved appears; a photograph or drawing of the candidate appears; or the identity of the candidate is apparent by unambiguous reference.

3 Elections; Political Expenditures and Contributions; Reports; Reporting by Political Committee; Reporting by Candidates. RSA 664:6 and 664:7 are repealed and reenacted to read as follows: 664:6 Reporting by Political Committee.

I. Any political committee whose receipts of contributions or whose expenditures, including, without limitation, coordinated and independent expenditures on behalf of candidates and general operating expenditures of the committee, in support of or in opposition to a candidate, measure, or political party, exceed in the aggregate $500, shall file with the secretary of state an itemized statement, in accordance with the provisions of RSA 664:7-b. The statement shall be signed by the chairperson and treasurer of the political committee and shall list each contribution, in alphabetical order by the last name of the contributor, with the amount of the contribution, the date it was received, all of the information as is set forth in RSA 664:7-b, and the aggregate total for each election for each contributor. The statement shall be filed not later than the Wednesday 12 weeks immediately preceding a primary election, before 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and shall cover the period from the day of the committee registration up to and including the Monday before the statement is due. The statement shall contain the date of each expenditure, the name and address of the person or entity to whom each expenditure was made, the name of the candidate in whose behalf or against whom each expenditure was made, the amount of each expenditure, the purpose of each expenditure, and the aggregate amount of all previous expenditures.

II. An itemized statement in the same form as in paragraph I shall be filed with the secretary of state not later than the Wednesday 3 weeks immediately preceding a primary election, before 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The statement shall summarize the statement filed pursuant to paragraph I, if any, and shall itemize all receipts of contributions and expenditures made since the cutoff of the statement filed pursuant to paragraph I up until the Monday preceding the filing of the statement under this paragraph.

III. A statement in the same form as in paragraph I shall be filed with the secretary of state not later than the Wednesday immediately preceding a primary election, before 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The statement shall summarize the statements filed pursuant to paragraphs I and II, if any, and itemize all receipts of contributions and expenditures made since the cutoff of the statement filed pursuant to paragraph II up until the Monday preceding the filing of the statement under this paragraph. In addition to the reporting requirements contained in this section, the secretary of state shall be notified by the fiscal agent within 24 hours of any contribution, contributions or expenditures exceeding $500 in the aggregate that are received after the statement under this paragraph is filed and prior to the day of primary election. No more than one report to the secretary of state shall be required within a 24 hour period.

IV. An itemized statement in the same form as in paragraph I, summarizing the previous statements, if any, and itemizing all receipts of contributions and expenditures made since the cutoff of the previous report up until the Monday preceding the filing of the statement, shall be filed with the secretary of state before 5 o'clock in the afternoon on each of the following days: the Wednesday one week after the primary election; the Wednesdays 4 weeks, 2 weeks, and immediately preceding the general election; and the Wednesday 2 weeks after the general election. In addition to the reporting requirements contained in this section, during the last week before the general election, the secretary of state shall be notified by the fiscal agent within 24 hours of any contribution, contributions, or expenditures exceeding $500 in the aggregate that are received after the statement under this paragraph is filed and prior to the day of the general election. No more than one report to the secretary of state shall be required within a 24 hour period.

V. Any political committee whose receipt of contributions or expenditures in the aggregate do not exceed $500 for a reporting period need not file. However, when a committee's accumulated receipts of contributions or expenditures for an election in the aggregate exceed $500, the committee shall file a statement at the next reporting deadline.

VI. Any political committee that has any outstanding debt, obligation, or surplus following the election shall file reports at least once every 6 months thereafter in the same form as in paragraph I until the obligation or indebtedness is entirely satisfied or surplus deleted, at which time a final report shall be filed.

VII. Copies of the statements required by paragraphs I through VI of the state committee of a political party shall be filed with the secretary of state in sufficient numbers so as to provide a copy for the state committee of each party on the ballot, which they may obtain by application to the secretary of state.

VIII. Any national political party committee of a party as defined in RSA 652:11 may make contributions or expenditures on behalf of state candidates without complying with the requirements of paragraphs I through VI, provided that the total contribution or expenditure made in behalf of a candidate or political committee in this state whether directly or indirectly does not exceed the limit for personal contributions in RSA 664:4.

IX. The provisions of this paragraph shall apply only to a political committee for an individual candidate who is seeking a federal office whose holder is chosen by the voters of this state only. Such a committee, which is required by federal law to file with the federal government reports relative to receipts of contributions and expenditures in support of such one candidate, may choose, at the time of registering under RSA 663:3, I, to file with the secretary of state copies of reports made to the federal government in accordance with the timetable established by federal laws for such reports in lieu of complying with the other reporting requirements of this section.

664:7 Reporting by Candidates.

I. Each candidate at the primary or general election for governor, councilor, state senator, representative to general court, or county officer, who receives contributions or makes expenditures in the aggregate that exceed $500, shall file statements before and after an election in like manner and detail as prescribed in RSA 664:6, I-VI, excepting, however, the expenditures of political committees of the party to which the candidate belongs in elections other than primaries.

II. Candidates for the offices of speaker of the house, president of the senate, secretary of state, state treasurer, clerks, assistant clerks, and sergeants-at-arms of the house and senate shall report contributions and expenditures exceeding $500 in the aggregate in like manner and detail as prescribed in RSA 664:6, I, except that the filing of statements for these offices shall be limited to the Wednesdays one week and 3 weeks after the general election and the Wednesday one week after the election for these offices.

III. The candidate shall report all contributions received and expenditures made for the purpose of exploring or promoting such candidacy in the first report filed.

4 New Sections: Elections; Political Expenditures and Contributions; Reports; Form of Contributions; Content of Disclosure Reports; Campaign Finance Disclosure Record. Amend RSA 664 by inserting after section 7 the following new sections:

664:7-a Form of Contributions. No contribution may be accepted unless accompanied by the disclosure information set forth in RSA 664:7-b.

664:7-b Content of Disclosure Reports. All contributions reported pursuant to RSA 664:6 or RSA 664:7 shall be listed on forms or other means prescribed by the secretary of state. The listing for each contribution exceeding $25 shall include disclosure information. The disclosure information shall include the name; home or post office address; employer, business organization, or primary source of income; post office address of employer or business; and occupation of the contributor. Contributions shall be categorized as in-state or out-of-state. A summary of the contribution totals by category shall be included with each scheduled report. The report shall also list the aggregate total received from each contributor whose total contributions exceed $100 and the contributor's disclosure information. All expenditures, as defined in RSA 664:2, IX and XVII, shall be reported in similar detail on forms or other means prescribed by the secretary of state.

664:7-c Campaign Finance Disclosure Record.

I. Disclosure reports required under RSA 664:6 and RSA 664:7 of candidates for governor and any disclosure reports filed by candidates for United States senator and representative to Congress may be filed in electronic format. The secretary of state shall enter these reports into an electronic campaign finance disclosure record. The secretary of state shall ensure that these disclosure reports are available through the official internet site of the state of New Hampshire. Such reports shall also be available for paper or electronic copying at a reasonable cost.

II. The secretary of state shall compile and maintain separate cumulative disclosure reports filed under this subdivision by political committees, political committees of political parties, and candidates for executive councilor, state senator, state representative, county office, and the offices referenced in RSA 664:7, II.

5 Voters and Checklists, Availability of Checklist. Amend RSA 654:31 to read as follows:

654:31 Availability of Checklist.

I. The checklist as corrected by the supervisors shall be open for the examination of any person at all times before the opening of a meeting or election at which the list is to be used. The supervisors shall furnish one or more copies of the most recent checklist to any person requesting such copies. If the supervisors maintain or have access to the checklist or information from which the checklist was derived in more than one form, the person requesting copies shall be furnished copies in any of those forms according to his or her preference. The supervisors may charge a reasonable fee for copies that is based on the actual costs incurred when reproducing an existing checklist, except that in no event shall the fee for paper copies of any single town or [ward] city checklist be less than $5 nor more than $25 per checklist. ~~[The fee charged for checklists on computer disk or tape, or in any form other than paper, shall be based solely on the additional costs incurred to provide such checklist to the individual requesting it.]~~ The fee shall be for the use of the town or city.

II. If a town or city maintains a voter checklist on computer files, a person may request a copy of such files on computer disk or tape. For purposes of this paragraph, the checklist shall include all registered voters in a town or city. The fee charged for copies of the checklist on computer disk or tape shall not be more than $25.

6 Prohibited Political Organizations; Business Organizations. RSA 664:4, I is repealed and re-enacted to read as follows:

I. By any business organization, officer, director, executive, agent, partner or employee acting in behalf of such business organization. This shall not prohibit the establishment or administration of a separate, segregated account which shall constitute a political committee as defined in RSA 664:2, III that operates independently of the business organization to be used for making political contributions and expenditures if the account consists only of voluntary contributions solicited from an individual who is an employee, officer, shareholder, director, partner, or member of the business organization. The provisions of this section shall not apply to sole proprietorships.

7 Political Expenditures and Contributions; Prohibited Political Contributions; Segregated Account Exception. Amend RSA 664:4, III to read as follows:

III. By any labor union or group of labor unions, or by any officer, director, executive, agent or employee acting in behalf of such union or group of unions; or by any organization representing or affiliated with any such union or group of unions, or by any officer, director, executive, agent or employee acting in behalf of such organization. This shall not prohibit the establishment or administration of a separate, segregated account which shall constitute a political committee, as defined in RSA 664:2, III, that operates independently of the labor union to be used for making political contributions and expenditures if the account consists only of voluntary contributions solicited from an individual who is an employee, officer, shareholder, director, partner, or member of the labor union.

8 Repeal. RSA 664:4, II, relative to prohibited political contributions by partnerships, is repealed.

9 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Rep. Clegg requested that Section 5 of the amendment be voted on separately. The Speaker ruled the question was divisible.

The question now being the adoption of Section 5 of the amendment.

Rep. Almy spoke against.

Rep. Buckley spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. Vaillancourt spoke against and yielded to questions.

On a division vote, 141 members having voted in the affirmative and 160 in the negative, Section 5 of the amendment failed.

The question now being on the remainder of the amendment.

Rep. Kennedy spoke against.

Rep. Splaine spoke against and yielded to questions.

Reps. Buckley, Clemons and Clegg spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. Clegg requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the remainder of the amendment.

RECONSIDERATION

Having voted on the prevailing side, Rep. Franks moved that the House reconsider its action whereby it failed to adopt Section 5 of the amendment.

Rep. Clegg spoke in favor.

Rep. Vaillancourt requested a roll call; not sufficiently seconded.

On a division vote, 172 members having voted in the affirmative and 140 in the negative, reconsideration prevailed.

The question again being the adoption of Section 5.

Rep. Buckley spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. Vaillancourt spoke against and yielded to questions.

Rep. Almy offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4542h)

Amend the bill by replacing section 5 with the following:

5 Voters and Checklists, Availability of Checklist. Amend RSA 654:31 to read as follows:
654:31 Availability of Checklist.

I. The checklist as corrected by the supervisors shall be open for the examination of any person at all times before the opening of a meeting or election at which the list is to be used. The supervisors shall furnish one or more copies of the most recent checklist to any person requesting such copies. If the supervisors maintain or have access to the checklist or information from which the checklist was derived in more than one form, the person requesting copies shall be furnished copies in any of those forms according to his or her preference. The supervisors may charge a reasonable fee for copies that is based on the actual costs incurred when reproducing an existing checklist, except that in no event shall the fee for paper copies of any single town or ward checklist be less than $5 nor more than $25 per checklist. ~~[The fee charged for checklists on computer disk or tape, or in any form other than paper, shall be based solely on the additional costs incurred to provide such checklist to the individual requesting it.]~~ The fee shall be for the use of the town or city.

II. If a town or city maintains a voter checklist on computer files, a person may request a copy of such files on computer disk or tape. For purposes of this paragraph, the checklist shall include all registered voters in a town or city. The fee charged for copies of the checklist on computer disk or tape shall not be more than $25.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill:

I. Defines segregated accounts and coordinated expenditures and changes the definition of independent expenditure.

II. Describes the reporting requirements for political committees and candidates and defines the content of mandatory campaign finance disclosure reports.

III. Requires the secretary of state to maintain an electronic database of certain finance disclosure records.

IV. Addresses the availability of obtaining copies of voter checklists on computer disks.

V. Creates an exception to the prohibition on political contributions by business organizations through the use of segregated accounts for voluntary contributions by members of the business organization.

Rep Almy spoke in favor.

Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

Rep. Weber declared a conflict of interest and did not participate.

SB 465-FN-L, relative to the definition of “sugar orchard” for purposes of the timber yield tax. REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY

Rep. Suzan L R Franks for Environment and Agriculture: The Environment and Agriculture Committee agrees it is important to define “sugar orchard” for purposes of clarifying current law. However, it was found to require more time than was allotted and therefore recommends interim study. Vote 11-1.

Adopted.

Rep. Scanlan declared a conflict of interest and did not participate.

SB 181-FN, relative to the licensure of geologists. MAJORITY: OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT. MINORITY: REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY.

Rep. Alida I. Millham for the Majority of Executive Departments and Administration: This bill establishes the board of professional geologists and authorizes the regulations of the practice, examination, licensure, and discipline of professional geologists. The professional geologists will become part of the joint board of professional engineers, architects, land surveyors, foresters and natural scientists. The amendment reflects a carefully crafted approach to “grandfathering” of geologists. The amendment was agreed to by the professional engineers and the professional geologists Vote 14-3.

Rep. Carolyn A. Virtue for the Minority of Executive Departments and Administration: SB 181-FN establishes licensure for professional geologists, a profession not currently regulated in New Hampshire. The requirements for licensure (RSA 310-A:125,I(a)) includes in addition to education, presentation of “evidence suitable to the board of at least 5 years of experience in the practice of geology, of which at least 3 years must have been under the supervision of a licensed professional geologist or a geologist who otherwise meets the requirements of a licensed professional geologist as determined by the board.” The “grandfather clause” (RSA 310-A:125,II) states “Following the effective date of the initial adoption by the board of rules under RSA 541-A, the board may issue licenses without examination to applicants whose applications for licensure have been received during a one-year period following the effective date of adoption of rules and who either meet the education and experience requirements of subparagraph I(a) of this section, or who provide evidence satisfactory to the board of knowledge and experience equivalent to such requirements” (which is also referenced in (RSA 310-A:125,I(b))). “Experience in the practice of geology, obtained before the expiration of the period described in paragraph II of this section, may count towards the experience in the practice of geology under the supervision of a professional geologist required in subparagraph I (a) of this section if the supervising geologist met the education and experience qualifications of paragraph II at the time of the relevant experience. For purposes of this section, experience in the practice of geology does not include routine sampling, laboratory work or geological drafting.” The minority is very concerned that few, if any, geologists currently practicing in New Hampshire would meet these requirements. SB 181-FN also provides for certificates and seals and requires that they be applied to all documents involving the practice of geology when issued or filed for public record. This requirement will be just another bureaucratic expense for the residents of New Hampshire. The issue of the grandfather clause and expense to the citizens deserves further consideration, while the geologists continue to practice in New Hampshire, just as they have been.

Amendment (4300h)

Amend RSA 310-A:121, I as inserted by section 3 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

I. The board shall adopt rules, pursuant to RSA 541-A, relative to:

- (a) The application procedure for a license to practice under this subdivision;
- (b) The qualifications of applicants in accordance with applicable statutes, and the ethical standards required for licensure;
- (c) The examination procedures in accordance with applicable statutes, including the time and place of the examination;
- (d) License renewal, including requirements for continuing education;
- (e) Ethical and professional standards required to be met by each holder of a license under this subdivision and how disciplinary actions by the board shall be implemented for violations of these standards;
- (f) Procedures for the conduct of hearings consistent with the requirements of due process;
- (g) The design of an official seal;

(h) What constitutes geology experience for the purposes of RSA 310-A:125;

(i) Procedures for a waiver of the fundamentals of geology examination under RSA 310-A:129; and

(j) Interstate licensure and temporary permits under RSA 310-A:131.

Rep. Goulet spoke against.

The amendment failed.

Rep. Goulet offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4527h)

Amend RSA 310-A:121, I as inserted by section 3 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

I. The board shall adopt rules, pursuant to RSA 541-A, relative to:

(a) The application procedure for a license to practice under this subdivision;

(b) The qualifications of applicants in accordance with applicable statutes, and the ethical standards required for licensure;

(c) The examination procedures in accordance with applicable statutes, including the time and place of the examination;

(d) License renewal, including requirements for continuing education;

(e) Ethical and professional standards required to be met by each holder of a license under this subdivision and how disciplinary actions by the board shall be implemented for violations of these standards;

(f) Procedures for the conduct of hearings consistent with the requirements of due process;

(g) The design of an official seal;

(h) What constitutes geology experience for the purposes of RSA 310-A:125;

(i) Procedures for a waiver of the fundamentals of geology examination under RSA 310-A:129; and

(j) Interstate licensure and temporary permits under RSA 310-A:131.

Amend RSA 310-A:130 as inserted by section 3 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

310-A:130 Certificates; Seals. The board shall issue a license, upon payment of the licensing fee established by the board, to any applicant who has satisfactorily met all the requirements of this subdivision. Licenses shall show the full name of the licensee, have a serial number, and be signed by the chairperson and the secretary of the board under seal of the board. The issuance of a license by the board shall be prima facie evidence that the person named in the license is entitled to all the rights and privileges of a licensed professional geologist while the license remains valid. Each licensee shall upon licensure obtain a seal of the design authorized by the board, bearing the registrant's name and the legend, "Licensed Professional Geologist." All papers or documents involving the practice of geology affecting public health, safety, and welfare, under this subdivision, when issued or filed for public record, shall be dated and bear the signature and seal of the licensed professional geologist who prepared or had responsibility for and approved them.

Amend RSA 310-A:132 as inserted by section 3 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

310-A:132 License Expiration and Renewals.

I. All licenses issued by the board shall expire on the last day of the licensee's month of birth the second year following the year of issuance, or upon such other biennial date as the board may adopt. The board shall cause notification of the impending license expiration to be sent to each licensee at least one month prior to the expiration of the license, along with a request for payment of a renewal fee. Licensees in good standing may renew their licenses by paying the renewal fee prior to the expiration date of the license, and by presenting evidence satisfactory to the board of completion of the continuing education requirements. If properly renewed, a license shall remain in effect continuously from the date of issuance, unless suspended or revoked by the board for just cause.

II. Failure to remit the renewal fee when due shall automatically suspend the license. A person whose license is canceled for such failure may reinstate the license by paying, within one year of suspension, all fees due, plus a late fee as established by the board.

III. If the renewal fee is not submitted within one year of the expiration date, an application for reinstatement shall be required and approved by the board to reinstate the license.

Amend RSA 310-A:134, I as inserted by section 3 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

I. Any employee of the board engaged in making any investigation shall have the power to administer oaths to persons pertaining to any investigation. All files of an investigation in progress shall be confidential and exempt from the provisions of RSA 91-A.

Amend RSA 310-A:139, I(a) as inserted by section 3 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

(a) The practice of officers and employees of the government of the United States or the state while engaged within this state in the practice of geology for the federal government or the state.

Amend the bill by replacing section 4 with the following:

4 Effective Date. This act shall take effect 60 days after its passage.

Adopted.

CLERK'S NOTE

When less than two-thirds of the elected membership is present, Part II, Article 20 of the state constitution requires the assent of two-thirds of those present and voting to render their acts and proceedings valid.

The question now being the adoption of the majority report.

Rep. Virtue spoke against and yielded to questions.

Rep. Millham spoke in favor.

Rep. Virtue requested a roll call; not sufficiently seconded.

On a division vote 174 members having voted in the affirmative and 91 in the negative, the majority report failed lacking the necessary two-thirds.

Rep. Wallin moved Refer for Interim Study.

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

Reps. Arnold and Bruno declared conflicts of interest and did not vote.

CLERK'S NOTE

The constitutionally required two-thirds of the membership was declared present.

SB 458-FN, increasing the salary of the executive secretary of the retirement system and changing the title to executive director. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Michael O'Neil for Executive Departments and Administration: This bill will change the salary range of the executive secretary of the New Hampshire Retirement System from Group N ($50,323-$64,036) to Group S ($66,325-$83,477). The salary will be paid from the administrative account of the New Hampshire Retirement System and will not effect the state general fund or local expenditures. The bill also changes the title from executive secretary to executive director and the deputy executive secretary to deputy executive director. Vote 11-5.

On a division vote, 194 members having voted in the affirmative and 79 in the negative, the report was adopted.

Ordered to third reading.

SB 128, replacing the housing assistance fund trust fund with a homeless prevention fund, and making an appropriation therefor. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. William S. Belvin for Finance: This bill replaces the current Housing Assistance Trust Fund with a more narrowly focused Homeless Prevention Fund. Its purpose is to recognize the growing pressures on persons with minimum incomes to find affordable housing. The Finance Committee amendment removes the following provisions: a drafting error with an unused definition is deleted, as is an unconstitutional reference to months of New Hampshire residency. Also removed is a landlord refund process which would be awkward to administer. Finally, references to the general fund, and an appropriation of $1 were taken out. Testimony was received that the Department of Health and Human Services was pursuing federal dollars through Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF). Language that allows other funding sources was retained. No additional provisions were added by the amendment. Homelessness remains as a serious New Hampshire problem, and the bill advances possible solutions to this issue. Vote 21-5.

Amendment (4293h)

Amend RSA 204-C:81 and RSA 204-C:82 as inserted by section 2 of the bill by replacing them with the following:

204-C:81 Definitions. In this subdivision:

I. "Fund" means the homeless prevention fund.

II. "Housing assistance payments" means rent subsidies, security deposit advances, mortgage assistance payments, and any other shelter cost-related payments made on behalf of very low income households.

III. "Minor child" means a person under 18 years of age.

IV. "Severely rent burdened" means a household for which the monthly rent and utility costs exceed 50 percent of the gross monthly income.

V. "Very low income households" means individuals or families whose gross income is 50 percent or less of the median income, adjusted for household size, as published periodically by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.

204-C:82 Fund Established.

I. There is hereby established within the authority a homeless prevention fund. The fund shall be comprised of donations from private persons or entities, grants, set-asides, and other appropriations authorized by law. All sums from government appropriations or grants shall be credited to the fund, but such sums shall not be deemed to be money received on account of the state, and nothing in this subdivision shall be understood as pledging the faith and credit of the state.

II. The authority shall use moneys deposited in the fund for the following purposes:

(a) Direct housing assistance payments to eligible very low income persons or households.

(b) The provision and coordination of services, such as jobs, training, financial counseling, and other supportive services, which are made available to very low income households participating in the homeless prevention program.

(c) The creation of new or rehabilitated dwelling units to be made available to very low income households assisted under this subdivision.

(d) Matching grants to units of local government or local housing authorities established under RSA 203 to support homeless prevention programs for very low income households.

(e) The purchase of existing single family homes by or on behalf of low income households or to prevent the household occupants from becoming homeless.

Amend RSA 204-C:83 as inserted by section 2 of the bill by deleting RSA 204-C:83, IV and renumbering the original paragraphs V-VIII to read as IV-VII.

Amend the bill by deleting section 5 and renumbering the original section 6 to read as section 5. Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

SB 206-FN-A-L, relative to distribution of tobacco settlement funds. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Francine Wendelboe for Finance: This bill designates that the first $3,000,000 of the tobacco settlement money be used to fund the tobacco use prevention fund established in RSA 126-K:15. The allocation of the funds are established under HB 1594 which designated prevention program categories. The tobacco settlement funds remaining go to the education trust fund in the amount of $40 million. If there is still a balance remaining, the money goes to the general fund. The majority of the committee felt that the funding required by statute very appropriately should come from tobacco settlement funds rather than a general fund appropriation. Vote 21-2.

Adopted and ordered to third reading.

SB 210-FN-L, relative to payment by the state for certain court-ordered placements of special education students. REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY

Rep. Bruce F. Hunter for Finance: This bill would require that the state pay the full cost of special education services provided to all court-ordered, out-of-district placements of special education pupils and would additionally require that the department of education seek reimbursement for all such costs from the sending districts. In theory, the bill appears to present a fiscal impact which is neutral. Upon further review, crucial questions were raised regarding the ability of the state department of education to take on this responsibility and its capacity to act as a bill collector responsible for billing and collecting funds from the local school districts. The answers to the questions raised by the committee could have a significant fiscal impact on the state and cannot accurately be determined or identified at this time. The committee believes that the proposal has merit and should be completely investigated to identify its true fiscal impact. Vote 17-5.

Adopted.

SB 379-FN, relative to lottery scratch tickets. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Jean R. Wallin for Finance: This bill increases the price the Sweepstakes Commission may charge for instant scratch tickets to $10. The current limit is $5 per ticket. In order to prevent the decline of net profits from instant ticket sales, it is necessary to keep the games exciting by matching price competition in adjoining states. When Vermont introduced higher priced tickets for the 1999 holiday session they were sold out by the first of the year. The commission plans to market a $7 ticket in December 2000 that would be replaced by a $10 ticket in December 2002. Scratch tickets represent the largest profit center for the commission with sales of $120,000,000 of the total $198,000,000 sold. Vote 18-7.

On a division vote, 195 members having voted in the affirmative and 74 in the negative, the report was adopted.

Ordered to third reading.

SB 397-FN-A-L, making an appropriation from the education trust fund for public kindergarten programs and relative to the adequate education grant amount and property tax warrant for the town of Orange. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Susan W. Almy for Finance: This bill appropriates $950,000 from the Education Trust Fund for kindergarten programs the legislature had thought it appropriated in HB 117 (Chapter 17, 1999) last year, and corrects the property tax warrant of the small town of Orange, which, inadvertently included a state park and had burdened the citizens of that town with a higher state property tax than deserved. The effect of the latter correction is to increase our Education Trust Fund deficit by $22,786 in this biennium. The amendment fixes two errors to maintain the intent of the bill. Vote 21-3.

Amendment (4362h)

Amend the bill by replacing section 1 with the following:

1 Appropriation from Education Trust Fund. Notwithstanding the provisions of RSA 198:39, the sum of $950,000 is hereby appropriated, for the biennium ending June 30, 2001, from the education trust fund to the department of education for the purpose of funding public kindergarten programs pursuant to 1999, 65:9 as amended by 1999, 281:16. The governor is authorized to draw a warrant for said sum from any moneys available in the education trust fund.

Amend the bill by replacing paragraph I of section 2 with the following:

I. Notwithstanding RSA 198:40 through RSA 198:42, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2000, the total adequate education grant for the town of Orange shall be $127,287. In addition to the provisions of 1999, 17:52, I, an additional payment of $11,398 shall be distributed to the town of Orange by June 30, 2000 from the education trust fund for an adequate education grant total of $127,287.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill makes an appropriation of $950,000, for the biennium ending June 30, 2001, from the education trust fund to the department of education for the funding of public kindergarten programs pursuant to 1999, 65:9 as amended by 1999, 281:16. This bill also adjusts the adequate education grant amount for the town of Orange for fiscal year 2000, and adjusts the property tax warrant in the town of Orange for the tax year beginning April 1, 2000.

SB 421-FN-A, establishing a child day care program credit against the business profits tax and the business enterprise tax. REFER FOR INTERIM STUDY

Rep. Charles L. Vaughn for Finance: Questions raised by a proposal — having state government subsidizing child care programs for business, large, medium or small, by tax reductions in their business profits tax and the business enterprise tax — engendered lengthy debate by the Finance Committee. The specter of socialism, unfair business competition, tax breaks to large corporations and supporters of laissez-faire, on the one side. Creation of incentives for private employers to subsidize costs of child care by providing tax credits; discussion of shortages of affordable, high-quality child care creating difficulties for working parents as well as employers; with suggestions of joint business/state cooperatives on the other. Both sides of the issue agreed that businesses, large and small, as well as child care advocates, should be engaged in a discussion of the availability and affordability of child care in New Hampshire. Vote 22-4.

SB 449-FN, clarifying that employees in certain department of health and human services' positions are entitled to certain salaries and raises. OUGHT TO PASS

Rep. Marjorie K. Smith for Finance: This bill attempts to correct an unintended and inequitable consequence of the passage of HB 32 by which the legislature gave the then-Commissioner of Health and Human Services unprecedented power to reorganize.

Despite the sunset provisions of HB 32 and the restoration of seniority rights to DHHS employees, 24 employees were moved to lower grades and, in part because of long service (averaging twenty-four years), their salaries were frozen. They have already missed the 5% pay raise in June, 1998 and the 3% raise in October, 1999 which every other employee, whether classified or unclassified, received. Indeed, Chapter Law 225:43 currently authorizes downgraded state employees to continue to receive cost of living increases. Nothing in their work histories or job evaluations suggest anything less than satisfactory work. A number of these workers have continued to do the same work they did before reclassification.

This bill would permit this limited number of employees who are still working at DHHS, but at the lower grade, to receive certain salaries and raises. The cost from June 1998 through FY 2001 is approximately $173,000, about half of which represents federal funds. Vote 22-2.

SB 323, relative to ambulatory surgical facilities in service areas of rural hospitals. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. James P. Pilliod for Health, Human Services and Elderly Affairs: SB 323 as amended pre-serves the House position on clarifying the determination of project costs and thresholds as well as the process of licensure of ambulatory surgical centers. Vote 12-6.

Amendment (4420h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT establishing a legislative oversight committee to review the procedures of the health services planning and review board.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Legislative Findings.

I. The regulatory structure for New Hampshire's health care delivery system was established within the Federal Health Service Act of 1974. The federal legislation was intended to stop unnecessary health facility construction and acquisition of expensive major medical equipment and was predicated on the idea that the most satisfactory means of controlling health care costs was the allocation of health care resources by government through a highly centralized health planning mechanism.

II. Although supporters of the program believed it helped curb rising health care expenditures, others opposed government intervention and control of supply as unnecessary. Critics prevailed during Congressional debate in 1986, when federal mandates for state health planning agencies were repealed. Since that time, 13 states (Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Minnesota, New Mexico, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, and Wyoming) have abolished their health planning agencies all together. Recognizing the sweeping changes in the health care industry, several more states are considering similar action or, at the very least, liberalizing the requirements of these agencies, which, if they remain as originally charged, will become obsolete.

III. A highly regulated environment has evolved into a market-based means of controlling costs. Notably, the growth of managed care, restructured repayment mechanisms, and the rapid development of new medical techniques and innovations in medical technology exposed the inefficiencies inherent in centralized health care planning, which was unable to respond quickly to the changing needs of the health care system.

IV. The state of New Hampshire's health services planning and review board has substantive expertise in the health care services market. Decisions relative to health care services, the acquisition of medical technology, and the expansion of facilities have been carried out by the board with all due deliberation.

V. For reasons of maintaining the quality of certain health care services, to protect the role of certain institutions, whose importance to the statewide health care delivery system is essential, and to guard against the closing of important facilities and the transfer of services from facilities in a manner which is harmful to the public interests, the role of the health services planning and review board is valuable.

VI. Nevertheless, the general court remains concerned that the regulatory structure of the health services planning and review board, operating under its current rules of engagement, is not as adaptable as the rapidly changing world of medical technology, choice of health care services, and expansion of medical facilities dictates.

VII. Because it is essential that New Hampshire promote the greatest efficiency in the state's health care delivery system and because the structure of the current system remains protracted, the general court hereby establishes a joint committee on health care oversight.

2 New Section; Oversight Committee Established. Amend RSA 151-C by inserting after section 15 the following new section:

151-C:16 Legislative Oversight Committee Established; Duties.

I. There is hereby established a legislative oversight committee to review the policies and procedures of the board.

II. The committee shall consist of 6 members, 3 of whom shall be members of the house of representatives, appointed by the speaker of the house, and 3 of whom shall be senators appointed by the president of the senate. Members shall be appointed for their term of office. All members shall be eligible for reappointment so long as they are qualified under this section. Members shall be appointed no later than December 30 of the year of their election to the general court, except that vacancies shall be filled for an unexpired term within 30 days of the creation of such vacancy, and the initial appointments under this section shall be made within 30 days of the effective date of this section. The members shall choose from their number a chairperson, provided that the chair shall rotate biennially between the house and senate members. Members of the committee shall receive mileage at the legislative rate when attending to the duties of the committee.

III. The committee shall consider the need to review the policies and procedures of the board and shall make recommendations as it deems necessary. The committee may also investigate the possibility of requiring the executive branch to create an additional appeal mechanism.

3 Effective Date. This act shall take effect 60 days after its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill establishes a legislative oversight committee to review and make recommendations relative to the policies and procedures of the health services planning and review board.

This bill is a result of the committee established in 1999, 235.

Adopted.

Report adopted and ordered to third reading.

SB 358, relative to court reporting services. MAJORITY: OUGHT TO PASS. MINORITY: INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE.

Rep. Terri C. Dudley for the Majority of Judiciary: The committee felt that court reporters, as officers of the court, should be completely impartial and neutral. Court reporters who enter into exclusive contractual relationships with insurance companies could become partial or could be perceived to be partial. The committee felt that an affiliation arrangement with insurance companies should be prohibited. This will help to insure independence and balance in this aspect of the judicial process. No person or entity should control the process or should have a financial interest in the outcome. Vote 10-2.

Rep. Sandra B. Keans for the Minority of Judiciary: This bill appears to be a restraint of trade issue which does not safeguard against potential improprieties that proponents claim could happen. Court reporters have a code regulating behavior and are subject to sanctions if they're in violation. What it does do is restrict with whom a court reporter can sign a contract for employment. Is that the proper jurisdiction of the legislature?

SB 468, relative to the family division of the courts and relative to the jurisdiction of the family division in Rockingham county. OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT

Rep. Tony F. Soltani for Judiciary: This bill establishes the family division of the courts as a permanent entity. The committee was impressed with the success of the pilot program in Rockingham and Grafton counties. However, the Senate bill eliminated certain requirements which were previously passed by the House; i.e. relative to the appointment of marital masters. The committee hopes to resolve the different versions of the bill in a committee of conference. Vote 9-3.

Amendment (4434h)

Amend RSA 490:35 as inserted by section 2 of the bill by inserting after paragraph III the following new paragraph:

IV. The governor shall nominate and the council shall confirm all new marital masters. The governor and council shall approve those seeking a renewed contract term and the terms and conditions of the marital master contract.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill establishes a family division of the courts in Rockingham and Grafton counties and requires the supreme court to expand the family division to 2 other counties during the biennium beginning July 1, 2001. The bill also establishes a committee to study implementation of a state-wide family division.

The bill provides that family division matters arising in the towns of Deerfield, Northwood and Nottingham shall be heard in the Rockingham county courthouse in Brentwood. Currently, such matters arising in those towns are heard in the Auburn district court. The bill allows the supreme court to designate a location other than the Portsmouth district court within the Portsmouth or Hampton district for the hearing of family division matters.

This bill also establishes certain qualifications for marital masters selected to serve in the family division. The bill requires marital masters to be nominated by the governor and confirmed by the executive council. The bill also requires the governor and council to approve marital master contracts.

The amendment failed.

The question now being the motion Ought to Pass.

Rep. Jacobson spoke against and yielded to questions.

Rep. Soltani spoke against.

Reps. John Pratt and Rowe spoke in favor.

CLERK'S NOTE

When less than two-thirds of the elected membership is present, Part II, Article 20 of the state constitution requires the assent of two-thirds of those present and voting to render their acts and proceedings valid.

SB 132, requiring a review of public safety communications requirements regarding the summit of Mount Kearsarge, establishing an advisory committee regarding the review, and placing a moratorium until July 1, 2001 on new leases, use permits, or extensions of lease or permit terms for telecommunication facilities on the summit of Mount Kearsarge. MAJORITY: OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT. MINORITY: OUGHT TO PASS WITH AMENDMENT.

Rep. Michael D. Whalley for the Majority of Resources, Recreation and Development: This bill, as amended, requires the commissioner of Resources and Economic Development and Commissioner of Safety to retain an independent, outside consultant with appropriate expertise to review the technical requirements for public safety and quasi-public communications on the summit of Mount Kearsarge and alternatives to the existing 180-foot tower. The Commissioner of Resources and Economic Development and Commissioner of Safety shall report on any findings including any funding needs for any plan for removal or alteration to the tower on Mt. Kearsarge to the Senate President and Speaker of the House on or before November 1, 2001. The original bill required the Commissioner of Resources and Economic Development and the Commissioner of Safety to undertake a review of the tower on their own, with advice from an advisory committee made up of three members of the Senate, three members of the House and ten other members representing five surrounding towns, Merrimack County, the NH State Troopers Association, the NH Fish and Game Department, Save Our Mountain, and the NH Society for the Protection of Forests. Upon completion of their review, the commissioners would report any findings and recommendations for legislative action. To make certain that the study be done without prejudice, the committee amendment replaces the advisory committee with an independent, outside consultant who has the technical expertise, which the advisory committee would not have, to advise the state and the legislature on the issues revolving around the tower on Mount Kearsarge. Vote 13-3.

Rep. Judith T. Spang for the Minority of Resources, Recreation and Development: In a straw poll of the committee, a majority supported an amendment to reinstate the original bill's public advisory committee to participate in this study process. Because of committee time constraints, this is now being offered as a minority amendment to the committee amendment. The minority amendment will allow for both the technical expertise and public involvement which should have been brought to bear in the approval of this tower to begin with. The due date of the report is extended to allow more time for the research and the advisory committee will also sunset on that date.

Majority Amendment (4363h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT requiring the commissioner of resources and economic development and commissioner of safety to retain a consultant to review of the requirements for public safety and quasi-public communications on the summit of Mount Kearsarge.

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Study by the Commissioner of Resources and Economic Development and Commissioner of Safety. The commissioner of resources and economic development and commissioner of safety shall retain a qualified, independent consultant to conduct a review of the technical requirements for public safety and quasi-public communications on the summit of Mount Kearsarge and alternatives to the existing 180-foot tower, including facilities on a location other than the current parcel of land where the tower is located. The consultant shall review, study and report to the commissioner of resources and economic development and commissioner of safety on whether communication needs for public health, safety, and emergency services can be provided with a less obtrusive and smaller tower than the existing 180-foot tower and what the costs and technical requirements would be for alternatives that would assure the same or similar level of service to both public safety officials and the general public. The fiscal committee of the general court shall approve funds not otherwise appropriated to cover the cost in assisting the commissioners in conducting the review and in hiring the consultant. The commissioner of resources and economic development and commissioner of safety shall report on any findings, including funding needs for any plan of removal or alteration, to the senate president and the speaker of the house on or before November 1, 2001.

2 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill requires the commissioner of resources and economic development and commissioner of safety to undertake a review of the technical requirements for public safety and quasi-public communications on the summit of Mount Kearsarge and alternatives to the existing 180-foot tower. Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

Rep. Spang offered the minority amendment.

Minority Amendment (4469h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT requiring the commissioner of resources and economic development and commissioner of safety to retain a consultant to review the requirements for public safety and quasi-public communications on the summit of Mount Kearsarge; and establishing an advisory committee regarding the review.

Amend the bill by replacing all after section 1 with the following:

2 Mount Kearsarge Telecommunications Tower Advisory Committee. There is established an advisory committee to advise and consult with the department of resources and economic development and department of safety as to a technical review of requirements for public safety and quasi-public safety communications on the summit of Mount Kearsarge, including possible alternatives to the existing 180-foot tower.

3 Members and Compensation.

I. The members of the advisory committee shall be as follows:

- (a) Three members of the senate, appointed by the senate president.
- (b) Three members of the house of representatives, appointed by the speaker of the house.
- (c) One representative each from Warner, Sutton, Wilnot, Andover, and New London, appointed by the selectmen from each respective town.
- (d) One representative of Merrimack county, appointed by the county commissioners.
- (e) One representative of the New Hampshire State Troopers Association, appointed by the Association.
- (f) One representative of the department of fish and game, appointed by the executive director of fish and game.
- (g) One representative of Save Our Mountain, appointed by the organization.
- (h) One representative of the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests, appointed by the organization.

II. Legislative members shall receive mileage at the legislative rate when attending to the duties of the committee.

4 Chairperson; Quorum. The members of the advisory committee shall elect a chairperson from among the members. The first meeting of the committee shall be called by the first-named senate member. The first meeting of the committee shall be held within 45 days of the effective date of this section. Eight members of the committee shall constitute a quorum.

5 Repeal. Sections 2-4 of this act, relative to the Mount Kearsarge telecommunications advisory committee, are repealed.

6 Effective Date.

I. Section 5 of this act shall take effect November 1, 2001.

II. The remainder of this act shall take effect 30 days after its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill requires the commissioner of resources and economic development and commissioner of safety to hire a consultant and to undertake a review of the technical requirements for public safety and quasi-public safety communications on the summit of Mount Kearsarge and alternatives to the existing 180-foot tower. This bill establishes an advisory committee for the review.

SPECIAL ORDER

SB 459, relative to underinsured motorists. INEXPEDIENT TO LEGISLATE

Rep. Griffin T. Dalianis for Commerce: The Committee found no evidence that consumers were disadvantaged in any way by the existing system. Even the proponents of this bill acknowledged that the problem, if it exists, is very rare, and the Committee felt that the solution proposed was worse than the problem. Vote 16-0.

Rep. Burling spoke against.

The report failed.

Rep. Hunt moved Ought to Pass with Amendment and offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4605h)

Amend the title of the bill by replacing it with the following:

AN ACT relative to uninsured or underinsured motorist insurance coverage.

Amend the bill by replacing section 1 with the following:

1 New Paragraph; Uninsured or Hit-and-Run Motor Vehicle Coverage; Waiver of Coverage.

Amend RSA 264:15 by inserting after paragraph IV the following new paragraph:

V. Every document tendered to settle a claim for bodily injury which may be the subject of coverage under this section shall prominently contain, in substance, the following language: "Warning – signing this document may affect your right to claim benefits under your uninsured or underinsured motorist coverage. Check with you own automobile insurance company or insurance agent before signing."

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill requires a disclosure of the potential waiver of a motorist's claim benefits when settling automobile insurance claims for bodily injury.

Reps. Hunt and Burling spoke in favor.

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

Rep. Buckley moved that the poem read by Rep. Lefebvre be printed in the Journal.

Adopted by the necessary two thirds.

For our Golden Donna:

Speaker

Your loyalty, dedication, love and leadership
 Under unusual conditions of personal hardship
 Three roads divided – never traveled together over rocks and grit;
 Self was forgotten whereas commander of this ship
 You endured demanding conditions of leadership;
 With humility and grace you did guide this ship
 With absolute confidence you held a firm grip.
 That exemplified your heart, mind and spirit
 ‘Twas your spirited being so preciously ingrained,
 That united us in a manner as never entertained.
 You have earned affection, love with those that served
 Wishing you could remain to continue to preserve
 Our state, our house, our love you so richly deserve
 The flame you sparked into our hearts
 Shall be preserved.

RECESS MOTION

Wednesday, May 31, 2000

The House assembled at 10:00 a.m., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the Speaker.

Prayer was offered by House Chaplain, Reverend Hays M. Junkin, Rector of Saint Andrew's Episcopal Church in Hopkinton.

Compassionate Creator, lover of all, we remember before You the men and women of our country whose lives with family, friends, and neighbors were interrupted by a call to arms. We do not know all their names, nor can we now behold their faces, yet we are the inheritors of their sacrifice as we enjoy the liberty and freedom of our beloved democracy. Bless the work and decisions of this hallowed chamber, made sacred by the honor of those who gave their lives defending what we do here today, and may we not rest until all the citizens of New Hampshire share the benefits of true freedom and gladly accept its disciplines. Amen.

Committee of Conference Report on SB 323, an act relative to ambulatory surgical facilities in service areas of rural hospitals.

Recommendation:

That the Senate recede from its position of nonconcurrence with the House amendment, and

That the House recede from its position in adopting its amendment to the bill, and

That the Senate and House adopt the following new amendment to the bill as amended by the Senate, and pass the bill as so amended:

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Threshold; Acute Care Facilities. Amend RSA 151-C:5, II(a) to read as follows:

(a) The construction, development, expansion, or alteration of any acute care facility requiring a capital expenditure of more than ~~[$1,500,000]~~ $1,759,512. The board shall, by rule, adjust the capital expenditure threshold annually using an appropriate inflation index.

2 Threshold Limits. Amend RSA 151-C:5, II (f) to read as follows:

(f)(1) Except as provided in subparagraph (2), the construction, development, expansion, renovation, or alteration of any nursing home, ambulatory surgical facility, rehabilitation hospital, psychiatric hospital, specialty hospital, or other health care facility requiring a capital expenditure of more than ~~[$1,000,000]~~ $1,173,000. The board shall, by rule, adjust the capital expenditure threshold annually using an appropriate inflation index.

(2) The threshold amount for construction of ambulatory surgical centers within the service area of a hospital with fewer than 70 general hospital beds licensed by the department of health and human services shall be $500,000, which threshold shall be adjusted annually using an appropriate inflation index, unless there is an objection by such hospital, in which case the application shall be subject to review regardless of value. The board shall determine by rule the service areas of such hospitals.

3 New Section; Task Force; Amend RSA 151-C by inserting after section 15 the following new section:

151-C:16 Task Force Established; Membership.

I. There is established the task force on the certificate of need statute, RSA 151-C. The task force shall be composed of the following members:

(a) Two members of the senate, appointed by the president of the senate.

(b) Two members of the house of representatives, appointed by the speaker of the house.

(c) The commissioner of the department of health and human services, or designee.

(d) A representative of the New Hampshire Medical Society, appointed by such association.

(e) A representative of the New Hampshire Hospital Association, appointed by such association.

(f) A representative of the New Hampshire Ambulatory Surgery Association, appointed by such association.

(g) The executive director of the New Hampshire Health Care Association, or designee.

(h) The commissioner of insurance, or designee.

(i) The attorney general, or designee.

(j) A representative of the governor's office.

(k) A representative of the health services planning and review board, appointed by the chairperson of the board.

(l) Two consumers, appointed by the governor.

(m) An economist knowledgeable in issues of health care, appointed by the governor.

(n) A representative of the New Hampshire Nurses Association, appointed by the association.

(o) The president of the New Hampshire Residential Care Association, or designee.

(p) The chairperson of the Rural Health Coalition, or designee.

(q) The chairperson of the Community Hospital Coalition, or designee.

II. The term of office for task force members shall be coterminous with the member's term of office in his or her respective agency or organization. A chairperson shall be elected from the membership of the task force. Vacancies in task force membership shall be filled as soon as practicable by the respective agency or organization creating the vacancy. The first-named senate member shall call the first meeting within 30 days of the effective date of this section.

III. The task force members listed in subparagraphs I(c)-(q) may employ the assistance of additional members of their respective agency or organization as necessary to assist with a task or project undertaken by the task force.

IV. The task force members may elicit input or recommendations from other groups or organizations as necessary.

V. The task force shall investigate issues relating to the operation of the certificate of need statute, RSA 151-C, including, but not limited to, how the regulatory structure affects:

- (a) The cost of health care services;
- (b) The availability of and access to health care services;
- (c) Competition and collaboration among health care providers;
- (d) The provision of new health care services;
- (e) The allocation of health care resources in the state; and
- (f) The quality of health care.

VI. The task force shall cooperate and collaborate with other state or private agencies as may be necessary to address these issues, and shall consider input and recommendations from such state or private agencies on an ongoing basis.

VII. The task force shall conduct public hearings as may be necessary on matters pertaining to the certificate of need statute, RSA 151-C. Such hearings may be conducted in any part of the state as circumstances require.

VIII. Members of the task force shall serve without compensation, except that the legislative members of the task force shall receive mileage at the legislative rate when attending to the duties of the task force.

IX. The task force shall submit a detailed report of its findings, actions taken, and recommendations to the president of the senate, the speaker of the house of representatives, and the governor on or before January 1, 2001 and each January 1 thereafter.

4 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill lowers the threshold amount necessary for certificate of need review of the construction of ambulatory surgical centers within the service areas of certain hospitals.

This bill changes the threshold level for certain other new institutional health services.

This bill also establishes a task force to address certain issues regarding RSA 151-C.

Conferees: Sens. Squires, Dist. 12; McCarley, Dist. 6 and Wheeler, Dist. 21.

Conferees: Reps. Emerton, Hills. 7; Wendelboe, Belk. 2; Batula, Hills. 18 and Donovan, Sull. 11. Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE REPORT ON SB 403

Committee of Conference Report on SB 403-FN-A, an act making an appropriation to the department of agriculture, markets, and food for the inspection of apiaries and honeybee swarms.

Recommendation:

That the Senate recede from its position of nonconcurrence with the House amendment, and concur with the House amendment, and

That the Senate and House adopt the following new amendment to the bill as amended by the House, and pass the bill as so amended:

Amend the bill by replacing section 1 with the following:

1 Appropriation; Department of Agriculture, Markets, and Food; Inspection of Apiaries and Honeybee Swarms. The sum of $6,000 is appropriated to the department of agriculture, markets, and food for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2001, and each year thereafter, for the purpose of inspection of apiaries and honeybee swarms. The governor is authorized to draw a warrant for said sum out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill appropriates funds to the department of agriculture, markets, and food for the purpose of inspection of apiaries and honeybee swarms, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2001 and each year thereafter.

Conferees: Sens. Disnard, Dist. 8; Russman, Dist. 19 and Below, Dist. 5.

Conferees: Reps. Scanlan, Graf 11; Leighton Pratt, Coos 4; Babson, Carr. 5 and Phinizy, Sull. 7. Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE REPORT ON SB 436

Committee of Conference Report on SB 436-FN, an act relative to permanent revocation of drivers' licenses for causing a fatality or serious bodily injury while driving intoxicated.

Recommendation:

That the Senate recede from its position of nonconcurrency with the House amendment, and concur with the House amendment, and

That the Senate and House adopt the following new amendment to the bill as amended by the House, and pass the bill as so amended:

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

I New Paragraph; Manslaughter; License Revocation in Certain Cases. Amend RSA 630:2 by inserting after paragraph II the following new paragraph:

III. In addition to any other penalty imposed, if the death of another person resulted from the driving of a motor vehicle, the court may revoke the license or driving privilege of the convicted person indefinitely.

2 Negligent Homicide; License Revocation Period. Amend RSA 630:3, III to read as follows:

III. In addition to any other penalty imposed, if the death of another person resulted from the negligent driving of a motor vehicle, the court may revoke the license or driving privilege of the convicted person for up to 7 years. In cases where the person is convicted under paragraph II, the court shall revoke the license or driving privilege of the convicted person indefinitely and the person shall not petition for eligibility to reapply for a driver's license for at least 7 years. In a case in which alcohol was involved, the court may also require that the convicted person shall not have a license to drive reinstated until after the division of motor vehicles receives certification of installation of an ignition interlock device which shall remain in place for a period not to exceed 5 years.

3 New Paragraph; Impaired Driver Intervention Programs; Authorized Programs for Restoration of Privileges. Amend RSA 172-B:2-a by inserting after paragraph I the following new paragraph:

I-a. Notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, the impaired driver intervention programs operated by the department of corrections shall be deemed approved programs for purposes of the attendance required at such programs for restoration of driver's licenses or driving privileges under RSA 263:65-a.

4 New Subparagraph; Authorized Impaired Driver Intervention Programs. Amend RSA 263:65-a, I by inserting after subparagraph (b) the following new subparagraph:

(c) Operated by the department of corrections and approved pursuant to RSA 172-B:2-a, I-a.

5 Department of Corrections' Impaired Driver Intervention Programs. Amend RSA 263:65-a, III to read as follows:

III. Successful completion shall also include payment of all assessed I.D.I.P., M.O.P., and equivalent program fees, except in the case of attendance at programs operated by the department of corrections. Failure of the offender to make full payment of the assessed fee may also result in petition for contempt of court charges against the offender.

6 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill provides for revocation of drivers' licenses for causing a fatality and authorizes certain impaired driver intervention programs for restoration of driving privileges.

Conferees: Sens. Trombly, Dist. 7; Brown, Dist. 17 and Pignatelli, Dist. 13.

Conferees: Reps. Christie, Rock. 22; Welch, Rock. 18; Tholl, Coos 5 and Knowles, Straf. 11.

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE REPORT ON SB 472

Committee of Conference Report on SB 472, an act relative to final authorization of electric rate reduction financing and commission action.

Recommendation:

That the Senate recede from its position of nonconcurrence with the House amendment, and concur with the House amendment, and

That the Senate and House adopt the following new amendment to the bill as amended by the House, and pass the bill as so amended:

Amend RSA 362-A:4-d as inserted by section 1 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

362-A:4-d Retention of Savings by Electric Utility. An electric utility that is party to an approved renegotiation of a commission order under RSA 362-A:4-c shall be entitled to retain up to 20 percent of the savings resulting from such renegotiation, subject to order of the commission.

Amend RSA 369-B:1-4 as inserted by section 2 of the bill by replacing them with the following:

369-B:1 Declaration of Purpose and Findings. The general court finds that:

I. The restructuring of electric utilities to allow retail electric competition and less costly regulation is in the public interest. New Hampshire is implementing such restructuring to create retail customer choice, which will provide retail electric service at lower costs.

II. The divestiture of electric generation by New Hampshire electric utilities will facilitate the competitive market in generation service. Further, the proceeds of generation divestitures may decrease rates for the customers of transmission and distribution utilities.

III. The establishment of structured financing options for electric utilities will facilitate reductions in transmission and distribution rates for all customer classes, thereby advancing the near term rate relief principle of RSA 374-F:3, XI, without creating any debt or financial obligation of the state or other adverse impacts upon the state's finances or credit rating.

IV. The state agrees that its pledge, contract, and agreement and the pledge of the commission not to impair the rights or remedies of holders of rate reduction bonds creates a secure expectation of repayment on the part of such holders.

V. Pursuant to 1999, 289:3, I, the commission has held hearings regarding the original proposed settlement to restructure the Public Service Company of New Hampshire (PSNH) and has issued its April 19 order, accepting the original proposed settlement as being in the public interest and consistent with New Hampshire law, and as a final resolution of the dockets listed therein, subject to the conditions listed in the April 19 order.

VI. Pursuant to 1999, 289:3, I, the commission has held hearings with respect to the securitization proposal contained in the original proposed settlement and has found that implementation of that securitization proposal, subject to the conditions listed in the April 19 order, will result in benefits to customers that are substantially consistent with the principles contained in RSA 374-F:3 and RSA 369-A:1, X and with RSA 369-A:1, XI.

VII. Implementation of that securitization proposal, subject to the conditions listed in the April 19 order, and as further modified in this chapter, will result in benefits to customers that are substantially consistent with the principles contained in RSA 374-F:3 and RSA 369-A:1, X and with RSA 369-A:1, XI.

VIII. Implementation of securitization to achieve the purposes of this chapter requires enactment of further enabling legislation by the general court, and it is in the public interest to pass such further enabling legislation in the form of this chapter.

IX. Approval by the commission of a finance order for PSNH that is consistent with the April 19 order, with subsequent modifications, and subject to the conditions and requirements of this chapter, that is consistent with the conditions of RSA 369-B:3, IV(b), and that is otherwise substantially consistent with RSA 374-F:3, RSA 369-A:1 and RSA 369-B:1 is in the public interest.

X. The differences among rate classes in the amount of the stranded cost recovery charge in the April 19 order are in the public interest. When these differences are combined with the differences in the delivery service charge among rate classes, and with the differences in the likely market price of energy among rate classes, the overall total rate reduction is likely to be very close to an equal percentage for all rate classes, which is consistent with the benefits for all customers principle of RSA 374-F:3, VI. However, it is also in the public interest that any further adjustments to charges between the estimated amounts in the April 19 order and 24 months after competition day be applied equally in cents per kilowatt-hour for all rate classes to which they apply.

XI. The renegotiation of the power purchase obligations requiring PSNH to purchase power from the 6 wood-to-energy facilities and the one trash-to-energy facility is in the public interest in order to reduce the total cost to ratepayers of these obligations, and the sharing of the benefits among ratepayers and all of the parties involved in the renegotiations is in the public interest.

XII. It is in the public interest in the event that the price of transition service during the period that transition service is provided by PSNH exceeds PSNH's actual, prudent and reasonable costs of providing such power so as to create a credit to customers that must be reconciled, that the allocation of this credit between a reduction of the stranded cost recovery charge and a reduction of the duration of stranded cost recovery be made by the commission in a manner that it finds to be in the public interest.

XIII. The commission should design low income programs in a manner that targets assistance and has high operating efficiency, so as to maximize the benefits that go to the intended beneficiaries of the low income program.

XIV. The general court requests that the supreme court and any other courts asked to rule on any matters pertaining to the subject matter of this chapter act as expeditiously as possible. Time is of the essence.

XV. The effect of the stranded cost recovery charge contained in the back-up Delivery Service Rate B tariff as filed by PSNH with its original proposed settlement is just and reasonable, and does not create a charge similar to or have the same effect as an exit fee; provided that not later than 33 months after competition day, the commission shall initiate a rate case on transmission and distribution or delivery services, and this rate case shall establish a back-up charge that is just and reasonable and based on the cost of providing such back-up services, including all applicable stranded cost recovery charges, RRB charges, system benefits charges, and taxes, and retrospectively take effect immediately after 33 months after competition day.

369-B:2 Definitions. In this chapter:

I. "April 19 order" means commission Order No. 23,443 in Docket DE 99-099 as it was issued on April 19, 2000, excluding any subsequent amendments.

II. "Commission" means the public utilities commission established in RSA 363, as it may be constituted from time to time, and any successor agency exercising functions similar in purpose to such commission.

III. "Competition day" means competition day as defined in the original proposed settlement, as adjusted by subsequent modifications.

IV. "Electric utility" means a public utility as defined in RSA 362:2 that provides retail electric service.

V. "Finance order" means an order of the commission adopted prior to or following the effective date of this chapter pursuant to 1999, 289:3, I, pursuant to this chapter, or pursuant to both 1999, 289:3, I and this chapter.

VI. "Financing entity" means any special purpose trust, limited liability company, non-profit corporation, or other entity that is authorized in accordance with the terms of a finance order to issue rate reduction bonds, acquire RRB property, or both on behalf of the electric utility, or any combination of such entities.

VII. "Initial transition service end day" means 9 months after competition day.

VIII. "Original proposed settlement" means the "Public Service Company of New Hampshire Restructuring Settlement Agreement" filed with the commission on August 2, 1999.

IX. "PSNH" means Public Service Company of New Hampshire.

X. "Rate reduction bonds" ("RRB") means bonds, notes, certificates of participation or beneficial interest, or other evidences of indebtedness or ownership, issued pursuant to an executed indenture or other agreement of a financing entity, in accordance with this chapter, 1999, 289:3, I and II, and RSA 369-A, the proceeds of which are used, directly or indirectly, to provide, recover, finance, or refinance RRB costs, and which, directly or indirectly, are secured by, evidence ownership interests in, or are payable from, RRB property.

XI. "Retail customer" means any person or entity purchasing directly or otherwise obtaining or being supplied directly with retail electric service for end use consumption, including those served under special contracts.

XII. "Retail electric service" means the delivery of electric power through the provision of transmission and/or distribution service by an electric utility to a retail customer, regardless of such retail customer's source of electric power, and shall include any back-up, maintenance, emergency, and other delivery service provided to a retail customer by an electric utility.

XIII. "RRB charge" means those retail electric service rates that are authorized by the commission in a finance order to recover those RRB costs that are eligible to be funded with the proceeds of rate reduction bonds pursuant to this chapter and the costs of providing, recovering, financing, or refinancing such RRB costs through a plan approved by the commission in the finance order, including the costs of issuing, servicing, and retiring rate reduction bonds. The RRB charge authorized by the commission may vary by cost of service, by customer class, and between special contract customers. All RRB charges shall be assessed on a per kilowatt-hour basis, and shall be non-bypassable as provided in RSA 369-B:4, IV.

XIV. "RRB costs" means expenditures which are incurred by an electric utility or which an electric utility is obligated to incur either prior to or subsequent to the effective date of this chapter, and costs approved by the commission to mitigate such expenditures, as shall be designated in a finance order approved by the commission and which may include but are not limited to:

(a) Expenditures incurred in respect of generation assets, entitlements, and acquisition premiums.

(b) Expenditures incurred in respect to the buyout, buydown, restructuring or renegotiation of power purchase obligations.

(c) Expenditures incurred in respect to regulatory assets.

(d) Expenditures incurred to refinance or retire existing debt or existing equity capital of the electric utility and any costs related thereto.

(e) Amounts necessary to recover federal or state taxes actually paid by an electric utility, which tax liability recovery is modified by the transactions approved in a finance order issued by the commission pursuant to this chapter.

(f) Reasonable costs, as approved by the commission, relating to the issue, servicing, or refinancing of rate reduction bonds under the provisions of this chapter, including, without limitation, principal and interest payments and accruals, sinking fund payments, debt service and other reserves, costs of credit enhancement, indemnities, if any, owed to the state or the trustee for the rate reduction bonds, issuance costs and redemption premiums, if any, and all other reasonable fees, costs, and charges in respect of rate reduction bonds.

XV. "RRB property" means the irrevocable vested property right created pursuant to this chapter and one or more finance orders, including, without limitation, the right, title, and interest of an electric utility or a financing entity in and to all revenues, collections, claims, payments, money, or proceeds of or arising from the RRB charge authorized to be imposed and collected pursuant to such finance orders to recover RRB costs and the costs of paying, financing, reimbursing, or refinancing the RRB costs, including the reasonable costs of issuing, servicing, and retiring rate reduction bonds, and in and to all rights to obtain adjustments to such RRB charge pursuant to the terms of RSA 369-B:4, III and the finance order, all as determined by the commission in its approval of such finance orders. "RRB property" shall constitute a current and irrevocable vested property right, notwithstanding the fact that the value of such property right may depend upon electricity usage or the performance of certain services.

XVI. "Security interest" means a security interest as defined in RSA 382-A:1-201(37).

XVII. "Service territory" means, with respect to any electric utility, the geographic area established by the commission as the retail electric service territory of such electric utility, as such territory is depicted on the "Electric Utilities Franchise Areas" map issued by the commission, dated July 1, 1993, together with any other geographic area in which such electric utility actually provided retail electric service on such date.

369-B:3 Authority to Issue Finance Orders to Finance RRB Costs.

I. The commission is authorized, upon the petition of an electric utility and after a hearing, to issue one or more finance orders pursuant to which rate reduction bonds shall be issued, if the commission finds that the issuance of such finance order or finance orders is in the public interest as set forth in RSA 369-B:1, IX. Any finance order adopted pursuant to 1999, 289:3, I and II prior to the effective date of this chapter shall, following the effective date of this chapter, be deemed to be authorized by this chapter, provided the commission has made the required finding pursuant to RSA 369-B:3, IV(b).

II. Notwithstanding any law, rule, or regulation to the contrary, except as otherwise provided in RSA 369-B:4, III with respect to RRB property, the finance orders and the RRB charge authorized to be imposed and collected pursuant to such finance orders shall be irrevocable, and the commission shall not have authority either by rescinding, altering, or amending the finance order or otherwise, to directly or indirectly, revalue or revise for ratemaking purposes the RRB costs, or the costs of providing, recovering, financing, or refinancing the RRB costs, determine that such RRB charge is unjust or unreasonable, or in any way reduce or impair the value of RRB property either directly or indirectly by taking such RRB charge (other than any portion of such RRB charge constituting a servicing fee payable to the electric utility) into account when setting other rates for the electric utility; nor shall the amount of revenues arising with respect thereto be subject to reduction, impairment, postponement, or termination.

III. Notwithstanding any law, rule, or regulation to the contrary, any requirement under this chapter, under 1999, 289:3, I and II, under RSA 369-A, or under a finance order that the commission take action with respect to the subject matter of a finance order shall be binding upon the commission, and the commission shall have no authority to rescind, alter, or amend that requirement.

IV. The commission shall only issue finance orders that:

(a) Authorize the issuance of an aggregate principal amount of not more than $130,000,000 in rate reduction bonds to finance renegotiated agreements of the existing power purchase obligations requiring PSNH to purchase power from the 6 wood-to-energy facilities and the one trash-to-energy facility; and/or

(b) Authorize the issuance of an aggregate principal amount of not more than $670,000,000, minus $6,000,000 for each month from October 1, 2000 to competition day, in rate reduction bonds.

This authorization is in addition to any amount authorized in subparagraph (a). This issuance must be part of a settlement approved by the commission under RSA 374-F to implement electric utility restructuring within the service territory of PSNH. As part of any finance order under this subparagraph (b), the commission must find that the rate reduction bonds authorized by the finance order are consistent with the April 19 order, with any subsequent modifications. Any finance order that is issued under this subparagraph (b) shall also contain a statement of the following conditions, and a finding of the commission that the finance order is consistent with the following conditions:

(1)(A) From competition day until initial transition service end day, PSNH shall supply transition service and default service in its retail electric service territory. After initial transition service end day, any provider or providers of transition service shall have been chosen through a competitive bid process, administered by the commission, to provide such service. The commission may, if it finds it to be in the public interest, divide the competitive bid process into multiple categories or multiple competitive bids;

(B)(i) Transition service for residential customers, street lighting customers, and general delivery service rate G customers shall be available until 24 months after initial transition service end day. From competition day until initial transition service end day, the price of transition service for these customers shall be $0.044 per kilowatt-hour. From initial transition service end day to 12 months after initial transition service end day, the price of transition service for these customers shall be $0.044 per kilowatt-hour, or the competitively bid price for transition service, whichever is less. From 12 months after initial transition service end day to 24 months after initial transition service end day, the price of transition service for these customers shall be $0.046 per kilowatt-hour, or the competitively bid price for transition service for these customers, whichever is less. If the competitively bid price exceeds these fixed prices, the differences shall be reconciled for these customers in the manner prescribed in the original proposed settlement;

(ii) At the end of the transition service period, up to 25 percent of the residential customers, street lighting customers, and general delivery service rate G customers who have not chosen a competitive supplier may be assigned randomly to registered competitive suppliers other than the transition service supplier or suppliers, if the commission finds such random assignment to be in the public interest. The commission shall develop procedures and regulations for this assignment process. Any random assignment must be affirmatively approved by an individual customer;

(C) Transition service for all other customers shall be available until 12 months after initial transition service end day. From competition day to initial transition service end day, the price of transition service for these customers shall be $0.044 per kilowatt-hour. From initial transition service end day to 12 months after initial transition service end day, the price of transition service for these customers shall be the competitively bid price for transition service;

(D) Any difference between the price of transition service from competition day to initial transition service end day and PSNH's actual, prudent and reasonable costs of providing such power shall first be separated between the 2 groups of customers described in subparagraphs (b)(1)(B) and (b)(1)(C), used first to offset any differences described in subparagraph (b)(1)(B), and the net then reconciled for each group of customers either by changing the recovery end date, or by decreasing the stranded cost recovery charge, as the commission finds to be in the public interest;

(E) The commission shall retain the authority to reject any or all bids for transition service at its sole discretion if it finds such action to be in the public interest. Except as specifically provided in this section, the commission shall not accept any bid or implement any pricing strategy for transition service that creates any deferrals;

(F) The selection of a provider or providers of default service prior to 24 months after initial transition service end day may be combined with the selection of a provider or providers of transition service to the extent that the commission finds it to be in the public interest;

(2) No amount shall be securitized which was not listed as part of the $688,000,000 proposed for securitization in the April 19 order, as reduced by any subsequent amortization;

(3) Customer savings shall be not less than the total amount of $450,000,000, excluding savings from rate reduction financing and merger savings, including the $367,000,000 contained in the original proposed settlement, and the $6,200,000 resulting from the settlement of issues pertaining to New Hampshire Electric Cooperative, Inc. A commitment by PSNH to all of the following actions shall be deemed to satisfy this condition:

(A) PSNH shall credit customers with the higher return associated with accumulated deferred income taxes (ADITs) as proposed in PSNH's May 1, 2000 filing;

(B) PSNH shall credit customers with the value derived from using its own assets to provide transition service for a period of 9 months;

(C) PSNH shall extend from 30 months to 33 months the period during which the delivery service charge, exclusive of Hydro Quebec transmission support payments, is fixed at 2.8 cents per kilowatt-hour;

(D) PSNH shall absorb the first $7,000,000 of difference of costs that results in the event that transition service costs during the 12 months following the initial transition service end day exceed the transition service price for that 12 months, as provided in RSA 369-B:3,IV(b)(1)(B)(i);

(E) PSNH shall reduce the maximum amount of necessary and prudent costs associated with the issuance of and closing on the securitization financing and any premiums associated with the retirement of debt and preferred stock from these proceeds that may be recovered from $17,000,000 to $15,000,000. PSNH shall include in its costs the first $700,000 of the costs of the office of the state treasurer related to reviewing and issuing the rate reduction bonds;

(F) PSNH agrees to move the Recovery End Date (RED date) to 1 month earlier than it would otherwise be; and

(G) PSNH agrees that if competition day has not occurred by October 1, 2000, then effective October 1, 2000 PSNH shall temporarily reduce its current effective total rates (base rates plus FPPAC rates) by 5 percent across the board until either competition day or April 1, 2001, whichever occurs earlier.

(4) In the event that PSNH or its parent company is acquired or otherwise sold or merged:

(A) Such merger, acquisition, or sale shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the commission under RSA 369, RSA 374, RSA 378 or other relevant provisions of law, and the merger, acquisition, or sale shall be approved only if it is shown to be in the public interest;

(B) In recognition of the extraordinary benefits provided to PSNH from rate reduction financing, should PSNH or its parent company be acquired or otherwise sold or merged, such merger, acquisition or sale shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the commission under the standard set forth in the original proposed settlement. The commission may approve such a merger if such approval results in the receipt by PSNH customers of a just and reasonable amount of the cost savings that result from such merger, acquisition or sale.

(C) No acquisition premium paid by an acquiring company for the assets or securities of any acquired company, resulting from any such merger, acquisition or sale, may in any way increase rates at any time from what they would have been without the acquisition premium;

(5) The delivery service charge, exclusive of the Hydro Quebec Transmission support payments, shall be fixed for a period of 33 months from competition day at $0.028 per kilowatt-hour;

(6) The total system benefits charge shall be fixed at $0.002 per kilowatt-hour for 33 months from competition day divided between low-income assistance and energy efficiency/conservation programs. In the event that the commission finds that a significant amount of unencumbered dollars have accumulated in either program, and are not needed for program purposes, the commission shall refund such unencumbered dollars to ratepayers in a timely manner;

(7) All currently existing opportunities shall be continued for retail customers to generate or acquire electricity for their own use, other than through retail electric service, without an exit fee;

(8) To the maximum extent allowed by federal law, non-discriminatory, open access to PSNH's transmission system shall be available to customers, electricity suppliers, marketers, aggregators, and municipal electric utilities, with charges based only on rates set by federal regulations, plus the actual cost of service for any services not subject to federal price regulation plus, for retail customers, applicable stranded cost recovery charges, RRB charges, systems benefit charges, and taxes;

(9) The stranded cost recovery charge, averaged over all customers, shall not exceed $0.0340 per kilowatt-hour. Any changes in the delivery service charge, stranded cost recovery charge, transition service charge, systems benefit charge, or any other charge between the estimated amounts in the April 19 order and 24 months after competition day shall be applied as an equal change in the cost per kilowatt-hour for all rate classes to which they apply;

(10) The commission shall not order changes in the total rates of customers taking service under special contracts approved pursuant to RSA 378:18 for the duration of those special contracts in effect as of May 1, 2000. Special contract customers selecting option 2 of the original proposed settlement shall have the energy charges under the contract reduced by the initial transition service price;

(11) During any sale of electricity generation assets required by this settlement, neither PSNH, nor any affiliate of PSNH, nor any company that would become an affiliate of PSNH if an announced merger, acquisition or sale were to be consummated, may bid for those assets;

(12) During any competitive bid process to determine a provider or providers of transition service, or of default service to any customer belonging to a rate class that at the time of service is eligible to receive transition service, neither PSNH, nor any affiliate of PSNH, nor any company that would become an affiliate of PSNH if an announced merger, acquisition or sale were to be consummated, may bid to provide such service;

(13) The commission shall administer the liquidation of any electricity generation assets required to be sold by the settlement. Any sale of assets located in the state of New Hampshire that are administered by the commission pursuant to this paragraph shall be conducted in this state. The commission shall select the independent, qualified asset sale specialist who will conduct the asset sale process. PSNH shall be allowed to comment prior to the selection of any such specialist;

(14) The commission shall administer any competitive bid process for transition service or default service required by the settlement;

(15) Subject to the approval of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC), in the event that the commission either rejects a proposed sale of Seabrook, or fails to act on such application within 180 days after North Atlantic Energy Corporation's (NAEC's) proposed sale application is filed with the commission, and the failure of the sale is through no fault of Northeast Utilities (NU) or PSNH, NHEC's return on equity shall be increased from 7 percent to 150 basis points more than the average 10-year Treasury bond yield for the preceding 6 months, but not less than 7 percent nor more than 11 percent, and then readjusted accordingly at the end of every 6 month period; and

(16) No finance order shall be final or effective until PSNH and NU have agreed to dismiss with prejudice on competition day PSNH and NU's claims and causes of action in all pending litigation associated with the implementation of RSA 374-F, including civil action No. 97-97-JD (New Hampshire) / 97-121 L (Rhode Island).

V. Any finance order that expressly states each and every one of the conditions as set forth in RSA 369-B:3, IV, and finds that the finance order is consistent with all of these conditions, shall be deemed to satisfy the conditions and requirements of RSA 369-B:3, IV. If such finance order so satisfies the conditions and requirements of RSA 369-B:3, IV and satisfies the other requirements of this chapter, then such finance order shall be deemed to be authorized by, and issued pursuant to, this chapter.

369-B:4 Establishment of RRB Charge to Recover RRB Costs.

I. A finance order shall establish and place into effect one or more RRB charges that the commission shall determine to be just and reasonable, including any provisions for subsequent adjustments thereto, that shall provide for the collection of revenues from retail customers of electric utilities sufficient to recover all RRB costs approved by the commission in the finance order, including, without limitation, the payment of principal, premium, if any, interest, credit enhancement, and all other fees, costs, and charges in respect to rate reduction bonds. Such RRB charge or RRB charges shall be set forth in a schedule or schedules filed with the commission in such form as may be determined by the commission, but the filing of such schedule shall not affect or be a condition to the validity of the RRB charge.

II. The commission shall set the RRB charge, per kilowatt-hour of electricity for delivery of retail electric service, in an amount necessary and sufficient to provide for the full recovery of principal, interest, and credit enhancement on the rate reduction bonds, in accordance with the amortization schedule for such bonds determined at the time of offering, as well as all other fees, costs, and charges in respect to the rate reduction bonds, based upon the electric utility's reasonable assumptions, including sales forecasts.

III. Notwithstanding any provision of RSA 369-B:3, the commission shall approve such adjustments to the RRB charge authorized to be imposed and collected pursuant to a finance order as may be necessary to ensure timely recovery of all RRB costs that are the subject of such finance order, including, without limitation, the costs of capital associated with the provision, recovery, financing, or refinancing thereof and the costs of issuing, servicing, and retiring the rate reduction bonds contemplated by such finance order. Such RRB charge shall be adjusted periodically, but not less frequently than annually nor more frequently than monthly, in accordance with the finance order. The commission shall provide in a finance order for a procedure for the timely approval by the commission of periodic adjustments to the RRB charge that is the subject of such finance order. The commission shall approve such adjustments within 60 days of the filing of such adjustment, or within such shorter period as the finance order may designate. These adjustments shall generally serve to reconcile the actual RRB charges collected with the RRB charges expected to have been collected during the relevant prior period in a manner such that the adjusted RRB charge will be sufficient to provide for scheduled principal, interest, credit enhancement, fees and other expenses associated with rate reduction bonds payable in the period during which such adjusted RRB charge will be billed. The electric utility shall include in such filing a report to the commission showing the calculation of each such adjustment.

IV. All charges established in a finance order for an electric utility, including, without limitation, the non-bypassable RRB charge, shall be collected from each retail customer of such electric utility by such electric utility or servicer of the rate reduction bonds or other entity authorized in the finance order or otherwise approved by the commission. If a retail customer purchases or otherwise obtains retail electric service from any person other than the electric utility in whose service territory the retail customer is located, including, without limitation, any successor referred to in RSA 369-B:8, subject to commission approval, the servicer or such new electricity service provider or successor shall collect all such charges, including, without limitation, such RRB charge, from the retail customer by or on behalf of the first electric utility with revenues from such RRB charge remitted solely for the benefit and repayment of rate reduction bonds as a condition to the provision of retail electric service to such retail customer. Each finance order shall impose commercially reasonable terms on such electricity service provider or successor responsible for billing or collecting such charges, including, without limitation, such RRB charge, that are the subject of the finance order. Any retail customer that fails to pay any RRB charge shall be subject to disconnection of service to the same extent that such customer would, under applicable law and regulations, be subject to disconnection of service for failure to pay any other charge payable to an electric utility.

V. The RRB charge shall be charged to and collected from retail customers for such period as prescribed in the finance order. To the extent that the commission, when issuing a finance order, determines that special treatment on retail customers' bills is necessary or desirable to distinguish the RRB charge from other rates and charges in order to facilitate the successful issuance and sale of rate reduction bonds, it may so provide as part of such finance order. A finance order shall specify how amounts collected from a retail customer shall be allocated between the RRB charge and other rates and charges.

VI. The commission shall establish charges for retail customers that purchase or otherwise obtain or are supplied back-up, maintenance, emergency or other delivery service provided to a retail customer by an electric utility. Such charges shall be just and reasonable, and shall not be designed in a manner that creates a charge similar to or has the same effect as an exit fee.

VII. Notwithstanding any statutory or regulatory language to the contrary, the commission shall not authorize or impose, nor shall any electric utility charge or assess, any exit fee, and nothing herein shall affect the rights as set forth in RSA 369-B:3, IV(b)(7). An exit fee is any rate or charge that is based in whole or in part on the amount of electric power and/or retail electric service a customer might have purchased from or through an electric utility but does not purchase due to conservation efforts, use of alternative non-electric energy sources, or the consumption of electricity by such customer from generation connected directly to such customer's electrical load with no intervening facilities of a regulated utility; provided, however, that an exit fee shall not include a just and reasonable capacity or demand charge for backup service as defined in RSA 369-B:4, VI.

VIII. In the event of the municipalization of a portion of an electric utility's service territory, the commission shall, in matters over which the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission does not have jurisdiction, or has jurisdiction but chooses to grant jurisdiction to the state, determine, to a just and reasonable extent, the consequential damages such as stranded investment in generation, storage, or supply arrangements resulting from the purchase of plant and property from the electric utility and RRB costs, and shall establish an appropriate recovery mechanism for such damages. Any such damages shall be established, and shall be allocated between the RRB charge and other rates and charges, in a just and reasonable manner.

IX. Any surplus RRB charge in excess of the amounts necessary to pay principal, premium, if any, interest, credit enhancement and all other fees, costs, and charges in respect to rate reduction bonds shall be remitted to the financing entity and shall be used to benefit retail customers unless this would result in a recharacterization of the tax, accounting, and other intended characteristics of the financing, including, but not limited to, the following intended characteristics:

(a) Avoiding the recognition of debt on the electric utility's balance sheet for financial accounting and regulatory purposes;

(b) Treating the rate reduction bonds as debt of the electric utility or its affiliates for federal income tax purposes;

(c) Treating the transfer of the RRB property by the electric utility as a true sale for bankruptcy purposes; or

(d) Avoiding any adverse impact of the financing on the credit rating of the rate reduction bonds or the electric utility.

Amend RSA 369-B:5, X as inserted by section 2 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

X. Subject to the approval of the commission and the oversight of the state treasurer, or other state official designated by the state treasurer, rate reduction bonds issued and at any time outstanding may, if and to the extent permitted under the indenture or other agreement pursuant to which they are issued, be refunded by other rate reduction bonds.

XI. The state treasurer's oversight under RSA 369:5, IX and X shall not be governed by the provisions of RSA 541 or 541-A.

Amend the bill by replacing all after section 3 with the following:

4 New Subparagraph; System Benefits Charge; Limitations. Amend RSA 374-F:4, VIII by inserting after subparagraph (f) the following new subparagraph:

(g) The portion of the system benefits charge due to programs for low-income customers per kilowatt-hour in any public utility service territory in the state shall not exceed the amount in PSNH's service territory for a period of 33 months starting on competition day for PSNH as defined in RSA 369-B:2, III.

5 Option for Municipalities Purchasing Certain Electric Facilities. Municipalities which seek to purchase PSNH hydro-electric small-scale electric facilities, as defined in RSA 374-D:1, may with the consent of the governing body, prior to October 1, 2000, petition the commission pursuant to RSA 38:9, prior to holding the vote of qualified voters provided for in RSA 38:3, RSA 38:4, or RSA 38:5, for a determination of the fair market value of the facility in the event that the municipality and PSNH are unable to agree to a price to be paid for the facility. The cost of the determination shall be at the expense of the requesting municipality. The commission should select an independent, qualified asset valuation specialist to conduct the asset valuation process. If this option is chosen, all votes required by RSA 38:3, RSA 38:4, or RSA 38:5 must be held prior to the expiration of the time limit required for the ratification vote under RSA 38:13.

6 Public Utilities Commission Action. If by June 30, 2000, PSNH has not filed with the commission an acknowledgment of acceptance of the conditions contained in RSA 369-B:3, IV(b), then the commission shall:

I. Suspend the Public Service Company of New Hampshire (PSNH) Restructuring Settlement Docket No. DE 99-099 and resume, as allowed by law, all other dockets stayed by the commission as it addressed Docket No. DE 99-099.

II. Take such action as is in the public interest regarding temporary rates as authorized by RSA 378:27.

III. Pursue appropriate litigation at the New Hampshire supreme court or other appropriate courts on issues such as whether the 1989 Rate Agreement is a contract and whether PSNH and Northeast Utilities may have breached any such contract or, by their actions, allowed any such contract to be voided.

7 Dates of Events in PSNH Rate Reduction Financing.

I. Competition day for PSNH as defined in RSA 369-B:2, III shall be not later than October 1, 2000, unless the commission finds due to circumstances beyond its control that further delay is in the public interest.

II. The sale of PSNH fossil generation assets shall take place no later than July 1, 2001, unless the commission finds due to circumstances beyond its control that further delay is in the public interest.

8 PSNH Allowed to Pay Dividend. Upon the temporary rate reduction of 5 percent described in RSA 369-B:3, IV(b)(3)(G), PSNH will be allowed to pay a dividend of $50,000,000.

9 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill establishes the terms and conditions under which the public utilities commission can issue finance orders authorizing the issuance of rate reduction bonds. The bill also describes how a secured interest in the rate reduction property can be created and perfected.

Conferees: Sens. Frederick King, Dist. 1; Below, Dist. 5 and Hollingworth, Dist. 23. (Senate Alternates: Sens. D'Allesandro, Dist. 20 and Fraser, Dist. 4)

Conferees: Reps. Bradley, Carr. 8; Guay, Coos 6; Norelli, Rock. 31 and MacGillivray, Hills. 21 (House Alternates: Reps. Naida Kaen and Maxfield)

Rep. Bradley yielded to questions.

Rep. Gilmore spoke against and yielded to questions.

Reps. Norelli and MacGillivray spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. Bradley spoke in favor.

Rep. Phinizy requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the Committee of Conference report.

PROTESTS

Pursuant to Part 2, Article 24 of the New Hampshire Constitution, Reps. Boyce and Marple requested that their protests be entered on the Journal.

Rep. Boyce: This bill, imperfect as it is, has been presented to us as the last best hope to end this PSNH situation. I believe that there would be a better solution but none was presented.

Rep. Marple: This bill, as presented, is imperfect. The question as to conformance with Article 83, Part 2 of the New Hampshire Constitution is not answered. Public Service is a private corporation and this bill provides for a reduction in the costs of replacement bonds. Such reduction in costs enhances the dividends paid to the private stockholders for the next 12 years. The enhancement of private interests is prohibited by Article 83. This bill appears to be unconstitutional.

DEBATE

Reps. Chandler and Burling moved that the debate on the Committee of Conference report on Senate Bill 472 be printed in the Journal.

Adopted.

Speaker Sytek: Would a member of the Committee yield to questions? Rep. Bradley yields. Rep. Alger, you may inquire.

Rep. Alger: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative for taking my question. I'm a little confused because of the fact that we received a notice from Cabletron that they supported this bill now but they are one of those of several which are asking for a re-hearing of the PUC in connection with serious concerns. Specifically, they argue that in the re-hearing stranded cost charges have been illegally imposed, that the PUC failed to make a determination that they have a greater opportunity for stranded cost recovery than our current law and transition rates are too low. Are they going to withdraw their concern with the PUC or why are they taking two positions?

Rep. Bradley: Thank you, Rep. Alger. Normally, when the PUC issues an order interveners in a docket at the PUC have the opportunity to request for rehearing. Often it is on discrete issues, often it is on the entire order. Cabletron and others have listed some issues that have caused them concern. What I would submit to you is that groups like Cabletron, the Business and Industry Association, Freedom Partners and the Consumer Advocate who are all supporters of this bill and I believe most of you should have received Mr. Benson's E-mail, if you haven't I'll give you copies, and Mr. Benson is the CEO of Cabletron supporting this bill, they would appeal an order, or ask for rehearing is really a more accurate description, to preserve their rights. One of the reasons, I believe, that these groups, in fact, did ask for rehearing was on the issue of transition service, the fact that the PUC's order set transition service at 4 cents per kilowatt hour which virtually everyone acknowledges is below the actual market price in New England right now of power based on other similar bids. This legislation fixes that by setting it 4.4 cents for the first nine months, with PSNH supplying it in part because we anticipate it will take that long for them to divest of their assets and then after that for two additional years, the first year 4.4 cents and the second year 4.6 cents. I believe that the objections raised to transition service are largely removed by virtue of the fact that the legislation specifically sets the price at those levels, which according to our consultant, and I think it has been verified by other bids in other jurisdictions, other states in New England at that range of about 4.4, 4.5 cents, is a realistic market price, and so I submit to you that that was one of the major issues that was of concern of some of those groups and why they protected their rights, if you will, at the Commission but now they are supporters of the bill because we fixed it.

Rep. Alger: I appreciate the response. They had three issues. The first one you addressed very well although I think there is some question about the market rate. The stranded cost charges have been illegally imposed because PSNH was never required to meet its RSA 374-F:4 burden of proof that it is entitled to such charges. Is that something that your committee looked at or what is that about?

Rep. Bradley: Clearly, the level of stranded costs is one of the most important issues in this entire debate and what is or what is not an appropriate and real and legally defensible level of stranded costs. I would just read for you from Mr. Benson's e-mail and he talks about the $450 million right-off or absorption of stranded costs, he says: "The $450 million in prescribed savings is specific and verifiable. Its structured nature should lead to a quicker approval process at the PUC and will eliminate much of the dispute over the true value of the savings." What I would submit to you in that statement is that people understand, in particular advocates for lower rates and opening up the market and for a sharing of the burden of stranded costs, understand that PSNH is going to collect a significant portion of those stranded costs. It will be ordered by the courts or it will be adjudicated at the Commission or it will be entered into under a settlement. What you see before you today is the version of a settlement that PSNH has indicated they are willing to accept, roughly absorbing about 20 percent of their stranded costs in order to get the carrot, if you will, of securitization, and for intervenors like Cabletron, like Mike Holmes who is a big advocate. He is the Consumer Advocate and he originally was a big advocate of completing the rate case. These folks have said this is a reasonable result and let's take this result because the downside risk is significantly worse.

Speaker Sytek: The question now is on the adoption of the Committee of Conference report. The Chair recognizes the member from Dover, Rep. Gilmore.

Rep. Gilmore: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I speak with some reluctance but because this is so important I do think we should talk about it at some length or at least a short length. First off, I feel a debt and a need to acknowledge the tremendous hard work of the Committee of Conference. They were here all last week and they certainly put in the hours and they certainly really strived to create a good situation. Unfortunately, hard work doesn't always result in successful deeds and I feel this is one of those cases. I speak with some reluctance but again, this sort of must be said. This Committee of Conference report, I believe, is a step back from the House version that we had before us a couple of weeks ago. We are no longer writing off $474 million. The amount in the bill is $450 million but of that it is not all written-off; stranded costs are not all written-off. It is some in-kind services and there is some debate as to the value of those services that we are writing off. The whole issue is rather strange. I was here in 1989, as many of you were. At that point in time, Northeast Utilities bought PSNH for $2.2 billion. Ten years later, they are claiming $2.3 billion in stranded costs. Among the other issues that are occurring in this Committee of Conference report, besides the write-off going down, is the merger savings. In the House version, we allocated certain monies that the rate payers would benefit from a merger and those have now been taken out. When it goes to the PUC, the merger approval, the standard is very weak so I think we need some assurance that the PUC can actually ascribe some savings to the merger. The other issue is when NU and ConEd spoke before the various bodies that are looking to approve the merger, they spoke of synergy savings of $1.5 billion. Last week, when the CEO of NU spoke before the Committee of Conference, he spoke of the fact that we don't even know if there are going to be savings in the merger and he was arguing for what showed up in the Committee of Conference report, that we would not place a merger savings in this legislation. My fear is that in the creative accounting that does take place, that we will not see any savings from what will probably be $1.5 billion of savings that will never trickle down, will never be given to the ratepayers in this state. Several other issues, in this legislation, the Committee of Conference report, we're allowing PSNH to give NU $15 million as a dividend. It does not write down any stranded costs. This is in the nature of other dividends that NU has received from PSNH, will total over $400 million. Had these dividends been used to write down stranded costs, we would not be having quite as high a rate structure as we have today and that is something that the PUC had orders against NU doing but now this legislation gives its blessing to, in fact, it allows it to occur in October. Also, in this Committee of Conference report there is a five percent savings that we will get in October. It might be my cynical nature, but I would think that it should have been done sooner and not just prior to an election. We know, under the benchmarking that occurred in the PUC, that the PUC adjudicated, that we could be asking for an eight-to-ten percent rate decrease at the present time. Instead, we are going to wait until October. I just feel that it should be now and not just prior to an election. The whole issue, though, comes back to the issue of competition. This past Memorial Day, we all know that we had the highest gas prices that we have ever had. It is certainly not for lack of competition. The whole belief here is that somehow competition is going to work miracles. I would ask you to look at your own recent past and look at this past winter, to look at the gas prices as you go out and drive home tonight. There are numerous suppliers; there are high gas prices. Now, to have competition you have both an inability to transmit electricity and the ability to generate electricity. Folks, we are looking at a crunch this summer. This settlement, as previous settlements, as settlements in other states, projects additional growth in demand over the next coming years. We're not building the gas plants in this state. We're at the beginning of the pipeline. They are not being built in Maine. If you don't have the commodity to sell, you're not going to have competition. It's fairly basic. I think that's the very underpinning of economic analysis, supply and demand. If you don't have it, and we know we don't have it this summer, we're saying that demand is going to grow; it's not going to be there in two or three years. It takes a couple of years to build these plants. Maybe I'm wrong, but it is not there today; it's not likely to be there tomorrow. Rather than competition providing benefits, what we are probably looking at in three to four years is a bit of a rate shock. I know we all hope that this is the end. It hasn't proven to be the end in every previous time that the legislature has gotten involved and said that this is the final solution. Folks, this isn't the final solution, but what this will certainly do is lock the door for the next 12 years because we will be throwing away that key with securitization. We will lock ourselves into this path and we must be aware of that. Thank you. Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Phinizy, you may inquire.

Rep. Phinizy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Would the honorable Representative from Dover feel that it would be safe to say that this article that was dated May 22nd, just shortly after the time we passed the original securitization bill, would it be safe to say that this is still true and the title reads: "Few Firms Eager to Jump into New Hampshire Electric Market?" Does this underscore your statements?

Rep. Gilmore: Four states in New England have competition. Four states in New England do not have any competition, have the ability for competition. Four states in New England do not have competition for rate payers or very much for anything but the largest of industrials. What is true in the other states is going to be true in New Hampshire, even more so true in New Hampshire. It isn't happening elsewhere where they have had the ability for several years now. It's rather foolish given that reality to expect that it's going to somehow spring to life in New Hampshire when it isn't occurring there where the market would be much better suited to competition.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Alger, you may inquire.

Rep. Alger: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative. Would you agree with me that you heard the conversation we just had with the other representative regarding Cabletron; that they are asking us to pass a bill and then they want to preserve the right to challenge its legality in the PUC? Is that what they are doing?

Rep. Gilmore: Yes.

Rep. Norelli: Thank you, Madam Speaker and members of the House. Last week, four House conferees and two alternates worked extremely long and hard hours. To me, it felt like a week that was really just one incredibly long day. Before I talk about what we ended up with, I'd like to thank my House colleagues, Reps. Bradley, MacGillivray, Guay, Maxfield and Kaen. In retrospect, it almost seems that reaching agreement between the House and Senate was quite easy. But without PSNH's agreement, agreement between the House and Senate would have been futile. I think that all of the conferees, both House and Senate, shared a common goal and that was a commitment, yes, to reaching a deal but to reaching a deal that was in the best interests of the ratepayers of New Hampshire. At literally three minutes to five on Friday afternoon, we signed off on a Committee of Conference report that, in fact, I believe is in the best interests of ratepayers. There are three major changes from the version that we passed here two weeks ago. I'm going to tell you about the changes in the merger language, Rep. MacGillivray will explain the differences in the ratepayer benefits and Rep. Bradley will explain the significance of the changes in exit-fee language. With respect to the merger language, several weeks ago we stood before you and debated whether or not, if PSNH was acquired, the legislature should have final approval over that process. I argued then, and, in fact, I still believe today, that it is the legislature's job to set policy and it is the Public Utilities Commission's job to carry out that policy. In line with that, Senate Bill 472 sets a public interest standard of review for any PSNH merger or acquisition. Also, Senate Bill 472 mandates that no acquisition premium that is paid when acquiring PSNH may, in any way, increase rates from what they would have been without a merger premium. In the House version that we passed a couple of weeks ago, we actually had a formula for capturing synergy savings. Those, as Rep. Gilmore talked about, are the administrative savings that some times occur when companies merge. In fact, we had a specific formula in the House version for capturing those. But, in line with what I just said about the legislature's job being to set policy, and also upon the recommendation of our legislative consultant, Richard Silkman, the Committee of Conference removed that formula. In place we put specific language that recognizes the extraordinary benefits of securitization. If PSNH is acquired, the PUC may approve that merger or acquisition if it results in customers receiving a just and reasonable sharing in those synergy savings. Rep. Bradley mentioned that e-mail that many of you have received from Craig Benson of Cabletron and, in fact, in that e-mail he supports the changes that we made to the merger because he, too, believes that this is a better process and that customers may actually end up with more savings. Dr. Silkman suggested that, in fact, it is entirely possible that in a Commission proceeding ratepayers could actually experience greater merger related savings over time than he had built in to his previous rate path. I believe that we should support the Committee of Conference amendment for several reasons. First, in the near term, we will have lower rates. Second, in the longer term, we will have customer choice and competition. Also in the longer term, there is a potential for future further rate reductions if there is a higher sale price for the sale of the generation assets, from savings from any renegotiated wood-to-energy or trash-to-energy power contracts and also from sharing of the merger savings that I just talked about. Lastly, a significant portion of stranded costs that we've been debating about over the last years have to do with Seabrook. I actually think, personally, that the most significant benefit of Senate Bill 472 and the consequent competition will be that the risks of electric generation, what got us into this trouble in the first place, will shift from the backs of the ratepayers where they have been to the backs of the investors where I think they belong. Tony Buxton, who is the legal consultant for the legislature on this issue, wrote a letter in support of the final version and I just want to quote what he said about this. He said: "There will be no more Seabrooks for New Hampshire, ever." Finally, I just want to address one concern that I have heard repeatedly, that is, that in 1989 the legislature made a mistake and Lord knows we don't want to repeat that mistake, but I would suggest to you that in 1989 there was almost no legislative involvement. We assured NU that they would recover the acquisition payment and, in fact, we guaranteed seven years of rate increases. Now, in the year 2000, there has been extensive legislative involvement. We have hired, the legislature has hired, legal and utility consultation and that will result in $4.5 million or over $4.5 million in ratepayer benefits, not ratepayer giveaways. And, it will result in rate decreases, not rate increases. I urge you strongly to support the Committee of Conference report because I believe that it is time that the PSNH ratepayers of New Hampshire share in the benefits of electric restructuring. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Vaughn, you may inquire.

Rep. Vaughn: Thank you very much, indeed, Madam Speaker. The gentle lady from Portsmouth has put long hours into the night working, along with her cohorts on Science and Technology, to bring fruition to a solution. However, in 1989 there was some input and partaking of the negotiations by the legislature. Here again, we are going to wed, for 12 years, a commitment which at best, at best, is a hope, a hope. This legislation, like many I've seen, is based on the political hope and expediency that we have found a solution. This is not the solution. I would ask you to join me in voting in opposition to Senate Bill 472. I wonder if my good colleague from Portsmouth would answer if she really believes this is going to be a solution at the end of 12 years and we will see a reduction in rates which she has promised?

Rep. Norelli: Thank you, Representative Vaughn. I would answer your question with a question. If you had a $4,000 debt to pay would you rather pay back $4,000 at a particular interest rate or would you rather pay back $3,000 at a lower interest rate? Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Rose, you may inquire.

Rep. Rose: Representative, the PUC in the docket has it that affiliates can bid on the generating sale auction and the amendment to bill 472 says that they can't. How is this going to be straightened out?

Rep. Norelli: Thank you for the question, Representative. Actually, the legislation supercedes the Commission's final order. In the legislation, PSNH or any of its affiliates or potential affiliates will not be allowed to bid on any generation assets. In addition to that, we go a step further. They will also not be able to bid on any transition service.

Rep. Rose: Would you, and just forget about a lot of this stuff, who do you think is going to get the most out of this agreement or whatever you want to call it in the long run? Is it the ratepayers or is it the big greedy corporations who want this bail out?

Rep. Norelli: Well, Representative, I would answer you that it is the Public Utilities Commission's job to actually balance the interests of ratepayers and the utility. But, as the legislature, we are not under that obligation to necessarily insure the wholeness of PSNH and, therefore, I believe, that we have had the ability to make sure that we have protected the rights of all the ratepayers.

Rep. Rose: Representative, you didn't answer my question. As a person looking at this situation, and looking at the fact that it is 12 years like the Representative from Portsmouth said, and we don't know how things are going to go, do you think that this, greedy, I think, corporation is going to benefit 98 percent of this agreement and we will get two percent? What do you think of that?

Rep. Norelli: Representative, I would disagree with that.

Rep. MacGillivray: Madam Speaker, ladies and gentlemen, I rise in support of the Committee of Conference report on Senate Bill 472. Let me first thank everyone who was so kindly and so attentive two weeks ago when I was barely able to speak. I am very grateful for your careful attention at that time. I'm here to talk about the numbers in this legislation. Two weeks ago, we promised you that we would fight for $474 million, $474 million that the company hadn't agreed to and was in front of the PUC trying to argue that the dollars ought to be counted differently than any sensible person would try to count them. This could have led to a considerable amount of litigation, of disagreement and, more importantly, of delay. What we have today is not just an agreement to $474 million in customer savings, most of it in stranded costs write-offs, some of it in a few other forms. What we have is a list of specific actions that the company has agreed to and that our consultant, not theirs, has agreed to, in fact, under most future scenarios, add up to $450 million. This way we don't keep fighting in front of the Public Utilities Commission with the creative accountants of Public Service over how much certain things are and aren't worth. We have specific actions they have agreed to take and if you make any sort of reasonable assumptions and tote them up it comes out to something pretty close to or maybe a little more than $450 million. I agree with our consultant. PSNH has agreed to these and the legislation calls on them to walk into the PUC by a month from now and confirm that they agree to these actions. Once we have that agreement, the process will go forth more quickly and we will be able to get to real savings. $450 million is a lot of money. We might get something close to that from litigation, fighting a rate case and getting something resembling the PUC best case, but it would come many years from now. The bulk of the savings is another $300 to $350 million that comes from refinancing the outstanding debt. Ladies and gentlemen, we are currently paying these costs. We will be paying them for a long time to come. But it is better to pay a smaller number of dollars with a lower interest rate than a larger number of dollars with a higher interest rate. You don't need a lot of education to see that advantage. It is there for every PSNH ratepayer and most of that money comes from having these bonds held by bondholders and not stockholders and there is a savings not only in the amount paid, but also in the amount of taxes paid. Now, if you want to push the red button and send more PSNH ratepayer dollars to Washington, D.C. and the Internal Revenue Service, be my guest. I won't be joining you. There is a lot of money to be saved and we don't get it with delay. We don't get it with litigation. People have said maybe we could do another $100 or $200 million better with litigation. Well, first, the delay will cost you most, if not all, of the $300 million of refinancing savings. So, I'm supposed to turn down $300 million that is real and verifiable as well as possibly lose some of the $450 million that PSNH has agreed to in order to get another $100 or $200 million that will be accompanied by $200 or $250 million of lost refinancing savings? We'd need some awful good lawyers to prevail in an awful hurry for that to work. Now, you may think that you'd rather have PSNH running more of the state's economy for a longer period of time. I'd rather get them out of as much of this business as soon as possible. I'd rather see their company shrunk to a small fraction of what it is now. I'd rather take a bird in the hand even if it has a couple fewer feathers on it than last week's bird, rather than the promise of three-quarters of a bird that we might get over in the bush. A couple of people have asked about constitutionality. Every one of these costs that we are now paying is something we are paying today. Every single one of these dollars we're paying today. How can it be unconstitutional to take dollars you are paying now, pay fewer of them at a lower interest rate? If that is unconstitutional there is something wrong with people's understanding of constitutional. Competition. People have asked why is there no competition in the rest of New England. It is because people were in such a hurry to get so-called competition going that in most states they gave the company 100 percent of their stranded costs. Some calculations in at least one of those states say they gave them more than 100 percent but I'm not really sure about that. But, they also set a price of electricity so low that you can't possibly compete with it. But, in those states, the lost money between what they're pricing electricity at today and what we are pricing electricity at in the real market will get added to their bills three or four years from now. Ladies and gentlemen, we have spent the last six months listening to this argument regarding the original proposed settlement here in New Hampshire. Those prices started off lower than market. We were told by everybody that those prices were too low and what did we do? We raised the ceiling. We raised the ceiling far enough that our consultant even believes that during the first nine months or so, when there is only a small surplus of electricity in the New England market and not the much larger one that will occur in the next two or three years as the gas plants under construction or in the permitting pipeline get built, we will see competition because we have not set the price below market and all we have done is set a price ceiling. If some of the other folks are right and we set our ceiling too high, it will make no difference to customers. The transition service price nine months through 33 months won't be higher than the market price. We are building gas plants in New Hampshire. We have some of the best statutes in New England for getting plants permitted. Our plants are permitted. What we are waiting for is permission to hook the plants up to the grid. It only takes the two plants, currently permitted but awaiting out-of-state approvals, to produce enough electricity to meet about 90 or 95 percent of New Hampshire's needs. That doesn't even count all the plants we have that are already producing more electricity than New Hampshire consumes. We are doing our share in terms of getting plants built. Ladies and gentlemen, we're paying these costs now. This is an opportunity to pocket sizeable refinancing savings as well as get a reasonably good deal from a utility that wanted a couple of things that we gave out to them only after they had given us what we wanted. The guarantee for 12 years of people paying certain parts of these charges is simply a guarantee that everybody who hasn't gone off the grid and would have been paying these charges anyway is going to pay this money to certain people before other people, but their total bills will be lower. That doesn't sound like a very bad guarantee from the point of the ratepayer. The real winner in this deal is the ratepayer. PSNH gets some things they want. They write-off or put up things of value totaling $450 million to get that. The ratepayer sees 15 percent today. The ratepayer will see more reductions as the wood-fired power plants finish burning our money five or eight years from now, a further reduction about seven years from now of 15 percent or so when an entire pot of these costs gets eaten by PSNH if they haven't already been paid by then, and another 15 percent or so 12 or 13 years from now. That's my kind of a rate path, multiple 15 percent reductions. We have been digging into this issue for six years. Our consultants have helped us over the last six months to dramatically improve a settlement that was proposed to us that was only partially in the right direction. We have listened to our critics and done much of what they have asked. We are ready to say this is about the best we are going to do. We're going to get it faster than we thought two weeks ago and it's going to add up to a lot of money and be a lot better than the alternatives for every PSNH ratepayer under virtually every scenario that anyone can imagine, including the one where our lawyers start winning and their lawyers start losing. Ladies and gentlemen, I hope I can convince you to join us in supporting the Committee of Conference report on Senate Bill 472. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to a question? Rep. Phinizy, you may inquire.

Rep. Phinizy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I would like to ask the honorable colleague how he justifies that we are going to be making any kind of savings or we're going to be any better off trading Northeast Utilities/Public Service Company of New Hampshire for Consolidated Edison which is really a mastodon compared to a rhinoceros?

Rep. MacGillivray: It is not our job; it is not our authority to say who the holder of 100 percent of the stock of PSNH can sell it to. That is a right, carefully enshrined in federal law, that these holdings can be sold to other people. However, what we have is an almost unprecedented agreement by Northeast Utilities that in the event that PSNH or its parent company, NU, or any other combination of them is merged, acquired or sold, that we are legally entitled by an agreement from them to share significantly in the savings that result to customers. We had originally been led to believe that we should put a number into our bill to capture a tenth of a cent a kilowatt hour, about one percent for five years. We thought that would add up to $30 or $40 million. That was based on early testimony in front of the Commission that said there would be $1.33 billion savings over 10 years. PSNH represented three or four percent of that. Ladies and gentlemen, we have heard more testimony, we have been told that the number is correct but that PSNH's share is more like eight percent over, $100 million, and if a significant fraction of that goes to the customers we will be much better off than $30 or $40 million. We have words that PSNH has agreed to, they agree that we are entitled to a significant share of those savings and it is up to the PUC to adjudicate that and give us a just and reasonable share of those savings. I think between those words and the history of the PUC that we should do very well indeed.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Gilmore, you may inquire.

Rep. Gilmore: Thank you, Jeff. Thank you, Madam Speaker. Jeff, one thing you said when you were speaking, that we're building the gas plants now. I live on the seacoast and one of the two plants that are permitted is in Newington and the other, I believe, you are referring to is Londonderry. I don't notice any construction going on. And are you going to guarantee that the several hundreds of millions of dollars that it is going to cost to build these plants are actually allocated and construction is going to begin once the ISO determines that they may hook up to the grid?

Rep. MacGillivray: No one can guarantee what any commercial outfit is going to do, but currently a couple of plants under construction in New England, part of the New England power pool and thus contributing to alleviating the current tight supply of electricity, should be finished by the end of this year and a few more already started construction should be ready by the end of next year.

Neither Newington nor Londonderry has gotten the permission to hook up to the grid yet. Until that happens, I do not expect these two specific plants to actually put the shovel in the ground and start digging. But, the Londonderry plant has people now before the state facility site evaluation committee giving testimony as to why the gas pipeline from Dracut to Londonderry should be expanded to provide the additional gas needed to run that plant. Companies don't invest millions of dollars in plans if they don't think there is a reasonable chance that they are going to go through with the rest of it. In other parts of New England, as soon as they have gotten permission to connect to the grid they have put the shovel in the ground and started building the plant. We have our state permits in place, we await only ISO/New England, New England Power Pool, whatever they call themselves this week, to get their act together and finish their job of approving the connection and then I expect to see shovels in the ground in New Hampshire.

Rep. Gilmore: The plants you referred to are in southern New England and ConEd, which will be the buyer/owner of PSNH, PSNH of course will only have 3 percent of their load, what guarantees can you give to this body that the power from those plants would actually flow towards north and not south where 97 percent of the ConEd demand/load is? Why would it flow up here?

Rep. MacGillivray: Well, for one thing, ConEd is not buying those plants. ConEd is buying the transmission and distribution system, the wires and poles of Northeast Utilities and Public Service of New Hampshire. And, yes, that merger might get closed on before they finish selling off the existing power plants. But there is an agreement to sell them. It will go forward and we've seen about how long these sales take and generally from the time that you have the permission to go forward with the sale, it takes somewhere between nine and 12 months, so we should expect to see those plants sold some time next summer or fall. That's not that long from now. As far as where the power goes, New Hampshire today exports power. When these new plants are built in southern New England, it will let us shift where some of our power is exported to. Less of it will be exported south; more of it will be exported north. When our additional plants get built, the plant in Londonderry will primarily serve an area that imports power from elsewhere in New Hampshire, the area between Manchester and Nashua and Salem and the area around Lowell and Lawrence, Mass. as well. What will happen when these plants are built is that more of the seacoast power will be shipped north and south from there. When the plants are built most of that power will stay in New England if for no other reason than that there is very little ability to move power back and forth between New England and New York. There are very few heavy duty connections between these two power pools.

Rep. Gilmore: In actuality, Rep. MacGillivray, wouldn't you say that with the congestion problem that exists up here and that with the economic realities, that where the power will really flow will be where these plants can get the greatest dollar? So that if the transmission grid allows and the price is the greatest in New Hampshire it will flow this way but that if the price is greater down south than it would probably flow down south. Isn't that really the reality?

Rep. MacGillivray: In reality, for several years now, there has been more or less one price of electricity in the New England power pool because it doesn't cost that much to move electricity from one side of New England to the other. Occasionally, there are congestion problems on one side or the other of a line between northern New England and southern New England, but with plants being built on our side of the line that means that our prices might be lower but they won't be higher. Electricity will flow back and forth across the region and we'll all be paying about the same price for electricity because that's the way clever businesses sell their products and with ease of movement of electricity across New England they'll sell it to whoever the high bidder is and there will be approximately one price for New England.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Marple, you may inquire.

Rep. Marple: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The question that I would like to have resolved is the securitization, so-called. My understanding is that this will enable Public Service to refinance the bonds that they have at a higher rate now. These bonds would be reduced by virtue of a reduction in the proceeds that those bonds are paying now. My question is this: Is this an enrichment to the stockholder of Public Service by virtue of a reduction in the amount of interest that is going to be paid on the bonds and, therefore, would increase the dividends that are being paid to the stockholders of Public Service by virtue of this securitization? That's the point that I'm getting at. In other words, if this is an enrichment of stockholders at the expense of the ratepayers, then I would think that perhaps it would be in conflict with Article 83 of Part 2 of our constitution because Public Service is a private corporation and this states that you cannot enhance the personal profits of a private corporation. That's a monopoly. Would you care to answer that?

Rep. MacGillivray: I thank my colleague for his fine question. As a good conservative Republican who has spoken against a lot of spending from this podium, I share his desire that we don't want PSNH to make any more money than they need to. What we are doing here with this refinancing is we are taking a lot of the debt of PSNH and a lot of the stock of PSNH and retiring it. Under utility law, as long as PSNH has $700 million of stock equity in this state, we are required to pay them or make it possible for them to attempt to earn a just and reasonable return on every one of the 700 million dollars. What we are going to do is, instead of letting them earn a return for the next umpteen years on that money, we are going to give it back to them and tell them they'll have to find somebody else to invest it in to pay their stockholders returns. We're going to borrow the money from somewhere else and pay a much lower interest rate. Ladies and gentlemen, if you want PSNH to have the opportunity to earn $80 or $90 million a year on $700 or $800 million of equity, push the red button. If you want them to have the opportunity to earn $15 million a year on $150 million of equity, push the green button.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Chase, you may inquire.

Rep. Chase: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative. I'm trying to make up my mind on this bill. I agree with some of the things you have said and I haven't heard any clear statement, once again, on how I, perhaps as a person taking advantage of new technology and investing in it during the next 10 or 12 years, might be able to start a self-generating plant and even afford my neighbor the chance of using that plant. Would I still be responsible for my portion of the stranded costs? Would there be any exit fees associated with my self-generation?

Rep. MacGillivray: Thank you for your question. This is a topic that Representative Bradley is going to take so I am going to let him answer most of that and you can ask your question again of him, if you wish. But, the short answer is that the only people that will be obligated to pay these rate reduction bonds are people that are still attached to the public utility grid and still receiving power from the public utility grid and only on the amount they take from the public utility grid. Anyone, who under today's law gets off and self-generates or joint-generates and isn't a public utility, stops paying those charges and under Senate Bill 472 the exact same people pay the exact same amount. Zero. When you leave the public utility grid you stop paying these charges. The guarantee is only on the people still connected and still paying utility charges and as a result the only people that are guaranteeing to pay this money are people that would be paying this money anyway. I'll let Representative Bradley answer the details of the exit fee language in more detail.

Rep. Bradley: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. I'm glad that Representative MacGillivray gave the short answer to the question that Representative Chase asked. The short answer is "no." But, I did want to mention something about technology. I'm sure most of you, Madam Speaker, remember prior to 1984, Mother Bell and the innovation that a monopoly brought to us. We were to get any color telephone we wanted as long as it was black and after disbanding the monopoly, things have dramatically changed. Technology has improved and I would argue that for the most part, our lives have improved with it. Yes, we have telemarketers and yours truly has learned to answer every telemarketer with the same six words, "I'm eating 24 hours a day." I know it looks that way. Sorry. And the other downside is we've had to ban cell phones that ring from the floor of the House, but for the most part, the revolution and technology in the telecommunications industry has been fantastic. So, the last thing we'd want to do is ever impede what has been an historic right for you and I to generate our own electricity. We give, in this legislation, no more rights to utilities than exist today and no less rights to their customers to generate electricity. These are key terms in section B-4 of this legislation. The use of the word "person," that is intended to allow, if there is in the future competitive service for billing and/or metering and there was a proposal in New Hampshire for that several years ago, to collect the charges that are defined in this bill as retail electric service, which is, as has already been explained, when you take power from the wires then you pay a wires charge. And, if in the future there is competitive metering and billing, there has to be some entity to collect that charge under the provision of retail electric service. No more rights for the utility and no less rights for the utility. No exit fees. This language has been the most scrutinized language in the entire bill. PSNH has agreed to it and so have all of the interests that are very concerned about exit fees. We've heard some discussion this morning, moving on to my next subject, about how we're locking in rates for 12 years. If you recall what I talked about two weeks ago, I would submit to you that today we are locked in to the full freight rates that have been, until just recently, the highest in the nation. Every day, every month, every year, every dollar we've been locked in. We're locked in under the rate agreement. We can fight whether it is a contract or whether it's something else, it's called the rate agreement. Under that verbiage, we are to buy the output of the Seabrook power plant until the year 2026 when it is at the end of its 40-year life span and is meant to be decommissioned. Locked in today to the highest rates in the nation today. You've received this morning some hand outs, a green handout and a yellow handout, purporting in these hand outs some of the positions of some of the interveners at the PUC. As I tried to answer Representative Alger's question, some of those groups are enthusiastic supporters of Senate Bill 472. Cabletron — I hope you've all read their e-mail — we've been passing it out on the floor for those of you who are not on line, is an enthusiastic supporter, I'm not going to quote from it unless somebody asks me to. The BIA with their lists of various organizations including one of the other interveners, Freedom Partners, which is the business of Mr. Jim Rotier, who is the grandfather of deregulation in this state, who brought the original suit in 1994 and 1995 challenging the monopoly of PSNH. And lastly, because we need a strong presence for residential ratepayers, Michael Holmes, the Consumer Advocate, is now supporting this bill and you should have a letter in your mailbox on that. The other interveners, I'll first start with Great Bay, which is a joint owner of Seabrook and is an exempt wholesale generator, is objecting to this settlement because they want you to pay their decommissioning costs. They have no captive customers and they've never collected decommissioning costs from customers. They've had to do it from the market. They've known that since they bought that slice of Seabrook. Nothing changes for them, they are looking for a subsidy. The other interveners have filed under the banner of the Campaign for Ratepayers Rights with a legal brief that enumerates two themes: number one, stranded cost recovery is an added surcharge to your bill; and, number two, that it is a bailout of a failed company. Well, let's look at that and I'm going to use two examples. Example number one, the situation with the independent power plants. We had deals that were reached between PSNH and those plants several years ago which would have saved $155 million of customer money over the life of those rate orders. Unfortunately, the PUC wanted a better deal, presumably they wanted to close those plants down. They only approved one. We passed a bill for securitization to finance that and we could have taken over and approved all six. The bill passed the House, was killed in the Senate by some of the same people urging you to vote no today. Those deals, then, were worth $155 million. Today, if we were successful in dusting those deals off, renegotiating them, if they are indeed negotiable, would, on a good day, in my estimation and in the estimation of our consultant, probably be worth no more than $100 million. Lost value. Lost money. Who's being bailed out? Who's being surcharged when we pay the full freight? It's our customers, our constituents and the customers of PSNH. The second example is the securitization example. The settlement modeled January 1st as a start date for securitization of $725 million. The Commission approved it at $688 million six months later. Senate Bill 472 reduces it to $670 million using October 1st. What's happening? Is that money just evaporating? Poof and it's gone? No. Every PSNH customer is paying that money, full freight, every day, every month, every dollar. If there is a better deal out there and people believe that we should hold on and continue to fight all the way to the United States Supreme Court, be prepared for losing what you have in front of you today or least a significant portion of that $450 million. As I told you two weeks ago, it's not. There are those who would like more. But, I would tell you that given the history that we have had for 25 years, this is a pretty good deal. It lowers rates 15 percent and it implements competition and that's why the vast majority of people who have intervened at the Public Utilities Commission are supporters of Senate Bill 472. They recognize, as I think members of the Science, Technology and Energy Committee as well as the Senate conferees do, that this is not 1989 all over again. This deal has been scrutinized and analyzed. It has been dissected and it has been perfected as much as we possibly can. I would ask you to end this troubled history today. End the fact that we've been paying among the highest rates in the nation today. Implement competition and turn a very important corner in this process. I would urge you to join me and push the green button. Thank you.

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE REPORT ON SB 132

Committee of Conference Report on SB 132, an act requiring a review of public safety communications requirements regarding the summit of Mount Kearsarge, establishing an advisory committee regarding the review, and placing a moratorium until July 1, 2001 on new leases, use permits, or extensions of lease or permit terms for telecommunication facilities on the summit of Mount Kearsarge.

Recommendation:

having considered the same, report the committee is unable to reach agreement.

Conferees: Sens. Below, Dist. 5; Trombly, Dist. 7 and Krueger, Dist. 16.

Conferees: Reps. Royce, Ches. 9; Whalley, Merr. 5; Downing, Rock. 26 and Cooney, Rock. 26
Reps. Rosenfield and Spang spoke against.

Rep. Whalley spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

Rep. Royce spoke in favor.

Rep. Chandler requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the Committee of Conference report.

ENROLLED BILLS REPORT

The Committee on Enrolled Bills has examined and found correctly enrolled House Bills 733 and 1377 and Senate Bills 330, 334, 397, 401, 458 and 469.

Rep. Ronald Nowe, Sen. D'Allesandro for the Committee

CLERK'S NOTE

When less than two-thirds of the elected membership is present, Part II, Article 20 of the state constitution requires the assent of two-thirds of those present and voting to render their acts and proceedings valid.

CONSENT CALENDARCOMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE REPORTS ON HOUSE BILLS

Rep. Chandler moved that the Consent Calendar of Committee of Conference Reports on House Bills, as printed and distributed, be adopted.

HB 725-L, relative to rulemaking under the administrative procedures act, removed by Rep. Mercer. Consent Calendar Committee of Conference reports on House Bills was adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

HB 297-FN, permitting a jury trial in the superior court for alleged violations of the state law against discrimination for a certain time period or with the written assent of the commission for human rights after an action has been filed with the commission. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

Rep. Coughlin declared a conflict of interest and did not participate.

HB 505, establishing a special license plate for veterans. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

HB 618-FN-A, establishing a voucher program for smoking cessation. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

HB 713-FN, relative to penalties for multiple DWI offenses. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

HB 1212, relative to extending the reporting date of the open adoption study committee. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

HB 1329, relative to the termination of residential electric or gas utility service, the public utility commission's rulemaking authority, and the establishment of a gas utility restructuring oversight committee. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

HB 1463, making technical corrections related to the mental health system and guardianship hearings. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

HB 1464, relative to the licensing process for new health care facility construction. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

HB 1552-FN-A, establishing a telecommunications development initiative in New Hampshire and making an appropriation therefor. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

HB 1563-FN-L, establishing the Wolfeboro Airport Authority. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

HB 1569-FN, requiring the department of environmental services to propose a voluntary testing program of public water supplies for methyl tertiary butyl ether (MTBE), and to study the amount of MTBE in gasoline in the state. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

HB 1570-FN, requiring parolees and probationers from other states to comply with the Interstate Compact on Parole in order to be lawfully present in New Hampshire. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

HB 1571-FN, relative to claims arising from clinical services provided to the department of corrections. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

HB 1573-FN, relative to the funding of the salary of the director of emergency medical services and making an appropriation therefor. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

HB 1579-FN, establishing certain penalties for violations of the youth tobacco laws and clarifying a definition under the indoor smoking act. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

HB 1589, prohibiting the use of genetic testing for certain insurance policies. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

HB 1621, allowing administrative home confinement for habitual offenders. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

REGULAR CALENDARCOMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE REPORTS ON HOUSE BILLS

HB 97, relative to the right to farm. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

HB 226-L, establishing municipality bond payment schedules and percentages. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

HB 228, clarifying permissible political expenditures. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

HB 413, relative to the renovation of regional vocational education centers, and making an appropriation therefor. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

HB 417-FN-A, relative to the rehabilitation of the Walker building at New Hampshire hospital and making an appropriation therefor. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

Adopted by the necessary two-thirds.

CLERK'S NOTE

The constitutionally required two-thirds of the membership was declared present.

HB 553-FN-A, establishing a commission on the status of men. (Report printed SJ 5/31/00)

RECOGNITION OF REP. PAUL I. LAMOTT

Rep. Loren Jean moved that the remarks of Speaker Sytek and Rep. LaMott be printed in the Journal. Adopted.

Speaker Sytek: There is one person here that I would like to give special attention to today because he is not running again. The Dean of the House, Paul LaMott, is an institution here. It has been said that he knows more about the budget than anybody in the state. He has forgotten more than I ever knew about the budget. Paul, your service has been admirable. We are sorry that we are not going to have the wisdom that you have accumulated. He knows where all the dirt is in the budget. I hope he'll be available on a consulting basis as he retires to Haverhill and takes all he knows with him. We have a special proclamation recognizing you as the Dean of the House and thanking you for your 15 terms of service.

Rep. LaMott: I'd like to express my thanks, Madam Speaker, to you and the members. I would like to tell you this: I'm finishing my 30th year in this chamber and I think that you can see by the fact that I am, that I'm a firm believer in term limits. You know, you limit the terms to when you think you are going to be elected or whether you no longer feel you are doing any good. I guess perhaps I think I might get elected once more but I don't think I would do any good. I want to thank you all that are present and thank all of the people who have been members for the many kindnesses and courtesies that have been extended to me through the years. It has been a wonderful experience. If it hadn't been, I sure wouldn't have been here that long. I also want to express my appreciation for how the members help the new members coming in. Those of you who are not running again, help your replacement understand what it is all about. It takes a while to get acclimated and to understand the process. It takes a while to understand the system and it takes quite a little while to shift from the local community to a state-wide operation. Help them, please. And thank you again for the help you have given me. Thank you so much and may every success follow you the rest of your years, too.

Rep. Sytek: Rep. LaMott waited all those years for Dan Healy to retire so that he could be Dean of the House. I'm glad that he finally got to be Dean of the House, even if only for one term.

RESOLUTION

Rep. Chandler offered the following: RESOLVED, that the House now adjourn from the early session, that the business of the late session be in order at the present time, that the reading of bills be by title only and resolutions by caption only and when the House adjourns today it be to meet at the Call of the Chair.

Adopted.

LATE SESSION

UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Reps. Chandler, Burling, Letourneau, Keith Herman Bruno, Rice, Sabella, Weyler, Henderson and Speaker Sytek addressed the House.

Rep. Avery moved that the remarks made by Reps. Chandler and Burling be printed in the Journal. Adopted.

Rep. Chandler: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. Being as this is our last official day, although we will be coming back at least once more to deal with a little unfinished business, I would first like to thank all the members of the Majority party for their help, assistance, advice and help during my term as Majority Leader. I've learned a lot and it is through the cooperation of all the members of this party and, as I said, their help and advice that has helped me and I certainly appreciate that. It has also been a great pleasure to work with the Democratic Leader and his whole leadership team and all the members of the Democratic Party. Obviously, it's just the way things are. We obviously have a number of philosophical differences here and there but we also do a lot of common good and I think that evidence of that is some of the bigger bills that have passed this session. It has been very pleasurable working with the Democratic Leader. I do want to leave him with one parting gift. This is a book that has been offered by the Chairman of the Commerce Committee as a present to the Democratic Leader. What it is, it is full of tips on the whys, wherefores, how-tos and whens, particularly to move reconsideration. Although there will be others more eloquent than I following to speak about the person, about the person I am going to speak to, I would be remiss if I didn't take a few moments to thank my boss, the Speaker, for having faith and appointing me to this position. It has been a great pleasure to work with her and gain a tremendous amount of advice from her. I can tell you that there has been no one that I have ever been associated with in this House that has worked harder for the people of the State of New Hampshire and I say that with all sincerity and wish her the best in her future endeavors.

Rep. Burling: First, I think it is only fair to say that since the book is utterly blank I can only assume that I am never again to move reconsideration. This was, of course, a conclusion I had already reached by myself. Madam Speaker, on behalf of the Democratic Caucus there are a few words I would like to say. It has been a privilege. You have been determined, courageous, kind, a bitter opponent occasionally, a great friend, an understanding voice and a truly determined Speaker. Determined in the best interests of the House, determined to find the right course. It has been a truly wonderful experience working with you and I would ask my Democratic colleagues to rise and give you a round of applause.

Rep. Daniels moved that the remarks made by Rep. Henderson be printed in the Journal. Adopted.

Rep. Henderson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I've never taken the floor for Unanimous Consent during my three terms here and I do so now to express my heartfelt sentiment, to add my voice, in honor of a fellow member. When Donna Sytek was first elected Speaker she asked me to serve on her leadership team, so I began my second term in the House as Majority Whip. It turned out to be quite a challenge. Not everybody agreed that that was the best move that she ever made but it gave me a great opportunity. Serving in that position gave me great insights into government, issues and politics which few get to see first hand. Serving in House leadership also gave me the chance to see from all angles one of New Hampshire's most devoted public servants, Speaker Donna Sytek. I had the great privilege to work side-by-side with Donna Sytek on a daily basis for three years. I hope I never forget what a wonderful experience it was. Speaker Sytek never asked more of anyone else than she was willing to give herself and she gave all she had. She was often among the first ones in and always the last to leave. She tried always to keep an open door and an open mind. In fact, Donna would routinely anguish over how to help reconcile conflicting points of view among members when she felt that each had merit. She worked hundreds of hours each year trying to answer every letter and even e-mail, not only from members but from the general public as well, because the government belongs to us all. But Donna Sytek's devotion to duty cannot be measured merely by hours or effort. Because of her years of experience, her vast knowledge of the issues, past and present, and her vision of history and our place within it, Speaker Sytek's counsel was routinely sought by House members of both parties, by the Senate, by executive agencies and by the Governor herself. Donna could pull out any volume of statute and instantly find the right citation to answer the question at hand with the graceful precision of a preacher with well-worn bible. Yet, she would never hesitate to simply say, "I don't know but I'll try to find the answer." Donna Sytek's reputation for exceptional legislative ability wasn't restricted to New Hampshire alone. While I was in leadership I had occasion to accompany Speaker Sytek to national legislative meetings from time to time. Without fail, leaders from across the country would stand in line, if necessary, to welcome our Speaker to their gatherings. They recognized, as we do, that Donna Sytek is a walking encyclopedia of legislative history, wisdom and perspective and their faith that Donna Sytek would make a valuable contribution to their proceedings was always well placed. Now, Donna's terms as Speaker were not without their bumps and bruises. The criticisms of Speaker Sytek tended to center on four themes: number one, the Speaker was too partisan; number two, the Speaker wasn't strict enough; number three, the Speaker was too strict; and number four, the Speaker wasn't strict enough. But Speaker Sytek knew what we all know, that you just can't please everyone. All you can do is believe in the process, believe in yourself and give it your best shot. Through the years, I've seen Donna Sytek from many different perspectives. Some time ago, I was a county commissioner while Donna chaired the delegation, a few tense moments in those days. I've seen her from the front row and lately from the back bench. From every perspective, Donna Sytek is in an embodiment of grace under pressure, perseverance, courage in the face of adversity, respect and dedication. My legislative service may end this year and I would be remiss if I did not publicly state how profound and meaningful an impact that Speaker Sytek has had on my time here in the House. For all you have given to New Hampshire, Madam Speaker, we are for ever in your debt.

Rep. John Flanders moved that the remarks made by Speaker Sytek be printed in the Journal.

Adopted.

Speaker Sytek: I want to thank you all for your lovely words today. I want to thank you for the opportunity to be your presiding officer. I see my job as to allow the group to do what it needs to get done. I think of what a privilege it is for everyone of us in this hall to serve the people of our state, to shape the government that they are going to live under, that we are going to live under, to determine the legacy that we are going to leave our kids and our grandkids. Our actions in this all do that. What a privilege it is for all of us to be able to participate in that. As I leave, I think of the privilege I've had of serving with all of you and the many people in previous legislatures that I have learned from. I sat down there for many years before I was the presiding officer and I was an observer of what worked and what didn't work. I had some wonderful people to guide me and be good examples. I have served with some giants of legislators who taught me the values that I brought to this job. I didn't come here without having thought about all aspects of what it means to be the Speaker of the House, what it means to be a member of this legislature, without being influenced by everybody I ever served with. I thank all of them and I thank you for shaping me as I came to serve here as your Speaker. I thank especially the members I have been privileged to serve with who are members of the greatest generation. I think of Bob Murphy, who I sat next to for six years and he never told me he landed at D-Day. I think of Charlie Vaughn who is a POW. I think of Alf Jacobson when he reminds us every year of what it was like to be on Iwo Jima. That generation and those of you who are members of that generation that I've gotten to serve with has had such a profound effect on the value I place on public service and it has been a real privilege to serve with you. To my colleagues that I've had private conversations with about medical problems a lot of you are serving in a great deal of pain or have had surgeries or have had medical conditions that you have to live with on a daily basis. Having been a fellow traveler lately, I have a lot of compassion for that and I know that you serve under difficult circumstances. I wish I could give everybody a parking space close to the door. I really wish I could because I know how important it is when it is tough to walk. So, my fellow travelers, fellow sufferers, you know the special bond that we have. To my Republican friends of all varieties, when I talk about the House I say it takes all kinds and we've got them. It's been a challenge to keep you all together and most of the time when we figured out how to work together, it kind of was satisfying. It took us a while to get there. To my wonderful Democratic friends across the aisle, led by your most eloquent and articulate Democratic Leader. There are very few people in the House who can appreciate Peter's vocabulary but I love a guy who says words I need to look up. So, you have a fan right here. So, all of you have shaped the person that I am. It is a wonderful privilege to have been your presiding officer. We have one more day, but this is the day that we said we would finish our work and we have and it is very satisfying. In a couple of terms that didn't have a lot of satisfaction it's nice that we finished our work on time and can go out with a smile and say that we did the best we could with the ability we had to bring people together to serve them and remember what a privilege it is to serve all the future generations of this state by what we do today. Thank you for letting me your presid-ing officer.

Amend section 4 of the bill by replacing it with the following:

4 New Subdivision; Automatic External Defibrillation; Corrected Codification of Provisions.
Amend RSA 153-A by inserting after section 27 the following new subdivision:

Automatic External Defibrillation

153-A:28 Intent.

I. The use of automatic external defibrillators addresses an important public health problem in New Hampshire. It is the intent of the legislature to encourage the use and availability of automatic external defibrillators, along with training in the use of automatic external defibrillators, for the purpose of saving the lives of people in cardiac arrest.

II. Further, the legislature strongly encourages dissemination of educational information regarding automatic external defibrillators and encourages that access to these lifesaving devices be made widely available to businesses, schools, fire and police departments, and other public and private organizations throughout the state.

153-A:29 Definitions. For purposes of this subdivision, "automatic external defibrillator" means a medical device which combines a heart monitor and defibrillator and:

I. Has been approved by the United States Food and Drug Administration;

II. Is capable of recognizing the presence or absence of ventricular fibrillation;

III. Is capable of determining whether defibrillation should be performed; and

IV. Automatically charges and requests delivery of an electrical impulse to an individual's heart, upon determination that defibrillation should be performed.

153-A:30 Every person, association, corporation or other organization that acquires an automatic external defibrillator shall require every individual expected to use the automatic external defibrillator to receive training in cardiopulmonary resuscitation and automatic external defibrillator use.

153-A:31 Liability Limited. Any person who, in good faith and without compensation, renders emergency care by the use of an automatic external defibrillator shall not be liable for civil damages for any acts or omissions unless the acts or omissions were grossly negligent or willful and wanton. Any person, association, corporation or other organization that acquires and maintains an automatic external defibrillator for emergency care shall not be liable for civil damages other than for gross negligence or willful and wanton acts or omissions. This section shall not limit civil liability protection provided by any other law.

5 Repeal. RSA 151-B:25-28, relative to automatic external defibrillation, are repealed.

6 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

HOUSE JOURNAL No. 19

Tuesday, June 27, 2000

The House assembled at 10:00 a.m., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the Speaker.

Prayer was offered by House Chaplain, Reverend Hays M. Junkin, Rector of Saint Andrew's Episcopal Church in Hopkinton.

Compassionate Creator, lover of all, we remember before You the men and women of our country who served in the Korean War, upon a distant shore and in another time. May the years never cloud our memory of their willingness to serve. We especially remember those who gave their lives in the cause of upholding the light of democracy and freedom. Most profoundly, we pray for a world where armed conflict will cease, and where men and women of honorable intentions and good will can negotiate differences peacefully. Until that day help us to defend what is right as we acknowledge our own imperfect sight and national interest. Amen.

Rep. Vaughn led the Pledge of Allegiance.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 25

Memorializing State Representative Frank M. Schanda of Newmarket

WHEREAS, it is with profound sadness and the deepest of regrets we have learned of the death of our legislative colleague, Frank M. Schanda, who was in his second term serving faithfully his constituents of District 19 of Rockingham County, and

WHEREAS, for the four years of his legislative tenure, Frank M. Schanda, with diligence, competence and great energy, did sit on the Standing Committee on Criminal Justice & Public Safety, and

WHEREAS, having been born in Kingston, New Hampshire, Frank M. Schanda did choose to remain in the State of his roots and did choose to settle in Newmarket where he did serve for twenty-five years as a member of the Board of Selectman, and

WHEREAS, having been possessed of high energy and abundant civic pride, Frank M. Schanda also did serve the citizenry of Newmarket in other capacities, including as Town and School Moderator for twelve years, as Vice Chairman and Chairman of the Housing Commission for seven years, and as Chairman of the Rockingham County Transportation Commission, and

WHEREAS, Frank M. Schanda, for fifty-eight years, was a member of the Robert G. Durgin American Legion Post 67 in Newmarket, and a member of the Lamprey Aerie of Eagles in Newmarket, and

WHEREAS, during World War II, Frank M. Schanda did serve his country as a member of the United States Marines and did see service at the battle for Guadalcanal, now therefore be it

RESOLVED, by the House of Representatives in Regular Session convened, that Frank M. Schanda be saluted and granted the highest of accolades for his outstanding legislative service, and his untiring service to Newmarket and his dedicated service to his Country, and be it further

RESOLVED, that expressions of heartfelt sympathy be extended to his family, and that a copy of this Resolution be prepared for presentation to his family.
Unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

GOVERNOR'S VETO MESSAGE ON HB 235

May 19, 2000

To the Honorable Members of the General Court:

By the authority vested in me as Governor of New Hampshire, pursuant to Part II, Article 44 of the Constitution of New Hampshire, I have this day vetoed House Bill 235, An Act increasing exemptions under the interest and dividends tax.

I am vetoing this legislation because it is fiscally irresponsible and because I believe it would make the interest and dividends tax less fair.

If enacted, this legislation would reduce state general fund revenues by a significant amount, beginning July 1, 2002. This bill would cost the state general fund almost $9 million in the next biennial budget and approximately $6 million each year thereafter. This legislation provides no way to pay for that loss of revenue. In passing this bill, the legislature failed to designate the state services it would cut to compensate for this loss of revenue or, in the alternative, to pass a new revenue source to pay for its cost. Instead, H.B. 235 leaves the tough decision of figuring out how to make up for this loss of revenue to a future legislature. H.B. 235 is fiscally irresponsible.

H.B. 235 would also make the interest and dividends tax less fair. RSA 77:5 currently provides four categories of exemptions from the interest and dividends tax - a standard exemption for all persons; an additional exemption for those 65 years of age or older; an additional exemption for those who are blind; and an additional exemption for those who are disabled or unable to work. H.B. 235 increases the standard exemption and the additional exemption for those 65 years of age or older - regardless of the overall income level or need of the individual. Inexplicably, H.B. 235 leaves unchanged the exemption level for the blind and the exemption level for the disabled or those unable to work.

This legislation only benefits those with a significant amount of money invested in accounts that generate interest and/or dividends, and does so regardless of how much income those persons might have from other sources. For example, under H.B. 235 a married couple under 65 years of age with $200,000 invested in a typical interest-bearing certificate of deposit would obtain a $60 tax reduction, even if the couple also has $1 million in income from exercising stock options. In contrast, a widow over 65 years of age with $75,000 invested in a typical interest-bearing certificate of deposit, and whose only other source of income is Social Security, would obtain absolutely no benefit from H.B. 235.

H.B. 235 provides no benefit to average senior citizens and provides only a minor benefit to even the most wealthy individuals. Yet, the annual cost of this legislation, about $6 million, is more than twice the amount the State general fund now invests each year in the Meals on Wheels program for senior citizens. It is over three times the amount the State general fund now invests each year in the Veterans' Home. It is over three times the amount the State general fund now invests each year in the Emergency Shelter program.

This legislation is an example of an unfortunate trend in the legislature to pass both tax expenditures and program expenditures outside the biennial budget process. H.B. 235 was pending in the legislature last year when the House and Senate passed the biennial operating budget. This legislation was not conceived this year to deal with a newly discovered problem or emergency. Indeed, similar legislation to this has been introduced repeatedly over the last few years. If the legislature believes that increasing certain exemptions to the interest and dividends tax is a priority, H.B. 235 should have been passed last year and its cost accounted for in the biennial budget. The legislature chose not to do this. Instead, it passed H.B. 235 this year outside the budget process.

I have made it clear for months that I would veto this legislation. I have repeatedly expressed my concerns regarding legislation that would increase expenditures or reduce revenues at a time when we are struggling to find the resources necessary to fund our schools and provide other essential public services. The legislature's continuing refusal to consider the cumulative fiscal impact of individual pieces of legislation is disturbing and unacceptable.

Jeanne Shaheen, Governor

The question being, notwithstanding the Governor's veto, shall HB 235, increasing exemptions under the interest and dividends tax, become law?

Reps. Murphy, John Pratt and Jacobson spoke in favor.

As required by the State Constitution, a roll call was taken.

Rep. Christie did not vote and wished to be recorded in favor.

Rep. Rice declared a conflict of interest and did not participate.

REMARKS

Rep. Solow moved that the remarks made by Rep. John Pratt be printed in the Journal

On a division vote, 179 members having voted in the affirmative and 152 in the negative, the motion was adopted.

Rep. John Pratt: Thank you, Madam Speaker. My remarks are really more generic to a number of the vetoes and I hope, since I only want to make one appearance here today, to address them all at this time. The Governor's Veto Message on House Bill 235 says, "I am vetoing this legislation because it is fiscally irresponsible." She vetoed the legacy and succession tax because it was fiscally irresponsible. She vetoed a tax that would provide funding for juvenile diversions costing one hundred and some odd thousand dollars because it was fiscally irresponsible. She vetoed Senator Pignatelli's bill, which is not before us today but I sure hope will be on the 12th which created the family court and added two more counties, a wonderful program, because it was fiscally irresponsible. Madam Speaker, the Governor is quite right when she talks about fiscal irresponsibility, but she has the shoe on the wrong foot. When the history of this session of the New Hampshire Legislature is written, it will show that this has been one of the truly great legislatures in our 200-plus years (and I must add parenthetically, when that history is written, the work of our outgoing Speaker will be in bold print saying she went out with a bang and no whimper.) Madam Speaker, we remember last year. This House and the other body courageously, somewhat unpredictably, passed legislation in response to the Supreme Court's challenge on Claremont, which provided adequate funding for education without bankrupting the general fund of this state (and again, I'd add parenthetically, Madam Speaker, when you are in your rocking chair days I suspect you will look back and say, "That was a great achievement," although at the time I think you had a somewhat different view.) The Governor brought the full weight of her office upon us and we could not concur with the Senate and we were forced to cobble together a budget which we did, which in essence hobbled the state of New Hampshire, not a very sensible policy, cobble and hobble, but that is what we had to do and we did it. But, we did more. We decided to begin the process of imprinting a new DNA, if you will, upon the state. We said that in the next century we would ask our seniors to bear too heavy a burden by paying too great an interest and dividend tax and due to the courageous leadership of my colleague on the Judiciary Committee from New London, this legislature passed legislation which significantly changed the exemption limits and, I say to you, I think we got it right. And then we took up the legacy and succession tax and we said in the next generation and in the next century it was inherently wrong and unfair to tax one small segment of the people of New Hampshire differently from all the rest and we repealed that tax under the courageous leadership of my colleague from Walpole (and I would just say to you, parenthetically again, I cannot tell you how proud I have been in my service here to have my colleague as my mentor) and, I say to you, we got it just about right. And, when we passed, this House and the other House, the family court reform bill, we were imprinting the Judiciary and making one of the very needed reforms, and we'll see more of them in the year ahead, I have no doubt, but one of the very needed reforms in our Judicial system and I say to you, we got it just about right. And so I urge my colleagues to stay the course, to override these vetoes and set the state on a course of action which will continue to make it proud of us and to make us one of the great legislatures in the history of New Hampshire. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

GOVERNOR'S VETO MESSAGE ON HB 1548

May 19, 2000

To the Honorable Members of the General Court:

By the authority vested in me as Governor of New Hampshire, pursuant to Part II, Article 44 of the Constitution of New Hampshire, I have this day vetoed House Bill 1548, An Act abolishing the death penalty.

I believe that there are some murders that are so brutal and heinous that the death penalty is the only appropriate penalty.

Just three years ago in Colebrook, Carl Drega tracked down and killed Vickie Bunnell. Carl Drega killed Dennis Joos, who tried to save Vickie Bunnell. Carl Drega killed two New Hampshire state troopers, Scott Philips and Leslie Lord. During his shooting rampage, Carl Drega also shot and wounded four other law enforcement officers. The search of Carl Drega's property that followed his bloody rampage revealed hundreds of pounds of booby-trapped explosives designed to kill and maim countless people. If Carl Drega had not been killed that day, I believe an indictment for capital murder would have been appropriate for his cold-blooded, brutal murders.

Our death penalty law carefully safeguards defendants' due process rights. No one has been executed in New Hampshire since 1939. No one sits on death row in this state. Capital indictments have been brought only in the most exceptional cases.

Some who oppose the death penalty argue that DNA testing has shown that innocent people have sat on death row in other states. Some have suggested that the Richard Buchanan case in New Hampshire shows that could happen here. I believe that the Buchanan case proves the exact opposite. After Mr. Buchanan was arrested, but long before trial, DNA testing showed that the evidence found on the body of the victim in that horrible crime could not have come from Mr. Buchanan. Charges against Mr. Buchanan were then dropped and he was released from custody. Indeed, the advent of DNA testing reduces the likelihood that innocent people will be convicted of crimes.

Some who oppose the death penalty argue we cannot trust our criminal justice system and cite examples, all from other states, where those charged with capital murder did not receive adequate defenses or otherwise did not receive a fair trial. This is not true of New Hampshire. New Hampshire has an excellent public defender program and our criminal defense bar is among the best in the country. I have the highest confidence in New Hampshire's criminal justice system and so should every New Hampshire citizen.

Our statute is designed to make the carrying out of the death penalty extraordinarily difficult. Under New Hampshire law, a jury of twelve first must unanimously find beyond a reasonable doubt that the accused committed every element of the charged offense. Then, in a separate sentencing phase, the jury must also unanimously find beyond a reasonable doubt that at least two "aggravating" factors exist, and that the aggravating factors outweigh any "mitigating" factors that may exist. Moreover, our law requires the judge to instruct the jury that regardless of its findings with respect to aggravating and mitigating factors, the jury does not have to impose a death sentence. In any case where the death penalty is imposed, both the conviction and death sentence is subject to an automatic and prompt review by the New Hampshire Supreme Court.

I have listened to the arguments of supporters of this bill. I have read the thoughtful correspondence and materials I have received from both supporters and opponents of this bill, and I have considered the arguments on both sides of this issue with great care. I am respectful of the very sincerely held beliefs of those who oppose the death penalty. But it falls within my duty as governor to act on this legislation based on what I believe is in the best interests of the people of this state, and to the best of my ability, I have done so. I believe our capital murder statute should remain the law in New Hampshire.

Jeanne Shaheen, Governor

MOTION TO LAY ON THE TABLE

Reps. Sargent and Weatherspoon moved that the Governor's Veto Message on HB 1548, abolishing the death penalty, be laid on the table.

Rep. MacGillivray requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

GOVERNOR’S VETO MESSAGE ON HB 1406

May 23, 2000

To the Honorable Members of the General Court:
By the authority vested in me as Governor of New Hampshire, pursuant to Part II, Article 44 of the Constitution of New Hampshire, I have this day vetoed House Bill 1406.
I am vetoing this legislation because its provisions have been superceded by S.B. 472, and, thus are superfluous and unnecessary.
H.B. 1406 was designed to establish the legislative policy around the use of transition service during the initial years of competition in the territory served by Public Service Company of New Hampshire. I concur with the legislature’s intent as expressed in this legislation to avoid the creation of cost deferrals through the pricing of transition service, and this issue has been addressed within the provisions of S.B. 472.
I have conferred with the primary sponsor of H.B. 1406 and he has advised me that he supports the vetoing of H.B. 1406.

Jeanne Shaheen, Governor

The question being, notwithstanding the Governor’s veto, shall HB 1406, relative to transition service, become law?
Rep. Bradley spoke against.
As required by the State Constitution, a roll call was taken.

GOVERNOR'S VETO MESSAGE ON HB 405-FN

May 31, 2000

To the Honorable Members of the General Court:

By the authority vested in me as Governor of New Hampshire, pursuant to Part II, Article 44 of the Constitution of New Hampshire, I have this day vetoed House Bill 405, an Act relative to the annual funding of placement costs for juvenile diversion and alternative disposition programs and relative to an effectiveness study of such programs. If enacted, this legislation would increase state general fund expenditures by $108,452 beginning July 1, 2001, gradually increasing in cost to $124,546 in FY 2004. Like other bills I have vetoed this session, this legislation does not provide a way to pay for its cost. The cost of HB 405, when considered in conjunction with other legislation passed by the House and Senate that increase expenditures or reduce revenues, is unacceptable. In addition, like other bills I have vetoed, this bill leaves the tough decision of figuring out how to pay for its costs to a future legislature.

While I commend the motivation and hard work of the bill's sponsors, and recognize the concerns HB 405 is intended to address, the bill is another example of an unfortunate trend in the legislature to pass both revenue reductions and increased program expenditures outside the biennial budget process. HB 405 was pending in the legislature last year when the House and Senate passed the biennial operating budget. If the legislature believes this increase in funding for juvenile placement costs is a priority, HB 405 should have been passed last year and its cost accounted for in the biennial budget.

It should be noted that HB 405 includes the creation of a study to quantify the effectiveness of juvenile diversion and alternate disposition programs. It would make more sense to first determine which programs are the most effective before allocating to them additional state resources.

I have repeatedly expressed my concerns about legislation that would increase expenditures or reduce revenues at a time when we are limited in the resources we have available to fund our schools and provide other essential public services. HB 405 must be considered in the context of our overall budget constraints. While I regret having to do so, I must veto HB 405.

Jeanne Shaheen, Governor

The question being, notwithstanding the Governor's veto, shall HB 405, relative to the annual funding of placement costs for juvenile diversion and alternative disposition programs and relative to an effectiveness study of such programs, become law?

As required by the State Constitution, a roll call was taken.

GOVERNOR'S VETO MESSAGE ON HB 542-FN-A

May 31, 2000

To the Honorable Members of the General Court:

By the authority vested in me as Governor of New Hampshire, pursuant to Part II, Article 44 of the Constitution of New Hampshire, I have this day vetoed House Bill 542, an Act repealing the legacies and succession tax.

If enacted, this legislation would reduce state general fund revenues by approximately $25 million the first year it is in effect, the fiscal year beginning July 1, 2001, and then almost $38 million each year thereafter. Like HB 235, which would have increased exemptions under the State's interest and dividends tax and which I vetoed two weeks ago, this legislation, too, fails to provide a way to pay for its cost.

The annual cost of H.B. 542, about $38 million, is more than five times the amount spent on home based care programs for the elderly that allow our seniors to remain in their own homes longer and maintain their quality of life. It is nearly four times the amount spent on childcare services which help single parents find good care for their children as they make the sometimes difficult transition from welfare to work. It also is nearly two-thirds the amount we spend on direct care services for citizens with developmental disabilities.

Under New Hampshire law the transfer of wealth at death is subject to state taxation at the rate of 18 percent, with certain exceptions: transfers to spouses, lineal descendants, municipalities, or charitable organizations; and the transfer of a homestead to a sibling who resides in the homestead. Proponents of H.B. 542 persuasively argue that this tax is unfair to those who do not have spouses or lineal descendants to whom they can leave their assets. However, all legislation that costs money must be considered in the context of the state's fiscal situation. It is irresponsible to focus only on the merits of a bill in isolation and not consider its impacts on the state's overall budget picture. H.B. 542 was pending in the legislature last year when the House and Senate passed the biennial operating budget. The legislature could have made the choice to absorb the cost of paying for H.B. 542 at that time by either cutting state services or increasing another revenue source. The legislature chose not to do so.

The legislature considered and rejected a number of other ways to pay for the cost of this legislation. The legislature rejected the idea of reforming the estate and legacy tax by lowering the rate and applying it to all transfers of wealth. The legislature rejected the idea of paying for H.B. 542 by allowing video lottery at our four racetracks and two grand hotels. It rejected the idea of making the effective date of the repeal contingent on the enactment of a replacement revenue source. It even rejected the idea of phasing in the repeal of this tax over a number of years. All of these options for paying for the cost of this legislation were found unpalatable for one reason or another by the legislature.

Instead, this year the legislature simply amended the bill to put off its effective date until July 1, 2001. It is not an acceptable solution to put off the effective date so that another legislature will have to deal with filling the large revenue gap this bill creates.

On the very day H.B. 542 passed, members of one body conducted a briefing on the state's fiscal status. This same body then turned around and passed H.B. 542 with complete disregard for its fiscal impact.

Casting a vote to repeal a tax is an easy and a politically popular thing to do in an election year. But I believe the governor and the legislature are elected to make hard choices.

If the legislature is unwilling to practice fiscal discipline, I must and I will. While I regret having to veto H.B. 542, I cannot in good conscience approve a bill with this magnitude of fiscal impact.

Jeanne Shaheen, Governor

The question being, notwithstanding the Governor's veto, shall HB 542, repealing the legacies and succession tax, become law?

Rep. Murphy spoke in favor.

Rep. McGuirk spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

As required by the State Constitution, a roll call was taken.

GOVERNOR'S VETO MESSAGE ON HB 1251

May 31, 2000

To the Honorable Members of the General Court:

By the authority vested in me as Governor of New Hampshire, pursuant to Part II, Article 44 of the Constitution of New Hampshire, I have this day vetoed HB 1251, relative to driver education training reimbursement.

If enacted, HB 1251 would increase state expenditures by $600,000 in fiscal year beginning July 1, 2001 and each year thereafter. Like other bills I have vetoed this session, this legislation does not provide a way to pay for its cost. This cost, when considered in conjunction with other legislation passed by the House and Senate that increase expenditures or decrease revenues, is unacceptable.

While I appreciate the intent of this legislation, if enacted it would be funded through monies that would ordinarily lapse to the general fund. It is important to understand that lapse funds are not "found" money and available for additional spending. Instead, an estimate of lapse funds is built into the biennial budget, and lapse funds are a critical component of achieving a balanced budget. HB 1251 is another example of an unfortunate trend in the legislature to pass both revenue reductions and increased program expenditures outside the biennial budget process without identifying offsetting budget cuts or revenue increases to cover the budget impacts. If the legislature believes that providing reimbursement to driver education students attending private training courses is a priority, the $600,000 in annual costs must be offset by either cutting state services or increasing another revenue source.

I have repeatedly expressed my concerns about legislation that would increase expenditures or reduce revenues at a time when we are limited in the resources we have to fund our schools and provide other essential services. HB 1251 must be considered in the context of the state's overall budget constraints. While I regret having to do so, I must veto HB 1251.

Jeanne Shaheen, Governor

GOVERNOR'S VETO MESSAGE ON HB 1343-FN-A

May 31, 2000

To the Honorable Members of the General Court:

By the authority vested in me as Governor of New Hampshire, pursuant to Part II, Article 44 of the Constitution of New Hampshire, I have this day vetoed House Bill 1343, an Act appropriating available funds for fiscal year 2000 to provide funding to support research monitoring groundwater at reclamation sites that have had sludge applied.

If enacted, this legislation would transfer $20,000 in unused FY 2000 funds from state environmental grant payments to municipalities for this research effort. While I do not disagree with the intent of the bill and the interest of its sponsors in supporting additional research on the impacts of applying sludge at reclamation sites, I do disagree with the manner in which these funds are being appropriated for this purpose.

Like other bills I have vetoed this session, HB 1343 is another example of an unfortunate trend in the legislature to pass both revenue reductions and increased program expenditures outside the biennial budget process. These bills exacerbate the financial concerns we face. If the legislature believes that funding for this research effort is a priority, this $20,000 should have been included in the biennial budget and its costs accounted for during the budget process.

This legislation, if enacted, would be funded through monies that would ordinarily lapse. It is important to understand that lapse funds are not "found" money and available for additional spending. Instead, an estimate of lapse funds is built into the biennial budget, and lapse funds are a critical component of achieving a balanced budget.

I have repeatedly expressed my concerns about legislation that would increase expenditures or reduce revenues at a time when we are limited in the resources we have available to fund our schools and provide other essential services. HB 1343 must be considered in the context of our overall budget constraints. With regret, I must veto HB 1343.

Jeanne Shaheen, Governor

The question being, notwithstanding the Governor's veto, shall HB 1343, appropriating available funds for fiscal year 2000 to provide funding to support research monitoring groundwater at reclamation sites that have had sludge applied, become law?

Reps. Betty Hall and Bruno spoke in favor and yielded to questions.

As required by the State Constitution, a roll call was taken.

GOVERNOR'S VETO MESSAGE ON HB 628

June 21, 2000

To the Honorable Members of the General Court:

By the authority vested in me as Governor of New Hampshire, pursuant to Part II, Article 44 of the Constitution of New Hampshire, I have this day vetoed House Bill 628, an Act relative to the relocation of the principal residence of a child and establishing a regional youth center pilot program in Hillsborough County and in a central location within Coos, Grafton, Carroll, and Belknap counties. While I commend the supporters of HB 628 for their efforts to address the complicated problem of juveniles who are at risk, after careful consideration I must veto this legislation.

HB 628 does not clearly establish who is responsible for the costs of operating the regional youth center program. And because the bill was not heard in either the House or Senate Finance Committee these questions about ongoing financial obligations were not resolved.

In addition, HB 628 fails to establish clear administrative responsibility for running the new program. The bill proposes to share responsibilities between several state and local agencies, but fails to lay out an organizational structure for implementing the program. Potential conflicts, including litigation, may arise because the lines of authority are not clearly established in law.

I am also concerned about whether this is the best course of action for addressing juvenile services. While the youth center program is one possible way, HB 628 sets the state on a course that may not be consistent with other initiatives and potential methods for addressing these juvenile service needs. While HB 628 would create a "pilot" operating program, in fact the bill will lead to the construction of new permanent buildings at an estimated cost of up to $10 million, including $1 million in state funds. If the "pilot" program is deemed a failure and another use must be identified for these facilities, the state will be faced with the always extremely difficult problem of figuring out a new use for state-owned buildings located in our cities and towns.

I today signed into law HB 1463, a provision of which establishes a Department of Youth Development Services advisory board. This board's charge is to make recommendations relative to the programs and services provided to children referred to the Department as delinquent under RSA 169-B. Creation of this advisory board is one step that will enhance our ability to look at the spectrum of services provided to juveniles and assess how best these juveniles can be served.

Before we commit the state to any program with potentially significant implementation and operating costs, we must make sure such programs fit within an integrated plan for the delivery of services to juveniles.

Given the legislative history of this bill, in which the opportunity for public input was limited, there is need for further scrutiny of the means and ends of the proposed pilot program.

For these reasons, I have vetoed HB 628.

Jeanne Shaheen, Governor

The question being, notwithstanding the Governor's veto, shall HB 628, relative to the relocation of the principal residence of a child and establishing a regional youth center pilot program in Hillsborough County and in a central location within Coos, Grafton, Carroll, and Belknap counties, become law?

Rep. Wallin spoke against.

Rep. Lozeau spoke in favor.

As required by the State Constitution, a roll call was taken.

June 21, 2000

To the Honorable Members of the General Court:

By the authority vested in me as Governor of New Hampshire, pursuant to Part II, Article 44 of the Constitution of New Hampshire, I have this day vetoed House Bill 648, an Act relative to a sludge testing program.

If enacted, this legislation would transfer up to $85,000 from state environmental grant payments to municipalities to fund an expanded random sludge testing program at 30 municipal wastewater treatment facilities. While I do not disagree with the intent of the bill and the interest of its supporters in ensuring that all sludge intended for land application meets applicable standards, I do disagree with the manner in which these funds are being appropriated for this purpose.

HB 648 proposes to fund an expanded sludge testing program in FY 2001 through monies that would ordinarily lapse. It is important to understand that lapse funds are not "found" money and available for additional spending. Rather, an estimate of lapse funds is built into the biennial budget, and lapse funds are a critical component of achieving a balanced budget.

Like other bills I have vetoed this session, HB 648 is another example of an unfortunate trend in the legislature to pass both revenue reductions and increased program expenditures outside the biennial budget process. REMARKS

Rep. Mirski: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I'll try to make this quick. This is difficult for me because I like the Chair of the House Judiciary Committee and unfortunately it involves him. At some point during my first year in this House, I rose to invoke personal privilege and the then-Speaker informed me that what I really wanted was to ask for Unanimous Consent since the implication of personal privilege was really for the purpose of defending one's honor and reputation or for the purpose of correcting a wrong which one might have done to another member and in order to make an apology. Having been corrected, I asked for Unanimous Consent, said my piece and sat down and since then I have had no cause to invoke Personal Privilege until today. Today, I rise primarily for the purpose of expressing my apologies to a number of members of this House, in fact, probably to the House as a whole. I find I have misled you, given some wrongful advice and most importantly diffused your righteous opposition and objections to those impeachment investigation proceedings which conflicted with your inherent right or the inherent right of members of this House to participate and be informed. The member from Hudson, who strenuously objected to the Committee's closing of its doors, who prepared the basis for a Constitutional challenge to the Committee's plunge into secrecy and who worked so hard to gather support of the rest of the House member's rights of access and to whom I failed to give proper support, I deeply apologize. To the member from Epsom, the member of the Judiciary Committee who so strenuously fought on behalf of the public's right-to-know and to whom I also failed to give vigorous support when it was most critically needed in the beginning, I apologize. For those New Hampshire citizens whose dismay with our Judiciary is palpable and who so desperately wish for judicial reform, I let you down, too. When you pointed out that the Judiciary Committee proceedings were going sideways rather than toward the mark, instead of contesting that new direction, I asked you to stay your concerns; and, to the press when you confronted the Speaker on the matter of your right-to-know, I remained silent. As a sponsor of HR 50, and in my heart knowing better, I accept responsibility for these failures. You nevertheless deserve to know why I succumbed to the notion that principle could, perhaps, be set aside just for a moment if a greater good might ensue. Having repeated a historic and recurring human failing, I painfully relearned an old lesson and that is that the sloughing off of principle is instantly damaging to the public as well as one's own perception of one's character. In the end, I can assure you the end is not worth the damage inflicted by the means and so you deserve an explanation. In early December of 1997 and when I served on Fairbanks II, a vote was taken to subpoena the secret records of complaints against judges. The vote was six in favor and three against. After the vote, the members were informed that the records would be subpoenaed on the following Wednesday or Thursday. To my great surprise, the Chair, without a vote of the Committee, stayed the issuance of that subpoena. By the middle of the following week, not only had the subpoena not been issued, but the Committee membership was increased by the addition of two new alternate members who were appointed by the Speaker and during that same period, per subpoena, Committee members were intensely lobbied by Majority and Minority Leaders to change their minds, this is to get the records of the JCC. Sure enough, with the aid and vote of a new alternate who, up until that moment had not heard so much as a minute's testimony on the subject of Judge Fairbanks' wrongful behavior, the subpoena was killed and the effort to get at the secret records of the court defeated. I learned what power and influence the Chief Justice was able to exert on legislative leadership, quite frankly, from that experience. Last year, having sponsored the Bill of Address, I learned the extent to which the New Hampshire Bar's bluebloods were prepared to circle the wagons. I learned how aggressive the Judiciary's power elite could be in defense of wrongful behavior by one of their own. And once again I learned just how supine certain legislators would become in the face of illusory power of the court and it is illusory. So, by noon of the Wednesday before the impending Thursday vote on HR 50, the Minority Leader and I agreed that the vote of five committee members would be, excuse me, I got a little ahead of myself. We did have a minor dispute about the drafting of that bill, but by the Wednesday before the impending Thursday vote on HR 50, the Minority Leader and I had agreed that the vote of five committee members would probably be sufficient to compel testimony. This is all about my interest in getting the minority on this committee the chance to question whom they wished. So, imagine my dismay when, at noon, the majority leader balked, refusing to grant the minority the ability to compel testimony. Since I was a prime sponsor, I decided that I wouldn't sign off unless the interests of the minority were somehow served. By 3:00 p.m. or so, neither the Majority Leader nor I had budged and it appeared that there would be competing impeachment resolutions on the floor the following day. At that point, working very hard in the background, the representative from Litchfield, and I thank you, secured from the Chairman of the Judiciary Committee the promise that if a minority member wanted a particular party deposed or questioned, the Committee member and the Chair would go to counsel and have the subpoena issued. The impasse was broken, the House leadership was quickly informed of the arrangement, the minority interests on the committee were secured upon the honor of the Chair. Preceding the vote on HR 50, minority members expressed their appreciation to the Chair for his commitment to their interests. Feeling secure and believing that the Chair would honor his word, I stepped back from my natural inclination to comment when Committee proceedings began to go awry. I restrained myself when committee counsel advanced a variety of goofy ideas on matters concerning separation of powers in the role of the court, ideas utterly in conflict with the Constitution's intent, and when friends in the House complained about committee procedures I advised them to place their faith in the Chair. As long as the minority of the committee remained able, through the authority specifically granted the Chair and the language of HR 50, and the opportunity to go wherever the inquiry might lead remained, so instead of standing on principle when principle demanded a response, I tried instead to honor what for me was a difficult quid pro quo, the deferential treatment of the process. Unfortunately, the Chair refused to honor the promise which was made to the representative from Litchfield, to me and to the minority members of the Judiciary Committee. The minority had requested that Attorney Bussiere, Justice Thayer's mentor and bank, Michael O'Malley, late of the Governor's office and Judith Thayer be deposed. The majority of the Judiciary Committee have refused to depose these potential witnesses or to question them otherwise. The Chair's refusal to exercise the authority given him under the terms of HR 50 to make good on his promise to minority members to bring before the Committee those individuals whom they wished to have questioned. And what might members learn from questioning these witnesses? Mr. O'Malley is believed to provide insight as to what truly motivated the particular direction and thrust of the AG's report. Mr. McLaughlin notified every political leader of consequence about his intentions, excluding, however, members of the Executive Council. Executive Councilors represent 250,000 voters, more or less. The Executive Council has the same constitutional responsibilities as the Governor with respect to nomination and approval of judges. Why were the councilors excluded from the AG's information loop? Mr. O'Malley's foreknowledge of the AG's intention speaks to Mr. O'Malley's unique position in the Governor's office. Why would the Committee not want to know the truth about who knew what, where and when? It is anticipated that Judith Thayer, incidentally Judith Thayer is the victim of the underlying offense which propelled this entire case into the public. She is the victim. We believe that she could provide insight into the true culture of the court. Judith Thayer would have asserted that Stephen Thayer regularly complained of a working majority on the Court which predetermined the outcome of cases. She would likely identify the justices who conspired in that way and in doing so would likely give credence to Justice Horton's assertion that Justice Brock picked retired Justice Batchelder to sit Claremont II because he knew how Batchelder would vote. In his recent public remarks, Sherman Horton did not, as has been reported, back away from that assertion. What he said to that committee was that it didn't take a Rhodes scholar to understand why Brock wanted Batchelder on the Claremont II panel given Batchelder's arguments during the Claremont I deliberations. Horton said that, in effect, Brock had two votes. Were it revealed, for example, that Justice Batchelder, Justice Brock and Justice Johnson formed a majority which regularly predetermined the outcome of cases, would the members of this House begin to think differently about who the court truly served and would members of this House reconsider the importance of Justice Horton's remarks concerning Justice Brock's packing of Claremont II? Now, might Mr. Bussiere be able to inform us about the nature of the relationship, financial or otherwise with Judge Thayer? Might we determine if and how that relationship benefited Attorney Bussiere either because of Judge Thayer's position on the Court or because Judge Thayer was liaison to the Court's professional conduct committee? Might we learn if there were other Judges or even members of the Professional Conduct Committee who have a financial relationship in connection to Attorney Bussiere? If so, what might those relationships have meant to Attorney Bussiere's friends, clients and other member of the New Hampshire Bar? My friends, these questions remain unanswered and the true dimension of the Court's potential duplicity and corruption quite frankly remains shrouded on account of the Committee's failure to delve more deeply into the internal structure of the Court and the particular relationships which drive it. I will say this, listening to a vast amount of the Committee's proceedings on the radio, I've come to admire the capacity of the Judiciary Committee members to question and cross examine witnesses. I have great faith that the Committee members can quickly determine the inherent worth and depth of testimony which might be provided by Bussiere, Thayer and O'Malley. The Committee has a great deal to gain and only a bit of time to lose in granting the minority's wish to depose and question these individuals. At the moment, truth is being suppressed because the Chair refuses to honor his promise to minority members. As for me, the Chair's failure to honor that commitment to minority members of the Judiciary Committee has impugned the integrity of the assertions I made to members of this House and the press and the public and his refusal to honor his promise diminishes the stature of members of leadership whom I respect because by inference it can easily be assumed that leadership seeks to suppress the truth. I expect that the Chair will want to respond to these remarks. I have no doubt. And I expect that some members of the House may rise to his defense but I will tell you that whatever rationale or explanations are put forth, when the dust settles certain simple facts remain. A promise was made and a word of honor given. Neither were fulfilled. Perceptions of my own personal integrity suffers the consequence. So, once again, to those I've unintentionally offended or misled as a consequence of my faith in the word of the Chair of the House Judiciary Committee, I apologize. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Rep. Mock: Thank you, Madam Speaker and members of the House. I never thought that I would have to stand here to protect my reputation or to protect my name, but I do. I do it calmly because this is important to me. From the very first inception of HR 50, outside forces have done their damndest to take over this investigation and it was I who stood in their way and it was 21 other members who stood with me. I have said this from the very beginning and I told a caller to my home on Saturday night at 6:33 p.m. that he would subpoena witnesses before my committee over my dead body and he told me that unless he had an apology from a certain committee member that he would turn the power of the pen against the committee with certain news media that he could use and further that if I didn't invite or subpoena a certain lady to testify before the Committee that he was going to do something. I don't know what he said. At that point, he had me riled and I told him about my dead body. And, there have been times through this whole thing when I've thought I wasn't too far from there, but I do want to address the one thing here that is upsetting. Henry Mock never, ever made a promise that he would subpoena anyone that a minority of the committee wanted unless he agreed with it. If they thought for a minute that I was going to subpoena Mickey Mouse or I was going subpoena someone to listen to a divorce case or subpoena someone looking into the Claremont school case, unless it was necessary in the scope of our charge, then they don't know me. House Resolution 50 told us to investigate within the confines of the Attorney General's report and wherever that might take us. It wasn't about Claremont and it wasn't about comments made between a husband and his wife. Sorry. Now, a lot goes on in these hearings you don't see. And you are right, these things were kept behind closed doors for weeks and I'm glad that they were. That's exactly where they should have been at that stage, of course. As a matter of fact, I stood here and said that one day and you gave me a standing ovation and the committee thanks you for that. Behind, in the little ice cream parlor opposite our hearing room, one day I had three or four over here wanting Mr. or Mrs. So-and-So. I had a bunch over here wanting someone else, some saying yes, some saying no. I went to the window. I looked out at the pigeons sitting on the window sill and I thought what a nice life they have and then my German temper showed and there is nothing wrong with that and I don't apologize for my temper which some editorialists have critiqued. I turned around and I said, "That's it. I've made a decision. Every single subpoena in this committee, because you people can't decide for yourselves, every single one from now on will be issued by majority vote and it will be done right out there where we can go out there and perform like damn fools which is what we are doing right now." That is exactly what I said. I apologize, Madam Speaker, for the language. But, I want to be honest. So, back to my original, furthermore, just on the little promise, I agreed to accept the power of the subpoena if I myself approved of the suggested witness. On the other hand, if I didn't, I went one step further. I said: "Let the committee decide." They could have overridden even me. So, I think I have been fair. The poison pen that I was threatened with on Saturday night is functioning and it functions with inside information and it's not all correct. For instance, this morning's or yesterday's had half of my committee playing in a golf tournament. Not one single member of the Judiciary Committee was absent yesterday playing golf. And, if I was on the Mount Washington boat last Wednesday night, I'll tell you that boat has shrunk in size because I was on a boat. But I wasn't on the Mount Washington. I think to interject what has been interjected here today into these proceedings at this critical time is absolutely unthinkable. Some people don't understand when they are ahead. Thank you.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Rep. Rose addressed the House.

RECESS MOTION

Rep. Chandler moved that the House stand in recess for the purpose of receiving the report of the Judiciary Committee pursuant to HR 50, only.

Adopted.

The House recessed at 1:00 p.m.

RECESS

(Speaker Sytek in the Chair)

Rep. Lozeau moved that the House adjourn.

Adopted.

HOUSE JOURNAL No. 20

Wednesday, July 12, 2000

The House assembled at 10:00 a.m., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the Speaker.

Prayer was offered by Guest Chaplain, Reverend Lynn Johnson, Pastor of the West Rumney Community Church.

God of Enlightenment and Truth, in a day of grave decision and conflicting emotions, we pause to acknowledge Your presence, Your power and Your authority. We remember You as the author of justice, the creator of human abilities and the judge of human limits and wrongdoing. We confess that we know ourselves to be human, created with joyful abilities and wondrous potential, but also limited by boundaries of time and history and by our own mistakes and failings. We come with a sense of calling to make decisions of lasting import; we come with humility, acknowledging that we make those decisions with limited insight and fallible understanding. We come in faith, remembering that You have promised that You are in our midst and, therefore, daring to believe that peace, compassion and justice are real possibilities. Let insight and integrity lead to inspiration; may new life emerge from these difficult times and may this body work to forge a future that is better than the past. Living and righteous God, may our deliberations be infused with Your wisdom; may our divisions be healed with Your understanding and may our decisions reflect the light of Your compassionate justice. Amen.

Rep. Kenney led the Pledge of Allegiance.

SPECIAL GUESTS

Mercedes Sabio, Director of Content, Communications and Broadcast for New Hampshire Public Television, and Mark Handley, President and General Manager of New Hampshire Public Radio, guests of the House.

The House of Representatives offered the following:

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 26

Honoring New Hampshire Public Radio and New Hampshire Public Television

WHEREAS, the stated missions of New Hampshire Public Radio and New Hampshire Public Television are respectively to help create a more informed public, one challenged and enriched by a deeper understanding and appreciation of state, national and worldwide events, ideas and culture, and to serve the public interest through education, culture and citizenship, and

WHEREAS, New Hampshire Public Radio and New Hampshire Public Television each did recognize the great significance and historic precedent of House Resolution 50 when it was adopted on April 13, 2000, authorizing and directing the House Judiciary Committee to investigate whether cause did exist for the impeachment of any State Supreme Court Justices, and

WHEREAS, New Hampshire Public Radio and New Hampshire Public Television each did decide to perform a valuable public service and each did interrupt regular broadcast schedules to provide citizens of the state with live gavel-to-gavel coverage of the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment hearings, and

WHEREAS, New Hampshire Public Radio and New Hampshire Public Television did provide the people of New Hampshire with the opportunity to listen to, to view and to learn all of the details while the House Judiciary Committee did deal with this most critical issue, and

WHEREAS, New Hampshire Public Radio's and New Hampshire Public Television's exemplary staffs of journalists, producers, directors and engineers did broadcast and telecast more than two hundred and fifty hours of live, day-and-night coverage of the proceedings, now therefore be it

RESOLVED, by the House of Representatives in Regular Session convened, that New Hampshire Public Radio and New Hampshire Public Television each receive the highest of plaudits and accolades for the valuable public service each did provide to the citizens of New Hampshire with live coverage of the impeachment hearings, and be it further

RESOLVED, that the House of Representatives acknowledge and commend New Hampshire Public Radio and New Hampshire Public Television for their outstanding achievements, and that suitable copies of this Resolution be prepared for presentation to New Hampshire Public Radio and New Hampshire Public Television.

Unanimously adopted.

JUDICIARY COMMITTEE REPORT PURSUANT TO HR 50

MAJORITY COMMITTEE REPORT

BACKGROUND

Reps. Henry P. Mock and Janet G. Wall for the Majority of Judiciary: House Resolution 50 was passed by the House of Representatives on April 9, 2000 on a vote of 343 to 7. The language of the resolution authorizes and directs the House Judiciary Committee "to investigate whether cause exists for the impeachment of David A. Brock, chief justice, and/or any other justice of the New Hampshire Supreme Court" and to report to the House "such resolutions, articles of impeachment, or other recommendations that it deems proper." The language of the resolution also clearly defines the scope of the investigation to the "report of the attorney general, and any information arising out of the judiciary committee investigation."

HR 50 gave the Committee the power to conduct a thorough investigation, including the power to issue subpoenas for testimony and documents and the power to take depositions. The Committee undertook this exercise of constitutional power with the realization that it was going to set historic precedent as the first impeachment inquiry in New Hampshire in 210 years. Under the New Hampshire Constitution, Part II, Articles 17 and 38, the House of Representatives is the "grand inquest of the state; and all impeachments made by them, shall be heard and tried by the senate." The House is directed by the Constitution to determine whether certain conduct may be "bribery, corruption, malpractice or maladministration" constituting impeachable charges which shall be sent over to the Senate for a full trial.

This impeachment investigation was the result of a report issued by the Attorney General on March 31, 2000 which raised questions about the conduct of justices of the Supreme Court. That report followed the resignation of W. Stephen Thayer as an Associate Justice on March 29, 2000.

Special Counsel Joseph D. Steinfield was engaged to represent the Judiciary Committee. The Committee began by adopting its own rules and procedures for the conduct of the investigation. The Committee determined to begin by taking depositions (attended only by committee members, special counsel and deponent's counsel) and by issuing subpoenas for documents. Although there was some criticism, the initial stage of the investigation was conducted in private. The members of the Committee believed this was necessary in order to protect the strategy and integrity of the investigation. This decision was challenged by the counsel for the Committee on Judicial Conduct ("JCC") who asserted that he should be able to attend the depositions of the justices and other court employees in order to protect confidentiality of the JCC under Supreme Court Rule 40. Hearings were held in both Merrimack County Superior Court and the Supreme Court (before a specially appointed panel of superior court judges). Both court orders protected the integrity of the Judiciary Committee investigation and barred the JCC's counsel from attending the depositions. Despite the untimely interference with the progress of its inquiry, the Committee took 19 depositions and issued many subpoenas during this first part of its inquiry.

On May 30, 2000, at the conclusion of the initial stage of the investigation, Special Counsel issued an Interim Report to the Committee. The Interim Report included legal and historical research about impeachment and a summary of the evidence gathered up to that date. The Committee next adopted procedures for the second stage of its investigation, the taking of public testimony. With the information already gathered, the committee determined the witness list and identified the important issues arising from the first stage of the inquiry. This was a difficult task as the deposition testimony revealed varying and conflicting recollections of events, including some events that the Committee deemed of particular significance. Also as background to the issues to be addressed, the Committee considered the following constitutional provisions, statutes and Supreme Court Rules: NH Constitution, Pt. I, Art. 35. The Judiciary; Tenure of Office, etc.

It is essential to the preservation of the rights of every individual, his life, liberty, property, and character, that there be an impartial interpretation of the laws, and administration of justice. It is the right of every citizen to be tried by judges as impartial as the lot of humanity will admit. It is therefore not only the best policy, but for the security of the rights of the people, that the judges of the supreme judicial court should hold their offices so long as they behave well; subject, however, to such limitations, on account of age, as may be provided by the constitution of the state; and that they should have honorable salaries, ascertained and established by standing laws.

Supreme Court. RSA 490:3, I and II. Disqualification; Temporary Justices (emphasis added).

I. The provisions as to the disqualification of justices of the superior court apply to justices of the supreme court. Whenever a justice of the supreme court shall be disqualified or otherwise unable to sit in any cause or matter pending before such court, the chief or senior associate justice of the supreme court may assign another justice to sit according to the provisions of paragraph II of this section.

II. Upon the retirement, disqualification, or inability to sit of any justice of the supreme court, the chief justice or senior associate justice of the supreme court may assign a justice of the supreme court who has retired from regular active service to sit during supreme court sessions while the vacancy continues, or he may notify the chief justice or senior associate justice of the superior court of such vacancy. Upon such notification, the chief justice or senior associate justice of the superior court shall provide the supreme court for each day of sitting during a session while the vacancy shall continue with the names of 2 or more superior court justices in regular active service or who are retired and are not otherwise disqualified. The chief justice or senior associate justice of the supreme court may then assign a justice to sit temporarily on the court from among those superior court justices whose names have been provided.

III. A justice assigned to sit temporarily on the supreme court pursuant to paragraph II of this section shall have all the authority of a supreme court justice to hear arguments, render decisions, and file opinions. No justice shall be assigned to sit on the supreme court in the determination of any cause or matter upon which he has previously sat or for which he is otherwise disqualified nor without his consent.

Statements Out of Court. RSA 495:1. Statements to Judges.

No judge, justice, magistrate, county commissioner or commissioners in whose court or before whom any suit at law or in equity, petition or other proceeding is pending or to be heard or tried shall listen to any statements in regard thereto, except in open court or in the presence of all parties thereto.

Criminal Code. RSA 640:3 Improper Influence

I. A person is guilty of a class B felony if he:

(a) Threatens any harm to a public servant, party official or voter with the purpose of influencing his action, decision, opinion, recommendation, nomination, vote or other exercise of discretion; or
(b) Privately addresses to any public servant who has or will have an official discretion in a judicial or administrative proceeding any representation, argument or other communication with the purpose of influencing that discretion on the basis of considerations other than those authorized by law; or

(c) Being a public servant or party official, fails to report to a law enforcement officer conduct designed to influence him in violation of subparagraph (a) or (b) hereof.

II. "Harm" means any disadvantage or injury, pecuniary or otherwise, including disadvantage or injury to any other person or entity in whose welfare the public servant, party official, or voter is interested.

NH SUPREME COURT RULE 38. CODE OF JUDICIAL CONDUCT

(adopted by the Supreme Court in 1973)

Canon 2A. A Judge Should Avoid Impropriety and the Appearance of Impropriety in All His Activities

A judge should respect and comply with the law and should conduct himself at all times in a manner that promotes public confidence in the integrity and impartiality of the judiciary.

Canon 3A(1)-(4). A Judge Should Perform the Duties of His Office Impartially and Diligently
The judicial duties of a judge take precedence over all his other activities. His judicial duties include all the duties of his office prescribed by law. In the performance of these duties, the following standards apply:

A. Adjudicative Responsibilities.

(1) A judge should be faithful to the law and maintain professional competence in it. He should be unswayed by partisan interests, public clamor, or fear of criticism.

(2) A judge should maintain order and decorum in proceedings before him.

(3) A judge should be patient, dignified, and courteous to litigants, jurors, witnesses, lawyers, and others with whom he deals in his official capacity, and should require similar conduct of lawyers, and of his staff, court officials, and others subject to his direction and control.

(4) A judge should accord to every person who is legally interested in a proceeding, or his lawyer, full right to be heard according to law. He should not permit private interviews, arguments or communications designed to influence his judicial action, where interests to be affected thereby are not represented before him, except in cases where provision is made by law for ex parte application.

B. Administrative Responsibilities.

(1) A judge should diligently discharge his administrative responsibilities, maintain professional competence in judicial administration, and facilitate the performance of the administrative responsibilities of other judges and court officials.

(2) A judge should require his staff and court officials subject to his direction and control to observe the standards of fidelity and diligence that apply to him.

(3) If a judge shall become aware of unprofessional conduct by a judge or a lawyer

(a) he shall in the instance of a judge report his knowledge to the committee on judicial conduct, and (b) he shall in the instance of a lawyer, report his knowledge to the committee on professional conduct.

(4) A judge should not make unnecessary appointments. He should exercise his power of appointment only on the basis of merit, avoiding nepotism and favoritism. He should not approve compensation of appointees beyond the fair value of services rendered.

C. Disqualification.

(1) A judge should disqualify himself in a proceeding in which his impartiality might reasonably be questioned, including but not limited to instances where:

(a) he has a personal bias or prejudice concerning a party, or personal knowledge of disputed evidentiary facts concerning the proceeding;

(b) he served as lawyer in the matter in controversy, or a lawyer with whom he previously practiced law served during such association as a lawyer concerning the matter, or the judge or such lawyer has been a material witness concerning it;

(c) he knows that he, individually or as a fiduciary, or his spouse or minor child residing in his household, has a financial interest in the subject matter in controversy or is a party to the proceeding, or any other interest that could be substantially affected by the outcome of the proceeding;

(d) he or his spouse, or a person within the third degree of relationship to either of them, or the spouse of such a person:

(i) is a party to the proceeding, or an officer, director, or trustee of a party;

(ii) is acting as a lawyer in the proceeding;

(iii) is known by the judge to have an interest that could be substantially affected by the outcome of the proceeding;

(iv) is to the judge's knowledge likely to be a material witness in the proceeding;

(2) A judge should inform himself about his personal and fiduciary financial interests, and make a reasonable effort to inform himself about the personal financial interests of his spouse and minor children residing in his household.

(3) For the purposes of this section:

- (a) the degree of relationship is calculated according to the civil law system;
- (b) "fiduciary" includes such relationships as executor, administrator, trustee, and guardian;
- (c) "financial interest" means ownership of a legal or equitable interest, however small, or a relationship as director, advisor, or other active participant in the affairs of a party, except that:
 - (i) ownership in a mutual or common investment fund that holds securities is not a "financial interest" in such securities unless the judge participates in the management of the funds;
 - (ii) an office in an educational, religious, charitable, fraternal, or civic organization is not a "financial interest" in securities held by the organization;
 - (iii) the proprietary interest of a policy holder in a mutual insurance company, of a depositor in a mutual savings association, or a similar proprietary interest, is a "financial interest" in the organization only if the outcome of the proceeding could substantially affect the value of the interest;
 - (iv) ownership of government securities is a "financial interest" in the issuer only if the outcome of the proceeding could substantially affect the value of the securities.

D. Remittal of Disqualification.

A judge disqualified by the terms of Canon 3C(1)(c) or Canon 3C(1)(d) may, instead of withdrawing from the proceeding, disclose on the record the basis of his disqualification. If, based on such disclosure, the parties and lawyers, independently of the judge's participation, all agree in writing that the judge's relationship is immaterial or that his financial interest is insubstantial, the judge is no longer disqualified, and may participate in the proceeding. The agreement, signed by all parties and lawyers, shall be incorporated in the record of the proceeding.

After considering the evidence presented in the first stage of the investigation, the committee determined that the following events or transactions should be the focus of the public phase of the inquiry. Some of the issues were not adopted by the Committee as part of its final determinations, but are included in this report because they played a major role in the deliberative process.

1. Feld's Case Conduct. This transaction began with the underlying case of Bussiere v. Roberge. Justice Johnson drafted the opinion and expedited it at the request of Justice Thayer. The Court affirmed the lower court ruling in favor of Bussiere whom then filed a professional conduct complaint against Attorney Feld (attorney for the Roberge family). The Professional Conduct Committee recommended that Feld be disbarred and the Judicial Referee appointed by the Supreme Court recommended public censure. When the recommendations came before the Supreme Court, Justices Thayer, Horton and Broderick were all recused. Justice Johnson again drew the job of drafting the opinion and it was distributed to all the justices. The case conference was scheduled for April 23, 1999 and all justices, including those recused, were present. The recollections of the witnesses as to what happened at the conference differ. The draft opinion is in evidence and includes various comments by the justices written on its face by Justice Johnson and with apparent input from recused justices, including Justice Thayer who was a long-standing friend of Attorney Bussiere (social and financial relationship) and who commented about the ultimate sanction. The after-conference reaction of the justices to the comments made by Justice Thayer also differs. Justice Johnson and others testified that he was very upset and shared his anger with Justice Brock. Chief Justice Brock doesn't remember anything inappropriate happening at the conference and advised Justice Johnson later that judicial confidentiality (the confidentiality of the conference) outweighed any duty to report inappropriate conduct. (Other justices, both current and former, testified that they did not agree with Justice Brock's view of the confidentiality of the conference when presented with an ethical or other violation). Ultimately, a revised draft opinion and the final published opinion included the changes suggested at the April case conference.

2. February 4, 2000 Conference. All the justices had disqualified themselves from serving on any of the Thayer v. Thayer panels, so it was necessary to appoint either retired Supreme Court justices or Superior Court judges to sit on a temporary basis (see RSA 490:3). Prior to the February 4th conference, Justice Thayer had asked Justice Brock in chambers whether he would appoint three justices instead of five to his appeal panel. On February 4th a Counsel's Agenda was scheduled and was attended by Court Counsel Eileen Fox and the four sitting justices. At that meeting, Chief Justice Brock announced that he was appointing Judges Mangones and Pappagianis to the Thayer divorce panel. Everyone in the room testified that they felt that Justice Brock was inviting comment on his appointment choices. Justice Brock, however, says that was not his intention. Everyone agrees that Justice Horton (recused) and Justice Thayer (recused and a party to the case) responded to the statement by expressing opposition to the Pappagianis appointment. All the witnesses also agree that Justice Brock then left the room and that he went to talk to Clerk Howard Zibel about the appointments to the Thayer panel. Justice Brock testified he went to delay the phone call to Judge Pappagianis. Was Justice Brock influenced by the Thayer statements? It is not clear whether they talked about Judge Mangone's conflict at that point or at some later time that day. When Justice Brock returned to the conference room, he asked Justice Thayer to step outside the room. He then asked Justice Horton (also recused) to explain his opposition to Judge Pappagianis whereupon it became clear that Horton thought it was an appointment to the JCC panel. The communications by Justice Brock to Justice Thayer and Horton are prohibited ex parte communications under RSA 495:1.

3. The Alleged Hallway Conference on Feb. 4th. The determination of whether a hallway conversation happened during the time of the Feb. 4th conference is crucial to the Committee's determinations because if it did, it would be a prohibited ex-parte communication. Justice Thayer says it happened; Justice Brock says it did not. Therefore, the question of how Justice Thayer got back into the room is key. However, the testimony about this transaction is in conflict. Eileen Fox states that Justice Brock left the room to get Justice Thayer and that she did not leave the room. Justice Broderick states that Justice Brock asked Fox to get Justice Thayer. Justice Brock states that either he asked Fox to get Justice Thayer or that he may have stepped out of the conference room to ask a court employee to find Justice Thayer. Additionally, there is a court employee (discovered through interrogatories to the Court) who testified that she saw Justice Thayer in the hallway outside the conference room at that time. Justice Thayer states that Justice Brock came out to get him and they had a hallway conversation about the appointment of Judge Pappagianis to his divorce panel. Thayer says that Brock also asked him whether he had a problem with Judge Mangones and whether Judge O'Neill was okay and then they went back into the conference room. Justice Brock denies that the hallway conversation took place and says he did have a conversation with Justice Thayer later in the law clerk's wing. After Justice Thayer returned to the room the Counsel's Agenda continued. Testimony differs on what was and wasn't said about the Pappagianis appointment after the meeting resumed.

4. The Weeks after the Feb. 4th Incident – Reports to JCC and Attorney General. During the days and weeks that followed, there were many conversations and discussions about whether comments made on February 4th were inappropriate, whether there was a duty to report to the JCC or to law enforcement for Justice Thayer's attempts to influence; and whether anyone was actually going to report. The Zibel memorandum was drafted and discussed by members of the Court and various court employees. There are also questions about the conversations between Justice Thayer and Justices Brock and Broderick and whether any reportable threats were made by Justice Thayer. Again, there are many differing recollections.

Howard Zibel concluded by February 14th that he had a duty to report the conduct. Justice Broderick testified that he initially believed there had been "unintended ethical lapses" by Justice Brock, but that reporting would damage the judicial system more than any damage that had occurred and so he decided not to report but rather to discuss the matter with all the justices individually. Justice Horton had not realized the inappropriateness of the conduct until Justice Broderick informed him. On February 14th, Justices Brock and Broderick and Court Counsel Fox decided to retain both counsel for the Court and counsel individually. On February 17th Justices Brock, Broderick and Horton filed a report with the JCC about the February 4th comments by Justices Thayer and Horton and about the comments made by Justice Thayer at the Feld's Case conference in 1999. On February 22nd, Howard Zibel filed a report with the JCC. On February 25th, Attorney Michael Ramsdell, on behalf of Chief Justice Brock, delivered a copy of the Zibel memorandum to the Attorney General. Also, Justice Brock testified that he assumed another letter reporting criminal threats by Justice Thayer under RSA 640:3(c) had been filed with the Attorney General by his attorney. Later he testified that he had known that the letter had not been sent.

5. Court Recusal Policies. The court has had a long-standing policy of allowing disqualified or recused (used by the committee to mean the same thing) to participate in cases by receiving draft opinions, attending the confidential case conferences, and commenting on grammar or style. Opinions differ on the extent to which comments beyond style were made or whether recused justices ever influenced outcomes. It is possible that, at least in Feld's Case, the comments by recused justices changed the scope of the opinion. Since the release of the Attorney General's Report, the Court has adopted and instituted a new policy prohibiting participation by recused justices.

6. Home Gas Matter. This matter came to the attention of the committee through testimony about an "old JCC matter regarding Justice Brock" by Howard Zibel and by documents provided by former Justice William Johnson at his deposition which included a memorandum concerning whether Justice Thayer should have been afforded an opportunity to appear before the justices as in "past practice." Further investigation revealed that in 1987, former Sen. Edward Dupont was a defendant in a case pending in Rockingham County (Home Gas v. Strafford Fuels, Inc and its President, Edward C. Dupont). An order had been issued in the superior court against Dupont and then after various motions a petition for writ of certiorari had been filed for review by the Supreme Court. The petition was granted and the Supreme Court reversed a portion of Judge McHugh's order and remanded the case for trial (before Judge Gray). There is testimony that Sen. Bartlett (Senate President at the time) communicated to Justice Brock about the pending case, perhaps at the time of conversations about pending judicial legislation. Judge Gray stated that Justice Brock called him asking about the status of the case and told him who Dupont was. Justice Brock denies this phone call and instead states that he did call the Rockingham County Clerk, Ray Taylor, about the status of the case. Justice Brock says it was Judge Gray who called him. There is further testimony from Judge McHugh and a court stenographer that in March 1987 Judge Gray came into the chambers and stated that he had just been called by Chief Justice Brock.

In August, 1987 there was a hearing on a motion in the Home Gas case in Judge Gray's chambers. Judge Douglas Gray made comments in front of the attorneys for the parties about Sen. Dupont's opposition to judicial pay raises. Russell Hilliard, attorney for Edward Dupont, said that he told his client about the comments and his concerns after the hearing. In November 1987, Justice Brock wrote to Sen. Bartlett about Judge Gray's remarks suggesting that a recusal motion or a complaint to the JCC could be filed, otherwise he would have the comments "fully investigated" at the end of the case. In January 1988 Justice Brock wrote a letter to Sen. Dupont apparently responding to Dupont's comments about Judge Gray and again suggested a motion to recuse or a complaint to the JCC. No motion to recuse was filed nor was a complaint filed with the JCC. Justice Brock testified that suddenly in March, 1989, a "light bulb went off" and he remembered that he had not followed up on the matter. He discussed the matter with the other justices and they suddenly realized that there was a one-year statute of limitations for filing complaints to the JCC so nothing further could be done.

The Court then undertook to investigate the matter and report to the JCC even though the JCC no longer had any jurisdiction over the complaint. Justice Brock called Judge DiClerico who was the acting Chief Justice of the Superior Court and asked him to conduct an investigation relative to Judge Gray's remarks. Judge DiClerico stated that he had no idea what kind of investigation was being conducted but wrote letters to Judge Gray and to Attorneys Hilliard, Cassavechia and Hearn for a response to the comments of Judge Gray. Judge Gray had not been aware of the allegations before this time and was angry that he was being informed so long after the fact. Also, he had never heard of this type of investigation. Thereafter a meeting was held at the Court with Judges Gray and DiClerico and the Supreme Court justices. It was at that meeting that the conflict about the phone calls became apparent when Judge Gray said that Justice Brock had called him. The other justices (with Justice Brock not participating according to a letter from Justice Batchelder to Judge Gray) followed up on the discrepancy and determined that Justice Brock had made a phone call to Judge Gray. Justice Brock first testified in his deposition that this investigation had not taken place. Later he testified that in fact a "discreet inquiry" had been conducted about the phone call.

In October 1989, more than 2 years after the comments by Judge Gray, Justice Brock and the four other justices filed a letter with the JCC having found evidence that Judge Gray had made inappropriate remarks and that Justice Brock had made a phone call to Judge Gray. They also reported, however, that the phone call was not unethical, but that it could have made an inappropriate impression. The justices further stated that they had not filed within the statute of limitations (created by Supreme Court Rule) because they had decided it was better not to interfere with a pending case. The docket indicates, however, that the case continued to the end of 1989. The JCC responded that the letter was placed "on file."

The House Judiciary Committee took public testimony from 19 witnesses over a two week period. This provided an opportunity for the members and the public to judge the credibility of the witnesses and their recollection of the events in question. It was an opportunity for the members to question the witnesses more closely with the deposition testimony of all witnesses and all the collected documents in hand. At the same time the justices and their attorneys were permitted to make either an opening or a closing statement to the Committee.

At the close of the public testimony, the Committee conducted two full days of deliberations in public. Each member had a chance to express his or her feelings and opinions and to ask questions of the other members and of Special Counsel. The Committee decided on a 12 to 9 vote to adopt a standard of clear and convincing evidence to measure whether the conduct rises to a level of an impeachable offense sufficient to send to the Senate for a full trial. It was expressed by many members, however, that each member would ultimately use his or her own individual threshold to determine if the burden of proof is met in each instance. The committee members are not bound by the Constitution to select or use a particular burden of proof. The Committee then decided it could recommend impeachment or certain other sanctions such as reprimand or censure. The Committee additionally determined that it would make recommendations for future judicial reform legislation in the Final Committee Report.

COMMITTEE VOTE – JULY 5, 2000

The Committee decided to approach the vote justice-by-justice and to evaluate each one's role in the major transactions. The Committee also discussed and adopted a burden of proof after considering whether the appropriate burden would be 1) a preponderance of the evidence (slightly more than half); 2) clear and convincing evidence (middle ground); or 3) beyond a reasonable doubt (more than 95%). Some members did not believe that a burden should be adopted at all. However, although the Constitution doesn't require a particular burden for impeachment, the Committee voted 12 to 9 to adopt the clear and convincing standard thereby setting a high bar for cases of impeachment. The Committee also discussed alternatives to the constitutionally authorized impeachment and address actions and considered admonishment, reprimand and censure. The Committee formally adopted definitions of the three sanctions in order to consider them, even though there are members who do not believe the House has the authority to discipline judges beyond impeachment or address. The definitions are:

Admonishment: to express warning or disapproval in an earnest or solicitous manner.

Reprimand: in professional responsibility, a form of disciplinary action imposed after trial or formal legal proceedings that declares a judge or lawyer's conduct as improper but does not limit the person's right to practice.

Censure: to pronounce adverse judgment on, express disapproval of, criticize unfavorably; to find fault with, blame, condemn.

Justice Sherman D. Horton

The Committee found that Justice Horton participated in the Feld's Case conference, even though he was recused (disqualified). He received a draft opinion and he commented on the draft opinion during the conference. There is a clear concern about the participation of recused or disqualified justices, but the Committee did not believe that this transgression by Justice Horton rose to a level warranting disciplinary action.

Although the Committee regarded this conduct as inappropriate, no agreement could be reached because some members did not believe that the House has the power to discipline beyond impeachment or address and because some members did not believe the conduct rose to an impeachable level. For this reason Justice Horton was also excused for his conduct during the February 4th incident.

The Committee voted in favor of a resolution stating that the conduct of Justice Horton is not impeachable. (see HR 52)

Justice John T. Broderick

In accordance with the culture of the Supreme Court, Justice Broderick, along with other justices, participated in cases from which he was recused, a long-standing practice, recently discontinued and replaced with a new recusal policy.

The Committee scrutinized Justice Broderick's uncertainty about reporting the conduct in the February 4th conference where it is alleged that Chief Justice Brock solicited comments from the recused justices. (see HR 51, Article III) Justice Broderick testified that initially he had considered not reporting the incident as required by the Canons but would handle the matter internally. This possibility was troubling to the Committee.

As in Justice Horton's case, the Committee questioned its authority to discipline beyond impeachment and address. So, although the Committee concluded that Justice Broderick's actions were also inappropriate, the members did not believe his conduct to be impeachable. Therefore, the Committee voted in favor of a resolution stating that the conduct of Justice Broderick is not impeachable. (see HR 53)

Chief Justice David A Brock

The Judiciary Committee found by clear and convincing evidence that Chief Justice David A. Brock did engage in conduct that constitutes the impeachable offenses of maladministration or malpractice and voted three Articles of Impeachment. (see HR 51)

Article I

The Committee voted 14 to 8 that clear and convincing evidence exists to prove that in 1987, Chief Justice Brock engaged in conduct that constitutes impeachable offenses in that he placed a telephone call to Superior Court Judge Douglas Gray about the status of the Home Gas case and that in addition, he failed to report the telephone call to his colleagues at the time the Supreme Court had the appeal of the case under consideration.

Article II

The Committee voted 16 to 6 that clear and convincing evidence exists to prove that on or about February 4, 2000, Chief Justice Brock engaged in conduct that constitutes impeachable offenses in connection with the divorce case of Justice W. Stephen Thayer by engaging in ex parte communications with Justice Thayer (a party) and with the other justices, all recused from the case, in which he solicited their comments regarding judges to be appointed to the Supreme Court panel that would hear the appeal. Additionally, Chief Justice Brock participated in an ex parte communication with Justice Thayer in the hallway outside the Court's conference room in which he discussed possible appointments to the Thayer divorce appeal panel.

Article III

The Committee voted 17 to 5 that clear and convincing evidence exists to prove that Chief Justice Brock did knowingly testify falsely under oath to the House Judiciary Committee with the intention of hindering the HR 50 investigation with respect to 4 material matters.

By voting in favor of the three Articles of Impeachment the Committee concludes that Chief Justice Brock has committed impeachable offenses warranting a trial by the Senate.

Proposed Legislation

The Committee voted to recommend passage by the House of HB 1500. This is special legislation which would allow Chief Justice Brock to resign his office between the time of an impeachment by the House and the beginning of a trial by the Senate and to receive the retirement compensation and benefits beginning on the date he would have begun receiving such compensation and benefits as if he had served until the age of 65.

Judicial Reform

Throughout this process the Committee discovered many areas concerning the judicial branch of government which may fall within the purview of the legislative branch. These areas of concern may be considered for judicial reform. The issues include, but are not limited, to the following *:

- Independent Office of the Courts
- Appointment process for substitute judges (RSA 490:3)
- Terms for all judges
- Contributory judicial retirement system
- Mandatory continuing ethics education for judges
- Independent Judicial Conduct Committee and Professional Conduct Committee
- Issues concerning mandatory NH Bar Association membership for attorneys

*These are listed in no particular order and may require statutory or constitutional revisions.

Conclusion

The Committee concludes that the culture of confidentiality which prevailed in the New Hampshire Supreme Court led to a callousness in the management of our Judiciary, engendering maladministration and malpractice, consequently culminating in these historic impeachment proceedings. It is our goal, as it should be, that it is in the best interest of all New Hampshire citizens not to tear down, but to build up the confidence of our citizens in all three branches of government. As Thomas Jefferson said to George Hammond in 1792, "It is reasonable that every one who asks justice should do justice." We concur.

MINORITY COMMITTEE REPORT

Reps. Cynthia J. Dokmo and Martha S. Solow for the Minority of Judiciary: The extraordinary step of impeachment has been taken only when it seemed that the very workings of government itself have been endangered. As Special Counsel Joseph Steinfeld stated, impeachment is so grave, so serious, and so potentially threatening to the very independence of the separate branches of government that legislators throughout history have wisely chosen to follow the impeachment path only in the most heinous of circumstances. That was amply proved by the materials and tables submitted by Special Counsel. Even a casual review of the matters deemed sufficient to warrant consideration of impeachment shows that they are offenses so serious as to jeopardize the very workings of government itself. Historical context, the language in our own New Hampshire Constitution, and the penalties for impeachment make it abundantly clear that impeachable offenses under the New Hampshire Constitution can only be offenses of the most serious nature - not errors of judgment, not mistakes, not human error.

The New Hampshire Constitution contains four grounds for impeachment of state officials: "bribery, corruption, malpractice or maladministration." N.H. CONST., part 2nd, art. 35. Because none of the conduct before the committee implicates bribery, this report focuses on the three remaining grounds: corruption, malpractice and maladministration. The articles presented by the majority charge the Chief Justice with maladministration and malpractice. Though these terms are not well defined in case law, the research provided by special counsel states that statutory construction requires it to be interpreted in harmony with the words "bribery" and "corruption". Maladministration is not simple negligence or poor judgment. It involves intentional or at least reckless misconduct while serving a position of public trust.

It is essential to the preservation of liberty and our system of government that the court system be strong. As the only branch which is not subject to the political process, the court stands alone as the guardian of individual and minority rights. Therefore the remedy of impeachment should be used sparingly and only to address conduct which constitutes gross, intentional and outrageous behavior. To impeach for less would erode the separation of powers and impair the independence of the judiciary—both of which would weaken the court and upset the delicate balance of power between the three branches of government.

The charge to this Committee arose out of a flawed and incomplete investigation by the Office of the Attorney General of the State of New Hampshire. The three justices of the New Hampshire Supreme Court, who ultimately became the focus of the Judiciary Committee investigation, were not only not warned that they and their practices were being investigated but they were specifically told that they were not being investigated. Because of those misrepresentations the justices were denied the opportunity to explain the practices which caused the Attorney General to publish a report condemning practices which his office did not understand.

One must only read the majority report and articles of impeachment to see the deficiencies in the Attorney General's investigation. Each of the three articles is flawed and the majority recommendations should be rejected by the House.

Article I reaches back 13 years to a matter that was thoroughly investigated by the then Associate Justices of the New Hampshire Supreme Court. It was their unanimous conclusion that the conduct of Chief Justice Brock, which had been fully investigated by them, would not warrant any finding that he had acted unethically or that there was any impropriety in his actions. Now, 13 years after the events and 11 years after that investigation, the majority suggests that the full House, and ultimately the Senate, should second guess that investigation and find not only impropriety in that conduct, but also that it constitutes an impeachable offense.

This matter was clearly beyond the scope of HR 50. But even if it were not, there is nothing in the matters presented to the Judiciary Committee that would permit it to find, by clear and convincing evidence (the standard adopted by the committee), that it ought to recommend that the full House impeach Chief Justice Brock for conduct which by any standard does not rise to the level of an impeachable offense.

Article II deals with the events of February 4, 2000. Contrary to the statements of the only witness with immunity, none of the other Justices in the room expected Justice Thayer to comment and were totally shocked when his outburst occurred. Article II also ignores the testimony of Chief Justice Brock which emphatically contradicts the statements of Justice Thayer, a discredited, vengeful witness who had been granted immunity and who had threatened to bring down the court. There is no proof that an ex parte conversation took place in the hallway. In fact, answers to seven separate questions by Howard Zibel confirm the impossibility of the so-called hallway conversation. This is further confirmed by an affidavit by a disinterested law clerk of the discredited witness which corroborates the Chief Justice's version of the events of that afternoon.

Article III accuses Chief Justice Brock of "knowingly" testifying falsely under oath to the HJC "with the intention of hindering the HR 50 investigation". There is not one single shred of evidence that Chief Justice Brock intended to "hinder the HR 50 investigation". The record is full of representations by his lawyers that they were doing everything in their power to obtain documents from the JCC. Those representations were acknowledged by Special Counsel. Allegations of false testimony should not be taken lightly. They should be asserted only after a very careful review of all of the evidence. That sort of review makes abundantly clear that the article misstates the facts and fails to recognize the fact that differing memories do not automatically equate to false testimony.

In his final report, Special Counsel quoted Justice Batchelder:

[J]udicial independence implies freedom from constraints which inhibit the free exercise of the judicial function as its myriad tasks are met in interpreting the Constitution and putting the law into play in the resolution of disputes arising within society.

He also noted that "[t]he Founding Fathers recognized the dangers of a weak judiciary" Final Report of Special Counsel, p. 21.

Every time a legislative body determines - or attempts to determine - that conduct which, viewed in the least favorable light, is, at worst, a mistake or an error of judgment should somehow be transformed into an impeachable event, it undermines the office and the institution it affects. The judicial branch is co-equal with the executive and legislative branches under the New Hampshire Constitution. When one branch attempts to reach out and charge an offense which is not defined by law such as malpractice or maladministration, it should be satisfied by clear and convincing evidence, that the offense rises to meet the high bar of impeachment. Otherwise, the risk is great that the impeaching branch will destroy the respect it is trying to protect and make its coordinate branch susceptible to weaker and weaker attacks. That is exactly what these articles of impeachment would do.

All of the evidence presented to the Judicial Committee lacks willfulness, lacks evil intent, or any of the basic underpinnings that could support a charge of impeachment.

For all of the foregoing reasons, the minority respectfully suggests that the House find that no grounds exist to impeach Chief Justice David A. Brock or any other Justice of the New Hampshire Supreme Court.

RESOLUTION

Reps. Chandler and Nordgren offered the following: RESOLVED, that in accordance with the list in the possession of the Clerk, House Bill numbered 1500 and House Resolutions numbered 51, 52 and 53 shall be by this resolution read a first and second time by the therein listed titles. Adopted.

INTRODUCTION OF HOUSE BILL and HRs

First and second reading

HB 1500-FN, relative to judicial retirement compensation and benefits for supreme court chief justice Brock.

HR 51, recommending impeachment of supreme court chief justice David A. Brock.

HR 52, recommending that no article of impeachment be brought against supreme court justice Sherman D. Horton, Jr.

HR 53, recommending that no article of impeachment be brought against supreme court justice John T. Broderick, Jr.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 51

recommending impeachment of supreme court chief justice David A. Brock.

Whereas, the New Hampshire house of representatives has directed its judiciary committee "to investigate whether grounds exist...to impeach chief justice David A. Brock and/or any other justice of the New Hampshire supreme court"; and

Whereas, the house judiciary committee has conducted such investigation, and it hereby moves that the house adopt the following resolution relative to chief justice David A. Brock; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives:

That the judiciary committee has found, by clear and convincing evidence, that the house, acting under Part II, Article 17 of the New Hampshire constitution, has cause to request the senate to exercise its powers under Part II, Article 38 of the New Hampshire constitution to conduct a full and impartial trial to determine whether David A. Brock, chief justice of the supreme court of New Hampshire, should be convicted and removed from office if the senate concludes that he has committed any or all of the acts enumerated in the articles of impeachment below, each of which the house has determined, if proved, constitutes an impeachable offense as set forth in Part II, Article 38 of the New Hampshire constitution:

ARTICLE I

During the period beginning on or about March 1, 1987 and ending on or about November 5, 1987, chief justice Brock engaged in conduct that constituted the impeachable offenses of maladministration or malpractice in connection with the case of Home Gas Corp. v. Strafford Fuels, Inc. and Edward C. Dupont ("Home Gas"). Specifically, chief justice Brock engaged in the following improper conduct:

1. Chief justice Brock placed a telephone call to superior court judge Douglas Gray, who was presiding over the case. During that conversation the chief justice inquired about the status of the case and informed judge Gray that Mr. Dupont was a state senator.

2. Chief justice Brock failed to report said telephone call to his colleagues on the supreme court at the time the court had the appeal of "Home Gas" under consideration.

That chief justice David A. Brock has committed an impeachable offense warranting trial by the senate.

ARTICLE II

On or about February 4, 2000, chief justice Brock engaged in conduct that constituted the impeachable offenses of maladministration or malpractice in connection with the case of Thayer v. Thayer, a divorce case in which W. Stephen Thayer, III, then a justice of the supreme court, was a party. Specifically, chief justice Brock engaged in the following improper conduct:

1. On February 4, 2000, chief justice Brock engaged in ex parte communications with justice Thayer and with the other justices, all of whom had been recused, in which he solicited their comments regarding superior court judges to be appointed to the supreme court panel that would hear the appeal of the trial court's judgment.

2. On February 4, 2000, chief justice Brock participated in an ex parte communication with justice Thayer in the hallway outside the court's conference room in which the chief justice discussed possible appointments to the supreme court panel that would hear the appeal of the trial court's judgment.

That chief justice David A. Brock has committed an impeachable offense warranting trial by the senate.

ARTICLE III

Chief justice David A. Brock did knowingly testify falsely under oath to the house judiciary committee, with the intention of hindering the HR 50 investigation, with respect to the following material matters:

1. On May 19, 2000, he testified that he did not know whether or not a March 3, 2000 letter from his attorney had been sent to the attorney general's office.

2. On May 19, 2000, he testified that he did not have certain documents relating to the "Home Gas" investigation when in fact he did have those documents and had reviewed them within a few days before giving testimony.

3. On May 19, 2000, and on June 23, 2000, he testified that on February 4 he did not have a conversation in the hallway outside the supreme court conference room with justice Thayer.

4. On May 19, 2000, and on June 23, 2000, he testified that he did not make a telephone call to superior court judge Douglas Gray concerning the Home Gas case.

That chief justice David A. Brock has committed an impeachable offense warranting trial by the senate.

MOTION TO PRINT DEBATE

Rep. Chandler moved that the debate relative to House Resolution No. 51, House Bill 1500, House Resolution No. 52 and House Resolution No. 53 be printed in the Journal.

Adopted.

DEBATE

Rep. Mock: Madam Speaker and members of the House. I rise today in support of the majority of the Judiciary Committee recommending the impeachment of David A. Brock. None of us are here with happy hearts. Madam Speaker, I can barely hear myself, if we are going to impeach someone, I think we ought to be listening. We are here today to carry out an awesome responsibility. Not because we asked for it, but because it was assigned to us. Assigned by our forefathers and our Constitution. This is the first impeachment ever to take place in this building. This building was constructed in 1819 as you all know and there has never been a more somber day. Article 17, Part II of our Constitution declares this body to be the grand inquest of the state. The courts have recently confirmed that. That is why you and that is why I am here today. You hold in your hands and in your very being the power to impeach. Remember, to impeach is not to convict, not to throw out of office, but to declare the charges of misconduct serious enough to go to trial in the Senate. Neither are we here today to punish, because as my father told we three boys, only God does the punishing, not you. The New Hampshire Constitution was modeled after the Massachusetts Constitution constructed four years earlier. New Hampshire, being rather independent, as we all can be, didn't copy Massachusetts exactly. We settled on four reasons why a person could be removed from office or could be impeached: bribery, corruption, malpractice and maladministration. Today, we concentrate on the latter two terms: malpractice and maladministration. You may not know exactly what those words mean, but you, like I and the remainder of our committee, will know it when you hear it and when you see it. You will hear today that there are no articles or conduct that rise to the level of impeachment, but I remind the House that the first and the very last impeachment to occur in this state in 1790 was to impeach a judge for failure to come to work. Later today, this House will debate the recusal practice of the court. I will not get into that here but I will speak to it later. Also later, you will hear the opponents to impeachment belittle and degrade the Attorney General's investigation which was the very impetus for this investigation. Be aware that we were not assigned the task to investigate the Supreme Court but rather the very narrow area of the allegations outlined in the Attorney General's report and to any subject to which it may lead us. I bring that up because you know one of the strong defenses and one of the most common defenses used every day is to shoot the messenger and you will hear people say that justices of the court, when interviewed by Attorney General investigators, would have answered differently if they had known and it was clear that they were targets of the investigation. I reject that proposition. When you are asked a question by anyone, you answer it and there is only one answer. It is to be thorough and it is to be truthful. What makes the difference? And every justice that came before us, in unison, after two or three it became almost predictable what they would say: "The Attorney General didn't tell me that I was a target, I would have framed my answers differently." Are they suggesting they didn't quite tell it all the first time? That bothered me. I guess I was in law enforcement too long, maybe. The best defense, of course, is to poke holes in the investigation and you'll hear it later today. But let me tell you, in Washington a couple of years ago they trained a dog to do this work when they went after Ken Starr. We can't let that dog hunt here. A compelling reason to vote for impeachment articles is this: ask yourself this question, if the Clerk of the Court had not mustered the intestinal fortitude to report the poor behavior by Judge Thayer and others occurring on April 23, 1999 at the Feld's Case conference and the similar participation of recused justices at the conference at which the selection of the justices to sit on the Thayer v. Thayer divorce panel, if he had not revealed that, do you really believe that you would be sitting here today? Would it ever have been reported? I say not. The Feld Case went from April 23, 1999 to February, 2000 when it got reported finally by Howard Zibel and then finally by the Court itself. Why not report? Because they broke their own laws and you and I are familiar with Article 73-a where it says the rules of the court, their canons, shall have full force and effect of law. Remember that this winter? We sent that constitutional question to the Senate where it died. One justice in the Feld Case did complain. Justice Johnson went to the Chief Justice about reporting the terrible outburst by Judge Thayer and the answer came back from the Chief Justice: "The confidentiality of the conference is more important than reporting the violation of the canon." Did they live by their own code? No. Did they foster their own code on others? Ask the lawyers who have been disciplined by the court. In the Snow Case, Judge Snow was suspended for six months without pay and later resigned for calling a police officer who had issued his brother a ticket and the court said in that ruling, "A judge's duty to obey the canons, especially to avoid the appearance of impropriety, cannot be taken lightly." So what got them into trouble? Secrecy. Secrecy of the court, confidentiality of the court, independence of the court, which I support to some degree. This investigation, if it accomplishes nothing else, has lifted the skirt of Lady Justice and taken a peek. Did we see anything there that was really, really naughty? Not too bad. But we have seen things that were absolutely wrong. Not only that, but her blindfold, justice is blind, slipped and she took a peek and she wasn't supposed to. What we saw with that examination of the Supreme Court, that little tiny bit of investigation, you will find in Articles I, II and III. This whole shroud of secrecy in the Court began 40 to 50 years ago under the disguise of judicial independence. Funny things started happening to our Constitution, like little amendments that the people didn't see when they voted. Remember, 73-a again, and then there is Article 4, Part II that got a little parenthesis in there, the voters never saw it. Then there is the sentence to 73-a which I just mentioned. Slowly the court has become so independent that it has gotten itself in trouble. You didn't do it. I didn't do it. The Judiciary Committee didn't do it. They did it to themselves. Secrecy and confidentiality breeds malpractice and it breeds maladministration. When no one is watching, we all get careless, sloppy and sometimes we become unethical. Bookkeeping and housekeeping becomes messy when the boss isn't watching and who was the boss? I brought up bookkeeping for a reason. Our committee subpoenaed draft opinions where recused justices may have made comments. We received less than half a dozen and then last Friday, after our committee had voted, we received some more. I do not hold the clerk who presented these, who found these, responsible. I hold her boss responsible. The buck stops there. At the Supreme Court, according to this clerk's testimony, there are six feet of files in a closet and those are the draft opinions. Those are the ones we would have liked to have taken a look at but you can't see them and we can't see them because that is the court's domain. Last Friday, or I think it was July 6th, she found on a shelf, upside down, under the court's long-range planning manual, three more of these draft opinions where a recused justice had participated. She didn't know what to do with them until the court counsel returned from vacation. Soon as that became known to Eileen Fox, we received them. The two justices sitting over there at the present time absolutely insisted that our committee receive these documents and we have. I'm happy to say there is nothing on those that would change the opinion or change, I'm sure, our committee's opinion of what we have already done. But just to give you an idea of what the bookkeeping is like, here is a sworn affidavit from the Clerk. "After the booklets were removed, I decided to straighten out the closet by organizing the contents and discarding outdated materials that no longer were needed. In the process of doing so, I found an approximately three-inch stack of draft opinions that were lying face down on a shelf under copies of a court long-range planning report. I was surprised to find the draft opinions on the shelf because I believed all draft opinions had been stored in a box on the floor or on the floor." You mean to tell me that your court case, your constituents court cases, that have gone over there to the tune of costing your constituents $20,000-$30,000 bucks to get heard are treated in such a cavalier way? Interestingly, the same clerk: "What happens when the six-foot file gets full? Do you file the most recent ones in the front or the back?"

"Anywhere."

"But wouldn't you put the most recent ones in the back?"

"No."

"Do you put them in the front?"

"No."

"Do you put them in the middle?"

"Anywhere."

"What happens when the six-foot file is full?"

"Well, I just take a bunch, a bundle out."

"Where?"

"Anywhere and put them in the shredder box and they go to the shredder."

Don't your constituents deserve at least that every single document that would be in your appeal would be in a file? And, you ought to be able to go over there and see every single thing that is in that file. The case is over. The case has been published. You should be able to go and see it. You can't and we can't. Enough of that. David A. Brock testified and I quote: "I accept the charge of Harry S. Truman, who while President said, 'The Buck stops here.' I agree as Chief Justice I am responsible for what occurs on my watch." You have a huge responsibility today. Don't get so wrapped up in trying to do right that you forget to do what is good and what is just, because you have a chance today to do all three. Also remember this is your constitutional responsibility to correct a wrong. If you are not part of a solution, then you may be a part of the problem. It might be more accurate to say, if you see wrong-doing and you take no action, you are also guilty of wrong-doing. I conclude by saying, the committee concludes that the culture of confidentiality which prevailed in the New Hampshire Supreme Court led to a callousness in the management of our judiciary engendering maladministration and malpractice consequently culminating in these historic impeachment proceedings. It is our goal as it should be that it is in the best interests of all New Hampshire citizens not to tear down but to build up the confidence of our citizens in all three branches of government. As Thomas Jefferson said to George Hammond in 1792, "It is reasonable that every man who asks justice should do justice." We concur. Thank you.

Rep. Withee: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Members of the House, I rise today to ask you to reject the committee report on House Resolution 51. This may come as a surprise to a lot of people and a lot of people on the committee considering as a member of that committee, I actually voted for two elements of two of the articles and I was wrong. As you can imagine, I've had a hard week this week because when we cast our votes last week I thought that I would be able to bring some closure and I thought that I would be able to feel good about what I had done. But the longer that this went on and the week went on, I felt worse and worse and worse. I found myself still examining depositions and transcripts and trying to read through this and I came to the conclusion that I was wrong. I am here before you today to tell you that and to tell you why. Madam Speaker, this is not a debate on whether or not something bad happened. I think all of us in the room, anybody that has paid attention to the newspapers or to the proceedings on TV, the majority, the minority and even the justices themselves agree that there were bad policies in place and policies that would have had the potential to hurt people. On that part, the majority and the minority agree. Likewise, Madam Speaker, the majority and the minority agree on what the ultimate goal of this process should be and that is namely to restore public confidence in the three branches of government. Where we disagree, Madam Speaker, is how we go about accomplishing that goal. What is going to be the proper remedy? All throughout the proceedings, if you watched it on TV, you saw that there was a lot of talk about the court's moral authority. What that means is the court's ability to command respect for its actions. The court isn't unique in this. All three branches have the same type of authority and I'd just like to add, Madam Speaker, right here, that in my opinion none of the three branches of government in the state have escaped this unscathed. We've all lost a little bit of our moral authority. The legislature has lost a little bit. I've had more people talk to me about what were those two legislators thinking when they were making phone calls to the Chief Justice to influence a court case that they had an interest in? That is exactly the sort of thing that people distrust politicians about. And sadly, in my opinion, I think that the executive branch has lost a little bit of its moral authority. I'm not going to rail against the Attorney General's office. I have the utmost respect for Attorney General McLaughlin. I even worked there last summer in that office and there are good people in that office, but I do think that there are circumstances surrounding the report and the issuance of it and how the investigation was conducted that leave questions to people and erodes a little bit of that confidence. Also, in the executive branch I don't think that the Governor has escaped unscathed. When she has her emissary calling the Chief Justice two days after the Attorney General's report is issued, basically with an offer to resign and get out now before the facts have been heard, before it comes to the legislature, to me, that is jumping the gun. That being said, the question still remains: how do we remedy the problem? Madam Speaker, it is the minority's belief that no single act of the legislature will do anything to restore public confidence in the judiciary. Public confidence in the judiciary will only be restored by the members of the judiciary and the members of each branch acting in their own area and acting well. Madam Speaker, in this case, if the House were to vote for impeachment and if the Senate followed through with the next logical step to convict and remove from office that will not remedy the problem. It may make some people feel better. It will feel like we've punished one of the judges. It will feel like we've gotten back somehow at David Brock. But, Madam Speaker, impeachment, and I think that the Chairman agrees with me, impeachment is not a punishment. Impeachment is a remedy for the state to take back an office. It is not designed to be a punishment. I want to give you just the non-lawyers thumb-nail sketch on how to evaluate this and maybe it will help you not to make some of the mistakes I made in the past week. When we are looking at the articles of impeachment and we are listening to the elements, and you will have people talking about it all day, there is a two-step process that you have to measure the evidence against. The first one is, is it an impeachable offense, maladministration? That is the one ... (tape change) ... Maladministration does not mean bad administration. What is means is something higher. It means, according to the only impeachment proceeding that we have had in New Hampshire, maladministration means willful and corrupt conduct. Willful and corrupt. What that means is intentional. You have to sit there and you have to decide if this conduct was intentional. The second one is whether or not this is clear and convincing evidence. Clear and convincing isn't 100 percent. It is about 75 to 85 percent. So, when you go through the process today, ask yourself how bad: Very bad or not very bad? And how certain, very certain or pretty certain? It doesn't have to be beyond a reasonable doubt. The minority believes, Madam Speaker, that the far better result or remedy is for the three branches to come together, to work in cooperation to help solve some of these institutional problems. That, in my opinion, will engender more public confidence and a deeper appreciation from the public at large for their government and that is really what we are after here today. In closing, Madam Speaker, it was very hard for me to come up and admit that I was wrong today and to do so in such a public forum. But I remember how I felt the first time I stepped into this chamber and I actually remember how I felt the very first time I saw this chamber as a school child and the enormous sense of pride I have and I felt for being a member and it has been the biggest single honor of my life to date to serve in this body. But I also felt that it would have been for nothing and for naught if I saw something that I knew was wrong and I didn't stand up here and point it out. For that reason, Madam Speaker, I will be voting against these articles of impeachment and even if I am the only one, I will do it because it is the right thing to do. Thank you.

Rep. Benjamin Moore: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I have a few comments to make. My wife and I spent probably 80 percent of the 650-plus hours that Channel 11 was on and here are some thoughts about those hearings and one of them that came to me all of a sudden in the middle of one of the days. It says, "Oh what a tangled web we weave when we practice to deceive." And then, following it, was an old dictionary definition of the word trust, as in, we cannot trust those who have deceived us and comment on that was the feeling of being deceived was prevalent throughout most of the issues cited in the three articles of impeachment and also the recusal issue. There were other matters discussed that generated feelings of confusion and deceit. Whether any of the feelings of being deceived was an intentional effort on the part of all the justices or not cannot be proved, but the feeling was there and consider this, when the first justice testified all the subsequent justices knew the pattern of questioning to be expected as each of the justices testified, those following had a knowledge of all that had been said, and most had ample time to prepare for their turn to be questioned. How easy it would have been to give answers that would confuse, deceive and confound those who were listening. Comments about the Attorney General's investigation: He conducted the investigation in a way that was to reveal Justice Thayer's culpability, not to uncover the Supreme Court's misdeed. Of course, the result is evident by our presence here today. I don't intend to discuss the merits of the charges that have been made. You'll hear plenty of that. However, we cannot trust those who have deceived us. I certainly feel that we have been more than deceived and more than sufficiently deceived by those who are before us today and I think that you cannot place them back in a position where they can continue those practices. Therefore, I shall support impeachment because they shouldn't be allowed to give this type of performance in the future. Thank you very much and God bless you.

Rep. Melcher: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I feel somewhat like Eliphaz in the Book of Job of whom it was said, "Who is this that darkeneth council?" I have nothing but praise for the Judiciary Committee. All of them. They have done a wonderful job. However, we are and have been and will be treated to the doubtfulness of the factuality of facts and the vagueness of definitions by which we can interpret those facts. I would like to introduce to you another idea and that is the complication that the role of our own emotional attitude toward justice makes. Justice, justice. Justice can achieve three good things. It can achieve the deterrence of the offense in the subsequent time. It can achieve the correction of the offender and the restitution to the victims. It can also serve one ignoble purpose: revenge. In this case, deterrence as already been made as likely as is ever possible. Correction of the offender, offenders, has already occurred in spades. There are no victims; restitution is moot. All that is left is revenge. The good we can do has been done. There remains only the sadistic pleasure of making an already chastened man suffer unnecessarily on account of our righteous rationalizations. Today, we have the legal and moral opportunity to say, "Enough, already." Let's do it. That would be justice. Vote against impeachment. Thank you.

Rep. Hamel: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Ladies and gentlemen of the House, this is the first time I come here. It might be the last. Who knows? I did not intend to speak. I am here today because one of the members of the Judiciary Committee asked me to in the sense that yesterday I did express my opinion at the public hearing on the bill that is being proposed. My point yesterday and I will repeat it today is that all of us have to adjust, judge, evaluate or whatever what is going on in the light of our lifestyle, of our life experience. My life experience has been military. If I had done something in my 18th year of service and I was court-martialed, I would be out. I would have no retirement nor would my wife or children. If I were in my 22nd year of military service and I goofed and I was up for court-martial charges, I could probably opt for retirement. I have passed that threshold of 20 years service. This is not the case with Mr. Brock. Very briefly, I am disappointed at the facts that have come out of the wrong-doings of commission and omission. I am disappointed at what might be called cover-up, or in other terms, lack of courage. I am disappointed at the recusal policy, to say that they did it before me is specious. If this had happened two weeks, two months, six months after taking command of a unit and the Inspector General came by and found my unit deficient, I could say maybe I inherited that. But, 14 years? That is a long pregnancy. That was his policy. The above three points are very serious. What bothers me even much more is the harm to the institution of the court. How can we mend, restore the moral authority of the court? If these justices remain in position, how would you feel if you were a litigant, an attorney, a judge being brought up on the carpet? Are they going to give you a fair shake? Tough question. I am also disturbed by the way they felt they had to bash the Attorney General's investigation. They were doing a job. Do you mean to say that they didn't understand what was going on? We are not that stupid or naïve; neither are they. There is one hero in this whole situation and that is Mr. Howard Zibel. He had the guts, the intestinal fortitude, the courage to report what he thought had to be reported. I hope we have equal fortitude, guts, courage to do what we have to do in this situation. Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, members of the House.

Rep. Mirski: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Members of the House, I hope you take to heart the presentation by the Chair of the House Judiciary Committee. I don't think anyone in this room could do a better job in presenting the case against the court. The matter of recusals will be taken up in separate amendments later on so what I would just like to do, briefly, is speak to the issue of separation of powers because the question of the independence of the judiciary being harmed by this process has been raised. That is the theme that runs through the minority report in your calendar and I think we need to dispel a couple of myths. First of all, it is important to understand what the intent of the framers was at the time the document we are going to use today in these impeachment proceedings, when that document was drafted. It is important to remember that 225 years ago this summer, patriots in Portsmouth rolled a cannon up to Governor Wentworth's front door and suggested he take the next boat out of town, which he did. He went to Nova Scotia. Just six months earlier a collection of those same individuals showed up at the fort in New Castle and stole a bunch of gun powder which was later used, 225 years ago last month, at the Battle of Bunker Hill. There was a patriotic fervor here in this colony that was probably unexceeded in any other place in the nation, although most of what you will read was concerned with Virginia and Massachusetts. What people were doing here in the interest of self-governance and liberty was probably more dramatic than anywhere else. And just as an aside, at Bunker Hill more men from New Hampshire showed up than any other colony. It was really a fight which this state precipitated, not only the height of battle but also the orderly retreat and the salvation of the combatants on the colonial side. One of the reasons that the fervor was so heightened against the crown, of course we have all read about the stamp act, but the judiciary at the time was integrally related to the political system of the day and if you don't believe that it's worth remembering that John Hutchinson in Massachusetts was Lieutenant Governor at the same time he was chief justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Court. The integration between the merchant class, the judiciary and the power elite all served the royal crown's interest. The principal effect on the average individual who lived in New Hampshire and farmed the soil was that the merchant class controlled the economy, the access to gold and silver, hard currency. And so farmers were essentially impoverished and forced to barter and so they hated the judiciary as it was constructed at that time. They hated the idea of an institutional judiciary. So when they got around to writing our constitution, they did two things which are really remarkable. One, they created independent judges and they left the judiciary and all its aspects up to this House and the Senate behind us. There is no such thing as an institutional separate co-equal branch of government called the judiciary in New Hampshire. The language in Article 37 that says that the separation of powers ought to be kept apart as a free society will admit is an invitation to legislative oversight. It is not language that separates the judiciary from that oversight. In the appointment of judges, the Constitution says judges shall be appointed subject for good behavior. The Constitution does not say judges are appointed for life, it says they are appointed to good behavior, which further infers the legislative oversight of the judiciary. So, what we are doing today does not tread on separation of powers. It is an appropriate oversight function of this institution and today rather than rolling perhaps a cannon up to the front door of the court, perhaps we just need to send a bus over there and to remove a few people. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Rep. Kennedy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Madam Speaker, I rise in opposition to this. I am opposed to it for a couple of very good reasons. There are three major charges that are made. Let's look at the first one, lying under deposition. Dave Brock is an attorney, well educated, has been a judge for a number of years. Do you really honestly think the man is stupid? You have to have the incredulity to understand the man being stupid to knowing, willfully lie? His memory may not be too good. Sometimes mine isn't. But I'm incredulous that the man would lie. The reputation that he has in his home town is 180 degrees opposite of that. He is considered one of the finest residents of the town; a nice little man, he stays out of all controversy but he is helpful to those who need help. He is involved quietly, very much behind the scenes, but he doesn't make a note of that. They bring up the gas thing, 13 years and he is supposed to remember what went on: how, what, when and where. It seems to me that I believe Souter was the man that pulled that stunt, put it on fast track. So be it. I don't know what in God's name I did last week. How many of you can remember exactly what you did last week and are willing to swear to it and come out line-by-line, item-by-item? You do the best you can. Last but not least is the Thayer episode. Let us take a man who is earning almost a quarter of a million dollars a year as a judge and as a teacher in local and in other schools and what happens? His world collapses. He has lost his family. He's lost his house. He's lost his son. He's lost his job. He's lost his teaching job. He's out as a judge. There is a man at the pit of despair. Now, let's look at despair. My stepfather used to tell a story about a young Mexican boy many, many years ago in Texas, a young Mexican boy who was like most of them, worried more about being macho, got in a fight over his girlfriend and killed a boy. He was sentenced to hang, justified, and the boy lived up to it, up to the top of the stairs, up until he saw the rope. At that time, he came apart at the seams and the grandfatherly old sheriff took him by the shoulders and said, "Miguel, we aren't going to hurt you or anything, aren't going to hurt you a bit, young fellow. Just straighten up; it'll be all over in a minute. Don't worry at all." The young fellow was able to straighten up and went the way he wanted to. Now, was the grandfatherly old sheriff guilty of lying, or was it an act of compassion? A number of months ago I came to you people for a little boy for the Make a Wish Foundation. You opened your hearts and your wallets. You were compassionate. That's all that judge Brock did. When he saw this man at the pit of depression said, "Oh God, no." He tried to avoid the issue by walking away. What more? Are we going to hang a man for compassion? If that is the high crime that we are going to hang people for in this place, God help us all. Now, you say about maladministration. I agree. I was the enfant terrible of the Fairbanks investigation. I filed the minority report that blew it sky high. When they wouldn't accept it, I published 50 copies of it and spread them around. There is much wrong with the courts. They have overstepped their bounds. But who is responsible? We are. We and we alone have the control. We are the authority and we have dodged it. Reminds me of a little poem. "I am not as brave as the lion, but I am braver than a hen and he who fights and runs away lives to fight again." That seems to be the motto we've had but it's pretty chicken, so the courts have consistently got a little worse. They've written laws. They re-wrote the constitution as the game warden over here has told you, all of this is there. But, to blame it on one man, to hold him out as a patsy, I think not. If you want to nail all of them for maladministration, that you may have the right to do, but not the rest of them. But while you are thinking of maladministration remember, the executive committee, the executive board of this wonderful state of ours did absolutely nothing. We haven't done much better. Yes, we sent one bill over to the Senate and they chickened out. So nothing has been done to control the judiciary. One man and one man alone has done anything and that man surprisingly enough was Dave Brock. He opened up a little bit, moving slowly, timidly. Anywhere near where he should have? Nope, absolutely not. But he and he alone made the motion, made the move and yet now we are to take him out and hang him as the patsy. Take away his good name, destroy him for life, throw his family into the ash heap, a man whom I have a tremendous amount of respect for. Although I thoroughly disagree with his behavior as a judge, as an administrator, as a court system down through the ages, but I cannot in good conscience chop off his head and that is what an impeachment is. Censure him if you wish, but remember he is the only one who has even tried to clean up this mess. So, I hope you can see in your heart that small measure of compassion. Thank you.

Speaker: The question is on the adoption of the Resolution. Rep. Bickford notified the Clerk yesterday that he would request to have the question divided. So, we will take up Article I at this time. We are on Article I. It is on page 1612.

DEBATE ON ARTICLE I

Rep. John Pratt: Thank you, Madam Speaker. It is with a very heavy heart that I appear here this morning to ask for your support for the articles of impeachment that the Judiciary Committee has brought out. I admit to you, openly, that I admire Chief Justice Brock. I may be in the minority in this House, but I think that the courage that he showed in the Claremont case was exemplary. I think that case, in my judgment, will go down in New Hampshire history as the equivalent of Brown v. Board at the national level. I think he made that decision knowing that he would make enemies and he certainly did make enemies. But since a number of people have raised that issue with me I want to say to the whole House at this point, it is my impression that that case did not influence the members of the Judiciary Committee, pro or con. That the committee took the mandate you gave us, looked at the facts that were collected, wrestled with our consciences individually and did the best we could and you saw in my colleague, Mr. Withee, a few moments ago, how wrenching this internal struggle has been. I simply say to him and to you this is an extraordinarily difficult matter for each of us. It is a matter for your conscience and for mine. I appear here today to support the articles because I believe first that the facts that the committee gathered were sufficient to bring them before you and to send them on to the Senate for trial. I believe secondly that the bar which the committee has set is high enough that the facts require this chamber to send these articles forward. I do remind you, as our Chairman said earlier, the Constitution does not give this House the right remove the Chief Justice or anyone. It does not give this House the right to try anyone. Those two rights are reserved under Article 38 to the Senate. We are not here to try Chief Justice Brock or to convict him or to remove him. We are here only to determine whether the facts and the level are sufficiently high that we should send this on to the Senate where, if proved, they will take the action that the Constitution requires. I have been asked to speak on the first article which is the article dealing with something called the Home Gas case. It was, and you should know this, the most closely voted article by the Committee when we came to discussing articles. It was a 14 to 8 vote. Part of the reason for that is that as the Representative from Hopkinton said earlier, this is a 13-year-old matter. We were conscious that this was something that happened long ago and I would be the first to say to all my colleagues, if this were the only issue facing the House today or facing the Committee, I would not have supported it, in and of itself. But, it is not and others will speak on Articles II and III, but it is as part of an over all pattern and package, in my judgment, an impeachable offense. The Article has two parts to it. It says first that in 1987 the Chief Justice called Judge Douglas Gray at the Rockingham Court and talked about a case which Judge Gray had under advisement at that time. A case in his courtroom. We had probably, in the total of all the justices that came before us, 100 years of experience on the bench, maybe more, much of it at the trial level, by Justice Gray, by Justice McHugh, all of Justice Batchelder's years as a trial judge, Justice Johnson's years. We asked them all and everyone without exception made the same statement: They had never heard of this being done before. They had never been the recipient of a call from a Supreme Court Justice. They had never, when they became a Justice, made such a call. They all said it was unusual and it certainly was unusual. My colleagues, what the Chief Justice is charged with doing is calling a Superior Court Judge and interjecting his presence, if you will, into that case. Judge Gray said, and you should know this, that the call did not influence him in the decision he made. But it is my judgment, and I think that of the majority of the committee, that the question wasn't whether it influenced Judge Gray. The question was whether such a call, made by the Chief Justice of New Hampshire to a trial judge was in and of itself an improper, unethical action. Was the possibility of changing the course of justice so great that it never, ever should have been made? Was it, in other words, more than a mere mistake? Was it more than an error of judgment? Was it an improper and an unethical action for the Chief Justice to take? Did it potentially compromise the independence of the Superior Court? Those who voted for this article say, yes it did and that that conduct is so great that if the Senate finds it happened, it is impeachable. The second half of Article I says that the time came when Judge Gray's decision came before the Supreme Court for review. The Chief Justice did not inform his four colleagues at the time this case came before them that he had personally intervened in the Home Gas case. The integrity of the appellate process requires, in the judgment of the majority of this committee, requires that all five justices are operating off the same page and that all five are operating with total impartiality. And for one justice to have intervened personally, and not told the other four, destroys the integrity of the appellate process. In the opinion of a majority of the committee, that, too, is an impeachable offense. Now, there are those that say that this case is too stale. There are those like the gentleman from Hopkinton who says that it is 13 years old and memories fade. But I want you to know that this decision was not made by us solely on the basis of present testimony, although we had lots of it. We have and we have produced, and if this goes to the Senate, we will produce to the Senate, documents that go back to 1987 and to 1989, the very letters that the Chief Justice wrote to the two Senators that Representative Withee spoke about earlier. Letters from each of the attorneys written in 1989 to Judge DiClerico of the Superior Court which then went on to become part of the record of the Supreme Court. Justice Gray's own recollections of what happened. Justice McHugh's own recollections of what happened, written in 1989. The Chief Justice's own memorandum of what happened, written in 1989. There is more than adequate first-hand evidence for the trier of fact to examine. Someone else has said: "Well, what new can be learned? Don't we know everything we need to know?" I want to say two things to that. First, we are not the trier of fact, please remember that. Secondly, one of our colleagues on the Judiciary Committee stated very clearly there is no way, in her opinion, Judge Douglas Gray could not have known who Senator Edward Dupont was in 1987, and yet that is a key element in this whole matter. Judge Gray says he didn't learn who Dupont was until the Chief Justice called him and told him. The Chief Justice says, "I didn't make the call." If, indeed, the Senate can prove or it is proven in the Senate that Judge Gray knew who Edward Dupont was, it casts doubt on his testimony and casts support in the testimony of the Chief Justice. That's an element that is going to trial if it gets that far, but that is not our decision. The committee thought the evidence was there and the bar was high enough that you should have the right to vote an article on this matter, and I ask you to do so.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Solow, you may inquire.

Rep. Solow: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative Pratt. I think, if I heard you correctly, you said if this were the only issue, this would not lead you to vote for impeachment. That is my first question, to be sure I understood you correctly.

Rep. John Pratt: That is correct.

Rep. Solow: Can you definitively say that the facts are, as alleged in this article that the Chief placed the telephone call when in fact, in testimony, time and time again, nothing he said was more certain than that he did not make that call. That he called the Clerk of the Court, but he never, his word, never, called the Justice of the Court, the Judge of the Court, Judge Gray? I guess I'll leave my question there.

Rep. John Pratt: Thank you, Representative Solow. Obviously, I cannot say with 100 percent certainty that the Chief made that phone call. The Chief denies it, the Chief denies it. We need to be understanding about that. Judge Gray said he made the phone call. Judge McHugh says that contemporaneously to the time the phone call was made, Judge Gray came in and said, "Guess who just called me? The Chief Justice." Four judges of the New Hampshire Supreme Court said they believed Judge Gray and Judge McHugh. This is exactly the kind of triable issue that a court deals with and this is why it needs to go to the Senate for exactly that trial. The American Judicial system which we got from the English and which goes back to 10 something or other, is the way in which you test the facts in a case is by putting it to examination and cross-examination. That's the judicial form that we have adopted. That's the form that we're asking the House to send on to the Senate.

Rep. Solow: Thank you again, Representative Pratt. Is it not the case that we, as the Grand Inquest, are not the Grand Jury but in fact we are doing an investigation, not an inquest into a likely prosecution, that, in fact, that if we vote to impeach our very vote, if it passes by a majority, will in itself have determined that the actions that are believed to have been taken are so criminal, are so heinous, are so in league with treachery and bribery and corruption, that they rise to the level of an impeachable offense and, thereby won't we in voting to impeach already be passing a judgment and not simply throwing uncertainty to a trial in the Senate?

Rep. John Pratt: The answer to that question, Representative Solow, is a resounding no.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Sapareto you may inquire.

Rep. Sapareto: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative, if I take my duty of finding clear and convincing evidence in this case, as is my duty, I have to look for something in the level of corruption or bribery or some malintent here. So, what I need to know in helping myself to make this decision is what is the clear and convincing evidence that Justice Brock intended to influence Justice Gray's decision?

Rep. John Pratt: I'll take a slight quarrel with the word evil, but leaving that aside, I think you put it in there, but leaving that aside, I think the evidence is that Justice Gray testified that he received a phone call from the Chief Justice. That in the course of that phone call the Chief Justice informed him that one of the defendants in the case before him was a State Senator and I think the further evidence is that he informed him that the State Senate had before it the question of judicial pay raises.

Rep. Sapareto: Thank you. But my question, representative, is where is the clear and convincing evidence of the intent to influence?

Rep. John Pratt: In the phone call itself. I mean the question is – here let me go back. You have a phone call that no other justice has said, no other justice has ever made. No one can recall when a justice of the Supreme Court has called a Superior Court judge while a case ... (tape change)... this took place. It was extraordinary. And, in the course of that conversation two key pieces of information were revealed to the trial judge. Your defendant is the number two man in the Senate and the Senate has your pay raise before it. I leave that to the House and to the Senate to decide what the intention of the Chief Justice was, but I think a logical inference can be made.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Lozeau, you may inquire.

Rep. Lozeau: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative Pratt, based on the question by the member from Derry, I want to make sure that something is clarified. My understanding is, under the constitution, there is no requirement for us to find anything by clear and convincing evidence; that that requirement is the standard that was adopted by the committee for the process of this. Is that correct?

Rep. John Pratt: That is correct.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Rosenfield, you may inquire.

Rep. Rosenfield: Part of my question revolves around the definition of Grand Jury versus Grand Inquest. As I understand it, in reading the constitution, it is the requirement of the House to prosecute in the Senate and the House is going to bring – and to impeach means that we have a crime which reaches a level that requires the Senate to remove from office on the basis of this impeachment. How can we in the House, if, as you answered a previous question, you wanted to have the opportunity to have the Senate make the decision as to what is going on, how can we go and be the prosecuting attorney when we really don't know what our position is?

Rep. John Pratt: Government is messy. If someone were to rewrite the Constitution, you may try to separate out the Grand Inquest from the prosecutorial and the trial. For whatever reason, our forefathers thought that the House could do two things: it could serve as the Grand Inquest and if it found an impeachable offense, it could then turn around and prosecute that case before the Senate. That is the way in which it has written itself. So we do have a double function, or the House has. The first function which is that before us today is, is there an impeachable offense? If you vote yes to that then I believe it will be up to the Speaker to appoint managers and it will be up to the managers to do the very best job they can to present this case fairly, forthrightly to the Senate for trial.

Rep. Rosenfield: As I see it and as I read the constitution, in order for a case to reach the Senate, we have to be convinced that there was an offense which reaches a level of removal from office. I don't understand how members of the Judiciary Committee can say. Well, we couldn't quite make up our minds. Let's throw it in the lap of the Senate.

Rep. John Pratt: The first half I think is absolutely correct. The task is ours. The second half, all I can tell you is the committee, on three different articles, made up their mind, voted this was an impeachable offense and should be tried by the Senate. We did do that, we didn't do it lightly. We didn't do it without an awful lot of soul searching. We didn't do it without digging into our own conscience and now the task is yours as well as ours.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Carol Moore, you may inquire.

Rep. Carol Moore: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative Pratt, I just wanted to be sure I understood what you said when you first began the part of your talk that had to do with this article. I thought I heard you say that, had this article stood alone, you might not have voted for impeachment based on this article, but because it was paired with two or three other articles, that influenced your decision. Did I hear correctly?

Rep. John Pratt: Yes, you did.

Rep. Carol Moore: I'm wondering since your committee decided to take up each article independently, why you would vote for Article I, knowing that you would have the chance to vote for other articles, when you have just told us that if it stood alone you wouldn't have supported it?

Rep. John Pratt: That is a very good question. The interesting part is that it was not the first article we voted on. The first article we voted on was perjury and the perjury article was the article which is now not called perjury, which is now, I think, Article III, and we debated that and that has both aspects of the Thayer v. Thayer divorce panel and the Home Gas case built into it. That Article was passed and then we went to the Home Gas case and then we went to the Thayer v. Thayer case.

Rep. Carol Moore: Well, I erred in insinuating that it was the first article you voted on. But I would still ask you since each article was voted on by your committee to stand alone, why you would tell us that if it were the only article you would not have supported impeachment for Article I? I don't care what order you voted in and I may have misspoken, but I am still interested in knowing as an article unto itself, why when you are telling us you don't think it rises to the level of impeachment, are you now standing here supporting that?

Rep. John Pratt: Well, that's not the first time I got myself into trouble. It won't be the last. I do think Article I rises to the level impeachment. I do think it is part of a pattern and practice taken in conjunction with the other two articles which makes it valid. I did say, and I stand by that, and I am sure that many members of my committee would disagree with me, if this was the only thing that we had before us, a 13-year-old matter, I would be most reluctant, even though I thought it was impeachable, to vote for an article of impeachment. That's what I was trying to say. If that is contradictory, that's me. I apologize.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Picconi, you may inquire.

Rep. Picconi: Thank you, Madam Speaker. This is the first time I've been here, so if I sound nervous, I am. Representative Pratt, my question is: Did we take from 1999 and go back to 1987 to find the Home Gas question, or did that occur in our investigation and we didn't have the information from 1987 to 1999?

Rep. John Pratt: Thank you for the question, Representative Picconi, and I apologize to the House for not making that clear and I should have. We did not seek this case out. Mr. Justice Johnson brought a sealed envelope and gave it to Mr. Steinfield during his testimony. Mr. Justice Horton made references to this matter during his testimony. I can tell you that it was only with the greatest reluctance that Mr. Steinfield opened the issue and, indeed, when Mr. Justice Thayer was before us, I may get in trouble again, I do not believe the committee questioned him on Home Gas. I'm looking for Mr. Steinfield to disabuse me of that, but I believe that's the case. I think Home Gas did not come up in our depositions until the Chief Justice was there and it became obvious that it was a matter that we had to go into. He is not throwing things at me so I'll let that stand until somebody corrects me.

Rep. Picconi: One last question. Did we have the authority, as a committee, to investigate any transactions that occurred between 1987 and 1999 and is it plausible that there could have been transactions in that 12-year period that could have also been included in this?

Rep. John Pratt: The mandate which the house gave the committee under HR 50 required us to investigate matters from the Attorney General's report or other matters that come from that investigation. The Home Gas case came from that investigation. We did not, as a committee, go over and search the files. First of all, we had no entree into the JCC so we can not tell you what is in their files. Secondly, the only files which we did search, and I think I'm correct on this, were files that related to matters that were before us, such as other instances where judges spoke after they had been recused or other instances where there were writings by judges on draft opinions, etc. But we did not make a general hunt of the 12 or 14 years, or even the 25 years of the Chief Justice's tenure on the Court.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Pitts, you may inquire.

Rep. Pitts: Thank you, I'll make it quick. I'm trying to understand the testimony. In the testimony, I thought I heard you say that a call was probably made and that Justice Gray testified to that but that when he came out into open chamber he said, "Guess who I just had a call from?" Would that have been his public disclosure of that call and if there were other justices aware that the call had been made since it had been announced, would it have been incumbent upon them if they thought it was a serious offense to do something at that time and not come forward 13 years later?

Rep. John Pratt: That is a very good question. Let me take it in two parts. The testimony was that Judge Gray received the call and went across to Judge McHugh's chambers where he was giving dictation to his reporter and said, "Guess who just called me?" or "Guess who I just had a call from?" So, it wasn't in open court room that he made the statement. It was to another judge in his own chambers. I think it probably could have been a closed question if Judge Gray had felt that it was an improper influence at that time that he could have reported it to the JCC. He did not do so.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Sabella, you may inquire.

Rep. Sabella: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative Pratt. Two questions: Who was deposed first, Justice Gray or Justice Brock? And if one of them said the phone call was made and one said it wasn't, why did you go with one and not the other?

Rep. John Pratt: Thank you, Representative Sabella. First of all, you need to know that both, that in 1989 Justice Gray wrote a letter to Justice DiClerico, the acting Chief Justice of the Superior Court, and stated that the phone call had been made. That was in 1989. In 1989, the Chief Justice stated, first in a conference room or in his chambers when the judges had all gathered there with Justice Gray, "No, I did not make that phone call." Secondly, he stated it in a memorandum which he wrote in May of 1989, so there is ample evidence that there was a conflict between these two back in 1989. The Supreme Court, the four additional justices, the four other justices, then went back to Justice DiClerico and said, "We want to know more about this," and asked him to conduct a second inquiry and it was at that inquiry that he asked Justice McHugh for his recollections and received the letter from Justice McHugh which went back to the court. All of this became part of the record that the Supreme Court has, it's this big, of the letter that was sent, written, we believe, by Justice Souter to the Judicial Conduct Committee in 1989. In terms of the last part of your question, who was deposed first, Justice Gray was deposed before Justice Brock.

Rep. Dokmo: (blank segment on tape) Our constitution has given four reasons to impeach a justice, corruption, bribery, maladministration and malpractice. Chief Justice Brock is being accused of committing maladministration and malpractice. Well, what is maladministration? It sounds like maladministration to me. No, that is not what it is. If you read the interim report of our special counsel, it is very clear what maladministration is not. It is not poor judgement. It is not sloppy administration. It is not human error. It is intentional misconduct that may rise to a criminal offense. It is close to criminal offense. It is an individual doing something intentionally and trying to harm as a result of that action. It is certainly not an inadvertent, ill-advised or even stupid action on the part of an individual. Alright, that gets us part way to what maladministration or malpractice might be. We need to look at the constitution and we need to see the words that are listed along with maladministration, that is bribery and corruption, because statutory construction tells us if a word is vague what we must do is interpret it in harmony with its fellow members, its sisters or brothers. Its sisters and brothers are bribery and corruption. Those are not mere errors Those are intentional and criminal wrongdoings. So, maladministration must rise to that type of level. It is a serious act or acts. Again, it is not unintentional mistakes and human error and that is extremely important. The third place we need to look, to determine what maladministration is, is the reasons why other justices and other public officials have been impeached. And if you read the interim report carefully, you will see a list of dozens of individuals who have been impeached or who have attempted to be impeached. And when you look at what they did, you will see that what Chief Justice Brock did, if he did it, doesn't come close to those things. We are talking extortion. We're talking drug use. We're talking about constant drunkenness on the bench. We're talking about doing things that are intentionally done to enrich the person, doing something that, if not criminal, is almost criminal; doing something that tells everybody, in clear and convincing language, that this person is not fit to sit on the bench. And I suggest to you that when you look over the facts of Article I and hopefully Articles II and III, but I'm concentrating on I because that's what we're voting on, I suggest to you that you will not see maladministration. You will see facts that might indicate that Chief Justice Brock 13 years ago picked up the phone and called a Superior Court Judge. If you read the facts, it is uncontroverted that nobody thought that Chief Justice Brock was trying to interfere in the outcome of that case, that he made it perfectly clear to Judge Gray that all he wanted to know was the status of the case. He didn't want to know how the judge was going to find. He didn't want to interfere with that. That was also found by our Supreme Court when they investigated the incident two years later. They concluded that he made the call but that there was no intent and no ethical violation because he did not, in fact, interfere with that case. So, where is the intent? Where is the maladministration? Perhaps he made a poor judgment in making that call, but he didn't do it for a reason to harm. He didn't do it for a reason to cause criminal activity. He certainly didn't do it for a reason to enrich himself. Now, my good friend from Walpole has indicated the second part of the charge is that the judge failed to tell his fellow justices on the Supreme Court that he had made the call. Well, first of all, Judge Brock, two years after the incident and today, 13 years later, has adamantly denied he made the call. He has insisted that he called Ralph Taylor who was a Clerk of the Court and Ralph Taylor has confirmed that Justice Brock did, indeed, call him and that Justice Brock did, indeed, make it very clear that he was only interested in the status of the case; that he was not interested in interfering and he was not interested in affecting the outcome of that case. That is in the record. When the Supreme Court looked at this matter two years later, they did conclude that Justice Brock made the call. But when they concluded it, they only spoke to a Judge McHugh who you have heard about. They didn't bother to call Ralph Taylor and ask him whether or not a call had been made and they didn't bother to call the other witness to this supposed admission by Judge Gray that the call had been made and that was a court reporter. If the Supreme Court had been very concerned about that call, they would have continued that investigation but you need to remember the focus of that Supreme Court investigation was two entirely unethical and inappropriate comments made by Judge Gray during the course of that trial and that is what the Supreme Court was concerned about; that is what they reported on. They were not reporting on Chief Justice Brock. That was just in mitigation of their recommendation to the Judicial Council that on two occasions Judge Gray had committed ethical violations and I think that is really important for everyone to understand. Justice Gray had made some utterances during the course of this litigation which severely questioned his impartiality and that is really what the investigation was all about. If the Supreme Court had decided that Chief Justice Brock did something unethical and inappropriate, they would have reported it, too, because you have to remember they didn't need to report any of this, that the time period had passed. And if they had not reported it, it would have gone into history and no one would have known. But they felt it was their ethical obligation that they had to report it. And again, I want to stress that this was a court in which sat not only Justice Brock and Justice Thayer but Justice Johnson, Justice Batchelder and Justice David Souter and they were convinced, 11 years ago, that what Chief Justice Brock did was not intended to influence and was not an ethical violation. And the reason why this is so important, that you really take what Justice Brock supposedly did and balance it against the definition of maladministration is, it is extraordinarily and I can not stress this enough, it is extraordinarily important what your actions do today because they will have a long-term impact on our judicial system. They will have an immediate impact on David A. Brock and for that I'm sorry, but my biggest concern and has been all along is the effect that it will have on the judiciary. If we are going to impeach a justice for making a phone call 13 years ago, when he was a brand new Chief Justice, by the way, and had never gone through a budget process before, he was just kind of learning the ropes of being a Chief Justice, if we are going to impeach a justice for making an ill-advised phone call that everyone says was not intended nor did it effect anything in the court system, then who is next? Today we're going to have two other motions for impeachment for two other justices and I submit to you that if we impeach David Brock for this minor matter, I'm not saying that if he did it he shouldn't have done it, if we impeach a justice for that matter then we are opening up the flood gates for impeachment resolution after impeachment resolution and there are some people that might think that is great because they don't like the court system. But let me tell you, the court system is the only system that is not elected. You gentlemen and ladies represent the will of the majority. The governor's office does, too, because we need to run for re-election every two years, but our system of government and the beauty of our system of government rests upon the notion that minority rights trump the majority rule. It is the Supreme Court and the courts of this land and in this state that guard your individual and minority rights. It is the Supreme Court that you will go to to declare that you have the right of free speech. It is the Supreme Court that the Manchester Union Leader will go to to preserve the right of freedom of press. It is the Supreme Court that all of you will go to to be allowed to practice your religion whether 99.9 percent of the people in this state or country think that you shouldn't be able to do it. It is the Supreme Court that you will go to to uphold your right to bear arms. You can not take an action that will automatically send a wound to that branch of government because to do so will impair your ability to defend yourself and to have your rights as individual citizens upheld. I can not stress this enough. The balance of power between the three branches of government is delicate. It can't be upended for a mere phone call 13 years ago which comes nowhere close to meeting the definition of maladministration. I ask you to put aside your dislike of the court if you have it. I ask you to put aside all your frustrations that we've all felt these last several years with some court decisions and I ask you to look at the facts and look at the law and realize the impact of this vote, not on David Brock but on this state and I beg you to vote no on Article I. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to questions? Rep. Alger, you may inquire.

Rep. Alger: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative. At the June 20th meeting of the Judiciary Committee, I noted that I believe that you asked the Attorney General a question and that was, "I find it very odd that you would notify the head of the Bar Association because I, quite candidly, don't understand the purpose of that notification and I'm a member of the Bar." And his answer was, "Our Bar, as you are well aware, is a tightly controlled professional association, tightly controlled by the Supreme Court." Now, with that response and with that view, I would think you might agree with me that anyone who is a member of the Bar of New Hampshire who votes on this article favorably and the following articles is taking his career in hand; is taking his courage and is taking a risk, because even though there should be none, I think you are aware of the letter, for example, that Brock wrote to Representative Welch which could even be determined intimidating, his position in regard to the AG's report and other responses, and if furthermore would you agree with me that if you are a member of the Bar and you vote against these articles, you could be considered to pander on this issue? Thank you.

Rep. Dokmo: I would hope that any member of this body, including members of the Bar, will vote not because of economic, not because of professional and not because of political, i.e. election, consequences. I would hope each and every one of us would vote on the facts and I think that nobody would think of voting because of how it's going to affect their careers. I certainly am not.

Rep. Alger: Thank you for your thoughtful response, although I view it as somewhat naïve. I would only observe that that is the reason why I wrote a letter, would you believe, to the Ethics Committee and that letter plus the response of the Ethics Committee suggesting a conflict of interest form be signed, one way or the other, you can participate or not but at least state the basis for your participation?

Rep. Dokmo: Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Wendelboe, you may inquire.

Rep. Wendelboe: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative Dokmo, since you brought up the Home Gas situation and the no-harm, no-foul sentiment, I think perhaps part of that story was left out and I'd like to fill that in and then ask you a question at the end. The issue that the Supreme Court justices looked into with Home Gas was not initially the phone call. It was the comments that Justice Gray made, one of which, after he had ruled against Ed Dupont, was an off-the-cuff remark about, "Gee, I guess I should have voted the other way, ruled the other way on this and we would have gotten a pay raise." And the other comment that he made was the statement to the council that he thought that the case had been handled specially for political reasons. The complaint was brought because of those two comments, not initially because of the phone calls. The phone calls came out as a result of the complaint when it finally came forward over a year later. Then, would you agree that had Justice Gray, when that investigation was held, said that he, indeed, had been influenced by Justice Brock informing him that that case involved a powerful state senator and that there was a pay raise before them, had he said, "Yes, that did impact my decision and so I ruled for Ed Dupont," then would you agree that that would have been impeachable because the end result would have affected the decision? So, it is not necessarily, it is the phone call that would have triggered it and potentially could have changed his mind that is the important thing. The call should never have been made.

Rep. Dokmo: I think you need to look to the term maladministration and look to the fact that requires an intent to do harm, intentional misconduct, and so I don't agree with that. If Judge Brock did not intend to influence that case, if Judge Brock did not intend to cause any harm, I don't know that I could agree with you. But I also will say that it is still, there is a lot of information out there that suggests that Chief Justice Brock's original statement that he did not make the call might be accurate. I mean, I'm just, my argument really talked about if he did make the call. I mean you have to remember that Judge Gray mentioned that the call was made during a conversation with the Supreme Court and this was two years after the incident and he indicated that not only Judge McHugh was aware of this because Judge McHugh was told about it by Judge Gray, but also there was a clerk reporter there. When the Supreme Court investigated that particular charge, they only talked to Judge McHugh and, by his own testimony, two years later he didn't even know what the letter was about when he got it from Judge DiClerico asking what happened. He called Judge Gray and Judge Gray filled in his story and that supposedly jogged Judge McHugh's memory. So, everything on the one side with Judge Gray is all from Judge Gray and we talked to the gentleman who was the transcriber and he placed the information about the call being made two years after the incident. He thought Judge Gray came out all excited about Chief Justice Brock calling him during the investigation of Judge Gray's comment. So, there are a lot of facts that really don't necessarily support the idea that that call was made. But, I'm saying in the worst case, if the call was made, there was no intent to change or alter the outcome of that case.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Riley, you may inquire.

Rep. Riley: Thank you, Madam Chairman and thank you, Representative Dokmo. First of all, let me say quickly, I want to congratulate every single member of the committee, the time they put in, the guts that they used in trying to get to the bottom of things. I could go on and on like that, the various virtues they have got. Two words we seem to be dealing with over and over and over again: assumption, presumption. And I would put it to you that in the case of Judge Gray that here we have the assumptions over and over again. I can make some assumptions too, that would go like, that I assume that because he made a phone call that he said that in passing that he was just simply saying, "Sure, the guy is a state senator." But, I don't know that. My question is: Do you think then that the people who have said he didn't know, that they knew?

Rep. Dokmo: Excuse me. That he didn't know whose...

Rep. Riley: Let me restate it. Would you agree with me that the people who have said that Judge Gray did know why it was that he was being called by Justice Brock, is that not a presumption?

Rep. Dokmo: He has stated that, if the call was made, that Judge Brock said to him that he was calling only to inquire about the status of the case and did not want to interfere in the case at all. That is the testimony that he gave. I can't make an assumption other than that what he said.

Rep. Riley: But, that's an assumption in itself, is it not?

Rep. Dokmo: That's his recollection and his interpretation. He is the one that supposedly received the call. I can't second guess what he thought. He told us what he thought. That's one of the problems. This happened 13 years ago. The best recollection we have is really the letter from the Supreme Court and that states that he had no intentions of interfering with that case and that Judge Gray agreed with that.

Rep. Riley: Do you wish, with me, that there were some factual things in all of this somewhere?

Rep. Dokmo: Well, I think it is a stretch to go back 13 years. Someone else said this. I mean, my memory, I don't even remember what I did this morning, let alone what I did last year or 13 years ago and I think that's the problem. I think that what was done doesn't rise to the level of impeachment so the facts are, not that they are immaterial, but I'm assuming the worst, that the call was made and it's my belief that's not impeachable conduct. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Lynde, you may inquire.

Rep. Lynde: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative Dokmo. I want to go to your statement that even if the call was made, it was just to inquire. I was reading one of today's papers and they are relating a case where a judge had made a call to inquire about a case involving his brother to the police department and it came to, I guess, the Supreme Court to deal with that and they found, whether or not his intent was to influence or just to get a status, they suspended him six months without pay. I realize we don't have that ability. We can only say impeach or not. I understand there was a question whether the call was made. How do you distinguish between those things because the court said it doesn't matter whether you intended, it is the impression of impropriety? Rep. Dokmo: Well, first of all I think that, I want to be very clear on this because I don't want the groans from the audience, I think you have to understand when the Judicial Conduct Committee looks at a case, their threshold of finding sanctions is not as high as what it would take to have an impeachable offense because they don't have the right to remove a justice. They have the right to suspend a justice. The constitution says that a justice, to be removed from the bench, must be found to have committed maladministration, which includes intentional. It includes intentional wrongdoing. So, we need to focus on: Was it intentional wrongdoing? The inquiry in the JCC matter, since it was a lower threshold, could say that it wasn't only your intent but what your actions look like. That you might not have had the intent, but it looked like that. It is really a difference between, to me, the level and the threshold that we as a House need to find. I guess that is the only way I can answer that.

Rep. Lynde: I think part of the things we all struggle with is what level do we hold people to and the impression, say, Superior Court level to a higher standard than the Supreme Court. I'm sure that is not the intent but apparently we don't have, it's like a one zero, I'm sorry I'm an engineer. You either impeach or you are not. So I guess that's a struggle we have here.

Rep. Dokmo: The only way I can put it, and again I'm no litigator, I really don't go into court so I'm not really good about these things, but the best analogy I can give you just on the spur of the moment is that it's the difference between the various degrees of homicide. To rise to one level, you have to do some things and not do others, but to get all the way up to first-degree you've got to have that intent, that present intent and I just think it's the same thing. To get up to maladministration to impeach you have to have intentional acts of wrongdoing. And it's not just my opinion. Read the special counsel's report. That's the sparse definitions we have, but that seems to be required.

Rep. Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise this morning in opposition to Article I. Now, I'll be frank with you. It gave me some problems to start with. It was the only one that I found that would come anywhere near reaching an impeachment status. It, as I understand it, and I think it's borne out by the majority report, is based on improper influence and that's all the argument we've received this morning. Now, improper influence, if proven, is a felony under our law which I can understand. You don't have to make any guesses as to what is the intent. It is an offense brought under 640, section 3, entitled "Improper Influence" and is a class B felony. I would propose, as far as I'm concerned, a felony crime is grounds for impeachment, if proven. Now, it has to follow a certain mechanical procedure in order to come to trial. The first one it has got to overcome is the statute of limitations. There is only one crime in New Hampshire that falls outside the statute of limitations and that is murder. All felonies fall within it, and a felony must be brought to trial within six years of its commission or it is ruled out of order by the statute of limitations. This offense, if it is brought today, is 11 years after its commission, so I would submit that under the statute of limitations, it must be tried, I would assume, under the procedures of 640 section 3 and the statute of limitations would apply and it would be subject to dismissal, in my opinion. Now, on the bare possibility that my inference can be overcome, I would point out that there was appointed at the time of this offense or shortly thereafter, a four-judge panel which investigated this procedure and came back with the declaration that Judge Brock had committed no wrong. Therefore, I would submit that this would also fall under Article 16, Part I of the New Hampshire Constitution on double jeopardy and would be subject to dismissal on those grounds. Now, in addition to those two mechanical problems that I've just outlined, there is at least one more serious problem to the prosecution of this case. The principal witness in this case is the only one in position to know exactly what was discussed in the telephone conversation between Justice Brock and Judge Gray. Madam Speaker, with your permission I would like to read one question and answer from Douglas Gray's deposition. I read from page 34 of the deposition. The question posed by Attorney Steinfield, counsel for the Judiciary, and this question was posed during his inquiry into this particular telephone conversation, and he asks this question: "Did you think at the time that Chief Justice Brock was trying to influence your decision in this case?" Justice Gray replied in return the answer to that question, "I didn't get that impression, no." Now this, I would pose, would be a terrific problem for the prosecution of this to overcome and I'm sure the defense will find it and play it up properly. It is our job to put forward to the Senate these motions for impeachment and no prosecutor, I believe, would put forward this particular offense with the amount of problem he would have in trying to convince a trier of the fact that this should be tried. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Rep. Phinizy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In law there is a doctrine known as laches. It requires a resolution of known crime or an alleged crime to be prosecuted and dealt with in a timely manner, lest evidence or recollection go stale and be lost or become so vague with time that it would do damage to the person accused. Now, in the case of Home Gas, there is confusion and there is contradiction. This article, Article I, pleads invocation of this doctrine and pleads that we basically vote down this Article I and it pleads and argues in favor of laches. While the committee's counsel, and with his permission and the Speaker's permission, I'd like to quote him and his final statement. With the committee's counsel, he considers that laches did not apply and I must respectfully disagree as I feel that his parameters are very narrow and they place constraints and limitations on a doctrine that is necessary to protect every person. With his permission, I will quote him: "Here, the Committee did not wait; it only learned of Home Gas while pursuing its investigation, and thus there is no basis for invoking laches." Now, I state and I feel that, in fact, this statement jeopardizes possibly one of the most important principles and protections within law. I cannot believe, and I mean this sincerely, that not one member of government was unaware of the events surrounding the Home Gas affair prior to three or four weeks ago. My honorable colleague and friend and the man that I admire very much, Representative Pratt, states many things about an alleged phone call and there was much discussion earlier regarding a phone call. I can only submit to you all that it's very important to remember that it's very difficult to prove how one didn't make a phone call. Consistent with that, I would like to remember and I would like Attorney Steinfield to remember that the interpretation of the doctrine of laches really is fair play. And once again I will finish up the quote that Attorney Steinfield had made: "Nonetheless, whenever a dispute arises over something that may have occurred years earlier, issues of fundamental fairness inevitably arise." Now, some of you may think that I am a lily-livered Democrat and I want you to realize that last year, when evidence was clear and convincing to me, that I had voted to address Justice Brock over an issue that I thought was inappropriate. I feel that in this instance we have entirely too much confusion and we have entirely too much contradiction in order to permit me to accept this Article I as an article for impeachment. I would submit then that I cannot and will not vote in favor of a charge that would change and charge a man and treat any man in a manner less than we would expect ourselves from the courts that we are now criticizing. Thank you very much, Madam Speaker.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Almy, you may inquire.

Rep. Almy: Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you, Representative Phinizy for yielding the podium. Representative Phinizy, until Monday when I got the calendar, I was going to vote to impeach and then I read the resolutions and the amendments that are being offered. Isn't it true that even though the constitution says that, does not say that we need clear and convincing evidence to send these articles over to the Senate, that each of these, the resolution and all of the amendments to it do say that we have clear and convincing evidence which I do not believe is true?

Rep. Phinizy: In a word, yes. I would state that that was one of the reasons why I felt that this was a very deficient article for impeachment. I do not find it clear nor do I find it convincing and particularly when we are dealing with a man's life and his livelihood, regardless of the individual, I feel that it is critically important that we even go beyond that level of proof. Thank you, very much.

Rep. Stritch: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Today, July 12th in this year 2000, a day that will live in history, for this noble body has joined today to witness and to judge the unfolding of troubling errors. It is said and shown that the desire, yes even the mandate of our forebearers, requires this of us, that we examine our co-equal third branch of government for trespasses against that code so carefully crafted two centuries ago. It is our task to judge in this first phase and in our task let us bring mercy and compassion as guidelines as to our findings. There have been errors, there have been mistakes, all of the human variety. There need to be corrections, many corrections. They and we need to engage with the common goal of one: recusal corrections; two: a truly independent conduct committee, a truly independent ethics committee... (tape change) ...institutional corrections of 73-a. Centuries will read what we say here today, what we do here today. History will examine over and over our words, our conduct and our compassion. Mercy and forgiveness, you know, fall from the sky like a ray of brilliant sunshine that warms those that say, "I forgive". I forgive until the 11th hour. If there be errors, there are; if there be arrogance, there was; if there be judgment mistakes, there was; as this unfolds I shall so conduct myself that as another 100 years shall pass they'll say that forgiveness was that ray of sunshine in this sorry affair. Thank you, Madam Speaker. Rep. Mock: Thank you, Madam Speaker. How do you like this roller coaster ride? What you have heard today is exactly what we have been through for almost three months, I believe. You don't know whether you're there or you're not there. But, there is no confusion here. There isn't any confusion. There is no reason to feel confused because the House committee, our committee, the Judiciary Committee, we chose a burden of proof greater than a preponderance of the evidence, you know, a little over half, but less than beyond a reasonable doubt. We are not asking you to find any one guilty here. You're not supposed to be finding anyone guilty. This is not a trial. What we are saying is that we raised the bar, really brought it up and if any one here is trying to tell me that this telephone call was not intentional, of course it was intentional. He dialed the telephone and made a call, we're alleging, to a Superior Court judge. Now, let's use some common sense. Exactly why do you suppose that call was made? It wasn't to discuss the Sunday golf game. It was a pay raise issue. It was a Senator. There were two Senators. Let's use our common sense. Let's give the Senate a chance to make a decision. That's their job. It's not our job to convict and I hope that you will vote with that in mind. Use your head, use your heart and reach way down inside and vote your soul. Thank you.

Rep. Mock requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of Article I of House Resolution 51.

Rep. Carson did not vote and wished to be recorded against.

RECESS(Speaker Sytek in the Chair)*DEBATE ON ARTICLE II

Speaker Sytek: The question before the House now is the adoption of Article II. It is on page 1612. Rep. Craig: Thank you, Madam Speaker. It's the story of my life. I speak and nobody shows up. Rep. Avery is here, he said, so I guess we can go. Like Representative Pratt this morning, I stand here today in favor of the House Judiciary's vote on impeachment on Article II. I do that very, very reluctantly and before I get into Article II, I'd just like to indicate where I stand on some of the things that went through my thought process. I heard the speeches this morning and the concerns about the court's moral authority and I share those concerns. But, I take the view that this process was put here by our forefathers to allow for problems like this to be worked out. You know, I'm a practicing attorney and I heard Representative Withee this morning speak about changing his mind and when he was speaking I said to myself, "Boy, would I love to do that." I'm a human being and I want to belong. I want to be part. I want to be one of the guys. But maybe it's my wrestling alligators in court for 20 years and he just getting out of law school, but I can't do that. I can't take that way out. I respect him for his decision but I just can't do that. I said during one of the hearings, and this is true, that a couple of times, a few times in my legal career people have come up to me, clients of mine and said: "Well, just go in the back and fix it. That's what happens all the times anyway." Every time that's happened, I've said: "That's not what happens. That's not the way it is and I don't play like that. If you want somebody, get another lawyer, if you want somebody to do that for you." I've never had that experience and I never want to have that experience. I remembered that as I was listening to the testimony. As I heard all the testimony throughout this proceeding, I thought about those people. I thought about lawyers who have been disbarred and the standards that they were held to and I just think that out of fairness to them and out of fairness to the attorneys that I work with, I just can't take the easy way out and say that we've got to drop this. I share everyone's compassion here. I spent a miserable last couple of weekends and there is nothing wrong with that. But, I wish he had stolen some money. It would make it nice and easy for everybody, but that's not the case. Like most of life, we are dealing with gray areas. One other thing I want to mention: this is an editorial comment on my part. I've taken a lot of grief in newspapers and I've gotten writings from people that say, "Well, you're a lawyer." Somebody told me I looked like a plant for the New Hampshire Bar Association in the hearings. I just want to say here that I resent those remarks. That anyone would say to me that because you're a lawyer you can't do what you think is right, I deeply resent that. I said that in the hearings and I'll say it again today. I serve today with lawyers in this state and judges in this state who I think are the finest people in the world, not all of them but the great majority of them, and I would do a deal with a handshake with most of them. I want to say that and I think most people resent that, I mean we've been hearing lawyer jokes forever, but that's the truth. I want to make sure that, I want to turn that around. I'm sick of lawyer jokes. I'm sick of people saying just because you're something you don't have your own conscience. As we said in the abortion proceeding, the basic thing that I have to do is remember that I took an oath to that flag when I came in here to do what I thought was right in every situation and though I would rather not be here, this is the last place in the world I want to be right now. I guess I have to remember that again. With that as a preface, I would like to talk about Article II and before I talk about Article II, which is the Thayer divorce case on February 4th this year, I want to talk a little bit about the Home Gas case because to my way of thinking they are intertwined in a sense that I got a sense of the Chief Justice and of the culture of the court from that first case, that Home Gas case. What I mean by that is this: I guess the majority of us feel that Judge Brock may have made that phone call. But, just those two articles from Home Gas are not the whole story of that Home Gas case. It is undisputed that there were two letters sent to the Chief Justice, or from the Chief Justice to Senator Bartlett in 1987 and to Senator Dupont in 1988. That second one in particular was in response to some comments, a conversation that Chief Justice had with Senator Dupont which took place within a week or two before a hearing that Senator Dupont was going to have in Rockingham Superior Court. To my mind, that's interference with a Judge. There is a statute, RSA 640, interference with...I forget how it's phrased, but that was a crime. Certainly the argument is there that it was a crime. He called or he talked to the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court about his case and what happened was the Chief Justice talked to the entire court about it and said: "What should we do about this?" So they sent him a letter saying: "Ask the judge to be recused or file a JCC complaint." We had a discussion at the hearings about that: "Do you think that was the right thing to do?" And he said: "Well, it's hardball politics. That's the way it's played." Well, maybe that's not an impeachable offense, but I think it's fair for you to get a flavor of maybe what was going on here. I don't think it's fair that he's held responsible entirely for the acts of that case, but we can't put Senator Bartlett up here. We can't put Senator Dupont up here. We can't put the other judges up here. He's the only one here. I agree that's not fair, but it is indicative, I think, of the man, a little bit. Then, as you've heard already, we didn't hear anything for the next 10 years because we weren't charged with investigating what happened with Judge Brock and the court in the next 10 years. But, the next time something happened, in 1989, I think, no 1999, was the Feld case. I think it was 1999, in the Feld case when Justice Thayer, they were talking about disbarment or whatever, what kind of sanctions to give a couple of lawyers, Justice Thayer, who was recused, spoke on that matter and that was wrong. And what happened? The Chief Justice, that's when he said, "Confidentiality trumps everything else." And so, I look at the Home Gas case, which left a pit in my stomach, and then I look at that. I say: "Gee, what happened in the meantime?" Then, I hear about when Justice Thayer amended his financial disclosure and Howie Zibel was concerned about that and he went to Justice Johnson and Justice Johnson said: "Well, don't go to the Chief because he's going to say confidentiality trumps." I wonder about that and so that's the way I look at, with that background, I look at the Thayer proceedings which happened on February 4th of this year. So, although they are not entirely related, I don't think you can understand the entire process unless you look at the whole thing. So, February 4th, what happened? We've heard a lot about what's impeachable conduct and I would direct everyone to the interim report of Counselor Steinfield. He says that maladministration or malpractice is at least intentional, or reckless misconduct while serving in a position of public trust, intentional or reckless misconduct. It doesn't have to be a trial. It doesn't have to be the intention to commit some heinous act, even reckless misconduct. But, I heard somewhere along the way that, I think Gerald Ford said in one of the impeachment proceedings, federal ones, that it is basically whatever you think it is in your gut and I don't know that that's not true. That's true because we don't have an established definition. But you've also heard testimony this morning that drunkenness can be grounds for impeachment and I don't think you can impute an evil intent on a person for being drunk. As a matter of fact, it is probably a disease but nevertheless it is an impeachable offense. So, February 4th, I'm taking a long way around to February 4th. I guess, but that the committee found by clearing and convincing evidence that on February 4th, Chief Justice Brock engaged in ex parte communications with Justice Thayer and other justices, all of whom had been recused, in which he solicited their comments regarding Superior Court judges to be appointed to the Supreme Court panel that would hear the appeal of the trial court's judgment. Now that, the committee has decided, is an impeachable offense and that by clear and convincing evidence it happened. The Chief Justice, the week before this February 4th conference, had been away to Texas to a judicial conference. He got back the night of February 4th at about 2:00 a.m. in the morning and he went to work sometime that morning of February 4th and there was scheduled what is called a screening conference at 1:30 and a council agenda right after that on that day and a council agenda is a meeting with Eileen Fox where they discuss legislative items, etc. While the Chief Justice was away at the conference, he had asked Howie Zibel to get a list of judges who could serve on the Thayer divorce appeal which had been filed with the court in January of that year. So, there was the Thayer divorce appeal up at the Supreme Court as of January and they needed a couple of judges because there was an original panel the year before for the Thayer case, but two of the judges had to get out. Judge Nadeau went to the Supreme Court so he was recused and one of the other judges had a problem so he couldn't. So, Judge Brock had to appoint two judges and he was within his right to do that. And so, he looked at the list sometime that day and then he walked down to go to that 1:30 conference and as he walked down to the conference he walked by Howie Zibel's office and he stuck his head in, and this is pretty much undisputed, he stuck his head in and said: "I'm going to go with Judge Mangones and Judge Pappagianis for the Thayer divorce panel." Howie said: "Okay, I'll make the calls." So, he walked on and he went to the screening conference. When he went to the screening conference that day there was nothing about the Thayer divorce on the agenda, either on the screening conference or on the council's agenda after. There was no reason for him to mention the Thayer divorce proceeding. Indeed, they went to the screening conference and as far as we know, nothing was mentioned about the Thayer divorce conference. After they finished that conference, they called for Eileen Fox, who is the court's counsel. She came into the deliberation room, the conference room where they have their conferences, and it was Eileen Fox, Judge Horton, Judge Broderick, Judge Thayer and the Chief Justice. Although he had no reason to say anything about the Thayer case, the first thing he said was: "By the way, I'm going with Pappagianis and Mangones with the Thayer divorce panel." Now, in that room were four judges recused from that Thayer case. Included in one of those four judges was a party to that case and he made that statement under those circumstances. The Chief Justice says that by saying that he was not soliciting any reaction. He expected nobody to say anything. We heard testimony about how distraught Justice Thayer was about his divorce but still his testimony was that he did not expect any reaction. Well, he was wrong. There was conflicting, well not conflicting but everyone had a little recollection, but the Chief Justice himself, said that Justice Thayer, when he heard that jumped out of his seat and said: "No, not Pappagianis. You can't do that." And the Chief Justice said, "Aw come on, Steve, you can't object to that." Then I guess at that point Justice Horton used some now famous nautical language and said words to the effect that Justice Pappagianis was a problem, too, because he was, what he said was a tight-ass, on ethical issues. Now, you would think that Justice Brock would say: "That's it. I made a mistake, but that's it. You people don't have any say. It's my decision and I'm doing it." And I guess that's what Justice Broderick said: "It's your call, Chief. Do what you want." What he did was, he got up and he went down to Howie Zibel's office and when he got there, Howie was on the phone with Judge Pappagianis and he had already called Judge Mangones and he stuck his head in Howie's door and he said: "Have you called Judge Pappagianis?" And he said, "He's on the phone right now." And I don't have the exact language, but he said: "He's on the phone now." It's disputed whether he said: "Could you stop it or can you slow it down, Howie? Sherm has an objection." And so, Howie Zibel said to Judge Pappagianis, "I'll call you back." At that point he goes back to the conference room and he asks Justice Thayer to leave the conference room. He asks Justice Horton what his problem was with Judge Pappagianis and at that point I think they straightened it out that Judge Horton thought he was talking about a JCC panel for Judge Thayer and not the Thayer divorce panel so he said: "Okay, understanding that I don't have a problem." Now, that's in effect Number 1 of Article II. He spoke to a room full of recused Judges without Mrs. Thayer having the benefit, and I don't mean to get into the Thayer divorce, but she did not have the benefit of being in the room or having her counsel in that room. The other thing was, almost every judge except the Chief Judge said that somehow, either by body language or by words, he elicited comments from everyone. The Chief Judge said that, "I didn't" or "I didn't intend to, but if I did, well...." but everyone else said he did. So, he was sitting in a room with recused judges and asking for comments from one of the people who was a party, who was directly affected by that particular case which they all knew was pending at the court. That's the essence of Article I, and as I said, the Judiciary Committee felt by clear and convincing evidence that that rose to the level of impeachment. Now the story continues into Number 2 of Article II, which states that on February 4, 2000, Chief Justice Brock participated in an ex parte communication with Justice Thayer in the hallway outside the court's conference room in which the Chief Justice discussed possible appointments to the Supreme Court panel that would hear the appeal of the trial court's judgment. As I said, when he got back into the conference room, he asked Justice Thayer to step outside. That is undisputed. There was one court employee who testified that she went to the ladies' room and around that time she did in fact see Justice Thayer out in the hallway standing around which she thought was unusual because they were all supposed to be in the conference room. She exchanged pleasantries. She went to the ladies' room, came out a couple of minutes later, he was still standing there. Now, the import of that is that after they had their discussion inside, Justice Thayer testified that the Chief Justice came out to get him, came out in the hallway to get him. They had a conversation and the conversation, if I can find it, was, I'll read from Justice Thayer's deposition: "Chief Justice came out and said that Pappagianis was going to be on my divorce panel but that he would not appoint him to a panel involved in any Judicial Conduct Committee matters that arose, if any. He then asked me whether Judge Mangones had any problems," and he states that he explained that Judge Mangones was involved in his divorce prior and that he thought he had a conflict. Then the Chief Justice said: "What about Judge O'Neil?" Thayer said: "To my knowledge my wife and I have no conflict with Judge O'Neil." And he said something like, "Okay." and re-entered the conference room. If that's true, you could look at it that he rigged the Judicial Conduct Committee panel that was going to be hearing Thayer's case and he influenced the panel that would hear the Thayer divorce hearing. So, the question is, and I have to be honest with you, this part of the article is not as clear as the first part. Testimony is definitely conflicting in what happened and that's why it is important that you know about the Home Gas case, that you know about the Feld matter, because to a certain extent it's a credibility issue. Justice Brock said, when asked who went out to get Judge Thayer in the hallway, he said in his deposition: "We had to get Justice Thayer back in the conference room." How did you do that? "My best memory at this time is that I asked Eileen Fox to ask somebody to find Justice Thayer and tell him to come back in the conference room. It's possible that I stepped out into the corridor and asked somebody to find him, but I do remember sitting at the conference table for two, possibly three minutes while we were waiting for Justice Thayer to come back in the room." A couple of pages later he was asked again who went out in the conference room to get him and he was asked: "Well did you go out to the corridor to get Justice Thayer yourself?" And he said: "I have no specific, oh, to get Justice Thayer? No, I absolutely never went out to get Justice Thayer."

"Did you have any conversation with Justice Thayer in the hallway outside the conference room?" "Not in that hallway. I did have a conference with him later that day in the hallway." In that conversation later, he said he just told him that what you did was wrong, and that Pappagianis will be fair. So, Judge Brock said: "Well, I may have gone out to ask somebody to get him." And then he said, "I never went out." Eileen Fox who was sitting there and had nothing to gain one way or the other and who was not ordinarily in those conferences, so I think the committee felt that she was more likely to remember what happened that day because it was not that usual an event for her. She said, from her deposition, page 61: "Now did you go out to get Justice Thayer or did the Chief Justice do so?"

"The Chief Justice did."

"How long was he out of the room?"

"I don't recall exactly. My, I guess my recollection is that there was no further discussion about the incident when they came back into the room, so I assumed that there was some conversation in the hall, but it seemed to me that they were out of the room just a short time."

"Apart from your assumption that there was some discussion outside the room, I assume you mean between the Chief Justice and Justice Thayer."

"Yes."

"And do you have any basis for that belief?"

"No, other than the fact that there was no discussion when they came back in the room."

So, what she was saying was: "I don't know what was said out there but I sure as heck know that I didn't go out that day," and when they came back, you would think if they didn't have a discussion they would have said, "Well, Steve, we're going to have Pappagianis on your panel." But, she was very clear and consistent all the way through that they said nothing, that they just sat down and started talking about the council agenda which would make you think, like she did, that they spoke in the hallway. Justice Horton doesn't remember anything, basically. But, he does say that: "My best recollection is that when the Chief Justice came back in he went right into the council agenda," and they didn't have any more discussion about the Thayer divorce panel. So, he in that sense, backs up Eileen Fox. Justice Broderick backs up the Chief. He says: "I don't exactly remember, but I have an image of Justice Thayer standing in the doorway, peeking his head in and then somebody asking him to come in again." So, there you have it, conflicting evidence. I can't say 100 percent that they had that conversation. But, I can tell you that the committee voted 16 to 6 that there was clear and convincing evidence that they had that conversation. I can't say 100 percent but that is what a trial is for. But I think, and obviously the majority of the committee felt, that the clear and convincing evidence was that number one, he spoke and invited comment in that room that day and, number two, that he had a conversation with Justice Thayer about his JCC panel and about his divorce panel, without his wife or his wife's counsel present. Anyone out of law school knows you are not supposed to do that. The committee feels that that is an impeachable offense and there you have it.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to questions? Rep. Solow you may inquire.

Rep. Solow: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative Craig. Representative Craig, how can we believe anything you have said when, already, in your opening statements here, you said something that was not so and I'm telling you it was not so because it relates to an incident that involved me and I'm talking about your reporting the conversation that the Chief Justice had with Senator Dupont? You said that the response from Senator Dupont was: "That's hardball politics." That phrase was not made by Senator Dupont, it was made to me when I asked Justice Brock whether or not he felt threatened by the remarks that Senator Bartlett had made to him. So, don't you agree with me it's clear, a) that there are varying memories of things, even something that happened as recently as when that deposition was taken a week or two ago and, b) that if you have put it out here to these members as something that actually happened, it subjects your credibility to scrutiny?

Rep. Craig: Well, I'm not going to tell you that I'm 100 percent perfect. You're absolutely right. It was and I thought I said, that it was the Chief Justice who said they were playing hardball politics and that's part of the game. If I said otherwise, I misspoke, but you don't have to believe me. You've all got the material. It's all on the web. It's all in the reports. It's everywhere. You don't have to believe me if you don't want to. I extracted what's in those sources to the best of my ability. I'm a human being. I think I got most of it right, but I'm not going to tell you I got everything right. I'd be lying to you.

Rep. Solow: Madam Speaker, I need ... (tape change) ... and I in no way mean to call him anything other than an honest and forthright person, which he is. I brought this out because I want you to know how important it is that people's memories differ and people can honestly, honestly remember things differently and I happen to remember that particular incident because I happened to have been the person who asked the question. Please forgive me, Jim, if I've done anything or said anything I shouldn't have.

Rep. Craig: I didn't take any offense from anything you said, Representative Solow.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Keans, you may inquire.

Rep. Keans: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative Craig, I have to take issue with something else you said, and you said Eileen Fox would have a much better memory of what went on in that room because she wasn't used to being there. But isn't the fact really that this was council agenda and this was what her job was, to be there and to present this agenda?

Rep. Craig: That is absolutely right. However, what I meant by that was that the justices have screening conferences and lots of other conferences that she is not privy to and so in that sense, you're right. Once a month, I think it's once a month, they have a council agenda, but she is not privy and she does not sit in there on a regular basis like the justices do.

Rep. Keans: Then what you're telling me is, the words you said were accurate, you just have to put them in a new context. Isn't that what this case has been like from day one?

Rep. Craig: Well, except that I'm saying this once. We have it in transcripts several times from these proponents. I guess I did it again.

Rep. Keans: Representative Craig, I'm not talking about the transcripts, I'm talking about the answers and the reports and the information you just gave this body. How you, in effect, if we were to hold it to the letter of the line, you misspoke. But when we give you further time to answer your question and to context it, it comes out accurate. I think that is what this case has been like from day one.

Rep. Craig: Well, you know, I can't argue with that. All I can say is, that is what a trial is for, because you are absolutely right, what I say and what you say when we see the same things, may be two different things. I didn't say that anything I said was 100 percent correct, anything anybody said was 100 percent correct because there are memories, but there are tests, cross-examination, etc.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Alger, you may inquire.

Rep. Alger: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative. This morning, a Representative asked, said, that the only thing left in this issue was revenge. So, Representative, I might ask you in your conscientious endeavors to discover the truth, is it your opinion that the only thing left is revenge, or are you reaching for a higher level in your decision to vote for this Article? Thank you.

Rep. Craig: Well, if you are asking me personally, and I guess that's all I can answer for, I don't have anything to be revengeful about that. I feel I've made a good living as an attorney and people have always treated me with, I guess, the respect that I deserve, that they think I deserve, for the most part I'm a happy guy, including the Chief Justice. I'm nothing but sad about this whole thing and I don't know other people's motives. I suspect that maybe Claremont and past things, maybe Judge Fairbanks, has entered into some people's thinking. I think I would be lying if I said otherwise. But, that is the best answer I can give you with regards to my motives.

Speaker: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Betty Hall, you may inquire.

Rep. Betty Hall: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative, what I really don't understand is why Justice Thayer, ex-Justice Thayer, was given immunity in this case, especially when he stated that he was going to bring the whole court down. Would you explain that to me? Why he was given immunity?

Rep. Craig: I don't think that I can. He was given immunity but we were, the committee, to the best of my recollection, we weren't given much information about that and it wasn't forthcoming. So, you know, that's another thing you should consider, too, when you consider Justice Thayer's testimony, that he was given immunity and that's been described as a license to kill by someone in the proceedings. So, if you want to consider that when you consider his credibility, that's fine. But, why he as given that immunity, I can't say. I'd just be speculating.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Phinizy, you may inquire.

Rep. Phinizy: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. I'd like to ask my honorable colleague a question. This is really a two-part question if that would be acceptable. Do you remember specifically when Justice Brock, Mr. Chief Justice, returned from his conference the night before?

Rep. Craig: I'm pretty sure the testimony was 2:00 a.m. or 2:30 a.m., but I think it was 2:00 a.m.

Rep. Phinizy: So, assuming that it was 2:00 a.m., then it would be reasonable also to assume that he could be subject to making an honest mistake not having been able to review the docket for the next day. Would that be a safe assumption?

Rep. Craig: Well, I tried to check that and in his deposition he said that he spent the morning preparing for the screening conference and he didn't say what time he went to work. I don't know whether he did that at home. He could have slept 'til 10:00. I don't know. I couldn't find it in his deposition so I can't answer that.

Rep. Phinizy: Then it would be safe to say that based on the fact that he got in terribly late, and based on the very simple fact that he probably had a sufficient workload and they had a considerable workload that week, that he could have made an honest mistake that morning?

Rep. Craig: I would say that that's an inference that can be drawn by the evidence we have.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Sabella, you may inquire.

Rep. Sabella: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative Craig. I'm very disturbed that I have, I've read the depositions, and I'm very disturbed that I've heard several, I don't want to use the word lies, I'll use the word misstatements, from members of the Judiciary Committee and the Representative who gave the parliamentary inquiry in support of supporting this first charge or whatever it is. Most of us came up here this morning with somewhat a predisposed leaning one way or the other on I, II or III. My question is for the Representatives who have not read the depositions or who are inclined to be less careful: How can we stop or prevent people from saying, this was said by this person when it wasn't? Do we have to have, would it help to have, all the depositions here? I'm very, very upset about this. How can we solve it?

Rep. Craig: Well, Representative Sabella, I guess the only answer I can give you is that I'm, in a sense, subject to cross-examination. Two of my colleagues have come up and told me when I made a misstatement, so I guess that's, if you haven't read anything, then that's your only spell-check here.

Rep. Rowe: Thank you, Madam Speaker and I thank the honorable members. I will be brief today, even though this is a most solemn matter and one of the reasons I'll be brief is pure selfishness. This is a very emotional matter for myself and every single member of the committee. I know all of the members of the committee spent sleepless nights. They got up. They couldn't sleep. They studied. They worked very, very hard. It has been troubling to them. They are sincere, hardworking. I do, however, disagree with them on Article II and I would ask that you vote against Article II. I'm not going to repeat the facts that Representative Craig gave because they are basically true. I would like you to understand them in my eyes. But first, let me say that I am a Representative that believes that we have a good judicial system. But, I do emphatically believe in judicial reform. We need more reform so that the public has the best possible judiciary that is possible, in any country in the world and we should work for that. I know, for a fact, as Sherm Horton said on this investigation, "It is good that in any institution, including the court, that sometimes we open up the lid of the pot, peer in and stir it up." That's what we did and we have found out that there is a great number of things that need to be changed and will be changed. There is another good aspect of the impeachment investigation and that is that every single one of you, every member of the public and every lawyer in the State of New Hampshire has finally had an opportunity to see a judge, speak with a judge, have them answer questions and understand how the court works. Do you understand that I think there are very few attorneys that really, but before this, understood how the court worked? But, why am I against this impeachment? I'm against it for philosophical reasons. First of all, we have to be extremely careful in impeachment. It is the last resort. Every single state in this country is looking at us. They are viewing us. We don't want to set the bar of impeachment too low. We in the Judiciary Committee had very little to go on. We had no New Hampshire guide, 210 years ago they didn't write very swiftly with quill pens, even if the records were available. But there are only 20 or so impeachments of state judges in the history of our country. There is very little standard to go by. What we do here today will set the guideline, the standard for all states to follow and we should be, therefore, very, very careful. Now, there are four reasons for impeachment: bribery, corruption, malpractice, maladministration. Well, it certainly wasn't bribery or corruption. Malpractice, maladministration? The definition of that is mal, malice from the Latin, which means evil, corrupt, evil intent, to inflict injury. None of that happened. If we could impeach for stupidity, we certainly should, because without a doubt the Supreme Court was run inefficiently and with stupidity but we can't impeach for that. A letter of address? Yes, that is possible. But this does not rise to the level of maladministration or malpractice. That is the reason why I'm asking you to vote against it. Stupidity, yes. Now, understand the Supreme Court. I'd like you to put yourself in the position of being a judge on the Supreme Court. Before you are appointed, you have hundreds of attorneys that call you. You speak to people. You have a dialogue. You meet clients. Once you become a member of the Supreme Court, it's like going into a cocoon. Justice Horton mentioned it. Nobody calls you. No one talks to you. Your old lawyer friends won't speak to you. They are afraid. You're too high. The judges you are going to judge, they won't speak to you. It's a very, very lonely job. You have five members there. Sooner or later they become like family and you treat them like family. Whether you treat them like a father or a brother, or I should say like a sibling, or a son or daughter, I don't know, but you treat them closely. You had the occurrence of the Thayer case, an outburst, an absolute unusual situation of having a judge being divorced and believe me, I don't think any of us, if we are going to get divorced, want a divorce like that. It was an outburst. Certainly, Judge Brock had compassion and understanding for a fellow justice. He had an obligation under the law absolutely not to have an ex parte communication. But, rules of conduct, how many of us have gone speeding, crossed a solid line? We've all done it, but he showed compassion. He was wrong, absolutely wrong in doing it. I can understand how it happened. He was wrong. I don't believe that this is an impeachable offense and I would hope that you would also agree that on this occasion that we want, well, when we go to court, not only do you want the court to make a correct judgment of the facts and the law, don't we want the court to show understanding to each and every one of us, compassion to each and every one of us? I think we do. I think we ought to show that understanding today, the compassion today to Judge Brock. He did wrong but it is not impeachable. Set the impeachment level bar high, not low. Thank you. For the sake of time, I will not accept any questions because I'm sure that any question will be answered by fellow speakers. Rep. Soltani: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Madam Speaker, practical politics consists of disregarding the facts. I didn't make that up. That was written by that great American, Henry Adams, in the early 18th century. That is the problem here with this article today. The only way we can vote it down is if we engage in practical politics and ignore the facts. The facts are there and are irrefutable. What are the facts? Well, we have Judge Brock, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, presiding over a case conference in which he raises the issue of selecting a panel to hear the appeal of the divorce of Judge Thayer. All of the judges in that court room were recused. By law, he could not have raised that issue. He did. And all the testimony, except that of Judge Brock, indicates that he sought input. By law, he could not do that. Subsequently, he had a chat about who should sit on this fellow's appeal. He could not, by law, do that. He had a conference outside of the conference room with Judge Thayer, during which he discussed the names of the judges that would be acceptable to Judge Thayer for his appeal. By law, he could not do that. He did. I'm asking you today not to engage in practical politics because the New Hampshire House is way above that. This requires a principled judgment. This is a political process, not a legal process. I recognize that. But not all politics requires us to disregard the facts. Judith Thayer, the other party in the case, was not in the room, was not there. You see, that dichotomy that emerges from this pattern of behavior is repulsive to me, is repulsive beyond belief. The dichotomy that there are two classes of people that can resort to courts. One, the disadvantaged, the vulnerable, the poor, the peasants. The other one, the powerful, the invulnerable, the wealthy, the princes. This follows the immediately previous article and in this case, Judith Thayer was perceived as powerless. Therefore, she was preyed upon. We can't allow that. We can't begin to wander down that road. Another great American said, "It's not that any particular class is incapable of governing." Lord Acton said, "All classes, any class is incapable of governing by themselves. We must include all classes." And in this particular case Judith Thayer's class was excluded from the deliberation. There was horse-trading going on outside of the conference room while judges' names were being bandied about and Judith Thayer was not represented. Judith Thayer did not have anything to say about that. That's wrong. It's against the rules of the court. It's against the law. That's dead wrong and we can't tolerate it. But, I can't leave the podium without addressing a couple of the points that were raised. One was, the standard would be lowered or we would somehow be violative of the constitutional mandate of maladministration, malpractice, corruption and bribery. The truth is we know, and the Judiciary Committee knew well, that when the United States Constitution was being framed, the same phrase was considered and it was James Madison who thought that the New Hampshire version of the verbiage was a lower threshold than the federal version, so the federal version was elevated to only allow impeachment for high crimes, misdemeanors, corruption and bribery. The New Hampshire version, which was passed after the federal constitution, after Madison had made it abundantly clear that it was a lower threshold than the federal constitution, established that lower threshold of maladministration, malpractice and don't let anybody kid you, malpractice and maladministration is exactly what you think it is. You are as knowledgeable about that as any Harvard or Yale graduate. It leaves it entirely to your conscience. Another one is, well, we've got to be compassionate. Yes, judges on the bench are compassionate every day and juries are compassionate every day. Compassion does not require absolution. It does not require you to give somebody a pass after having violated the constitution. We can't do that. We can be nice to them. We don't have to humiliate them. But at the same time, we need to correct and impeachment is a method of correction. Another bizarre one that I heard was, well, if we impeach for conduct such as this, then talented people won't want to be judges. Well, let me say it here and now, talented people who have this urge of trampling on people's rights, on violating the constitution and breaking the law repeatedly and failing to treat people equally, do not apply as judges in New Hampshire. We don't need talent like that. Madam Speaker, I know the time is late, but my personal beliefs require that I take questions if there are any raised. So, the only way to get rid of me is don't ask me questions.

Speaker Sytek: Representative Dudley, you may inquire.

Rep. Dudley: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative Soltani for taking my question. It will be very brief. A statement was made by a Justice that no harm was done during the Thayer v. Thayer, February 4th conference. Would you agree? There are two parties involved in any divorce action and there was only one party at the conference, regarding the selection of judges at the Thayer v. Thayer February 4th conference. I'm sorry, this is my first time here and I'm nervous so if you can hear me it is probably just as well.

Rep. Soltani: You're a pro, Terri. Don't let anybody kid you. Was there a victim? Of course there was a victim. The primary victim is the law, the rule of law. If we depart from it, then it doesn't matter who is violated. In fact, Judge Brock himself wrote in the case of Judge Snow who was accused of malpractice or misbehavior that outcome is irrelevant when it comes to judicial misconduct. It doesn't matter if anybody gets killed or not. The truth is you engaged in judicial malpractice. You have to be corrected. Is there a true victim? Yes. Judith Thayer is the true victim. She was left out of the discussion and that is just not something we can tolerate.

Rep. Dudley: Would you further agree that harm was done to at least one person during this conference and in a broader sense to the people of New Hampshire, Judith Thayer represents John Q. Public as well as Jane Q. Public?

Rep. Soltani: To that I can say amen and hallelujah.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Vaillancourt, you may inquire.

Rep. Vaillancourt: Thank you, Madam Speaker. On the day of your committee's deliberations, I did manage to sit in for a couple of hours and I was so struck by the comment of one of your colleagues on the committee that I wrote it down with the hopes of asking someone for an opinion and since you're an attorney, I'll ask you. This individual said, "Justice Brock has delivered good opinions for 20 years, so we shouldn't impeach him." Does that make sense?

Rep. Soltani: The Representative is correct, my friend from Manchester. Having behaved properly for any duration of time, be it 10 years, 20 years, 30 years or a life time, does not absolve someone from being held responsible for their conduct. If a person said that, I'm sure they did, they didn't mean exactly that Judge Brock should be absolved. They were again asking for mercy. The right place, though, for that during the sentencing phase is in the Senate, not in the House of Representatives.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Solow, you may inquire.

Rep. Solow: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative Soltani. Representative, you know that you and I agree that it is important to get the facts and there is one thing you said that I'm unclear of as to its factual nature. You said all the justices were recused in the Thayer v. Thayer situation and at that conference. But, am I correct in remembering that that does not mean that they necessarily were recused from the ministerial duties which included appointment of substitute judges?

Rep. Soltani: I'm afraid the gentle lady is incorrect about that. The New Hampshire rule does not distinguish between ministerial or scrivener's acts than judicial acts. Nevertheless, even if it did, the selection of a substitute judge is not a scrivener's act. It requires discretion on behalf of the actor and elevates it to a quasi judicial conduct. At the same time, the selection of a substitute, by New Hampshire law, is not the work of the judges as a group. It is the work of Chief Justice Brock exclusively. That's by law. Therefore, because he, himself, would have been recused then it would have fallen to the next person down, the Senior Justice, and because all the Senior Justices and, in fact, all the justices were recused, then by rule of necessity it would revert back to him. The only person who could make that decision under New Hampshire law is Justice Brock and all the others were, by law, excluded.

Rep. Solow: I appreciate being educated on the point. Thank you, very much.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question. Rep. Sapareto, you may inquire.

Rep. Sapareto: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative Soltani. My question, this goes to two areas that we have, this hinging around two ex parte communications. One is whether or not that in the hallway that this did occur. Now, from Representative DePecol's previous discussion with us, he mentioned that there was conflicting testimony on whether or not that conversation occurred. Now, did that, I mean, I'd like to know in your words whether that, what is the evidence that that did occur. And number two is, we talk about the ex parte communication where he walks back into the conference room and tells the other judges exactly who will be sitting on that case. Is that not public knowledge? Or if that is in turn an impeachable offense by ex parte, I'd like to know what those two questions, one is that considered an impeachable offense, one just because he said what the judges that sat on the case were? I would even get into whether or not that's a solicitation. And then number two is whether or not that that, is there clear and convincing evidence that that conversation occurred in the hallway?

Rep. Soltani: I'll do my best to answer it, but I've got to say I'm a little bit confused about the question. Is there evidence that the hallway conversation took place? Yes, it did. The evidence given by Justice Thayer confirms it and then we always look at inferences and corroboration. The testimony given by Eileen Fox corroborates that although not conclusively, but it gives reasonable inferences. You have to realize that in law we always look to other factors. Seldom is the decedent, the murdered person, around to answer the question, "Who killed you?" So, we have to look at the facts that surround it, physical evidence and other testimonial evidence. In this case, we look at the testimonial evidence. We have Thayer. We have Eileen Fox. The timing matches it. The only person that denies it is Justice Brock and we also look at, well, other motives to be truthful or are there motives not be truthful. That is one of the jury instructions that we give. Does Judge Brock have motives to forget the hallway conversation? As a human being, yes. I don't mean that in a bad way. You just don't want to remember some things and that is something that you want to erase from your memory banks. The second question, I don't know what it was, but you're right.

Rep. Sapareto: Thank you, Representative Soltani. The question is, whether or not a, just an announcement of who the justices that sit on a particular case, is an impeachable offense?

Rep. Soltani: An announcement by itself in violation of the New Hampshire statutes as well as canons of judicial conduct, in my opinion, yes; but worse than that, an announcement and invitation for input from recused justices definitely, yes, resoundingly yes.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Wallin, you may inquire.

Rep. Wallin: Madam Speaker, I promise to be gentle. Madam Speaker, I wonder if I heard the member from Epsom correctly when I thought he said, and that is what a lot of is going on today and actually during the hearings and during the deliberation. I thought I heard him say that the time for charity and the time to be nice to Chief Justice Brock was in the Senate at the so-called sentencing phase of this whole deliberation and so what I heard him say when I heard those words was, we are going to go through a trial costing between $300,000 to $500,000 only to have the Senate not find the Chief Justice guilty because the evidence that we are going to bring and the prosecution we are going to carry on is going to be so flimsy.

Rep. Soltani: I'm afraid the gentle lady misunderstood what I said. The Senate is the body that imposes a sentence after conviction and the sentence could be from nothing all the way up to removal from office and deprivation of office of honor. That is entirely up to the Senate. During that phase, they can consider the person's good service to the state and they can consider a person's character. Those are generally not the domain of the inquest or of the originating body. At the same time, though, if the Senate were to find not guilty, that is not the objective. We define our success as a government and as a people by the process that we follow, not necessarily by the outcome. Outcome to us as a people is irrelevant. Did we give this person fair process? Did we stay loyal to the words of the constitution? If the Senate decides to not to convict, I'll be just as happy.

Rep. Wallin: So, one further question, Madam Speaker. Then the member from Epsom is absolving me from having not deliberated in earnest when I vote against this particular article, is that true?

Rep. Soltani: I don't want any misimpression. Each member of this House is vested with the ultimate power of deciding what an impeachable act is and deciding what burden of evidence is to apply and then deciding whether to vote to impeach or not. It is entirely a question of your conscience, nothing else, guided by your moral compass and you can look to rules in New Hampshire, laws of New Hampshire, statements of public policy to guide that moral compass. But, you are eternally answerable only to your conscience and don't let any lawyer kid you.

Rep. Wallin: Final question, Madam Speaker. The member from Epsom, probably in his second career, which I understand he was a member of the police force before that, probably should be segueing into the religious area or perhaps the area where you give speeches to make people feel better because I really appreciate the instruction that you've been giving me.

Rep. Soltani: Madam Speaker, the gentle lady from Concord has repeatedly promised to be gentle with me and she has yet to live by it.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Phinizy you may inquire.

Rep. Phinizy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In your dissertation before the questions and during the questions, you, my honorable friend from Epsom, you discussed things about input, motive and refusal, did you not? Well, you discussed these were aspects of this dissertation were they not?

Rep. Soltani: Sure.

Rep. Phinizy: Were they then, how do I want to characterize this, were they then sort of part of the entire thread of your inquiry? When we talk about ethics and all this kind of thing?

Rep. Soltani: Agreed.

Rep. Phinizy: What I would like to ask you then is, how did you vote? Now, you're going say this bears no resemblance on this, but I'd like to ask you how you voted on the reprimand for Justice Horton, Mr. Justice Horton.

Rep. Soltani: I voted against all reprimands for any justice before conviction by the Senate. I don't believe we have the authority to do that.

Rep. Phinizy: That's fine, but including Mr. Justice Horton?

Rep. Soltani: On all of them. I made no distinction. I voted against any measure to reprimand or censure because we do not have the authority to do so.

Rep. Phinizy: Well, then final question, hopefully, Madam Speaker. I would like to ask you and I would be willing to read the statement that you made at those deliberations before the final day, did you not say, "I have to confess about the fact that I like Sherm Horton?" And, would that not, as a result, require you to recuse yourself from voting one way or the other?

Rep. Soltani: No, and you need to take the whole thing in context. I was informing the other committee members that what I say may be tainted by my affinity for Judge Horton. I like him as a person. I've never had a drink with him. I've never been to any social gathering with him. I just like him and I needed to tell the other members that what I say may be shaded in favor of Judge Horton and that's all I was doing.

Rep. Phinizy: Then, one further question. I apologize, Madam Speaker. Then, at the pleasure of this audience and my fellow representatives, I will withdraw my question.

Rep. Soltani: You are a good man.

Rep. Eaton: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Valued colleagues, I'm impressed with the diligence of the Judiciary Committee and I'm impressed with the leadership of the Chairman of the Judiciary Committee. I was also impressed last week or 10 days ago when we last met how the members of the Judiciary Committee rallied around the Chairman when he was challenged here. Madam Speaker, the workings of the Judiciary Committee has been like the workings of a family. As I watched the hearings across the street, because I wanted to be there to watch the demeanor, to get a sense of the dynamics and the vitality and the looks and the whole flow or lack thereof, I was impressed with the Chairman because he let differing perceptions, perspectives, questions, interpretations, feelings and facts be expressed. But, then, when it was appropriate he stepped in and he moved the process forward. I believe there is an analogy. I believe there is a parallel, Madam Chairman. And just as an aside, I think we need to remember my perspective is usually a little bit different and it's back to basics. They say the law came from custom, the law came from what seemed to work with people and then they decided they needed to codify it and so we had written law. However, someone has said a long time ago, before you judge someone you need to walk in their shoes for a period of time. You need to have a sense of how they work, how they think, what their tradition has been. I believe that the workings in the New Hampshire Supreme Court can be likened to a family, where the five members, they can and they do express their perceptions, their perspectives, their interpretations, their feelings as a group. They sit around and they discuss the issues that are embroiled in the particular case that comes before them. And then the Chief Justice steps in and moves the process. That is part of his responsibility. This pattern has continued for decades and specifically, when Justice Thayer uncharacteristically exclaimed emotionally about his replacement, when the Chief Justice named who that would be, like the head of a family, Chief Justice Brock let things simmer down for a bit and then he said, "My choice is and that is who it is." It didn't alter. One of the five Justices comes, I guess I want it to be because he is from the north country where I'm from, one of the Justices, Judge Batchelder from Plymouth said about Judge Thayer when he was going through his emotional trauma, he said, "You know, he talked a lot and we let him talk. It was like a family, but we let him talk but we didn't really listen." Madam Speaker, a family, be it the Judiciary Committee of 20 to 22 members or be it the five-member New Hampshire Supreme Court, accomplishes something by going through the pulls and tugs, by listening to one another. The broader understanding we can have, the better the product will be ultimately. I think it is important when you weigh the scales of justice and you look at a 25-year career, that's 12 governorships, to the substance, not the emotion, but the substance that we are looking at today. And just as a postscript, it is also important to realize that we are at a crossroads. America has been described as being litigious and I can say this because I graduated from Frank's in 1990, ten years ago, Franklin Pierce Law School. We are, in America, described as being litigious; at the drop of a hat, let's go to court. Whereas Canada, Great Britain, negotiate. They say they are going to take the longer view. They know if they go to court on Friday and pull and tug they may still have to work with the people with whom they wrangled in court the Friday before on Monday morning. So, just keep these things in mind. Put them together. I know it's important to look at the specifics, to look at the rules, but it is also important to put it into context of how we treat one another, that this is not a perfect world and if the ultimate goal is to make it better. I remember when I ran two state agencies here back from 1978 to 1984, they used to say, "Oh it's her fault. It's his fault." I said I don't want to hear that. What I want to hear is how we go from this day forward and to make it better and I think that is part of what we need to consider today. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Rep. Solow: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representatives, for your patience in letting me appear in front of you so often. I feel so strongly about this that I must be sure that we are judging it on the facts. I brought up the question of memory and the correctness of memory because it is so important as we judge the facts and as we draw inferences here. Jim Craig did a fine job of laying out the facts on the Thayer v. Thayer episode which is what we are referring to in Article II. Let me talk about a couple of things. A large part of believing that there was an ex parte communication out in the hallway, a large part of that relies on your believing that Justice Thayer is a credible witness, and I want you to think about Justice Thayer and think about the fact that he resigned in order to avoid criminal indictment for actions that he had taken with respect to his duties as a Justice. To me that raises a question of creditability. I sat in on every single deposition. I heard almost every word. I wasn't there for the afternoon session of Justice Thayer so maybe he said something that was more convincing than it appeared when I read the transcript, but I think comparing Chief Justice Brock's credibility and Justice Thayer's credibility, I have to come down on the side of Chief Justice Brock. Now, let me tell you, Chief Justice Brock is no friend of mine. My only exposure to Chief Justice Brock was when he came into the hearing rooms, first last year on some bill or other that I can't even remember, please don't ask me about it because I don't remember, and during the depositions. I looked at my notes taken at those depositions last night and I wrote down these words: evasive, weasely. That's how he impressed me in the deposition. That does not mean that he lied. It does not mean that he is not creditable. It means that he was trying very hard to put forward to the people who were going to make this sincere and serious judgment about him, he was trying very hard to be sure that he said the right thing. He also has a memory that's not always the same as somebody else's memory. Jim Craig and I have memories that aren't always coinciding with each other but that doesn't mean that one of us is not creditable. I firmly believe and I hope you will believe that Chief Justice Brock is telling the truth when he tells us what his memory is. So, here we go. Rep. Craig said that the Chief testified in one place, "I may have asked someone to go out in the hall and get Justice Thayer," and in another place, "I never went out to get Justice Thayer," and cited those as contradictory. I don't see those as contradictory, do you? He may have asked somebody else to go out. He never went out himself. Not at all contradictory. I find that quite believable. Eileen Fox, Counsel for the Court has a memory that the Chief went out. We've had very little exposure of Eileen Fox to the committee, but to me she appeared a credible witness. I believe she was saying what she honestly remembered. However, we also have testimony that Ms. Nadeau was out in the corridor and saw Justice Thayer out in the corridor and she passed him twice, once on her way to the ladies' room and once back from the ladies' room. She did not testify, at all, that she ever saw Chief Justice Brock out in the corridor. I'm telling you all this because the details are important in the way you view credibility and credibility is at the core here. If, after hearing all these things, you still don't see it the way I do, you still think that maybe Justice Thayer is the person who is telling the truth, that there was an ex parte conversation in the corridor, although frankly why the Chief would do that when there were certainly other opportunities to talk to Justice Thayer is beyond my understanding. But it is possible, so you have to decide for yourself which really happened. But more than that, you have to decide how to weigh what happened and I wrote down a couple of notes to myself to be sure that I said them to you. Remember, first of all, that what we are doing here is setting a precedent. I very much appreciate the levity that proceeded me here at the podium. I think sometimes I take things too seriously, but I can't imagine anything we've been asked to do in the last year that I have been here, two years, one session, and all the years that so many of you have been here, that is more serious than this decision that we are making today about impeaching a Chief Justice of the highest court of the State of New Hampshire. So, I ask you, don't impeach on doubt. If you have a doubt, that doesn't give you cause to impeach. Lack of evidence is no evidence. If you don't have evidence, you shouldn't conclude that something happened. One of the members of my committee whom I respect very highly, among the others, said it troubled her that she would never know that if Howard Zibel hadn't reported this whether it would ever have been reported. How does that weigh into this decision? It doesn't. It shouldn't. Because we have to judge on what happened and what we know happened and what we believe based on the facts happened. Not on what would have, could have, should have happened. So, please, if you are making inferences, base them on facts. Henry Mock, a man that I respect and disagree with, spoke to you this morning. He said there are bad things that have been happening in the courts. I couldn't agree more. He said the recusal policy is one of the worst things that has happened because it undermines people's trust in the court. I couldn't agree more. There are things that we have discovered that are wrong but impeaching the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court will not correct those problems. What will correct them are the reforms that I hope will come to you in the next session. What will correct them is the investigation that this committee has so laboriously conducted and that, as Representative Rowe said: We've lifted the pot lid. We've seen what's inside. Secrecy is not the same as confidentiality. There has been more secrecy in the court then there should be. Confidentiality is important, not secrecy, and there are some reforms whereby I think we can allow any documents, those red-dot documents that cover six feet on the bench that Henry Mock was talking about this morning. We can allow those to become public after the cases have been resolved. And, also, please remember compassion. I am not basing my judgment on compassion. I didn't find David Brock a likable person. I found him defensive. I found him combative. I found him arrogant. I found nothing in any of those characteristics that rises to the level of an impeachable offense. I hope you will agree with me.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Pitts, you may inquire.

Rep. Pitts: Thank you, very much. There is one statement that I am troubled with and that's in Section 5 of Article II and the sentence reads: "The said David Brock did affirmatively dissuade and discourage Justice William Johnson from reporting the misconduct to the proper authorities." That is troubling to me above all else. Can you explain that statement and is there corroborative evidence for that statement?

Rep. Solow: Thank you, Representative, for the question. Madam Speaker, may I have permission to read a document from William Johnson?

Speaker Sytek: Without objection, the member may read it.

Rep. Solow: Thank you Representatives, for allowing me to do this. Judge Johnson is my neighbor across the street. We are not friendly but we do talk to each other. We have an amicable relationship. He is very troubled about what came out in the testimony and the possible inferences that could be drawn from the testimony and he handed me a document the day before yesterday which I have not shared with the committee because I have not had an opportunity to do so. I would like to read some of it because it is directly in response to the question that the Representative just asked me. He's talking about the Feld case discussion in April, April 23, 1999, the case conference in Feld's case. Let me read you a couple of things. The statements that he is reporting to me in this document came from the testimony so I think it is in order that I read them.

Speaker Sytek: Representative Solow, someone has objected.

Rep. Solow: Thank you. If I may answer the question on my own, I would say that everything in the deposition that Justice Johnson refers to in this memo is there for you to read and it corroborates the testimony that the Chief did not dissuade Johnson; that Johnson talked to all of his colleagues and made his own judgment about whether or not to report the incidence. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. DePecol, you may inquire.

Rep. DePecol: Thank you, Representative Solow, Madam Speaker. I'm so glad you brought up the idea of facts. Is it not a fact that Justice Brock announced to the Supreme Court that he was going to appoint Justices Pappagianis and Mangones to the Thayer divorce panel? And, is it also not a fact that when Justice Thayer and Justice Horton objected to that that he got up and went down to his Clerk and told him to stop everything?

Rep. Solow: The facts we have are based on the testimony we received and the testimony is that he said to the assembled justices, "I'm going with Pappagianis and Mangones." That was a statement of having already made the decision, not inviting comment. And, in fact, for those who suggest that comment was invited, it seems to me that if they had been expecting comment they wouldn't have been so surprised at the response of Justice Thayer to the announcement, not invitation but announcement, that he was going with Pappagianis and Mangones. And, Representative DePecol, if you'll repeat your second question, I'd appreciate it.

Rep. DePecol: My second question is, even after all that, is it not a fact that when two recused justices objected to his call on who to appoint, that Justice Brock then went down to his Clerk and told him to stop everything, thereby effectively acting on their objections which are illegal?

Rep. Solow: I would agree with the first part of your statement but not the second. He wasn't effectively acting on it, he was responding to the turmoil that had occurred in the room. The first part, you are correct. By his own testimony, he went out of the room, excuse me, he asked Thayer to leave the room and then later he had a conversation with him late in the afternoon in the Clerk's corridor, not in the corridor outside the conference room.

Rep. DePecol: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative Solow, I want to come back to the point. Is it not a fact that after all that Justice Brock got up, went down to his Clerk and told him to stop all further actions?

Rep. Solow: I'm sorry, Representative DePecol, I thought I had answered that question. The deposition testimony and the testimony in public session indicates that he did declare that, yes.

Rep. Mock: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Like in every one of these articles things seem to get twisted around and get confused. Anything to get you confused. This is not, this is not a complicated article. It is one of the easiest ones. It is the easiest one, as a matter of fact. I'm just afraid that a previous speaker has still not learned the difference between impeachment and going to trial. We do not have to prove conclusively, like she told you, that something happened. Did it likely happen? Is it beyond a preponderance of the evidence? Where is it? Is it between 51 percent and between 99, is it somewhere in there that it probably happened? That's what you need. We don't have to prove it. Justices testified that when the Chief Justice made his announcement, it was sort of like, I'm going to go with Pappagianis and Mangones, you know, how's that? It's how you say it. Thayer reacted. Horton reacted. They were all recused. They broke their laws, exactly what I told you this morning. They broke their own rules, which are laws, when they did that. What did the Chief Justice do? He got up, he left, he went down, just as Representative DePecol told you, tried to stop the phone call, did, as a matter of fact, came back, asked Thayer to leave, go out in the hallway. Testimony was a court clerk saw Justice Thayer in the hallway, pretty good evidence. She saw him standing there, right where Justice Thayer said he was. He testified to that. Then, Eileen Fox testified, no question in her mind but what the Chief Justice left the room after he came back and then went out in the hallway and got Judge Thayer. Judge Thayer says they had a conversation. Is that absolute proof. 100 percent? No. Is it good enough for impeachment? Is it an ex parte communication? Probably. And that's why the committee voted, I've forgotten what the vote was, to make this an article of impeachment and I hope that you will agree. Thank you.

Rep. Mock requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.
The question being the adoption of Article II of House Resolution No. 51.

DEBATE ON ARTICLE III

Speaker Sytek: Next we'll take up Article III, also on page 1612.

Rep. Phyllis Woods: Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you, members of the House. I'm going to be talking to you about Article III wherein we state that Judge Brock did give false testimony under oath to the House Judiciary Committee during its investigation. I want to say a word about allegations that have been made about the Attorney General's report. Whether or not you agree that there were problems in that investigation and that the justices were perhaps not apprised of the full scope of the investigation, really does not impact on the decisions that were made by the House Judiciary Committee. In the final analysis, that was only the vehicle that actually brought forth this investigation but we conducted our own investigation. We took our own depositions and the Attorney General's report ultimately played a very small role. We paid very close attention to what happened during those depositions and what happened in the public testimony. On two of the occasions that are cited under the four points in this article, there was conflicting testimony given by Judge Brock himself from one deposition to the next which required no further evidence and no corroborating testimony. Now, even though this was not a part of the original focus of our investigation, the committee felt this was such a serious matter that we ultimately voted, by the greatest majority, that this should become an article of impeachment, 17 to 5. Since number three and number four of this Article have been fairly thoroughly covered by my colleagues from Walpole and Manchester, I'll mention them only briefly and will focus my remarks on number one and number two. What I'm going to do is share with you some of the actual testimony that was given by Judge

Brock. I'll lead you through that. This will be the exact testimony that led us to our decision. And then I'll respectfully present that to you for your consideration. Number one, on May 19th, Judge Brock testified that he did not know whether a letter of March 3, 2000 from his attorney had been sent to the Attorney General's office reporting threats made to him by former justice Thayer. Now, he had agreed during testimony that those threats imposed a duty on him to report, so this was a very important letter. During the testimony, Judge Brock's attorney provided Attorney Steinfield with a copy of the letter. Then began the following dialogue: Question by Attorney Steinfield, "You've given me what appears to be a draft letter, dated March 3rd, 2000 from Michael D. Ramsdell or bearing his name, not his signature, to Charles T. Putnam, Assistant Attorney General. Do you know whether this letter was ever sent?" Answer: "Of my personal knowledge, no." Later on in questioning, Attorney Steinfield asked, "Now, you don't know as I understand it, whatever became of that letter?" Answer: "My assumption is it was filed with the Attorney General." Question: "Well, I'm asking what you know." Answer: "Well, I know I was told that it was going to be filed with the Attorney General." On the next day that we deposed Judge Brock, May 24th, when this same item was brought up, Attorney Steinfield asked, "So you knew last time, last time you were here, you knew that this letter had not been sent to the Attorney General?" Answer: "Yes, counsel had told me that, yes." Later during the same testimony Attorney Steinfield again asked, "You knew before you last came here because your lawyer found out that Mr. Ramsdell didn't send that notice into the Attorney General early in March. Have I got it right?" Answer: "Yes, you, yup." Attorney Steinfield then referred to his previous testimony. Question: "And then I asked you, question, 'Now you don't know, as I understand it, whatever became of that letter, and your answer was, 'My assumption is it was filed with the Attorney General.' Have I read that correctly?' Answer: "Yes you have." "That wasn't true was it?" Answer: "Well, no, my assumption..." Question: "Well, it wasn't true?" Answer: "No, not if you read 'is', that's right." Now, when confronted with the fact that his testimony was incorrect and untrue, he said that he had said "was" rather than "is" and that the stenographer had transcribed it incorrectly. However, the committee noted that the question was posed in the present tense. "Now, you don't know" and if it had been answered in the past tense, "My assumption was it was filed...", Attorney Steinfield would have certainly asked what his present knowledge was. At any rate, Attorney Steinfield followed up with what I credit him as having the best question of the depositions, a very clear and unambiguous question. He said, "Well, I'm asking what you know." Which did ask for Judge Brock's present knowledge of the letter. Now, I'm going to go to number 2. On May 19th, while testifying about the Home Gas v. Strafford Fuel matter, Judge Brock testified that he didn't have copies of certain documents and had not seen those documents since their inclusion in the Judicial Conduct Committee reports some 13 years ago. Attorney Steinfield, in questioning Judge Brock about this matter, asked, Question: "And was there some sort of investigation conducted at the Supreme Court? I'm not asking about the JCC, Mr. Lancaster, pertaining to the Home Gas v. Strafford Fuels matter." Answer: "Yes." Question: "And do you have a recollection of that as you sit here today?" Answer: "I have, you know, a rather vague recollection of it." Later in the discussion of the same matter, Judge Brock stated, "Yeah, and another thing I remember here is when these things occurred I wrote letters to Senator Bartlett and Senator Dupont telling them the appropriate way to go about handling these matters." Question: "Do you have copies of those letters?" Answer: "I don't. They would be part of the report that was filed by the court with the Judicial Conduct Committee." In his deposition the next day, May 24th, regarding the same matter, Judge Brock was again asked by Attorney Steinfield, "You testified last time, Mr. Chief Justice, that you were relying on memory. Do you remember it so stated?" Answer: "I remember with respect to certain questions, I was definitely relying on memory." Question: "And that you said you did not have the benefit of having the documents in this 'Home Gas' investigation before you?" Answer: "I did not have the benefit of having them here to look at." Question: "You had, in fact, read them all within a week or so before, before you testified?" Answer: "I read most of them. I had done so, you know, rather quickly and not assimilating details." Question: "You had access to them?" Answer: "I had access to them, yes, sir." Once again Attorney Steinfield asked, "I asked you last time whether you had copies of letters written to Senator Bartlett and to Senator Dupont and you said, 'I don't. They would be a part of the report that was filed by the Court with the JCC.' You had actually seen that report, as you are now testifying in including those letters when you gave that answer, isn't that true?" Now, even though Judge Brock did not directly answer that question, Attorney Steinfield went on to quote for him from his previous testimony and asked, "Now you had seen those letters as part of the report that you had obtained and reviewed within a week before you gave that testimony. Isn't that right?" Answer: "But I didn't have copies of those." Question: "With you?" Answer: "With me, that's correct." Question: "So that's the distinction that you intended to draw when you gave that testimony?" Answer: "Yup, as a matter, my lawyers had copies of it, but I didn't have copies of those letters with me. That's correct." Question: "Your lawyers had them?" Answer: "I believe so, yes." Now regarding number three, the committee voted in Article II, number two, that there was in fact an ex parte communication with Justice Thayer in the hallway and therefore must, in fact, also conclude that he gave false testimony to that during his deposition. On May 19th and 23rd, Judge Brock testified that on February 4th, 2000, he did not have a conversation in the hallway outside the Supreme Court conference room with Justice Thayer as you heard previously. On June 23rd, 2000, Attorney Steinfield asked, "And since you did not go into the corridor to find Justice Thayer, the question of whether you had a conversation in the hallway with Justice Thayer answers itself?" Answer: "That's correct. I had no conversation in the corridor with Justice Thayer." Number four, the committee decided in Article I, part 1, that Judge Brock did, in fact, make the call to Douglas Gray. Part of the reason they had done that is that no less than six judges confirmed and agreed that the call had actually been made, four Supreme Court Justices and Judge Gray and Judge McHugh corroborated also by an attorney and the court stenographer. Therefore, he had testified under oath falsely to the committee in that regard. When he had denied making the call or any knowledge of it 13 years ago, he was not under oath. He was under oath when he testified to that effect with us. While deliberating whether to bring this article of impeachment, I wanted you to know that the committee gave particular weight to a decision written by Judge Brock in 1991 in re: Astles Case in which he wrote about the need for maintaining and requiring the highest possible levels of honesty and trustworthiness, he said, "No single transgression reflects more negatively on the legal profession than a lie. As well as being the most fundamental of dishonesties, a lie is the most pernicious." Please support the report of the committee and vote this number III as an Article of impeachment. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to questions? Rep. Marjorie Smith, you may inquire.

Rep. Marjorie Smith: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative Woods, for taking my question. Representative Woods, I appreciate your having read from those transcripts. Those are the same sections that I have spent a lot of time reading. I wonder if you could answer a question for me? I know that it was the Attorney General and not the Judiciary Committee which gave Justice Thayer immunity. I wonder if you could tell me if you know what would happen to that immunity if Justice Thayer were subsequently found to have lied in any of his testimony before the Judiciary Committee?

Rep. Phyllis Woods: That is a very good question and, very frankly, Representative, I have no idea.

Rep. Marjorie Smith: Representative Woods, do you have any idea if the same policies would apply here as would apply in other settings in which, if the Justice were found to have lied, he would lose that immunity and thereafter be subject to charges from which he is now protected?

Rep. Phyllis Woods: That sounds very likely that that would be the case to me, but I have no legal background. I'm not a lawyer. I'm sorry, I really can't give you good answers to these questions. Perhaps someone else on the committee could.

Rep. Marjorie Smith: I appreciate your effort. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Alger, you may inquire.

Rep. Alger: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative. There has been quite a discussion today about the need for compassion and that these judges, in particular Brock and others have suffered enough and, therefore, we should perhaps forgive this and yet I heard you speak and deliberate in the committee when you were voting on the issue of compassion versus about duty, and could you tell us a little about how you came out that duty was the important thing to resolve at this point in this particular hearing? Thank you.

Rep. Phyllis Woods: I think what you might be referring to, Representative, is in response to the committee valuing or showing value to one of the justices preponderance to be compassionate and sensitive, that we should value that. I think I just drew the analogy that the twin virtue to compassion was courage. I don't think that there was anyone sitting on that committee that did not feel compassion for the justices and still do today for what they have been through and what they are going through. However, we had been admonished to look at the facts and to bring facts before the House and to bring them with our votes, so I don't think that I'm saying that there is not a place for compassion but I'm saying it's not at this stage of our investigation.

Rep. Alger: So, in other words, you are saying, I believe, it became, really in a sense, your duty to report the facts as you found them and be compassionate in the process.

Rep. Phyllis Woods: That is what we have tried to do.

Rep. Solow: Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you once again, Representatives. Again, I appreciate very much your tolerance in allowing the same voice and the same face to come before you so many times. I'll be brief because much of what I have to say to you I have said or has been said earlier today by Representatives Dokmo, Rowe and Withee. It is obvious that it has not been persuasive. I do want to say, again being a person who's particular about what is done, that we need to read the words and what this article says is that the Chief did knowingly testify falsely under oath with the intention of hindering the HB 50 investigation. Although he said at one point that he didn't have the documents, there is no way that you can prove, even with a preponderance of evidence, that he was intending to hinder the investigation. Let me tell you a little bit about how I come to that conclusion. I don't know how many of you have ever been deposed. I had one experience with it myself. I was a plaintiff in a case and I was deposed by an attorney who had an approach that was very harsh and was asking a lot of questions that I thought were totally inappropriate, about my personal background, which didn't relate at all to the item at hand, and I consulted with my attorney and said, "Do I have to answer those questions?" And he said, "You are under oath. You have to answer every question that's put to you to the best of your ability...(tape change)... that is presented to you and no more." And I put it to you that that is exactly the kind of advice that Chief Brock got from his attorney. I would be surprised to learn if it were otherwise and that when he was asked did he have a document with him, he didn't have it with him and so he answered, "No." When he was asked about this letter announcing the threats by Thayer, he was asked whether that had been sent or delivered to the Attorney General, he said, "I assumed it was or it is my assumption that it was." The reason he said it was his assumption is that Justice Brockerick had also been implicated in that letter about the threats and the letter had gone to Justice Broderick's attorney, Mr. Tober, and was going to be moved from Mr. Tober's office to the Attorney General's office and for whatever reason, that's not relevant to this, it didn't get there but when it left Justice Brock it was headed for the Attorney General's office. So, for him to say that it was his assumption that it had gotten there was not a false statement intended to hinder the investigation. I hope you can believe that, I can believe that. If you've been watching and following the Judiciary Committee's adventures, you will know that the question of perjury as we were discussing it was the one that bothered me the most. As I testified to you earlier this afternoon, when I reported in my own notes to myself, my impression of Justice Broderick, excuse me, Justice Brock, I felt that he was evasive. Evasion is not lying. Failure to tell a complete answer is not lying. This article says "knowingly," "intending to hinder" that he "testified falsely." I put it to you that he did none of those with respect to that letter which eventually was discovered in his lawyer's briefcase, apparently, even though he had thought it had gone onto the Attorney General's office. With regard to the documents on the Home Gas case, that was a case that had been sent to the JCC. We've talked here a lot or maybe not enough, about secrecy of the JCC and the fact that it is very difficult to find out what goes on in that body. Well, believe it or not, the Chief Justice and his attorney had as much difficulty getting documents from the JCC as our own counsel, Joseph Steinfield. When he said he didn't have the documents, if you look at the testimony of the deposition, you'll see that it was in somewhat of a badgering situation where Mr. Steinfield was questioning him, not allowing him to complete his answers but interrupting him and putting him on edge. At this point, Chief Justice Brock probably felt threatened. At this point, I'm sure he felt he was a target of the investigation rather than thinking it was Justice Thayer and he was being defensive which he had every right to be, but that doesn't mean he was testifying untruthfully. It means he was doing the best he could, relying on his memory and not trying to hinder the investigation and testifying falsely. In the February 4th hallway conversation, we've discussed that at some length with regard to the previous article, if you believe that he went out in the corridor and talked to Justice Thayer, you can believe anything. You can believe anything could have happened in that conversation because you don't know what happened in that conversation. He has said, under oath, that he did not leave the conference room to talk to Justice Thayer, that when he talked to Justice Thayer it was later in the day, in the Clerk's corridor, not in the conference corridor and that what he had to say was to scold Justice Thayer for his outburst in the meeting. For item number four, Justice Broderick, excuse me, Justice Brock ... I'm sorry, Representatives, it's been a long day, I'm trying very hard to be sure you understand what the facts are and it's hard sometimes to keep these straight, but I want very much to keep them straight because it is important that you keep them straight because that is how you're going to make your judgment. Justice Brock said several times in his deposition and in the public testimony, that he did not make the call, therefore, there is no reason, well I guess that is the extent of what is being asked of you to adopt here. I feel as if I am pushing that snowball up the hill and it's melting rapidly as we all are. I just remember that if you vote in favor of this Article, you must believe that David Brock did knowingly, purposefully testify falsely, with the intent of hindering the investigation. If you doubt anyone of those elements you probably should vote no. Thank you. Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to questions? Rep. Zolla, you may inquire.

Rep. Zolla: Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you, Representative. Representative, during the testimony on items one and two, of Chief Justice Brock, from previous testimony on the transcript, he sounded like he was a little confused. Can you tell me how long he had been under questioning when these questions were being put to him aggressively?

Rep. Solow: Thank you for the question, Representative. I can't tell you exactly because I am not going to rely on my memory. I do know that he testified more than any other person over several days, I believe it was two and a half days, and then had his presentation to the public or whoever was there when he came in to publicly testify to the committee. Have I answered your question?

Rep. Zolla: I believe so, thank you. With respect to item four, I'm a little confused about the telephone call. We know there was a telephone call. We know that Gray says that he was called. I'm not sure that I heard Gray say or the other justices say that Justice Brock personally called Gray or did he receive the call from the Clerk of Court who Brock says he called. Is that testimony clear in your mind anywhere in this?

Rep. Solow: Not only, Representative, is it not clear in my mind, it is not clear in the documents, in the transcript of the depositions. There is conflicting testimony on this point. Judge Brock says he did not call Judge Gray, that he called the Clerk of Court. There is some question about whom to believe because Judge Gray was not asked about it until two years later and Judge McHugh was reporting only what Judge Gray had told him. Judge McHugh's testimony relates to a period of time when he was in the Rochester Court during time when he was rotating through and there is a question about whether the call that he says was made during that time corresponds with the testimony of Judge Gray who thinks it took place at a different time. So, there is conflicting testimony on that point.

Rep. DePecol: Thank you, Madam Speaker and members of the House. This article is the one that has troubled me the most throughout the whole procedure, the thought that a Supreme Court Justice would come in front of the Judiciary Committee and lie to us. We can sugarcoat this anyway you want. The truth is that when asked a direct question, he gave an answer that was false. When caught on it the next day, he recanted and admitted that he made false statements. Statements were he testified that he did not know whether or not a March 3rd, 2000 letter from his attorney had been sent to the Attorney General's office. He knew. He knew it had not been sent. The question was, did he have evidence, did he have a document in his possession relating to the Home Gas investigation? "No I don't," when, in fact, yes he did. Maybe not technically, yes, he did, but his attorney sitting next to him had it and he knew that his attorney had it. I don't know about you, but it kind of, no, it does make me outraged, that we are considering whether or not this level of conduct is okay for a Supreme Court Justice of the State of New Hampshire. The Supreme Court Justices of the State of New Hampshire, or any other place, ought be the highest level of integrity, ought not to fudge their answers in front of a legally, a legal investigation, ought to tell the truth, the whole truth. This man didn't do it. I don't care what you think about all the other articles. This is perjury, to you, we represented you in this investigation. Chief Justice Brock lied to you and I think that is substantial grounds for impeachment. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Rep. Ford: Madam Speaker and members of the House, I cannot vote for impeachment. I cannot condemn Justice Brock for unwisely saying words that gave Mr. Thayer the opportunity to do wrong. I cannot condemn a hallway conversation that we do not even know whether or not it took place. The Home Gas case was a mess from the beginning for which we have contradictory testimony and differing memories of what happened 11 years ago. I do not mean to trivialize what we have learned. There have been shortcomings and some steps like the new recusal rules are the beginning of a happier time. But impeachment is about high crimes and misdemeanors, treason and efforts to overthrow the government. It is the crime against the very being of our state and this is not it. I hated the impeachment of President Clinton because I found no high crime or treason. That high bar, treason against the state, was trivialized and demeaned. It will be easier from now on to use impeachment of the President as a tool for a powerful majority in congress to use against the executive and our nation will see unhappy results from it. I have hated this impeachment for the same reason. I have read every deposition, studied each exhibit. We have had the most thorough investigation ever in the State of New Hampshire by the finest team imaginable headed by Attorney Steinfield. We have run a fine-toothed comb through the Supreme Court. We have found three instances in 22 years that Justice Brock may have made mistakes. I wish that each of us in our working lives could find only three mistakes in 22 years. If you watched or listened on public TV or radio to our deliberations, that long, long day last week, you will know that we started out with a draft of five articles of impeachment with 14 separate listings. There are now three articles and eight listings remaining. What started out as the focal part of the investigation, the recusal policy, was found in the case of all three judges to not rise to the level of an impeachable offense. Through 10 or more justices, of all the years, not one had singled out the recusal policy as dangerous. Are we to impeach all of these men or are we suggesting that one or maybe three are to be held responsible? The policy, while open to the perception of abuse, had never, ever been abused until the Feld's case in 1999 and this year's attempt by Justice Thayer to compromise his divorce panel. The Home Gas case, as I said earlier, was a mess from the start. It was only a small part of a larger problem, a problem which I experienced years ago in other sessions and again this year. The legislature and the judiciary do not understand each other. In 1987, there was a clash of the giants. Perhaps the most powerful Senator in years, Senator Bartlett, and the newly installed Chief Justice, David Brock, each have testified that their battles were legendary over the budget, over judicial pay raises, over the policy of the Judicial Conduct Committee, over the independence of the Court, over the unified court. It was a battle that neither side won. Into this was woven Home Gas with misjudgments and errors on both sides. The case was over 11 years ago, far beyond any statute of limitations and the testimony we have heard is conflicting, full of "I have no memory of that; I can't remember what date that may have been." The bad taste lingers on, but 11 years ago four sitting justices, Justices Souter, Batchelder, Thayer and Johnson found upon investigation that Justice Brock had done nothing to affect the outcome of the case. Perhaps there is a silver lining to this cloud. Never again will there be any conversation about individual legal cases between the two branches. All one need do is say Home Gas to the other and silence will ensue. Article II is a great puzzle to me. I think it is a stretch to think that an ex parte conversation with five different people there together in a conference room between conferences, but I am not a lawyer. But this I know. Justice Broderick and Justice Brock have testified that there was no hallway conversation, that Justice Brock did not leave the room. Attorney Fox and Justice Thayer say that Justice Brock left the room, but no one has testified that they saw them together and no one knows besides the two of them what was in any alleged conversation. May I suggest looking for motives. Justice Brock had none, but Justice Thayer is the person who had threatened to bring the Court down, to take everyone with him and what better way to do it than to say that Justice Brock had asked him if he liked Judge O'Neil for his divorce case. There is a terrible irony in this. Article II, 2 says flatly that the hallway conversation did occur, taking Justice Thayer's word against Justice Brock. The person who will benefit from the Court's downfall is believed and this is wrong. There is no clear and convincing evidence that there ever was a hallway conversation. Article III is also beyond me. I do not know the laws about testifying falsely and how to prove it. How can you get inside a mind to prove with clear and convincing evidence what someone was thinking? Justice Brock endured, by my quick reckoning, six days of intensive questioning, one-on-one, for as many as nine and one-half hours one day, approximately 1,624 pages of testimony resulting in about 284,000 words. Could any of us have done such a thing without making errors? I think not. I do know this. Nothing in God's world would hinder the investigation. Attorney Steinfield and his team could ferret out any evidence they needed to pursue anything they wished to know. They are exceedingly wonderful in obtaining evidence. There is no clear and convincing evidence that number 3 ever happened and number 4 is a repeat of what was explained in Article I. But, as I said, I am not a lawyer, although I wish I were one. My field was history and history has lessons. Yes, we have found mistakes and misjudgments and sad relationships between our legislative and judicial branches, but I find no evidence of treason, no evidence of repeated corrosive corruption, no hints of money changing hands, no gross injury to the state and maladministration, as we have been told, is on that same level. It is far, far above the bounds of what we have seen here. We, of the minority, are convinced that we must keep the bar for impeachment high, very high, to offenses that are seen as equal to bribery and corruption and sedition. If we do not, our judicial system will melt into turmoil. I give you a recent example: 1999, a bill of address. No one, I mean almost no one, in this legislature had ever heard of a bill of address before 1999. Now we talk about how many of bills of address we will have for the next session. In one year the monster has grown. With the first impeachment, we open the door for more. Each will take up the same time and effort and heart wrenching agony that this one has, again and again. I cannot vote to impeach Justice Brock. I do not want future historians to just say that we should be ashamed of our actions. I only know that I am clear that these allegations do not rise anywhere near the equivalent of bribery, corruption and treachery to our State of New Hampshire. Here I stand. I can do no other. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Phyllis Woods, you may inquire.

Rep. Phyllis Woods: Thank you to my colleague for taking my question. Rep. Ford, I wanted to ask you about your reference that you've made on a couple of occasions now about the importance of not setting the bar too low for impeachment. In regards to that, I believe that if there is mistrust in the public of the judicial branch of our government, that by our actions in the legislature we are serving to buildup people's trust in government; that, in fact, in our constitution we have a remarkable set of checks and balances to make sure that we will snap to attention and take action quite quickly if there are problems. My question to you regarding the bar, therefore, is this: the bar, I believe in the Constitution for impeachment, is really exactly where it was when the founders of the constitution wrote it and, in fact, it has not been abused or changed any time within the last 210 years, and I don't believe we are abusing it now. So, I'd like to ask you if you would agree that the bar is where the bar is, and that it would not be in the best interest of the public, at this point, for us to raise the bar, thereby saying that we would tolerate an increased or larger level of misconduct, maladministration and so forth?

Rep. Ford: Thank you for that long question. To me, the bar for impeachment is something that will harm forever the state, like repeated corruption, like bribery, influencing the judiciary to a point that all justice comes down. I think it is so high that it should be equated, and it is in our constitution of the United States, to treason. I see none of that there. I believe that through the legislature, through this House, we can make changes in the judiciary system and good changes, but I do not feel we should take one man and impeach him at a level lower than that equal to treason to the state.

Rep Mock: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Members of the House, thank you for listening to my Yankee twang almost one last time. Keep this in mind again. Two out of four of these items listed in Article III, number one and number two, took place right in front of the committee. We don't have to guess about those. Those took place right there. Three and four follow Articles I and II which you have already approved. We admit that it is very difficult to prove a state of mind and, in this case, knowingly. But we deserve to have the chance of having a trial on these items in the Senate. I hope you will vote with the committee and press the green button.

Rep Mock requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of Article III of House Resolution No. 51.

and Article III was adopted.

Reps. Burling, Dalianis and Quandt declared conflicts of interest and did not participate.

Rep. Jacobson offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4796h)

Amend the resolution by inserting the following:

ARTICLE OF IMPEACHMENT

During the period beginning with his appointment as chief justice, on or about October 4, 1986, and continuing until on or about April 1, 2000, chief justice Brock engaged in conduct that constituted the impeachable offense of maladministration by permitting and overseeing a practice whereby recused and disqualified justices were permitted to receive draft opinions and to attend case conferences, thereby enabling them to comment on and influence opinions in the cases from which they were recused and disqualified.

DEBATE ON FLOOR AMENDMENT

Rep. Jacobson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. You and I have been participating in an historic process that is both sad and difficult for all of us. At our house, the family room is buried in paper from the time that I have spent. You know, Sonja and I made a compact long ago: if I got too irascible she would take me over to the Old Soldiers Home and leave me off. Right now, I think she is considering an amendment because of the chaos of paper that has, in fact, accumulated. Now, I have not tried to influence any member of this House on any of these votes. I believe it is your responsibility and it is my responsibility. If there is one surprise in this process, it is the failure of the recusal amendment that you have before you. There is a very special reason why that happened, but I'm not going to get into it because it belongs to the people who voted against. What I have done is I have reviewed the testimony via the video tape last night to see just what was said with respect to this proposed amendment to House Resolution 51. I found, for example, that there were persons who said that Chief Justice Brock came to the court and he inherited the practice. In actual fact, there are cases that have been before the court in which recusal was the issue. I was involved in one of those and that was the recusal of Governor Meldrim Thompson in his effort to get rid of the Director of Probation. And you know, in that 1976 decision, you know what it says? That Meldrim Thompson be recused from all proceedings that related to that trial. So, it was known what an effective recusal was. Similarly, there are any number of cases with local boards in which, if a member of that board had a conflict of interest he had to recuse himself from it. Another argument that was put forward was that it was wrong but everybody did it. Well, if you follow out the logic of that argument, we're in real trouble. Again, it was even likened to saying that the federal government is guilty in the Oklahoma bombing case. Now, I haven't been able to comprehend the rationale behind that yet. Even today it was said, for example, there are no victims. How do we know that? No proof was offered for that. One of the things that I believe in strongly is documentation. If you can't document it, the generalizations are unimportant. In that little school in Cambridge, I had an old professor, Arthur Darby Knock, and one thing he taught me that has stayed with me, if you are going to make a statement, document it. That is what I find lacking in many of the rationales that were offered against it. You may well have heard recently that some further documents were found. They were actually drafts of opinions and it is most unfortunate that those documents did not come to the Judiciary Committee in time so that we could include them in the deliberations. What I did was, I went back and looked at the opinions that were actually published and then I looked at the drafts. These happen to be drafts by Justice Broderick and there is considerable commentary. He was arguing in the deliberations that we had that he was the grammarian, but when I look at those documents and his notes, and compare them with the final product, there were changes. There were changes in words, there were changes in sentences, and he was recused at the time. I took a look at the total picture in 1998 and I found that in the cases that came before the Supreme Court there were 36 incidents of "did not sit" and then there were eight incidents of "did not participate." As far as I've been able to find, "did not sit" still meant that you participated and that, I think, in many ways is the heart of the matter. Because if you are recused, you should not participate. For me, as I just said, recusal is the heart of the matter. It is true that the court has now recognized it and changed its policy but I am quite certain that that does not necessarily excuse the practice that has gone on for the last 20 years. Somebody said it had been going on for 50 years, but nobody documented. I went back to 1950 to discover that, at that time, they had 15 incidents of recusal; but ever since that time, recusal has grown and of course there are no drafts to look at to see whether they did participate. I believe that if this amendment fails that we will be setting a very bad precedent for the future. I think it is important to remember that we are only sending a recommendation and Chief Justice Brock will have every opportunity to defend himself, to cross examine the witnesses so that he will then have that chance to acquit himself from whatever charges have been made. Finally, I want to say, Part I, Article 35 of the Constitution of New Hampshire that has been in effect since 1784 says something very important. It says that the justices shall impartially interpret the laws and administer justice and whenever that falls short our people, our citizens, whoever they may be, will suffer. Therefore, I urge you to support this proposed amendment to the articles of the bill of impeachment. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Avery, you may inquire.

Rep. Avery: Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you, Representative Jacobson. Is it your intent that your amendment would supplant the three articles that we have voted on or is this in addition?

Rep. Jacobson: This is in addition to and it relates to one question, to the recusal question.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Vaughn, you may inquire.

Rep. Vaughn: Thank you very much, indeed, Madam Speaker. The honorable member from New London, in reviewing the interim report of the special counsel, I see, would you give me by way of summation for our honored colleagues, how many states have recusal and also forbid decisions to be distributed among the court members? Perhaps I can jog your memory. It was somewhere between 25 and 45, or maybe you know.

Rep. Jacobson: I don't recall the exact number...(tape change)...oddly enough, a jurist from West Virginia came to my little book shop this weekend and he expressed to me astonishment that we did have such a lax recusal policy because again, the issue is if you are recused, you do not participate.

Rep. Vaughn: What amazed me in listening to the testimony was the fact that I understood that some of the recused judges actually wrote the decision. Was that the case? In fact, the answer to the other question was 25 states have the justices recused and can't see the decisions.

Rep. Jacobson: The question of a recused justice writing an opinion is known often times as a per curium opinion in which his name does appear on the opinion. However, according to the justices, the justices who were not recused agree with the way that he wrote the opinion.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Wendelboe, you may inquire.

Rep. Wendelboe: Representative Jacobson, there has been a lot of comment made about the opportunity for the justices in conference to comment on cases they were recused from. But is there not also the opportunity when a justice is recused and gets a copy of the opinion in advance that there is the opportunity that that justice could either on purpose or inadvertently tip off the party that they had a conflict of interest because of their relationship with that party, that there could be cases, and I understand that Justice Brock testified that half of all cases that go to oral arguments never come out in opinion, that the potential exists that some of those cases might have gone away because some of the interested parties might have been tipped? The opportunity exists that people could think that that might have happened. Would you not agree?

Rep. Jacobson: Yes, as I understand it, the draft opinions were circulated to both recused justices and those that were not.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Gilmore, you may inquire.

Rep. Gilmore: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Everything that was spoken of today I'm fairly familiar with. The only thing that has come up that caught me a little bit by surprise is what you raise in number two of Article IV, and as you spoke earlier you said you believe in providing some documentation towards what you are saying and it has to do with the per curium opinions and also in the justices sitting. Could you just give us some background on that?

Rep. Jacobson: It is difficult for me to answer that question at the moment because I have been concentrating on one item.

Rep. John Pratt: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Those of us, no, I speak for myself. I voted against this amendment in committee and did so for one major reason. The reason was not because there wasn't a problem. There is a problem. The reason was because, in my judgment, this wasn't an impeachable offense against the Chief Justice. You had a systemic court-wide problem everybody in the court had been doing. The Chief Justice inherited a court that had been doing it. No one raised the issue of should we do it differently? And it was my judgment that if we are going to impeach a Chief Justice, we should impeach him for acts which were intentional, knowing, and of some motive other than pure. I just did not think this rose to an impeachable offense. The offenses were there. That's not the issue.

Rep. Loren Jean: Good afternoon. Before I start on this article, I would just like to clear the record on the prefix "mal". Now, we've heard corruption, bribery, treason, everything attributed to "mal" anything, maladministration, malpractice and I went and looked it up in the Secretary of State's Office. It means in the French, bad, in the Latin, badly, inadequate. Malodorous, malpractice were two of the uses in the definition which are quite appropriate, I would say. Now, on the recusal policy, I couldn't agree more with Representative Jacobson. We have heard phrases, on this floor this morning even, well, we had a bad ball policy in place. Yesterday in committee, no harm was done and that we always did it that way. That no harm was done, I simply, absolutely can not agree. They have always done it that way because, according to the court, while they didn't have a policy and after all everybody did it and they have been doing that since Hector was a pup, obviously, and we had one member of our committee liken them somewhat to a Rockwellian atmosphere that you didn't really need rules because they were all honorable men, therefore, you didn't have to write anything in stone. Well, this is neither Mayberry or Stockbridge, Mass. This is the state of New Hampshire and I think we should hold our justices to a little bit higher standard. Now this whole thing is on the recusal policy. The recusal policy should be well known to every attorney and to every judge in the state of New Hampshire. When I researched a recusal policy a year or two ago, the first thing that came up, and I got it in research in about two minutes, and that was Alabama v. Lavoie and I think all the attorneys in here are familiar with Alabama v. Lavoie. It is a U.S. Supreme Court decision that absolutely negates the entire opinion if one of the justices is disqualified. Now, Representative Jacobson said that we have documentation and, indeed, we do. One is Winslow v. Holderness Planning Board, and this is the court speaking. This brings us to the principal question raised in this appeal, whether the master erred in applying to this case the rule that "judicial action by a tribunal one of whose members is disqualified to act is voidable if the disqualified member participates therein..." Well, that is pretty plain English and the defendants argument that bias of a single board member should not void the board's decision unless his participation produced the decision. They said, "no". And what did they do? They referred to, and I will get it shortly, Rollins v. Connor, and in Rollins v. Connor, this is our Supreme Court, held that mere participation by one disqualified member of a tribunal was sufficient to invalidate the tribunal's decision because it was impossible to estimate the influence one member might have on his associate. Now, what do we do here? What am I doing here? What I am doing is trying to influence you in the wisdom of my point of view. We all do it. That's what we do. Every time we speak in committee, speak on this floor, in subcommittee, whether it is a word, a gesture or a soliloquy we are all focused in one direction and that is trying to make your point the dominant point of view. We have heard that, well, it's only a sentence, I mean a period, a comma. It's grammar. It's stylistic. Well, I questioned sharply on this issue and here is what I got. You have the justices opinion, it goes to his law clerk, it goes to a second law clerk then it goes to a fellow named Peck who is described as being the most intellectual biped on the planet and then it goes to the court's Mrs. McKenzie. Now, anybody that has been watching this knows Mrs. McKenzie's background and that is the one that really corrects the grammar and the stylistics and the punctuation, etc. Then it goes to the justices in the conference committee, case conference or whatever and if there is, now, we've already got five people, now if there is one recused member on that board, the other four participate and now we have nine, is there any need for that tenth? I seriously doubt there is. Now, being legislators, has anybody in here ever, ever filed a bill, fought for it, all the way to the Governor's signature with the back of his mind always saying this will not apply to me? I doubt it very, very much. However, apparently our Supreme Court holds that opinion. I can only interpret what they have done as setting a higher standard and we are talking about high standards here, we have seen this, heard this all afternoon, setting a bar. Apparently, our Supreme Court has set a bar way up here for your planning board, your zoning board, your quasi-judicial agencies, etc., etc., but they walk under the bar. Therefore, I certainly hope that you would find favor with this article of impeachment and vote yes. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Keans, you may inquire.

Rep. Keans: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative Jean, was this amendment offered in committee? I think it was and would you tell us what the vote was please?

Rep. Loren Jean: We all know this failed in committee.

Rep. Keans: Would you tell us the vote, please?

Rep. Loren Jean: The vote was 13 to 9. However, I might add, since that vote, you never know whose hot buttons are going to be pushed by any one issue. When I went to the picnic in Loudon the other day, and I graciously accept your well-dones for myself and the committee, but one common theme was hey, what happened with the recusal? That was a very common theme, I might add, and in talking to an awful lot of you people here today, it still is.

Rep. Pepino: Madam Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, I rise in support of the Jacobson amendment. I'll just give you a few comments. I won't take up much of your time because it is getting late. It seems as though every time there was a problem with our court system, they fixed it. Change a policy, change a rule, all their problems go away. You must remember that every time they write a rule, for example, Article 73-a of our constitution says this rule is law, even though it might invalidate a state statute. This was the reasoning some members of the committee used during the hearings. Yet, they did these things. They said they were wrong. They said they were mistakes, but they fixed it again and they would never do these things again. I've been here for 12 years, I've been hearing that for 12 years. State statutes were disregarded, court rules and state statutes were ignored. These are listed in your calendar. I also believe that five or more words in our constitution were disregarded: good behavior, high principals, maladministration. They picked up open and accessible, accountable and that last again, their rule that has the force and effect of law, 73-a. I believe when you appoint a Chief Justice, he is the CEO of that branch of government. He is in charge. He sets policies. He makes rules and whatever is wrong with the system he is expected to correct it in the private sector. These things didn't happen. That's maladministration. Like one justice said, the court has appointed, the court has operated on past practices and procedures, you'll have to forgive me just wrote, just scribbled it all out in pencil so it is all over the place here, like one of our justices said, the court has operated on past practices and procedures but nobody knows how far back these past practices and procedures go. But, we do know the code of official conduct was adopted in 1973. That is in our calendar. The judges acted like this rule never existed. The main issues that are not in three articles are perjury and recusal. One member of the committee said the recusal policy was 60 years old, but never documented. The Chief Justice inherited this and if the policy was wrong it should have been changed. The article contained perjury or testified to falsely, even though Attorney Steinfield told the committee perjury has to be included otherwise a less serious offense could be a bill of address. But the legal minds on the committee disagreed with that. One of the most best comments that I heard, and I taped 15 tapes of Channel 11, was by Representative Rowe. This is what he said. He said, "If local planning boards conducted themselves like the Supreme Court, they would be hung." In the three articles that were being discussed, Chairman Mock said it all. "You keep chewing this, there'll be nothing left." Another quote by Chairman Mock, "Just about everything you want to turn over to the JCC, let's turn over everything and we'll all go home." Chairman Mock again, in case you people didn't see it on Channel 11, "One issue that is broken down in the Supreme Court is recusal. They do not recuse themselves. The good old boys go in the back room and settle things. Any judge should have said, "What are you doing?" sat but did not participate, participate but did not sit. This is wrong and people are looking to us to straighten this out." These are the Chairman's quotes as the committee was discussing the language in one of these three articles, I agree with him 100 percent. Thank you.

Rep. Mock: Madam Speaker, thank you. Thank you for listening to me one more time. Of all the articles that you may hear today, the one that your constituents back home know about is this one. They know why you are here today. You are here because they heard about judges who were recused sitting on cases and most of them, many of them, who sit on planning boards, school boards, boards of selectmen, know how very, very strict the Supreme Court has been about recused officials sitting on cases. I'll give you Article 35 of the Constitution. It says, "It is essential to the preservation of the rights of every individual, his life, liberty, property, and character, that there be an impartial interpretation of the laws, and administration of justice. It is the right of every citizen to be tried by judges as impartial as the lot of humanity will admit. It is, therefore, not only the best policy, but for the security of the rights of the people, that the judges of the supreme judicial court should hold their offices so long as they behave well." Isn't it interesting that they put behavior in there with the recusal issue? I find that rather interesting. Then there is a court case, and any of you who may live in the town of Holderness, planning board, Eugene Winslow versus the Town of Holderness, and this is what the court declared. They said, "Where a member of the planning board had prejudged the facts of a particular case before joining the board, this prejudgment constituted a cause for disqualification from the quasi-judicial function of the planning board in the case." The Supreme Court held in Rollins v. Connor, 1908, that mere participation by one disqualified member of a tribunal was sufficient to invalidate the tribunal's decision because it was impossible to estimate the influence of one member, that one member, might have on his associates. Enough said. It was wrong and I give them credit. They have changed it, and it should have been changed. We have no way of knowing how many people were hurt or how many people were helped by this decision and, unfortunately, like the Chief Justice said, "The buck stops here." Thank you. Rep. Bergin: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise in opposition of this article and I'll tell you why. There has been much discussion on recusal. Attorney Steinfield, when he deposed a number of witnesses, including the judges, the question was asked about recusal. We know more about recusal now in the Supreme Court than we have ever known and we know for sure, and there is no doubt in my mind, that the recusal policy of the court was abused, but it was abused not by just Chief Justice Brock. It was abused by every member of the court: Justice Broderick, Justice Horton, Justice Johnson, Justice Batchelder, Souter. We can go on and on and on and every one of those justices who abused the recusal policy in the court knew the canon. They knew the conduct of judicial code of conduct yet they abused the recusal policy. So, if we are going to pass this article of impeachment on Justice Brock, then we might as well impeach all the other justices on the same article and that's why I voted against this and I also voted against this because the reality is that the recusal abuses finally caught up with the court. They first caught up with the court in the Feld case, when Justice Thayer, a recused justice, spoke out and then, because they just ignored this policy. It was like an accident waiting to happen, and it happened in Thayer v. Thayer. If the policy was not abused, Justice Thayer would have never said what he said; Justice Horton would have never said what he said; and Justice Brock would not have sat there and let them do it. So, I voted for the Article II, Thayer v. Thayer because in my mind that's what recusal was all about. That's what the abuse was during that instance. You have to also look at these justices when they sit on the bench and they all testified to this, they are equals. They are equals and it is up to them to make sure they live by the rules of judicial conduct and we know some sat and some participated and etc. We had all kinds of inquiries on that. So, I would urge all of you to uphold the committee vote, 13 to 9, and let's not put all the responsibility on the Chief Justice. Every justice that served on the bench broke that rule of recusal. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to questions? Rep. Solow, you may inquire.

Rep. Solow: Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you, Representative Bergin. In support of your argument, would you answer the question whether this was a practice or a policy that had been established and discussed at some length and whether we had discovered any evidence whatsoever that any case, in terms of the merits, so-and-so versus so-and-so, had been altered by the practice that was conducted and whether or not this discussion of cases in conferences, about opinions, came after the judgment had been made as to who was the winner and the loser in each case? Thank you. Rep. Bergin: Thank you, Representative. Every justice that came in testified that it was a practice of the court, that they came on the court and this is what was happening and so they went through the various stages of recusing themselves but then going through the various practices which have already been outlined well by Representative Jacobson and other speakers. As far as we know, the testimony we saw, the only two cases that we got into were the Feld and the Thayer v. Thayer where the recusal was a major problem. We didn't get any other evidence that I'm aware of saying that because of this practice other cases were altered or decisions were altered or whatever. Of course, we didn't get all the information either, but, as I said previously, it was a practice and all of them practiced it.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Mirski, you may inquire.

Rep. Mirski: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative, are you aware that you will have the opportunity to address the other two sitting justices, Horton and Broderick, in two following resolutions with respect to the wrongfulness of this recusal policy?

Rep. Bergin: Yes, I am aware of that and that's why I voted for reprimand on both Justice Horton and also on Justice Broderick.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Withee, you may inquire.

Rep. Withee: Thank you, Representative Bergin. I just have one question because this is coming under the maladministration point. Could you point me to, because maybe I'm wrong, but I see this as being a negligent practice, could you point me to where there is willfulness or intentional implementing of this policy?

Rep. Bergin: That's why I voted against that, I don't see any willfulness. I think that it was a practice of the court. It was a bad practice. It was an accident waiting to happen and it did happen and that's why we're here today, but if we look at all the justices, they all fell into the rut of going along with this. Every one of them had a choice. I asked the question to several of them, you had a choice on this, and they do bear the responsibility of the practices that they held in the court by not following the proper procedures for recusal. But, I do not look at it as malice or manipulation of the administration of justice in the State of New Hampshire.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Hamel, you may inquire.

Rep. Hamel: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Twice in a year, in two years, I'm happy and proud to say that I am not of a legal bent, I have a good idea of what "is" is, what "has" means. I'm not sure what the word "call" means in relation to call to Judge Gray. I have a pretty good idea of what I understand by "recusal". I thought I knew what I understood by "sit" and "participate". I guess I'm really upset at this hairsplitting verbal gymnastics that we have been spending a lot of time on and I'm going to stop. The question is, I thought your lead-in, or your refusal, was a lead-in to trying to impeach the other justices and if that's the case fine.

Rep. Bergin: Well, the choice is all yours, but I wouldn't impeach any justices on a recusal policy that everybody practiced. Thank you.

Rep. Mock requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the Jacobson floor amendment.

and the Jacobson Floor Amendment was adopted.

Reps. Burling, Dalianis and Quandt declared conflicts of interest and did not participate.

Rep. Mirski offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4806h)

Amend the resolution by replacing the introductory paragraph after the resolving clause with the following:

That the judiciary committee has found that the house, acting under Part II, Article 17 of the New Hampshire constitution, has cause to request the senate to exercise its powers under Part II, Article 38 of the New Hampshire constitution to conduct a full and impartial trial to determine whether David A. Brock, chief justice of the supreme court of New Hampshire, should be convicted and removed from office if the senate concludes that he has committed any or all of the acts enumerated in the articles of impeachment below, each of which the house has determined, if proved, constitutes an impeachable offense as set forth in Part II, Article 38 of the New Hampshire constitution:

DEBATE ON FLOOR AMENDMENT

Rep. Mirski: Madam Speaker. Obviously I favor this, but the Representative from Epsom was going to speak to this, not I. Thank you.

Rep. Soltani: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Madam Speaker, the exclusive purpose of this amendment is to eliminate the language in the original resolution which was passed by the House Judiciary Committee to the extent of eliminating the requirement of clear and convincing evidence. That's all it does. If this amendment passes, we delete the words of "clear and convincing evidence" from the resolution which has been recommended by the House Judiciary Committee. I'm going to tell you why we're doing that and there are three reasons. One is the principle reason, another one is a policy reason and the third is that there no is support in law for it. What is the principle reason? As I said earlier, the inquest, the House of Representatives, has the ultimate discretion in establishing the standard of evidence with each member. You as individuals decide what the standard of evidence is, what the impeachable conduct is and whether there is sufficient facts to send the case to the Senate for the trial. You do that on behalf of your constituents. Any invasion of that right is a derogation of your right and thereby your voters' rights. It just can not happen. It's an implicit amendment to the New Hampshire Constitution. It is essentially turning a political process into a legal process by additional legal mumbo-jumbo which means nothing at all. We don't have that power. We can not usurp the authority of the each individual member, that's all there is to it. The second reason is the policy reason. Well, we did pass a requirement of clear and convincing evidence, but what we said was well, we'll call it clear and convincing evidence but we won't define it. So, you just think whatever you want and vote for it. In essence, what we've done, they used to call it in the old days a head-fake, say something, do another with a wink and a nod, call it clear and convincing evidence. Well, for all I care, you can call it spaghetti. If there is no definition for it, it's not binding and no one can tell you, the members, the elected members of the General Court that your standard is not good enough. I will not presume the lack of intellect on any member of this House and I will ask you not to presume the lack of intellect on my part. The adoption of a standard of evidence most likely will attack my ability to carry out my office and it is important for historical purposes that we don't conduct ourselves with a head-fake, a wink and a nod, and do something that is less than up-front. It is a meaningless gesture. It's a ruse. We don't need to do it and there is good evidence that the Senate won't agree with it anyway. They will most likely adopt no standard and leave it to the individual Senator just as they should. I got a feeling they know better. Finally, there is no support for this. There is no support in the constitution. There is no support in New Hampshire law. And, in fact, there is no preliminary proceeding in New Hampshire, legal preliminary proceeding, that requires clear and convincing evidence to return an indictment or an accusatory instrument. It's always either preponderance of the evidence, probable cause. Never, never, never, never, never, never, never, never, as Winston Churchill said, is there anything in New Hampshire law for a preliminary body to require clear and convincing evidence. We look for support to other jurisdictions. It turns out that two of them, with entirely different constitutions, have adopted clear and convincing evidence as opposed to approximately 22 of them who have done otherwise. It looks like New Hampshire is suddenly starting to march to the tune of a different drummer and we've done it based on legal mumbo-jumbo with no support, no textual support, in the letter of the constitution. This is a momentous proceeding. If we start acting without textual support in this proceeding, where will we stop next? I ask you to please remove that language and for the posterity, for the sake of our children and their children, make sure that the rights of the voters and the rights of the representatives are preserved to their conscience. Thank you. And my warning about answering all the questions, stands so if you want me to leave, don't ask me any questions.

Rep. DiFruscia: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I've learned not to talk more than three and a half minutes and please stop me if I do. Now, don't take that off my time, please. One of the things that is most sad today, but yet again you've got to look at some positive things... (tape change) ...heard from a lot of attorneys and it seems that maybe you've got a little bit of an education in terms of rules of evidence. As I look to the fourth floor I have to compliment the attorney for the Chief Justice. He convinced the Judiciary Committee that clear and convincing is your criteria and, quite frankly, you've got to understand what it means. The first question I think all of us should understand, just for a moment and believe me it's quick, is what is a burden of proof? Are we a grand inquest, not an inquisition? Are we investigatory? If you are akin to a grand jury, as the counsel for the Committee on Judiciary thinks you are, then you apply the criminal rules. If you apply the criminal rules, it is very simple. It's probable cause and as so many judges stand up before you in court every day, whether it is a civil case or a criminal case, you apply different standards. Now, a very easy method of doing it is by most judges, and I see it constantly, spreading their hands and they say, "This is the scale of justice." If it tips just a little bit, then you have the preponderance of evidence. That's a civil, that's a civil criteria. If you go to clear and convincing evidence, which is civil again, it goes to the scale is tipped like three-quarters. So the bar now raises, so to speak. So, the burden of proof, what you have to prove, raises. I'm suggesting to each and every one of us that since this is clearly a historical event, we must not set that bar that high. To do that takes away from you, your conscience; it takes away your right and I'm very grateful to the Speaker. I wrote the Speaker on a number of occasions asking what is the burden of proof. The response I got was a very fair one and I'm grateful to the Speaker. "Follow your conscience." That's basically what was said. When you get to the criminal aspect it's beyond a reasonable doubt. Now, what is proof? Proof is evidence, too. Is it oral? Simply put, do not let us be dictated by various, I don't want to use the word legal mumbo-jumbo because I had to take rule 16, but I'm still voting, do not lose sight of the fact that you are losing something and that's very important to you. If, deep in your stomach and in your heart, you know it's wrong or you know it's right, then you vote the right way, your conscience. I certainly support this amendment. I hope you vote for the green button.

Speaker Sytek: Would the last speaker yield to a question? Rep. Zolla, you may inquire.

Rep. Zolla: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative, we've been here for seven hours. We've been talking about everything within in the content of clear and convincing evidence. Don't you think that at this hour it's a little late to bring up this particular amendment?

Rep. DiFruscia: Absolutely not.

Rep. Bergin: Thank you, Madam Speaker. When the time came for deliberations and to vote on articles of impeachment and prior to that time I should say, Attorney Steinfield released the interim report around June 30th, and in the interim report on page 12 we had burden of proof. He gave us three burdens of proof: preponderance of evidence, which is the lower, likely than not in percent terms a likelihood of more than 50 percent; and he also gave us clear and convincing, which was the mid-level of burden of proof; and then the other choice we had was beyond a reasonable doubt. The clear and convincing standard has been used in at least two impeachments, one judicial and one presidential, and so the committee felt that we should set the bar right around the middle with burden of proof. The committee also felt that it was important that we set a burden of proof. So, by a vote of 13 to 9 the committee voted "clear and convincing". There were a number of members that also spoke and said that it is really up to your conscience. I feel, or a member said, I feel that I can, in my mind, establish what a burden of proof was, and really when you think of it that is exactly what happened when the votes were taken and every member, after 12 weeks of depositions, of testimony, of sitting in their chair like I did, waking up at 2:00 in the morning, thinking about this constantly, when the vote came they knew the burden of proof, and as the representative just said, we've been discussing the article of impeachment all day and you voted on four of them and it says clear and convincing and so I would ask you to support the committee with clear and convincing evidence and defeat the Mirski amendment. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Wallin, you may inquire.

Rep. Wallin: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am now really very confused because we have been talking all day about clear and convincing. I am concerned that if we remove clear and convincing that means that when it gets to the Senate they have a lower necessity to prove anything, that it doesn't have to rise to the level of clear and convincing and I'm just wondering if we do this amendment whether or not it is going to be easier to convict in the Senate.

Rep. Bergin: The answer would be that the Senate would decide on how they want to conduct their trial, because if you look at the resolution it says that the Judiciary Committee has found by clear and convincing evidence, that the Judiciary Committee has found by clear and convincing evidence, meaning, the Committee. If you voted on these articles of impeachment going along with the report, the resolution from the House and vote on the final resolution, then you are voting on clear and convincing evidence. Now, when it goes to the Senate they will set their rules and procedures and carry on.

Rep. Wallin: I'm sorry, Madam Speaker, I think I probably wasn't clear. Let me give you a hypothetical. If I am sitting in the Senate and over from the House comes these articles of impeachment and they tell me that the House has clear and convincing evidence that the justice has done the following things, does not that have a greater, does not that lend greater importance or a higher bar than if it just says the House thinks that they did this and we don't really have any evidence at all?

Rep. Bergin: No, it won't, because what we're doing is we're saying based on whether it is clear and convincing evidence, whatever the evidence is, that we have voted on four articles of impeachment and then we're going to send over to the Senate these four articles of impeachment along with all of the evidence and they're going to conduct a trial and they're going to bring in witnesses and they are going to look at evidence and they may do other things, depose, I'm not sure if they will depose people, but they will conduct a trial. The final outcome of that trial will be they'll have to vote or come up with a verdict just like in a jury trial, and they'll have to use their burden of proof standard. So, whether or not we send it over from the House clear and convincing or if we establish another burden of proof, it wouldn't matter. It is then up to the Senate to conduct a trial, come up with a verdict based on their burden of proof and their conscience.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to a question? Rep. DiFruscia, you may inquire.

Rep. DiFruscia: Thank you for yielding. Isn't it correct that when the House agreed to divide the question, go article by article, that the words clear and convincing were in the first paragraph? And, is it not also correct if clear and convincing is in the first paragraph, that we don't know if the House voted on that criteria of clear and convincing?

Rep. Bergin: The House voted on each article separately. You're right, they divided it and in the House voted on the evidence that the House Judiciary Committee delivered to the House and if the members read the first part of it, it does say clear and convincing. Now, again, as I mentioned earlier, that was the standard that we set. But I think each one of you here today, after talking to Judiciary members, reading depositions, watching things on TV, listening, etc., you all voted by your conscience. You all did just like we did on the Judiciary committee. You set your burden of standard, burden of proof and so I don't think it has any bearing on the vote.

Speaker Sytek: Rep. Haettenschwiler, you may state your inquiry.

Rep. Haettenschwiler: Madam Speaker in light of this last exchange, I'm confused. If we have voted on each article separately, the issue that is now being discussed, is the introduction or the preamble to the resolution and it's not clear to me how we can be voting on an amendment to that until we actually have addressed it? Am I correct in that?

Speaker Sytek: The amendment is before us. It happens to amend the preamble and we'll do whatever the will of the majority is.

Rep. Solow: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you for your patience. It seems to me if we adopt this amendment, we will be speaking falsely because the committee did adopt its proposal by clear and convincing evidence. Thank you.

Rep. DePecol: Thank you, Madam Speaker and members of the House. I don't know about you, but I never used clear and convincing evidence to make my decision. The burden of proof that I used was did it offend me enough that I was willing to impeach a sitting member of the court. Now, this clear and convincing is kind of nefarious. I mean I can't define it. I can't tell you it is 75 percent you're convinced or 80 percent you're convinced. It is what you feel in your hearts. What we are doing here is an historic precedent thing. If this ever happens again, then the next Judiciary Committee and the next body of this House is going to look back at us and say, "What did they use? How did they proceed? What kind of procedures did they have to come to this conclusion?" And if we burden them with this kind of proof, we are effectively making a precedent that will take away some of their leeway and some of their leverage and some of their ability to make a decision. So, I would just say this, clear and convincing, that's up to you. We can't put it on paper. We can't nail it down. Let your own hearts decide what you feel is a level of evidence enough to impeach. Let your own hearts decide what we are going to do to the next legislature and the next Judiciary Committee. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Rep. Mock requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

DEBATE ON ADOPTION OF HR 51

Speaker Sytek: The question now is on the adoption of the resolution with amendment, Ought to Pass with the amendment we've adopted. This is for the adoption of the whole thing plus the Jacobson amendment.

Rep. Hager: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Madam Speaker, it has been a long day, you have handled this House very well. I do believe the train has left the station but I need to rise in opposition to this resolution and all four of its articles. I am gravely disappointed that we adopted those articles and do know that we have one last chance to say no to them. I, and an obviously small minority of this House, voted against those articles of impeachment primarily because we do not feel that the awesome power that our forefathers gave us to impeach in our constitution should be used for what the Representative from Litchfield said so eloquently were simply bad acts. There is no question in my mind that David A. Brock made mistakes. I submitted an amendment to this bill that was a censure article to tell him we believe he made mistakes, but David Brock is a good man and he did not make those mistakes intentionally and I would urge you to vote no on this resolution at the present time. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Rep. John Pratt: The hour is late, Madam Speaker. We have voted on each of the individual articles. Now comes the moment of asking that we vote the entire resolution forward. I don't think anything more needs to be said other than that by this resolution, in my judgment, we are not lowering any bar. We are holding the Supreme Court and the Chief Justice to the same high standard we would hold any judge, any lawyer, any citizen of New Hampshire, in a position of trust. I ask for a "yes" vote.

Rep. Mock requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the resolution as amended.

and HR 51 as amended was adopted.

Ordered to third reading.

Rep. Whittemore voted Yea and intended to vote Nay.

Reps Burling, Dalianis and Quandt declared conflicts of interest and did not participate.

HB 1500-FN, relative to judicial retirement compensation and benefits for supreme court chief justice Brock.

1 Judicial Compensation and Benefits for Supreme Court Chief Justice Brock. If supreme court chief justice David Brock voluntarily resigns from the court during the period between a vote to impeach him by the full house of representatives and prior to the beginning of an impeachment trial by the senate, he shall be entitled to receive the retirement compensation and benefits under RSA 490:2 beginning upon the date he would have begun receiving such compensation and benefits if he had served as a supreme court justice until he was 65 years of age.

2 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Rep. Dyer moved Ought to Pass with Amendment and offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4813h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Judicial Compensation and Benefits for Supreme Court Chief Justice Brock. If supreme court chief justice David Brock voluntarily resigns from the court, he shall be entitled to receive the retirement compensation and benefits under RSA 490:2 beginning upon the date he would have begun receiving such compensation and benefits if he had served as a supreme court justice until he was 65 years of age.

2 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill allows chief justice David Brock to receive judicial retirement compensation and benefits even if he resigns prior to reaching 65 years of age.

DEBATE ON FLOOR AMENDMENT

Rep. Dyer: Thank you, Madam Speaker. This has been proposed earlier for the bill and I rise in support of the bill before you. We have been through a difficult period, but we will send a recommendation, if you vote in the affirmative, to the Senate that this individual should receive his retirement benefits. Why do we need this bill? We have sent to the Senate that he should be tried by the Senate. This bill is effective upon passage. That will not be effective until the Senate acts on it. But, if the Senate finds the Chief Justice not guilty, I think we need this bill in place so that he can retire as soon as possible so that we can begin the healing of the court and get in place some organization of the court processing. He will not receive his retirement benefit until he is eligible in July of the year 2001 at which time he will be 65. He has served the required number of years on the bench. So, I think this is an important step for the House to take to get this in place. One of his conditions of employment, when he was appointed, as with all other judges, was that he would receive a retirement benefit. There have been some questions raised about the legality of doing this. I appeared before the Judiciary Committee yesterday and spoke to it. Alan Cleveland also appeared before the Judiciary Committee yesterday and spoke to the retirement. The question being raised is does this affect the qualified status of the judicial plan? Attorney Cleveland and I have had numerous conversations about this. He is taking a very, very narrow view of this. I do not believe it would affect the present plan. I would like to read a little bit from the letter that was received in May of 1999 from Attorney Russell Godrow of Ropes and Gray. He was the one that submitted the original papers to the IRS to establish this 457 plan. The judges have a non-tax qualified plan, a deferred compensation plan. What is needed for a qualified state judicial plan is that one, the plan shall have been in existence since December 31st, 1979, and it has period small Roman two, under such plan all judges eligible to benefit under the plan, one, are required to participate. They do. Two, are required to contribute the same fixed percentage of their basic or regular rate of compensation. They all contribute the same rate, which is zero. It is fully paid by the state. Small Roman three, under such plan, no judge has an option as to contributions or benefits the exercise of which would affect the amounts of includable compensation. Nothing in this amendment will affect that. Four, small Roman four, the retirement payments of a judge under the plan are a percentage of the compensation of judges of the state holding similar positions. They will be. The plan during any year does not pay more benefits than limitations of section 415-b, the Internal Revenue Code, and that sets a total amount of which they can pay. I feel that this bill will not upset the classified status. Senator King had taken out an LSR to this effect earlier in the year. He withdrew it. So, I feel it is appropriate for the House to pass this bill to put in place a retirement provision for the Chief Justice if he wishes to retire early. This is not unusual. I can recall two special bills in the past that have been put in for special retirement benefits for people who for one reason or another did not comply with the present statute. I would hope you would support this amendment and pass the bill to the Senate. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to questions? Rep. Avery, you may inquire.

Rep. Avery: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative Dyer, I've got some real problems with this. Originally, the idea was floated that if Chief Justice Brock would retire before an actual trial in the Senate, then we would do his retirement fund, and as I read this now, even if he goes before the Senate and gets impeached, he'll still get his retirement. Is that true?

Rep. Dyer: No, that is not true. If the bill passes the House, and is not acted upon by the Senate prior to the announcing of the verdict of the Senate, this is my understanding: he will not be eligible for retirement benefits if impeached. If the Senate comes down with a not guilty verdict, yes, he could retire and I think that would be appropriate so we can get a fresh start and move forward.

Rep. Avery: So, what we're saying now is that if Chief Brock puts the Senate and the state through an expensive impeachment trial in the Senate, we're still going to give him his retirement if he is acquitted.

Rep. Dyer: If they find him not guilty. If they find him not guilty, he can go back to sitting on the court and get his retirement in July 2001, but I put this in so that if they find him not guilty and he feels he can not do his job properly because of all the cloud over his administration, he can get out, but he will not receive his retirement benefits until July of 2001.

Rep. Avery: What would happen if he retired, resigned now?

Rep. Dyer: He would get no benefits if he resigned right now.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. MacGillivray, you may inquire.

Rep. MacGillivray: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative Dyer. I just want to make sure I understand. The amendment takes out the phrases that say, "if he resigns prior to the Senate starting its debate." So, what you're saying is that if we chose to amend this bill in this way, I'm speaking only to the amendment at this point, if we chose to amend the bill in this way, we will go from a situation if which the justice either resigns before the trial begins or doesn't get a pension if he's convicted, to a situation where if the Senate were to pass this, prior to their taking action on the trial itself, he would then be in a position where he could wait, listen to how the entire evidence goes and then 15 minutes before the verdict is announced, turn in his resignation to the Secretary of State.

Rep. Dyer: That would not go to the Secretary of State, if I may, it would go to the Governor. But, that is correct. The reason I did not like, and this is what I told the Judiciary Committee, the reason I did not like the language in the original bill, it looked like we were driving him or holding a club over his head to get out but there was nothing in it that would say the Senate would act between the time the House met and the Senate began their trial if there was going to be one. So, there were flaws with the original bill.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to another question? Rep. Belvin, you may inquire.

Rep. Belvin: Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you Representative Dyer for taking my question and I guess it's got two pieces. Let's assume that the bill as proposed, 1500, passes. We still have before us House Resolutions 52 and 53. I do not know the fate of those, but my question is, let's assume that either Justice Broderick or Justice Horton is also impeached. What posture should you recommend for us towards their pensions in that event?

Rep. Dyer: That's why I included in his name in the bill. It is a private bill for one individual. The others have not served on the bench as long as he has. Horton is eligible for retirement the first part of next year. He has only been on the bench for seven years, I believe, something like that. Broderick has not been on the bench very long. It would be treated as an individual person if we put in a generic bill without some specificity to it. I think we would be faced with that question on the other two should it come up.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Pepino, you may inquire.

Rep. Pepino: Representative Dyer, are you aware that when Governor Gallen was the sitting governor and he passed away they tried to get a pension for his family and somewhere along the line it failed? Here is a person we are talking about impeaching and we're going to reward him?

Rep. Dyer: We have no retirement benefits for governor, any governor. That was one that was put in for Governor Gallen. We have a pension plan in place for the Judiciary. We do not have any options for offering a reduced pension if he is less than age 65.

Rep. Pepino: I know at that time, and there never was a pension for a governor, but the people up here, I remember it very clearly, were doing it just like you're doing this, out of the goodness of their heart and they failed.

Rep. Dyer: I wasn't here at the time for that one.

Rep. Kurk: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Madam Speaker, I rise in opposition to the pending motion, the Dyer bill as amended. There are three amendments dealing with this and they all suffer from the same potential flaw. The original House Bill 1500 is conditional, if Justice Brock resigns. Representative Dyer's proposal is conditional, if Justice Brock resigns, and Representative Peterson's proposal is also conditional and his proposal appears on page 1623, if a justice voluntarily resigns. All of these are conditional. It takes an action of the justice, at his discretion, to invoke whatever consequences there are, the receipt of the pension. That constitutes what most people would call an election or an option and it is that fact that is of great concern to me and should be to this House, because if the attorneys who have informed the Judiciary Committee are correct, there is a significant chance that passage of this legislation and the exercise of the option by a justice or, in the case of Representative Dyer's bill, Justice Brock, will render our current judicial pension system to be non-tax qualified. Now, that's not certain, but it is likely. That's our legal advice, or the legal opinion from someone who is an expert in the area of pension plans. Should that happen, it will be a real financial problem for justices and potentially for the state and let me explain. If a current retired justice is determined to be a member of a non-tax qualified plan and he is actually receiving a pension, then all of the value in today's dollars of his future pension which might be as much as a million or two million dollars if his life expectancy is long, would be considered taxable income today and he would have to pay taxes on perhaps $800,000. That might be $200,000 or $300,000 even though he is only receiving in cash an $80,000 pension. Any judge who retired in the future and participated in what now would be a non-qualified, non-tax qualified plan would face the same problem. For those reasons, we do not adopt any of these bills. If we do, there is a potential consequence for the general fund, even though we would not have to pay any more money to the judges than we are currently ... (tape change)... might ask us, and there has been some discussion or question in the papers as to whether they would, might ask us to reimburse them for the extraordinary taxes they would have to pay initially, or at least give them a loan to care of those taxes on the grounds that they originally bought into or were promised a tax-qualified plan and we changed that on them. And to the extent that comes to pass, there would be a significant multi-million dollar, potential multi-million dollar impact on the general fund. You know that is not desirable. So, for both of these reasons, I think it is imprudent at this time to adopt any of these three proposals. Indeed, if they are adopted, I would ask the Speaker to refer the bill to the Finance Committee so that we could actually determine what the consequences to the general fund might be. But beyond the tax issue, I think there is a real policy issue that we need to consider and from my point of view passing this bill or any other bill like it is bad public policy. First, I don't think we should give a reward to a person whom we have just impeached. I don't think that makes sense. On the one hand, we say your conduct was improper and on the other hand, we say, yet we are going to give you a reward for this that you are not otherwise entitled to. Secondly, there is a great deal of irony here. As many of you know, I and former Representative Robert Wheeler introduced a judicial pension bill in 1996 which was designed to allow judges not to have to be 65 before they got anything but to allow them to retire earlier and get a partial pension, in effect, based on the number of years of service, which is similar to what we do with our state employees. This would have been a contributory pension plan. You heard from Representative Dyer that judges don't contribute at all to their pensions as compared with state employees who do. This would have required judges to contribute to the pensions. Well, the judiciary, led by Chief Justice Brock, fought that tooth and nail and right now after four years, it's still in a study committee, in this case in Finance. I find it particularly ironic that Justice Brock, who opposed this, would now be the beneficiary of the very kinds of protections that the bill, this judicial pension reform bill, was designed to offer the judiciary. Lastly, like all of you, I feel there is a great deal of compassion involved in this case. This is a terrible thing to befall a judge so near to retirement, so near to his pension and to have it all snatched away by a series of events for which I believe he is culpable, but certainly which tug at our heart strings because of the effect on him and his family. I put it to you, however, that the time for compassion is not here in this chamber when we are impeaching. The time for compassion is after the Senate has a trial and it convicts on the grounds that we have sent over to the Senate. At that point, it is appropriate for the Senate to determine the appropriate penalty. It is my understanding that the Senate is not obligated, if they convict, to automatically remove Justice Brock from his office. The constitution, Part I, Article 36 can be read, excuse me that's Article 39, Part II, allows the Senate to impose a different penalty or no penalty upon conviction, so at that point the Senate could act or make some recommendations. But I think the better time to do this, should the Senate convict, would be next year when we take up the judicial pension bill and we determine what is appropriate. At that time, the House would have an opportunity to look into the tax consequences of what it might do and what is fair. Part I, Article 36 allows us to pay pensions to people who have provided actual service to the state, so even if Justice Brock were not qualified to receive his pension under the judicial pension plan, nothing, as I understand that article, prevents us from providing him with a pension if we felt, on a compassionate basis at that time, that he deserved it. But this is not, I believe, for us to do today. This is something that needs to be done later. We have done our job. We have acted properly by passing these articles of impeachment. The other issues are for another time. So, I would urge you to defeat this proposed piece of legislation as well as any amendments which would have the same effect. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Rep. Rose: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Members of the House, I rise in favor of House Bill 1500, but with a small wrinkle. I also agree with the amendment by Representative Dyer. First of all, I do agree with the impeachment of Justice Thayer. But, during many years on the bench, I'm sure that Justice Thayer did. Thayer, Broderick, Brock, it's getting hotter and hotter, I think. During Judge Brock's 14-years-plus on the bench he must have done some good things and I think we could all agree with that, despite these four violations and you can look at the violations and whether they are big or small or medium, but they are violations and we deem them as such. He still should not be deprived of his retirement, I don't believe. I don't think that this House is mean spirited or unfair. I don't think we want to mete out double punishment. Even murderers often times only have one punishment, whether it is life or 20 years. They don't get two, usually they don't get two punishments. I do agree and I don't often agree with Representative Robinson, I don't know where he is, Robertson, anyway, he was on the radio recently and he made a statement. He said, "The government doesn't take away your social security benefits if you violate your DWI. Why should we take away Judge Brock's pension. Why should we do that?" This bill, 1500, allows the judge to have a retirement if he resigns at some point in the future before or after the Senate. I hope that he, if he is looking or looking on television or whatever, will take the gentlemanly course and decide to save the state treasury maybe a third of a million dollars or a quarter of a million dollars and a trial in the Senate and his own expenses, law fees for his lawyers, he will save that also, if he simply resigns, period. Soon. Then we can close this door, this unfortunate situation, we can close the door on this unfortunate situation and get on with our individual lives. Let's pass House Bill 1500. Don't you think that double punishment would be excessive, would be an excessive piling on? Isn't impeachment enough? Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Rep. Pantelakos: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise in opposition to House Bill 1500. I would like to compliment the Judiciary Committee for the great job they did on the very hard task that was put before them, but I am very opposed to this bill, giving the justice a retirement and full benefit.

Give me a break! The House of Representatives is a place where laws are made, not a place that says, "We know you did wrong, but if you will resign, not cost us any more money or time, or headaches, we will reward you and give you everything you ask for." What a great message that sends to our people, young and old. If you can afford a high-priced lawyer and he knows the judge that believes the person and his family has suffered enough, they will walk away scot-free. Why not? The New Hampshire House believes that is the way they should do things. After all, they did it for a judge. Now comes a person who is poor, committed the same crime, only can't afford the high-priced lawyer who talks the talk the judge talks, down comes a gavel and that person pays the penalty. Is that what we call justice? This person was appointed because he was supposed to be honest, fair impartial and, above all, to take a long look at the whole picture, because the people in the state of New Hampshire believe they go into that courtroom, they will get a fair shake and justice will be served. This House was elected to do what is right for the majority of the people, not to set one person aside and say, yes, we know you've done wrong but we feel you've been punished enough by having your name in the paper and it has hurt your family. I believe the people in the State of New Hampshire trusted this man. He failed. You do not give rewards for failing. Is this House afraid that if this man goes on trial for impeachment a lot more dirty laundry will come falling out of our judicial system? For years, people have tried to tell the New Hampshire House it is wrong to give somebody a job for life with no one to account to and that's what we do with the judges. Even the governor has to account to somebody. The judges do not. They can do anything they want to and there is no penalty, unless we disgrace the whole state with a mess like this court has created now. Please vote with me and overturn the committee report. Show the people and the State of New Hampshire that this House believes that our judges should be honest, fair and trustworthy. If not, they must go. Let's start to put a little bit of dignity back in to the court system today. Thank you.

Rep. Sapareto: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In retirement plans, we are talking about a qualified plan, right now, that the judges get from the general fund. There are 153 judges and they derive that money from the general fund. It is very simple. At age 64, if we wanted to pass this bill, we simply give it to them with the payment of annuity or stipend and there is no tax implication whatsoever. Anyone telling you different is not, either doesn't know or, is not telling you the truth. Hybrid plans exist in the corporate world all the time. You could easily get by that. Age 64 is not subject to 59 and a-half penalty; he can take the money. If we wanted to pass this bill, we can do it. There are no IRS implications. That's one point I absolutely want to make. The second point is that we have Justice Thayer, who has clearly been the person with malintent in this entire affair, granted full immunity, at age 54 is going to go out and be fully vested in some other plan and get a full retirement, getting out of impeachment, walks away from it and we're going to hang a 64-year-old, one year away from his retirement after 25 years of service and he is going to go through this while the guy who did most of the wrong is walking free. If you think that's justice, then you just vote against 1500. But for me, anyway, if you want to grant something to at least this person's family after 25 years of service, when somebody else is going to get off free at age 54, then you would support this bill. Thank you.

(Rep. Lozeau in the Chair)

Rep. Wendelboe: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise to oppose the Dyer amendment and any others that come afterwards dealing with a special pension for Justice Brock. Particularly, I think the first thing that I find the most onerous is that it's tied to resignation. If we feel that Justice Brock should be due a retirement because of his 22 years of service, he should get it whether he is impeached and removed from office or whether he resigns and I know a lot of you can't believe I said that. However, I totally disagree with him getting a full retirement before he qualifies for the plan and under the judges' plan you're totally not qualified until you reach age 65. What do you think your constituents are going to think? The constituents that have been telling you how wrong they thought what the court has been doing. What will they think when they find out that we've rewarded him with an early full retirement at 75 percent of pay that goes up every single time any of the current judges get a raise without having put one dime of contribution to it? What are your constituents who served in the military going to think when they realize that in the highest service someone can give, service to their country and fighting in a war, that if they had done something wrong, even if they had 35 years of service in, if they were removed for that wrongdoing, they would get nothing. I think it would be a pretty hard sell to our constituents to justify giving him a sweetheart goodbye golden handshake. It really kind of scared me to realize how much Representative Kurk brought out of the notes that I had made as well. It would be very foolish of us to pass any bill that would endanger the tax-qualifying plan unless we got a formal IRS opinion before that went into effect. We don't have time to do that before the Senate takes up the impeachment hearing. However, Neal Kurk did touch on what it could trigger. If Justice Brock took that retirement and that plan ended up being unqualified, we could have a huge financial liability to this state because all those other justices would say, "Your action triggered me having hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of tax liability." The comment was made about Justice Thayer and that he could go on somewhere else and get a retirement but a 64-year-old man doesn't have time. Well, I would like to point out that he would get social security, that he did not come to work for the state until he was 42 years old. I would hope that up until that point that he was putting something aside for retirement, and he has been making over $100,000 a year. I would hope some of that he had put away for retirement. However, I don't think it would be fair to his family to give him nothing but there are alternatives. We do not have to act today. There is legislation in the hopper, in study committee. There is nothing to say we can't make it retroactive to include Justice Brock, particularly since he is not eligible until he turns age 65 anyway. You may recall in past years we've had special bills to allow people to buy into the group II retirement plan. There is also another special plan for commissioned officers of the state, for example the treasurer and the secretary of state, apply to. We could pass a bill to say that Justice Brock could buy into that retirement and get what a regular state employee would have gotten with 22 years of service to our state. My guesstimate, figuring after him off-set paying in, would be that he would get around a $45,000-a-year retirement. Granted, it is not full boat but it is something for his family. We don't reward him completely but yet we don't set him adrift. We can do that in the future. We don't have to act in haste and repent at leisure. Representative Kurk made a very good point. The Senate can do anything they want to do with the pension. This is a moot point if this impeachment goes to the Senate and they don't convict. So, for us to pass a bill doing this is kind of putting the cart before the horse. So, I recommend that we definitely not pass any of these retirement bills. Let the Senate come up with a suggestion and we can come back and agree with them or disagree with them and hammer it out after we know definitely if they are removing Justice Brock from office. Thank you.

Rep. Lozeau: Does the member yield to a question? Representative Vaillancourt, you may inquire.

Rep. Vaillancourt: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I apologize for being called a couple of other times. I had made a note that I wanted to ask this question to the proponent of the original bill but I consider it an important question, so I'll ask it in the opportunity I do have. I was at home at 11:15 the night this bill was proposed and I was playing the role of note-taker and I thought for a minute I was watching David Letterman's monologue or something. I heard one Representative say, "Totally, totally out of the bounds of decency, shocking that you brought it forward. I'm overwhelmed by it." Then this Representative went to vote for it. The other thing I was shocked by, and this is what the question is, the Representative, whom I respect tremendously, who proposed this said five words that I somehow could not bring myself to believe. "This is not a deal." If this is not a deal, I keep wondering why was the stipulation put in that the Chief Justice would only be allowed this opportunity if he resigned prior to the Senate action? Did you see this as a deal?

Rep. Wendelboe: Representative Vaillancourt, no I don't see it as a deal. I see it more as a plea bargain and I think whether it's a deal or whether it's a plea bargain, they are both wrong.

Rep. Lozeau: Will the member yield to another question? Rep. Leighton Pratt, you may inquire.

Rep. Leighton Pratt: I, as a past state employee, did stop my job and I received the money I put in. Should we give him money or should we give him the money he put in?

Rep. Wendelboe: I'm not quite sure I understood the question. If we came up, or the Senate came up and we agreed with something to do with him being able to be in another state employee plan, it would have to be contingent on him buying into the plan. So, in other words, he would have to make a contribution of that 10 percent of his yearly salary for every year he worked for the state as well as the rate of return that that money generated, so that he would not be actually taking anything away from that state employee plan that he wouldn't have been due had he paid in all along. I think that is within the realm since there is precedent that other people have been allowed to buy into that plan. It is an opportunity to give him a partial retirement and I think that with that alternative it makes sense to vote down all of these measures dealing with retirement.

Rep. Lozeau: Would the member yield to a further question? Rep. Andrews, you may inquire.

Rep. Andrews: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I'm a little bit upset the way this is going. It seems that all day we have been listening to, it is not up to the House, the whole case is going to come before the Senate, any action is going to be taken by the Senate, not by the House, we're only going to send this to the Senate and now my question. Am I not correct in the fact that if Mr. Brock defeats the claim against him, then he continues on until he is at least 65 and gets his whole pension in full, nothing deterrent against his pension whatsoever if he is found not guilty? On the other hand, the Senate, if they want to work to accommodate Justice Brock, if they find him guilty, they can still say, "Chief Justice, you're guilty. Tomorrow morning be back on the bench and do the rest of your term." Now, I don't think it is up to us at this point to say, dicker so that he'll retire early and take his full pension. All day it's been leave this to the Senate to decide. My question is, should we leave this to the Senate and not try to settle it on the floor of the House?

Rep. Wendelboe: Yes, Representative Andrews, I agree completely. We should leave this to the Senate which is the appropriate body to address this issue.

Rep. Lefebvre: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Members of the House, this is almost like a riddle. Did you ever wonder why the word discipline is followed by the word disciple? Very nicely how that these two words were put in conjunction, almost together, in the dictionary and I often wondered if there was a message in there. I'm opposed to bill 1500 because it is too much of a big temptation and I'd like to tell you why. How does one discipline the disciplinarian? By what exemplary means does a chief instill discipline into his counterparts when they fell apart? With absolute guidelines, of course, where there is no room to hide under anyone's cloak that could lead to one's folly or set-up. I can not believe Chief Brock, the beacon, the highest and brightest light of our state, could ever be happy or satisfied to stoop down to pick up the marbles offered in House Bill 1500. He must exemplify as he has done for 24 years and show us his true American colors. He should have the opportunity to choose to go to the Senate where they might be able to clear. I would be proud to stand with him as they give him liberty or give him death, no marbles. Let him have freedom honorably or die dishonorable. As I often, as my grandmother used to teach me to say in French, "Vivre Libertie, et Justice." Thank you.

Rep. Craig: Thank you, Madam Speaker, you snuck up on me. I'll be very brief. I voted for the original pension bill last Wednesday, after midnight and I have no regrets about doing that. I'm not going to talk about the specifics of the pension bill we vote for. My feeling is that the Chief Justice, although I feel reluctantly that he committed impeachable offenses, I think that he committed no crimes, no bribery, no corruption, did not have the black heart that we were told about, the malice in his heart. I never saw any of that. On the other hand, I saw that he had 20/25 years of good and decent service to this State of New Hampshire. I understand that he has a wife and children and someone asked me before if I was doing what I did for revenge. Absolutely not. I think that, I think that this is, it may be a measure of compassion on my part, but my feeling is that compassion is a character strength and not a character defect so if it's compassion then I'm not embarrassed to say that it's compassion. I don't care if people say that I'm doing this because it looks like a deal. I don't care if people say I'm doing this that it looks like a plea bargain, that it looks like anything. I don't care. I think it is the right and fair thing to do to offer Chief Justice Brock a pension and I'm happy to stand up here on this miserable day and say that. Thank you.

Rep. Hamel: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I can't believe this. One point of order, first. Representative Wendelboe made a comment about a military getting a retirement after 35 years, or not getting retirement after serving 35 years. Not quite true. If the person in the military has served 20 years, he or she is entitled to retirement. An example, I guess in the last 10 days, a major general was accused of sexually harassing a one star-general. He was allowed to retire. He was allowed to retire because the parameters of that retirement system has time-in-service. He served 20 years. If he had served 18 and a-half years, he would be out of luck. He'd get nothing. To come back to 1500, a very similar issue as far as I'm concerned. Our statute says that the parameters for his retirement are two things: time on the bench and age. He hasn't met that requirement. It is not revenge. That is what the law says. I think it is a bad precedent to set. I would ask you to vote against this 1500 and any other amendment to 1500, as far as that goes. Thank you, very much.

Rep. Kennedy: I thank you, Madam Speaker. Madam Speaker, I would like your memory to go back to a man by the name of Donovan, I believe it was Donovan. It might have been Donnolly. He was a Secretary of Labor in one of our past presidential groups. I forget now which one. They hauled him into court and they charged him with all sorts of things. It was one of these things where they thought they had him and they made a massive amount of trouble for him. They even had a congressional look at him. In the end, he was exonerated and he had one thing to say. He said, "For God sakes, where do I get my integrity and honor back and reputation back?" Dave Brock is in that position right now. Where does he get his integrity and his honor back? He doesn't get it from this. Do I feel compassion for the man? Yes. He has kids in school. He has girls in college. He has a boy in high school. His older daughter is in the hospital, I believe, with some sort of a malignancy. Yes, the man has troubles and serious ones, but what price for integrity? What price to cop a plea like a common criminal? I think it is asking far too much. Last I knew, if I offered a traffic cop a bribe, they threw me in the hoosegow. Now, what we are considering doing is bribing the judge to avoid an unfortunate incident. We have created it. Let nature takes its course. My feeling is he will be exonerated. I believe him to be an honorable man. I believe he'll be back on the bench and serve out the rest of his time. It is my belief that we are going to pass all sorts of bills, those of us who are going to return here, luckily some of us will and some of us won't, there will be an ungodly number of bills to correct the judicial problems. Somewhere there has to be somebody there with the institutional knowledge to help us put it into effect and Dave Brock has that knowledge. So, I am hoping that he is exonerated. I hope that he walks out of here with his head high and saying, "I did my best. Maybe it wasn't as good as you wanted, but it was my best and I did it in an honorable fashion. Thank you very much." Now, I don't believe in bribes. No, that's not true. I have a German shepherd and I give him dog biscuits. But beyond that, I think it is a bit much, it is a tremendous amount of money. We also know that by doing it this way we may end up with a financial problem. There is nothing to say that the next legislature that adjourns here tomorrow or next year or whenever we come here cannot put in a bill and change the law so that it covers all judges for all times and creates a clear operation. You have been told by the head of the finance group that it creates a problem. Representative Sapareto who's pretty good with funds of that type, says there may be a way around it, but if we wish to move in that direction, let's do that. Let's not cloud it with a bribe. It stinks. It reeks. It is beneath the dignity of every member of this House to even consider a bribe. Thank you, very much.

(Speaker Sytek in the Chair)

Rep. Peterson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. You may have noticed that there have been a number of speakers on the Dyer amendment and I'd like to explain why that is. The reason is because this is the bill. This is the one amendment. This is the decision on this matter. The others that are printed in the calendar, the various proponents have decided to set aside and go along with the amendment recommended by the senior representative from my district of Peterborough, the man who is clearly the Dean of the House when it comes to retirement matters and a person who has spent much of his career in this legislature protecting the integrity of the retirement system. I've sent a handout into the mailboxes and maybe some of you had a chance to glance at it. It is a 50-state review which was prepared by our research people here to give you a sense on what the judicial retirement situation is in the 50 states of the country. Some of them are rather bare bones in their analysis but I think one conclusion can be drawn from reading that handout and that is that the situation in the State of New Hampshire may very well be unique which Chief Justice David Brock finds himself in. As we know, matters such as this are very often solved through resignation, not because the person involved doesn't believe that they have a right and an obligation to some extent to clear their name and face the charges, but because they believe that it is better for the state, for the institution which they represent for them to step aside and put those personal considerations to one side. In the State of New Hampshire, such a resignation for the Chief Justice would, in essence, leave his family out in the cold. That would be something which in my view would be wrong. In opposition to this measure, we've heard what I would take to be something in the nature of a technical foul that's been called in the second period of overtime, perhaps, or just as we come to consideration of this. We've heard from Representative Dyer that he believes this to be a fallacy, that there is in fact no tax problem with the bill as presented. We've heard from perhaps one of the finest tax planners that's among our membership, Representative Sapareto from Derry, who spends every day and earns his living in this field, that if there were such an issue that came up that it would be able to be handled by an amendment or by a slight adjustment made to the bill in the Senate. So, the fact is that those of you who wish to allow, and I hope there are some that haven't gone out to dinner or perhaps are still willing to listen to this, because it is a very important thing, those are willing to allow a technical consideration or perhaps something that is only a red herring to stand in their way of a basic moral decision about what is right today should consider otherwise at this point. This I offer to you as a policy decision of the House. This is something that we have to decide today and pass on to the Senate or not. If we pass it on to the Senate, it would take further action by the Senate and by the Governor to become a reality, but it would be a statement of what the House feels is right. That is what happened to the very people who looked, I'll say with respect to all of you who have looked hard at this, the hardest at the evidence compiled in the impeachment inquiry, the 22 members of the committee upon which I am honored to be a member the House Judiciary Committee. People in the state saw over the TV the kind of work that we did and heard it on their radios on the way home from work and so forth and had a chance to get involved in this extraordinary and most public process in our inquiry. But, you know, it is the very people who, after a great deal of consideration, and those who were closest to the facts, who came with a 19 to 3 vote to support this principle. It has been called bizarre by some that we could support impeachment and then support the Chief Justice having a right to his pension, I find it to be something quite different. I find it to be a very human and a very dignified action on the part of our committee because I think we have to separate the impeachment from the pension. In most private situations where people have pensions they become vested in the pension. In business or in regular life, if someone embezzles from the company or even murders the chief executive, let's say, they still have their pension. They may collect it in jail but at any rate they still have it. Now, the fact is that we have, and this is another thing I think about which some resentment has surrounded and clouded this issue, for our judiciary, we have as established by this legislature, a defined benefit plan. That means when I ask someone or when a person is asked, I certainly don't ask, but when we ask someone as citizens of the state to be a judge, a person who might earn twice as much as an attorney, in fact, if they are the type of person that we want as a judge, we say to them, when you retire you'll have a decent retirement living. In the meantime, you'll be giving service to the state, good public service, and you'll be limited, to a degree in your other earnings. But the fact is when it comes time to retire, you're going to have that benefit. So, the defined benefit plan which we have presupposes, in fact, that the state is paying in, as part of a salary, into a retirement plan. At least on the face of it that that would be the relationship as opposed to a contributory system which is one where the person would probably be paid more but contributes to a plan which builds a benefit. Now, if we had had a contributory system in place, we wouldn't even be at this point today because the pension would be long ago vested. There are, in fact, people on the court today who are likely to receive their pensions with only 10 years of service, not the 25 which David Brock has put in. Now, I'm going to be brief but I want to make a point and I want to make it without any equivocation and I want to say one other thing, too. I haven't spoken at all today. I haven't come down here although I was, I believe, an active and participating member of the Judiciary Committee because I found that this decision was one of the most difficult I've ever had to make in my time in public service and I did not want to be in the position of encouraging anyone in terms of a vote on their conscience of what they thought they should do on this impeachment. I felt, frankly, it had been tough enough for me to do it and I wasn't about to tell you how to work your way through it. But, I will make a comment about what we have done here today. I think it has been a black day for the State of New Hampshire. At best, what we've done has been in essence the gray march of duty through this process. But there is a principle that is important that has rung out from these proceedings and I want to suggest to you that that's the principle that the constitutional right of equal protection under the law is not negotiable. That's something this House has said in ringing fashion today and it's something which I could not ignore. It was revealed in the conduct and, therefore, I voted for the articles of impeachment. Now we have the rest of the job to do. Our courage in standing for that principle should now be crowned with compassion. That represents the best of what our citizens would ask us. You know, in the House of Representatives, there is probably not one in a thousand in our communities who would run for our office. The duties are heavy. The pay is short. The hours are long, but I believe that today we need to stand up and represent the best of our citizenry. Let's not submit ourselves to government by sound bite. Let's cast a vote for government by sound judgment and let's say that after 25 years of service to this state, it is an ill-fitting postscript to our actions here today to leave this man's family destitute. I don't want to stand by and watch it. I will not without taking this action here. This is the vote. It is a clear choice, a clear moral choice. What will you do? I ask that you vote for this amendment and vote to pass this bill on to the Senate to give us the opportunity to have the means to move forward together ... (tape change) ...

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Vaillancourt, you may inquire.

Rep. Vaillancourt: Thank you, Madam Speaker, and I am certainly gratified to have the opportunity for you to clear up this question because I did write down those five words you said about 11:15 the night this matter came up in your committee, and, unlike my colleague from Manchester, I do care if, in fact, this is meant as a deal, but you did, in fact, affirm that it is not a deal. Could you clear up in my mind how, if it is not a deal, you chose to force the Chief Justice to decide before the Senate hearing? If your compassion was so great, why did you put that time frame in? Rep. Peterson: That was recommended by others on the committee as an amendment to my original bill, and I stand before you today to support the Dyer amendment, which removes that language. But, I'll say something beyond that and that is that I appreciate the question of the Representative from Manchester, because it is a very important point. This is not a deal. What it is is a choice for the Chief Justice to retire with some dignity or otherwise move forward to clear himself of the charges which we have leveled here today. That will be completely up to him, but I believe that this pension is earned and we should not withhold it. Thank you.

Rep. DePecol: I rise, sadly, in opposition to this bill. I rise mostly in opposition because I dislike the process, to tell you the truth. If we pass this today, then by due process here it will have to go to the Finance Committee. The Finance Committee will have to send us some recommendation back. We will have to vote on it one way or the other. If we pass it, then it will have to go to the Senate. The Senate will have to hold public hearings. They will have to make a decision. They might amend it. They might change it. They might do whatever they want to it and then if they pass it intact it has to go to the governor to be signed. That's going to take more than one day. It's going to take a long time for this and all this time the Chief Justice is going to be sitting there debating whether or not he must resign. Now, the other thing I find sad about this is it is a personal bill. Only one person is going to benefit from this. None of the other state employees, not you or I would get this same kind of consideration. I don't think the House ought to be making these kinds of decisions based on past service. There has been a spoken mistake up here tonight. If you spent time in the Air Force like I did, I'm retired from the Air Force, and on the day before you are due to retire you get convicted and court-martialed and bounced out with a dishonorable discharge, you receive no pension. You receive no benefits. There is no mercy for bad acts. Does Chief Justice Brock deserve mercy? I believe so, but not here under this body. Let the Senate be the merciful ones. They can say yes, you're guilty but you can stay or yes, you're guilty but we're going to let you have your pension. That's okay with me and the other thing that's okay with me is if anybody wants to bring in a bill here that says that every justice in the State of New Hampshire gets a pension after serving X amount of years and a percentage of the pension based on how much time the justices have served, I'm very happy to vote for that. I don't think we should be making one-person bills, special favor bills, just because it makes us feel good. We are compassionate, I think, in this body. This is not the time for compassion. This is the time for sense and adhering to procedures. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to questions? Rep. Robertson, you may inquire.

Rep. Robertson: Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you, Representative. Do you understand that if the state had chosen to make this a funded plan, which they very well could except the complication of judges, some of whom serve for five years and some who serve for 40, that if he had put in one percent, to fund this plan and we had put in 99 percent, after 10 years, 100 percent of that would be his and he would walk away in spite of the fact that he walked in and took a machinegun up there and killed 40 of us. It would be his and we chose not to make this a funded plan, he did not, we did it for our convenience and it would be his under normal circumstances?

Rep. DePecol: Thank you, Representative Robinson. Yes sir, I do understand that and it's unfortunate the way it worked out, but I still feel, all being said and done, that this is a one-person bill, that we have process and someone talked earlier about equal protection under the law. This is more than equal protection under the law. It's more protection than you and I would get under the law. It's above and beyond the protection. So, yes, I agree with you, Representative Robertson that it is an unfair situation. I'm sorry.

Rep. Dyer requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the Dyer floor amendment.

and the Dyer Floor Amendment failed.

Reps. Burling, Carson, Dalianis and Quandt declared conflicts of interest and did not participate. Speaker Sytek: Without objection, we will allow Rep. Simon to offer a floor amendment. Rep. Simon offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4817h)

Amend the bill by replacing all after the enacting clause with the following:

1 Judicial Compensation and Benefits for Supreme Court Chief Justice Brock. If supreme court chief justice David Brock voluntarily resigns from the court, he shall be entitled to receive 80 percent of the retirement compensation and benefits which he would have otherwise received under RSA 490:2 beginning upon the date he would have begun receiving such compensation and benefits if he had served as a supreme court justice until he was 65 years of age.

2 Effective Date. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This bill allows chief justice David Brock to receive 80 percent of judicial retirement compensation and benefits, even if he resigns prior to reaching 65 years of age.

DEBATE ON FLOOR AMENDMENT

Rep. Simon: Thank you, Madam Speaker and thank you members of the House. I will be brief; in fact, I have authorized the Speaker to use the gavel on my head if I exceed two minutes. I would ask that the depth of your consideration of this amendment be in inverse proportion to the amount of time I intend to speak. We have certainly heard all the arguments. At a very late hour, I had this amendment drafted because I'm concerned about this subject. I stand here, as I think we all are today, saddened and disappointed about the events that bring us here today. But, on the other hand, we've talked a great deal about compassion and I'm sympathetic to that. I suggest to you that this amendment takes the middle road that allows us to do what's right but allows us to extend the compassion that I feel we ought to be extending. I think, also, it is expedient, and as a lawyer I'm used to settling cases. I see this in that vein in part and that's expedient, but I don't think there is anything wrong with being expedient, so I think this works on a variety of levels. I think it rewards the Chief Justice for his dedicated service to the state. I think it is a significant sanction beyond the sanction of what we've already done which is incredible, but it allows the beneficial purposes of this to take effect and may provide an inducement to save the state a great deal of time, anguish and expenditure. I see the gavel coming for my head, so I'll stop talking.

Rep. Vivian Clark: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. I have sat there patiently all day preventing myself from jumping up and down on any one of these issues but I finally reached one where I couldn't because since this is an unexpected amendment I knew that nobody had signed up to speak against it. There are several reasons why we should not accept this amendment. The first of these is that we have made here an historic move. We have recommended impeachment of a Supreme Court Justice for the first time in incredible periods of time. There is, therefore, an expectation in the public that there is reason for this and that there ought to be a trial and we should not be doing something specifically to subvert that process. Next reason, the only reason for this House, other than to subvert the trial, to grant somebody pension rights outside of the normal process would be because we are presuming that the Senate is going to find him guilty of the points that we have made in the impeachment statement. Now, I don't believe it is appropriate for us to do that. And, the third reason why we shouldn't support this particular amendment is because we have just made a statement of opinion of this House that it is inappropriate for us to grant a pension concomitant on a resignation. Now we're being asked to approve it because it's going to cost us 20 percent less. Now, this in fact, folks, gets us back down to that joke you may have heard one time about whether or not one is a prostitute and does it, in fact, depend upon how much it costs. There are good reasons for not passing this; there are good reasons for not passing any kind of presupposed pension plan. Please vote "no" on the amendment. Thank you.

Rep. Dyer: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise in opposition to the pending motion. We have spent a great deal of time discussing the legal requirements of a judicial 457 deferred compensation plan, and as I briefly read to you, among the items that are in here, Roman IV, the retirement payments of a judge under the plan are a percentage of the compensation of judges of that state holding similar positions. You are changing the compensation rate. That will raise a great deal more questions on the Internal Revenue Code, the IRS, than anything we have discussed before. This amendment is clearly in violation of the IRS regulations and I urge you to vote "no".

Rep. Bishop requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the Simon floor amendment.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 52

recommending that no article of impeachment be brought against supreme court justice Sherman D. Horton, Jr.

Whereas, the New Hampshire house of representatives has directed its judiciary committee "to investigate whether grounds exist...to impeach chief justice David A. Brock and/or any other justice of the New Hampshire supreme court"; and

Whereas, the house judiciary committee has conducted such investigation, and it hereby moves that the New Hampshire house of representatives adopt the following resolution relative to justice Sherman D. Horton, Jr; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives:

That the judiciary committee has found no clear and convincing evidence that justice Sherman D. Horton, Jr has acted in such a way as to require the house, acting under Part II, Article 17 of the New Hampshire constitution, to make and send to the senate an article of impeachment, and accordingly moves that no article of impeachment be brought against justice Sherman D. Horton, Jr. Rep. Jane Wood moved Ought to Pass.

Rep. Mirski offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4811h)

Amend the title of the resolution by replacing it with the following:

A RESOLUTION recommending impeachment of supreme court justice Sherman D. Horton, Jr. Amend the resolution by replacing all after the title with the following:

Whereas, the New Hampshire house of representatives has directed its judiciary committee "to investigate whether grounds exist...to impeach chief justice David A. Brock and/or any other justice of the New Hampshire supreme court"; and

Whereas, the house judiciary committee has conducted such investigation, and it hereby moves that the house adopt the following resolution relative to justice Sherman D. Horton, Jr.; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives:

That the judiciary committee has found that the house, acting under Part II, Article 17 of the New Hampshire constitution, has cause to request the senate to exercise its powers under Part II, Article 38 of the New Hampshire constitution to conduct a full and impartial trial to determine whether justice Sherman D. Horton, Jr., of the supreme court of New Hampshire, should be convicted and removed from office if the senate concludes that he has committed any or all of the acts enumerated in the article of impeachment below, which the house has determined, if proved, constitutes an impeachable offense as set forth in Part II, Article 38 of the New Hampshire constitution:

ARTICLE I

That during the period from his appointment as an associate justice of the New Hampshire supreme court to the present, justice Sherman D. Horton, Jr. engaged in conduct which corrupted the supreme court's capacity to dispense impartial justice and to insure the right of every New Hampshire citizen to equal protection under the law. Justice Horton has done so by participating in a process whereby disqualified justices were permitted to receive draft opinions for cases before the court and to attend case conferences which enabled them to comment on and influence opinions from which they were recused and disqualified. Specifically, he committed one or more of the following acts:

1. Engaged in a pattern of acts, and allowed the continued existence of an implicit secret policy at the supreme court whereby the justices did or were allowed to do one or more of the following:

A) recused, disqualified or non-participating judges were allowed to comment, or provide input, orally or in writing, on matters from which they were disqualified, recused or in which they purportedly did not participate;

B) recused, disqualified or non-participating judges were provided with draft copies of decisions of cases from which they were disqualified, recused or in which they purportedly did not participate, before the ordinary citizens were allowed to do the same;

C) recused, disqualified or non-participating judges were allowed to attend conferences where cases from which they were disqualified or in which they did not participate were discussed and decided;

2. As the administrative head of the New Hampshire supreme court, he permitted a secret policy whereby he individually or in concert with other justices did one or more of the following acts:

A) allowed the opinions and decisions of the court to be published as per curiam opinions and falsely purported that a particular disqualified justice had not sat nor participated in the said opinions, where in fact the said justice had participated in the said decision and had, on occasion, in fact authored the said decision;

B) allowed the opinions and decisions to be published indicating that a certain justice or certain justices had not participated in the progress of the case where in fact they had, thereby misinforming, and misleading the people of the state and the litigants in the matter and creating a false historical record.

That because of justice Sherman D. Horton, Jr.'s failure to insure that the dispensation of impartial justice and equal protection under the law has been uniformly afforded to those who had cases before the New Hampshire supreme court, the New Hampshire house of representatives finds that justice Sherman D. Horton, Jr. has committed an impeachable offense warranting trial by the New Hampshire senate.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This house resolution recommends that one article of impeachment be brought against justice Sherman D. Horton, Jr., of the New Hampshire supreme court.

DEBATE ON FLOOR AMENDMENT

Rep. Mirski: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Just as an aside, I was thinking about the historic events of today and I reminded myself that this morning when I was speaking about rolling a cannon up in front of Governor Wentworth's door and the assault on Fort William and Mary, it occurred to me that there is at least one member of this House who had relatives at both of those events, so it is interesting about the continuum of time and how we get to play these things out over time. With respect to the impeachment of Chief Justice Brock, Article I, Article II, Article III, all had to do with specific administrative acts by the Chief Justice as an individual. When this House voted to also add an article which would impeach him for the recusal policies of the court, however, that vote changed the dynamic of today's proceedings and this is why. The recusal policy of the court is not a policy for which the Chief Justice is solely responsible as the member from Amherst so eloquently spoke to. What Article 73-a of the Constitution says is this: that the Chief Justice, with the concurrence of a majority of the court, sets the policies and procedures for the court. That means that a majority of the justices on the court were perfectly willing, interested, in having the recusal policy be a part of their daily procedural activities. Secondly, the canons of ethics require that every judge who perceives a wrongful act on the part of another judge or group of judges has an obligation under the canons to report that wrong. What does this recusal practice mean as a practical matter to litigants? What the recusal practice essentially does is allow a prejudiced judge to participate in the judicial proceedings of the Supreme Court. It is impossible for any judge to comply with their oath of office in upholding the constitutional requirement which encumbers upon them an absolute obligation to act impartially. It is impossible to participate as a prejudiced judge and simultaneously meet the Constitutional requirement of impartiality, impossible. I said earlier this morning what the constitution does is it establishes an independent set of judges, independent judges. Each judge is responsible for his or her own personal performance, vis-a-vis the constitutional obligation. That means that when Justice Horton, Justice Broderick or any other justice participates in a process, offers opinions in any way related to cases before the court in which they have an interest, they violate their oath of office, they violate their canons and they do other things with respect to litigants, which I'll mention in a minute, so the wrong is huge. Just think about this. The nature of the abuse to litigants is what? It is straightforward. It's denial of due process, the right to equal treatment under the law. Equal protection is absolute, someone said earlier today. It is impossible for each member of the Supreme Court, and unfortunately HR 50 primarily addresses the individuals who are presently serving, but it is impossible for members of the Supreme Court to participate or condone in anyway a recusal policy which denies litigants, our constituents, of their due process rights. Further, I had a conversation with somebody else who has some knowledge about this and they said to me, "You know, the other thing that might happen here is that if the State of New Hampshire, the Supreme Court of New Hampshire, has, in fact, denied individuals their due process rights, that may be actionable under the Civil Rights Act of 1982 and that means appeals at the federal court." There was an article by a reporter, in the Monitor, when this began, concerning the number of individuals who are incarcerated in the state prison who are now looking at appeals on account of this recusal process. I think what we are looking at, the reality is, a long period of time where this is going to be before us. It is not right to treat Justice Brock separately and to hold him accountable for this process. Justice Horton and Justice Broderick are also responsible. I ask you in the interest of equity and fairness to vote "yes" on this amendment, because otherwise what we are saying is that it was perfectly fine for this violation to permit the Supreme Court members, who all would have an interest in this, to assert themselves the privilege of secret proceedings, the privilege of being able to intervene in cases, the privilege of denying these due process rights and the privilege to covertly serve the rich and powerful. A couple of days after the Attorney General came out with his report, every member of the court and also retired justices admitted to having participated in these horrible recusal practices and interestingly, when I finally learned of the Judge Gray business, the relationship between the court, the politically powerful member of the Senate and the judiciary, I thought to myself, my God, we're back at 1775. I think that the remainder of the Justices, Horton and Broderick, deserve to be impeached as well and I ask for your support. Thank you.

Rep. Carson: Thank you, Madam Speaker and honorable members of the House. I rise today in opposition to the Mirski floor amendment for a number of reasons, but I'll try and be very, very brief because the hour is late. I've refrained from speaking earlier today on this historic day, especially since it's my last, probably likely day to speak in this House, but for over 20 years the New Hampshire Supreme Court has followed a procedure for better or worse, just or unjust, moral, immoral or just simply wrong. I don't agree with the practice. I believe the practice would probably not meet the standard of what you would try and teach your children on whether to tell the truth or tell a lie. I'm deeply disturbed by Justice Broderick's comment about momentary lapses in ethical behavior, I was appalled when I read that statement in the newspaper on the proceedings that occurred. However, this practice has gone on for more than 20 years, a number of justices, including one now a U.S. Supreme Court Justice, have participated in this action. One of the things that makes our form of government in New Hampshire and in the United States very unique is that when we find wrongs, we fix them. Simply, if it is wrong we change the law, we change a policy, we change procedure. What we don't do, however, is go back and look in hindsight and charge people with crimes, misdemeanors, or sanction penalties against people who have practiced under those practices prior to them being wrong, immoral, illegal. To do this today in either Articles I or II of the first House resolution for Justice Brock or in this article or in the following article would simply be wrong. It would be unjust. It would be anti-American, in fact. It goes against everything that we really believe in as Americans and in due process. I voted earlier against Articles I and II and I voted for Article III and I voted against Representative Jacobson's amendment because I think recusal is not the issue here. The issue has been resolved. We don't need to look into it further. We know it was wrong. We all abhor it and it is behind us now. We look to need to move forward and get the confidence back in the court system for the citizens that we represent. We don't need to keep going over a problem that we know has been fixed. However, we do need to take a look at the court because systemic problems like this exist throughout the entire court system and while we are addressing those issues in future legislative sessions, we should not be doing it now at the level of impeachment of individual justices for a systemic problem of the court system that, in fact, we, for the most part, have set up over the course of 200 years. I would be really, really disappointed in knowing that we impeached individual justices for such a broad systemic practice and that to look back in hindsight I think we would all regret what we were to do if we were to impeach these individuals for that practice. I would ask that simply, today, that we think before we vote and say are we penalizing individuals for a practice that was systemic in the system for years and years and years because we are angry, upset or have a personal qualm with one or many of the things that they have done? Or, are we voting today because we really believe that impeachment is the only solution? I, however, do not think so. I think other remedies, other than impeachment, are probably more just and more equitable, such as censure or some other penalty. So, I would ask you today to simply vote against these amendments and go along with the committee report and vote this bill or vote this amendment Inexpedient to Legislate. Thank you.

Rep. Brothers: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Members of the House, I hadn't intended on speaking on this bill. I'll be very brief. As a matter of fact, until about an hour ago, I had intended on voting against this amendment. I was convinced to vote for this amendment by the member from Amherst when he opposed the Article IV. The fact is we have voted, in the majority, to impeach Judge Brock on Article IV which had to do with recusal. We would be hypocrites if we did not also vote to impeach the other justices who have taken part in this. What's wrong is wrong. What's illegal is illegal. What's impeachable is impeachable. The excuse that we've been hearing here is that it's policy; it's been going on for years. It reminds me of the time I was in 8th grade. I got caught skipping school and tried to say that Tommy Gallagher did, too, and it is the same thing. This is ridiculous. Any one of us would send our children to their room for coming up with this excuse. Again, I'll just close with another cliché, if I may, if you'll bear with me: What's good for the goose is good for the gander. We've voted in the majority to impeach Judge Brock for his policy of recusal. Judge Horton also did it. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Dickinson, you may inquire.

Rep. Dickinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Sir, I take it then that you feel that both Horton and, at least we're talking about just Horton, that Judge Horton is equally culpable of this questionable recusal policy and should be punished in some way. Is it correct, it is my understanding and do you agree, that if we were to impeach him and the Senate decides, no, that's too serious, that they would be in a position to reduce this to reprimand?

Rep. Brothers: It would be up to the Senate to decide. They can refuse to remove him. They can punish him in any way. They can refuse to punish him at all. But, if we don't want to be hypocrites, those of us who voted on Article IV are compelled, right now, to vote for impeachment of Judge Horton. Thank you.

Rep. Dickinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Well, would you believe that I feel that both Horton and Broderick deserve somewhat of a reprimand in any case, a good swift slap up aside the head and I know of no other way of doing this without passing the Mirski amendment. So would you agree that that's a good idea?

Rep. Brothers: Yes, I would.

Rep. Mock: Madam Speaker, members of the House. Thank you for listening one more time. I rise in opposition to this amendment and I rise because impeachment is a very serious thing. Justice Brock was not impeached on just recusal and, furthermore, furthermore the recusal policy is administered by the Chief Justice, not by the justices. It was up to the Chief Justice to change that policy and he could have done it with the snap of a finger or the stroke of a pen. Article 73-a asks you today to do your constitutional duty one more time because 73-a says the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court shall be the administrative head of all the courts. Whatever Justice Horton did, and he did the recusal bit, whatever he did certainly didn't rise to clear and convincing evidence. As a matter of fact, it didn't even make 51 percent preponderance of the evidence. I ask you to vote down this amendment and accept the committee report. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Carson, you may inquire.

Rep. Carson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I was wondering if the member could elaborate for me on one point that was made by the previous speaker, once impeached, always impeached. Is that not correct, that the impeachment itself is not reduced to a reprimand, a warning, a censure, a slap on the wrist? Impeachment is impeachment is impeachment and a trial and conviction and penalties in the Senate are something completely different?

Rep. Mock: You are correct. Once you are impeached, you are impeached. To be impeached is like being a fine piece of china that is cracked, you can never repair it.

Rep. Dudley: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Members of the House, Justice Sherman Horton is the senior justice on the Supreme Court. He is well aware of the canons of judicial conduct which have the force and effect of the law. Supreme Court law 38, the Code of Judicial Conduct, is very clear. A judge should avoid impropriety and an appearance of impropriety in all his activities. A judge should perform the duties of his office impartially and diligently. A judge should be faithful to the law and maintain professional competence in it. He should be unswayed by partisan interests, public clamor or fear of criticism. I believe the canons are very, very clear. If a judge shall become aware of unprofessional conduct by a judge or lawyer, he shall in the instance of a judge report his knowledge to the Committee on Judicial Conduct and shall, in the instance of a lawyer, report his knowledge to the Committee on Professional Conduct. A judge should disqualify himself in proceedings in which his impartiality might possibly be questioned, including but not limited to instances where he has a personal bias or prejudice concerning a party or personal knowledge of disputed facts concerning a proceeding. Justice Horton was a friend and a mentor of Justice Thayer, a strong argument for recusal. Justice Horton believed in the collegial atmosphere where people could work together harmoniously. This is fine in most instances but not in the culture of the Supreme Court. Justice Horton believed that editorial... (tape change)... did not violate the code of ethics. He believed it was important to write court opinions properly, even pointing out when commas and punctuation should be properly placed, each "t" must be crossed and each "i" must be dotted, but apparently the language of the canons was not observed. Despite the loose recusal policy of the Supreme Court, the majority of the Judiciary Committee, and these are members that I deeply respect, I have served with this year, and it's very difficult for me to speak against their recommendation today. They stated impeachment was not appropriate for Justice Horton, this despite the fact that the committee did recognize that the canons were violated. Thank you.

Rep. Mirski requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the Mirski floor amendment.

and the Mirski floor amendment failed.

Reps. Belvin, Burling, Dalianis and Quandt declared conflicts of interest and did not participate. The question now being the adoption of HR 52.

Rep. Jane Wood: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Members of the House, I just would like to remind you, as I think most people are aware, that the committee was totally attentive to the depositions and the public hearing testimony with regard to Justice Horton. That we were aware that there was behavior that we were extremely unhappy with, but yes, he did speak up about that Thayer divorce panel, even though he was also disqualified and the fact that he would say that he thought it was really an appointment to the JCC panel really is no excuse. Further, he indicated by his own testimony that he didn't even realize that the grossly inappropriate behavior by Justice Thayer was a problem until Justice Broderick spoke with him about it a week later and yes, he participated in the recusal policy that was a matter of procedure at the time. But, in his defense, we found that Justice Horton was very forthright in the questioning by our special counsel and in the questioning by the committee in public testimony, to the extent that he would even tell things the way they were even though they might have been somewhat self-incriminating. Justice Horton has had an honorable career. He has done very fine work for the people of the State of New Hampshire. His behavior was inappropriate, perhaps unethical, but the committee found, by a clear and convincing vote of 19 to 3, that these mistakes do not in anyway rise to the level of impeachment and we would ask that you would please vote with the committee and pass House Resolution 52, recommending that no article of impeachment be brought against Supreme Court Justice Sherman D. Horton, Jr. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the Chairman of the Committee yield to a question? Rep. Franks, you may inquire.

Rep. Franks: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative Mock. One of the things that I think there is a frustration amongst the membership is the feeling that either we do an impeachment or we do nothing. My question to the Chairman is, at the time this discussion was held by the committee was there any discussion of, at the very least, reporting this behavior to the Judicial Conduct Committee by the committee?

Rep. Mock: I had to double check here, some of these cases start running together. Were any other charges considered? Yes, as a matter of fact, the committee took a vote on reprimand on both Justice Horton and Justice Broderick and they did not pass. The reason they didn't pass the committee is because the constitution says you have a choice. You can impeach or you can address, and it wasn't a choice that we had. I happen to disagree with that, but that doesn't matter, perhaps that's the case. In other words, we had one hard choice to make, impeach or nothing.

Rep. Mirski requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of House Resolution 52.

and House Resolution 52 was adopted.

Ordered to third reading.

Rep. Neil Reardon voted Nay and intended to vote Yea.

Reps. Belvin, Burling, Dalianis and Quandt declared conflicts of interest and did not participate.

PROTEST

Pursuant to Part 2, Article 24 of the New Hampshire Constitution, Rep. Boyce requested that his protest be entered on the Journal.

The New Hampshire House, in HR 50 charged the Judiciary committee to investigate whether impeachment or other actions were called for in relation to the revelations by the Attorney General and others of questionable actions committed by the State Supreme Court. The charge was to seek and follow the information available and did not limit the scope of that investigation. Rather the committee was expected to follow the information they found where ever it led.

In the actions taken by the committee during the investigation it is clear that this charge was disregarded by the chair and other members, in fact only a minority of the committee sought to follow that information completely. That chairman Mock and the majority of the committee refused to subpoena either former justice Souter or Michael O'Malley are examples of what I believe to be an attempt to shield from the scrutiny of the Legislature and thereby the public certain current and past members of the Judiciary, the Executive and perhaps the Legislative branches of the state government.

Had Mr. O'Malley been publicly questioned about how he came to know, before the Attorney General, details about what would be reported to the AG by Clerk Zibel, would we find collusion between the Governor and members of the Court or its staff? Would questioning Justice Souter have exposed further depth of the problems just now being exhumed? Or would the integrity of the US Supreme Court be questioned if it were learned that the flaws in judgment exhibited by members of our Court had parallels and precedents there? Unfortunately we may never know.

Would a wider investigation reveal as fact what many believe, that those responsible for the cover-up of the corruption of Judge Fairbanks have been elevated to the highest levels in this state and that these people cannot stand scrutiny in the light of day and are in a position to thwart the Legislature's investigation?

We are here today voting on the recommendations of the committee concerning their investigation. I for one am not satisfied that this investigation has been thorough nor without bias. That many members of the committee are also members of the Bar and others derive their income from or are married to other members of the Bar leads me to wonder whom these members are serving – their constituents or the Unified Bar.

Under these circumstances I must hereby enter my protest to our actions today.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 53

recommending that no article of impeachment be brought against supreme court justice
John T. Broderick, Jr.

Whereas, the New Hampshire house of representatives has directed its judiciary committee "to investigate whether grounds exist...to impeach chief justice David A. Brock and/or any other justice of the New Hampshire supreme court"; and

Whereas, the house judiciary committee has conducted such investigation, and it hereby moves that the New Hampshire house of representatives adopt the following resolution relative to justice John T. Broderick, Jr; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives:

That the judiciary committee has found no clear and convincing evidence that justice John T. Broderick, Jr. has acted in such a way as to require the house, acting under Part II, Article 17 of the New Hampshire constitution, to make and send to the senate an article of impeachment, and accordingly moves that no article of impeachment be brought against justice John T. Broderick, Jr. Rep. Janet Wall moved Ought to Pass.

Rep. Mirski offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4810h)

Amend the title of the resolution by replacing it with the following:

A RESOLUTION recommending impeachment of supreme court justice John T. Broderick, Jr. Amend the resolution by replacing all after the title with the following:

Whereas, the New Hampshire house of representatives has directed its judiciary committee "to investigate whether grounds exist ... to impeach chief justice David A. Brock and/or any other justice of the New Hampshire supreme court"; and

Whereas, the house judiciary committee has conducted such investigation, and it hereby moves that the house adopt the following resolution relative to justice John T. Broderick, Jr.; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives:

That the judiciary committee has found that the house, acting under Part II, Article 17 of the New Hampshire constitution, has cause to request the senate to exercise its powers under Part II, Article 38 of the New Hampshire constitution to conduct a full and impartial trial to determine whether justice John T. Broderick, Jr., of the supreme court of New Hampshire, should be convicted and removed from office if the senate concludes that he has committed any or all of the acts enumerated in the article of impeachment below, which the house has determined, if proved, constitutes an impeachable offense as set forth in Part II, Article 38 of the New Hampshire constitution:

ARTICLE I

That during the period from his appointment as an associate justice of the New Hampshire supreme court to the present, Justice John T. Broderick, Jr. engaged in conduct which corrupted the supreme court's capacity to dispense impartial justice and to insure the right of every New Hampshire citizen to equal protection under the law. Justice Broderick has done so by participating in a process whereby disqualified justices were permitted to receive draft opinions for cases before the court and to attend case conferences which enabled them to comment on and influence opinions from which they were recused and disqualified. Specifically, he committed one or more of the following acts:

1. Engaged in a pattern of acts, and allowed the continued existence of an implicit secret policy at the supreme court whereby the justices did or were allowed to do one or more of the following:

A) recused, disqualified or non-participating judges were allowed to comment, or provide input, orally or in writing, on matters from which they were disqualified, recused or in which they purportedly did not participate;

B) recused, disqualified or non-participating judges were provided with draft copies of decisions of cases from which they were disqualified, recused or in which they purportedly did not participate, before the ordinary citizens were allowed to do the same;

C) recused, disqualified or non-participating judges were allowed to attend conferences where cases from which they were disqualified or in which they did not participate were discussed and decided;

2. As the administrative head of the New Hampshire supreme court, he permitted a secret policy whereby he individually or in concert with other justices did one or more of the following acts:

A) allowed the opinions and decisions of the court to be published as per curiam opinions and falsely purported that a particular disqualified justice had not sat nor participated in the said opinions, where in fact the said justice had participated in the said decision and had, on occasion, in fact authored the said decision;

B) allowed the opinions and decisions to be published indicating that a certain justice or certain justices had not participated in the progress of the case where in fact they had, thereby misinforming, and misleading the people of the state and the litigants in the matter and creating a false historical record.

That because of justice John T. Broderick, Jr. failure to insure that the dispensation of impartial justice and equal protection under the law has been uniformly afforded to those who had cases before the New Hampshire supreme court, the New Hampshire house of representatives finds that justice John T. Broderick, Jr. has committed an impeachable offense warranting trial by the New Hampshire senate.

AMENDED ANALYSIS

This house resolution recommends that one article of impeachment be brought against justice John T. Broderick, Jr., of the New Hampshire supreme court.

DEBATE ON FLOOR AMENDMENT

Rep. Mirski: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Same argument, different judge. Thank you.

Rep. Vaillancourt: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise in favor of the Mirski floor amendment and I do so somewhat perplexed because I realize that we are now truly on the horns of a dilemma, having voted to impeach one justice and then voted not to impeach another. We have the third we are now considering and I'll go quickly, but not quite as quickly as my predecessor. About 10:00 this morning, for the second time this year, I felt a shiver run up and down my spine as I looked at the American flag and recited the words of the Pledge of Allegiance, which I think, you, like me, take for granted all too often when we say those words. They just become something we do and probably don't even think about them. But when we got to those final words today they meant something to me, like they meant something to me back in February when, I believe it was the day before the Michigan primary, I was listening to John McCain speaking about one of his colleagues in the Hanoi Hilton who gathered red, white and blue material to sew a flag together so that the prisoners in Hanoi could salute when they said the Pledge of Allegiance and then, as related by Senator McCain, the North Vietnamese found that he had created this flag and came and beat him bloody because he had done this in the name of freedom and justice for all. But, the very next day, he went back and started gathering the three threads together, the red, the white and the blue, even though he had been bloodied by the North Vietnamese so that he could start the process again. After hearing a story like that, the words of the Pledge of Allegiance have meaning and when we get to those words, "with liberty and justice for all" they had meaning for me once again this morning after so many times of hearing them over the last three months when they did not have that meaning. Chief Justice David Brock, who now stands impeached on four counts before this great House, did not act in a vacuum. He did not act alone. He should not take the fall alone for what has happened to the judicial system in this state. Justice Broderick maybe is not totally as guilty as Chief Justice Brock. But let's compare it to the conspiracy of murder and I use those words with some reluctance. but you know, if somebody drives the get-away car in a murder conspiracy, according to the law that individual is just as culpable, every bit as culpable, as the man who actually pulled the trigger. So, if we say that Chief Justice Brock pulled the trigger on the judicial system and sent it spiraling into disgrace, we have to say, with all good conscience, that Justice Broderick was, at the very least, waiting to drive the get-away car. With "liberty and justice for all," I certainly hope so. I've been very disturbed by several of the arguments that swirled around the Judiciary Committee in the past several weeks, and some that were even offered here today. We should not take action against Justice Broderick because he is an intellectual, we were told by one member of the committee, because he is a kind person, a sincere person. We are not here today to judge whether David Brock or Justice Broderick are kind people, are intellectuals, are sincere people, whether they in fact admitted that they had made wrongs. If somebody were to commit a murder and then admit that he was guilty and apologized, we wouldn't let him off scot-free. If so, we could just open the doors of the prisons and let everybody go free. We should hold the justices of our courts to at least that high a standard. An intellectual, a kind person, a sincere person, somebody who comes across with great qualities before the Judiciary Committee, that does not lessen the guilt that they bear one iota. Let's not be side tracked by these issues as the Chairman of the Judiciary Committee has pointed out time and again to us today. This House is serving merely to send this matter on to the Senate where they can, in fact, determine if the proper punishments for Justice Brock and Justice Broderick are the same. There is culpability in this justice. I say to you, as the member from Laconia was quoted as saying, "If not for Howie Zibel, Justice Broderick would never have come forward." It wasn't merely a wait of 14 days. He could have waited 14 years and if not for Howie Zibel he would never have come forward to report the actions, not even when Justice Thayer threatened him. Can you imagine a justice being threatened by another and still not coming forward? If you, in your heart, believe he would have come forward, by all means vote against this amendment. But, if you, in your heart, look deep inside and judge that he would not have come forward, then I say you have to convict him in this House. Just think about it. He is like somebody who is driving with a speeder, going 75 miles an hour. We know that's illegal in this state don't we? Well, he wasn't caught by the police, 14 days later did he turn himself in? No. And I say to you 14 years later he wouldn't have turned himself in either. This is something that would have gone completely by the board had it not been for that hero, Howie Zibel. For us to let this justice off, simply because we consider him an intellectual, or a fine person or somebody who served this state well or somebody who has apologized, that is tantamount to jury nullification. We have no right to do that any more than a jury, led by one of these judges, perhaps, would have a right to deem that somebody murdered somebody else and yet say, "Oh I think he's an honorable man. He went 20 years without murdering anybody, so now we have to let him go." The speaker from Laconia that preceded me seemed to be saying that in regard to Justice Horton, ignorance of the law is an excuse. We all know that for you, or me, or the most common lay person, ignorance of the law is no excuse. How can ignorance of the law be an excuse for one of the top five judicial officials in this state? Liberty and justice for all, for you and me and certainly for those men who we approve to serve on the Supreme Court. You know, I was thinking a lot this past weekend as I was trying to come to the best analogy as to how this whole matter came down and I thought of how Justice Broderick was saying that he didn't want to be the one to put the final bullet in his friend, Justice Thayer. That is an indictment in itself. If you know somebody is guilty, you have to come forward and provide that evidence. When I was in high school, we did a little skit for winter carnival and it has a gun involved so I guess it is only fitting that I analogize with the bullet theory of Justice Broderick. There was this woman who walks into a saloon and shoots up the place and then she goes into a song. Maybe you know it, goes, "I didn't know the gun was loaded and I'm so sorry my friends. I didn't know the gun was loaded, and I'll never, ever do it again." I suggest to you that Justice Brock and Justice Broderick both knew the gun was loaded and they didn't want to point it at their friend, Justice Thayer so what they did to that gun is, they pointed it at the judicial system of this state, at every one of us and they fired that gun and if we let them get away with it today, even though Justice Broderick may only be the get-away car driver, then we have failed to do the duty for every other individual in this state, people like Carl Graf who because of the arrogant nature that the court has engendered are languishing in our prisons, because if you read this article in the Laconia Citizen recently, this same kind of thing is happening all over because this kind of mentality has been allowed to happen by Broderick, by Brock and by everybody. They didn't want to load the gun and shoot it at each other, so they unloaded it on us and now we have a responsibility to say "yes" to the Mirski amendment. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Jane Wood, you may inquire.

Rep. Jane Wood: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I'm just wondering if possibly you would recognize that your memory isn't exactly perfect at times either, because when you quoted my saying, if Mr. Zibel hadn't reported, I think you said that Justice Broderick would never have reported, we wouldn't know, I said, "I wasn't sure if we would know." It was in the midst of the deliberations. I certainly didn't say it the way you put it forth and I have a very different opinion from all of the work that we have done from what you have just presented.

Rep. Vaillancourt: Well, thank you, perhaps I was giving you more credit than you deserve, but I was quoting, in fact, I was quoting what I read in the Sunday News. In fact, I was thinking this very thing, myself. I was thinking, you know, this idea that he would have come forward and reported it. I thought, no, that never would have happened if Howie Zibel hadn't done it and then I read in the paper that you, the honorable Representative, had said something like that, so I was trying to give you great credit for analogizing to that degree. Did you not say something to the effect that Howie Zibel was a hero and if he had not brought this forward, it probably never would have come forward? Is that not the case?

Rep. Jane Wood: It was a matter that I brought it forth as though it were a question in my mind as to what would have happened but we had a lot of deliberating to follow that issue. Yes, I did wonder but I didn't state it the way you had put it forth originally. I think the thing is this is an issue that is the problem with the whole affair is in how a person perceives things, how a person states things and how a person remembers things. The fact is, we need to remember what we are talking about with impeachment. It is a very serious matter and if we take that lightly we are going to be in a sorry state because our three branches of government have got to be separate and equal. Thank you.

Speaker Sytek: Would you yield to another question? Representative Arnold, you may inquire.

Rep. Arnold: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative, I'm going to ask you to do something and then answer a question. Would you read Arabic number two of Article I and tell me if you think it is true.

Rep. Vaillancourt: What page are you on now?

Rep. Arnold: Page 1624, Article I, Arabic number two. It's the second from the bottom line on the page.

Rep. Vaillancourt: As the administrative head of the New Hampshire Supreme Court?

Rep. Arnold: Yeah. Do you think that's true?

Rep. Vaillancourt: He permitted a secret policy whereby he individually or in concert with other justices did one or more of the following acts?

Rep. Arnold: Yes. Do you think Justice Broderick is the administrative head of the New Hampshire Supreme Court? You're urging me to vote on this thing.

Rep. Vaillancourt: He individually or in concert with other justices did one or more of the following acts...

Rep. Arnold: I'm not arguing the acts. My question is, do you believe that first phrase up to the comma is true? Or, do you think Justice Brock might be the administrative head?

Rep. Vaillancourt: Well, Justice Brock is the head of the Supreme Court. As I pointed out in my comments, the fact that somebody is the head means perhaps that they are more culpable but other culpability still flows down to the other people involved in these processes.

Rep. Arnold: I've heard the argument. I'm not in an argument. I'm merely asking you a question. Do you believe that Justice Broderick is the administrative head of the New Hampshire Supreme Court?

Rep. Vaillancourt: The Chief Justice is the head of the, the administrative head of the New Hampshire Supreme Court.

Rep. Arnold: Then is not this in error?

Rep. Vaillancourt: Yes, I would say it is and I'm sure if you wish to offer an amendment, to remedy the error we can do that.

Speaker Sytek: Will the member yield to a question? Rep. Dickinson, you may inquire.

Rep. Dickinson: I'm sure you are aware that a while ago that the Supreme Court came to a decision, clearly to finding recusal policies for our municipal boards and commissions. For example, if there is a conflict of interest on the board of selectmen in a town, that person must excuse or recuse themselves and they can have absolutely nothing to do with the subject. Now, the same thing applies to planning boards and conservation commissions and so on and so forth. Don't you find it curious that the Justices found it difficult to follow their own advice?

Rep. Vaillancourt: I find it curious that, once again, we are living in a society where we are under the impression that we have equal liberty and justice for all. For one group of people who are sworn to uphold justice to put themselves above the system of justice is especially disturbing. That's why in response to my colleague from Laconia, I was going to say we are definitely taking this seriously and I believe most of us, through the graces of Channel 11, have had a chance to watch all of this and even though we weren't there in those rooms, that room for all those days, we took it equally as seriously and found it equally as disturbing for just that kind of instance.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member take another question? Rep. Gary Johnson, you may inquire.

Rep. Gary Johnson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Thank you, Representative. My question is short and simple. If, when the Judiciary Committee finished their work and they only had one article, not four, one, and that article had to do with recusal, do you think he would have ever been impeached, Justice Brock?

Rep. Vaillancourt: Well, these hypothetical questions are all very well and interesting, but I subscribe to the idea that every individual in this House has an equal vote. I do realize that committees are very important, but we have already overturned the Judiciary Committee on one very important vote by a very, very wide margin today. So, to answer your hypothetical, I would say that it is imperative upon each and every one of us to decide how we are going to vote, regardless of any particular committee recommendation. I've never been one enamored with somebody who gets up and says, "Will you follow the 18 to 3 vote of my colleagues on this committee?" We all have a responsibility to make up our own minds so I think the hypothetical falls short in that regard.

Speaker Sytek: The Chair recognizes Rep. Keith Herman for a parliamentary inquiry.

Rep. Keith Herman: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Madam Speaker if I know that there may be a typographical mistake in the proposed floor amendment, would a motion to table this now be in order so a proper amendment can be brought be for us?

Speaker Sytek: A motion to table is in order. It is non-debatable. If the member wishes to have an amendment drafted that he could offer at a subsequent time, he could be recognized to table it and then the House would have to vote to table it on a majority. Then, at some subsequent time, before we go home, it would be in order to take it off the table and act on it then.

MOTION TO LAY ON THE TABLE

Rep. Mirski moved that Floor Amendment numbered 4810h, be laid on the table.

(Clerk's note)

Speaker Sytek informed the members that by voting to lay the floor amendment on the table, they would also be tabling House Resolution No. 53.

On a division vote, 131 members having voted in the affirmative and 190 in the negative, the motion failed.

Rep. Carson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Had I immediately followed Rep. Mirski, I would just have said "ditto" and I guess "ibid" would probably be incorrect because that would diminish his statement to being just a footnote. So, I would say for the same reasons that we discussed before, we should vote the same way that we did prior to this vote for the last article. And I would just ask for people to think, especially the 135 people who voted in favor of the Mirski amendment last time, think of when knowing all the rules and how the rules are practiced, have you ever thought, have you ever made a mistake or have you not known or done something unintentionally and have you ever done something innocently or unintentionally? Obviously you all agree, I'm sure, but I'll challenge you with this thought and then I'll finish. Just a few moments ago, in a previous article on the House Resolution, I recused myself. I would ask that all of the people who voted in the 135 to tell me or to think before you vote this time if you as a member of this House recuse yourself, do you sit in your chair? Do you turn the light on? Do you turn the light off? Do you sit in the gallery? If you don't know that answer right this moment and there is a gray area in your mind, think of the practice, the consistent 20 year, procedure that was applied in the court, whether you like it or not. Honestly say to yourself before you press the button. I know the answer as it applies to myself, never mind how it applies how to somebody else. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Rep. Soltani: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The hour is getting late and the House is beginning to act in a strange manner. By that, I am going to refer to one of my favorite writers and he coined the phrase of "doublethink" and that means the power of holding two contradictory beliefs in one's own mind, simultaneously, and accepting both of them. That means that the person who can do this can re-write history and have no doubt in his own mind that there is a contradiction with history. Doublethink absolves you from having any conscience and I wonder if we are prepared to do just that, to begin the practice of doublethink. We know, we know Judge Broderick does not get a clean bill of health, yet we are sitting here telling ourselves, yes he does, yes he does. It is fascinating. You look at the articles. These are irrefutable facts. He did engage in a pattern of conduct whereby disqualified judges commented and tried to affect the outcome of the cases, the very core of the cases, unbeknownst to the people that were litigating the matters. Never told them. That is again the difference between princes and peasants. That is not refutable. That's not challenged. He did, as a judge himself, participate in at least two cases whereby he himself, by his own disclosure, after the Attorney General's report, said that he was disqualified from. During the hearings, I offered him the opportunity. Judge Broderick, you say in your disclosure you were disqualified from these judges, from these lawyers cases, yet you sat on them and on these cases it says Broderick participated. Do you have a response? "No." I'm still waiting for an answer. The only way we can close our eyes, the only way we can walk away and say he gets a clean bill of health is if we become Orwellian, rewrite history and engage in doublethink. That's the only way. And that's what these folks have done. You see, with the stroke of a pen they said Thayer, J. did not participate. They rewrote history. That part of our history is gone forever. We will never know who really participated in those cases. We never know who really wrote those cases. You see, Thayer, J., who supposedly did not participate, had actually written those cases and he so testified. Broderick confirmed it. Brock confirmed it. They all had an obligation to report. What about the Zibel issue? The Thayer case where Judge Brock comes in illegally, and announces to four disqualified, three disqualified judges, well, I'm going to go with X and Y. Completely illegal and they know it; they sit there and watch him. He asks for input. Broderick so testified and Broderick knew it was illegal. They gave input yet none of them did anything. It goes until Friday. Zibel comes in and says, "Look I'm going to file a report." Broderick says, "I have decided not to." Now you're going to hear the spin. The spin is, well, there is no mandate, there is no time limit on how long you have to report misconduct by a judge. That's the spin you see, and it worked well with a case called Home Gas. They sat on it until the time limit had expired and then here we are 13 years later trying to dig it up. Do you really think for a moment that had Zibel not done what he did we would have found out about that episode? No. Judge Broderick openly, overtly, clearly told Zibel, "I am not going to go with it. I am not going to report." Period, paragraph, end of the story. Later, Zibel says "Look, I'm going to go with this." And Judge Broderick says, "If you go with this it is going to ruin Judge Brock's career, it is going to ruin Judge Thayer's career and it is going to bring shame on the court." Therefore, what is the natural message that you get? A superior telling his subordinate, these are all the ills that you will cause if you tell the people the truth. The answer is don't ... (tape change) ... when a superior is telling you that. He did that with the clear intent of discouraging Howie Zibel from going forward as he was doing and Howie Zibel described his experience. It was a living hell, make no mistake about it. We know he was going through a living hell. He didn't get any assistance from Judge Broderick, none at all. Until it was good well and clear into the episode of Howie Zibel having blown up the institution, nothing was done by Judge Broderick. Now we have papers. We have testimony. It cannot be challenged in any way that they broke the canons of ethics, they broke the law and they failed to report as they were obligated to do. That includes Judge Broderick. What are we going to do? We only have a choice between two things, doublethink and think. I'm going to think. There is no way I can look at this evidence and say it didn't happen. It did happen and what are the responses that we've gotten? Well, he's a compassionate man. He is. I don't doubt it, but compassion is not a mutually exclusive quality from being a judge. In other words, you can be a judge and compassionate at the same time. Well, he's talented. True, that means he knew better. Well, he's intelligent. True, that means he definitely knew better. They are asking you, well, give these up and just look the other way, re-write history, do what we've done in the Supreme Court, follow our example. Wrong this is what the instructions are that they give to the jurors every day in this state. It is up to you to decide the facts in this case. You must decide the facts, solely from the evidence in this trial. You must apply the law given to you in these instructions to the facts and in this way reach a fair and just verdict. You should decide the facts in this case without prejudice, without fear, without sympathy. You should decide this case solely based on the evidence presented and the law as explained to you. That's what the judges are telling jurors and when it comes to us doing the same, we're told, "Doublethink. Re-write history." Well, when Orwell wrote that, he wasn't exactly establishing what we in the New Hampshire Legislature might do years later. I like something better that was written by George Washington in a letter that was written in 1789, and that was, "The administration of justice is the firmest pillar of government." That is what has been betrayed in this process and unless we revive it, unless we reclaim it and today is the vote, here is the place and now is the time. We don't have a choice. We can't just walk away. We can't doublethink. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Speaker Sytek: Would the member yield to a question? Rep. Boyce, you may inquire.

Rep. Boyce: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative, I was out of town until late last night, but did I hear on the news this morning, maybe it was before that because I haven't kept up, did I hear there is now evidence that has been turned over by the Supreme Court which was withheld either on purpose or not, which shows in Broderick's handwriting, his own handwriting, on draft cases on which he was recused, comments that he wrote on cases in which he was not participating or not sitting? Is that not what I heard this morning on the news?

Rep. Soltani: I wasn't with you, but what you heard was true if you heard it. If it was the product of delusions then you didn't hear it but I got a feeling that you heard right. Those papers turned up the day after the committee vote. Call it mysterious. Call me suspicious, but they are there and they have Judge Broderick's handwritings on it. They have nothing to do with punctuation or grammar. The testimony that was given to us was if he was disqualified from a case, he would only comment on punctuation and grammar. Those documents contradict that testimony.

Rep. Craig: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wasn't prepared to address this, but I was asked to and so hopefully I'll be brief because I'm as sick of being up here as you are of seeing me up here, but I want to first point out, with regard to Justice Broderick, that he was not on the court when the Home Gas matter took place, nothing to do with Judge Broderick. With regard to the recusal, I voted not, I voted against Article IV on the recusal and, as was pointed out, to find that Justice Broderick was responsible for the recusal policy would be in effect to say that he is the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. But Article 73-a clearly says that the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court shall be the administrative head of all the courts; he shall, with the concurrence of the majority of the Supreme Court, make rules governing the administration of all the courts, etc. If the Chief Justice does not make the initiative then no one has to concur with him. He clearly has a higher duty and a higher burden with regards to the court's rules than the other justices. The committee felt that that was the case and that's why Justice Broderick's participation with regard to recusal was not an impeachable offense and I still think that's true. With regard to the paper work that was recently found at the Supreme Court, I don't have it in front of me. Like I said, I wasn't prepared to look at all the evidence today, but there is no evidence that Justice Broderick had anything to do with withholding that, those documents. All I know is that they appeared today. With regard to the February 4th incident, Justice Broderick was there. He recognized, he testified that he recognized, that a serious problem had taken place. He admitted that. He spoke to Howard Zibel. He spoke to Eileen Fox, and he said, "Look, something is wrong here. What am I going to do about it?" And for two weeks, 14 days, he told us what his thought process was. He said, "I thought about the Chief Justice, about his career. I thought about Justice Thayer, what he had gone through with his divorce and that he knew that he was under the gun." And he thought about that. He thought about the court and the ramifications of the court and he thought about Howie Zibel and what he was going through and, as a matter of fact, I think Howard Zibel testified that Justice Broderick, he never got the feeling that Justice Broderick ever tried to force him not to report his memorandum. As a matter of fact, he said, "Howie, do what you have to do," if I'm not mistaken, I think words to the effect. That's what he told him and that's what Mr. Zibel testified to. So, when Justice Broderick testified that he did come to the conclusion that he wasn't going to do anything, I said to myself, "Gee, what did you do that for, that was your out. "Say I hadn't made up my mind yet, I don't know what to make of that, why he didn't take that advantage, but I'll give him credit for being honest. That's part of the deal. We're all entitled to understand and to look at the people we are dealing with. He said that, and then he said after he consulted with his attorney he had to reconsider. Whether I would have done the same thing, as fast as he did, I don't know, and you're right, there is a spin to it. We heard testimony, it's not my spin, it was the testimony that we heard because we were concerned about, well, how long do you have to report something that you see that you think is unethical and the answer was you have up until a year to report it. There is no question Howard Zibel reported it first and, you know, you're in the same boat I am. You can believe or not believe that he ever would have reported that. I can't answer that but I chose, the bottom line for me is that I voted to impeach Justice Brock. But I cannot, I couldn't then last week, I cannot today, see where Justice Broderick committed any impeachable offense. And again, I go back to the test that I was giving to myself. What about if a client says to me, what if a client says to me, "It's all fixed, just go and get it fixed anyways?" Can I live with Justice Broderick, Justice Horton still being on the court? And I think that the answer is yes. To say that they are not punished by going through this procedure and having their families go through this procedure and that they didn't learn anything from that, I said it at the hearing, they would have to be dead from the neck up not to have learned anything from this procedure and I don't think that either Justice Horton or Judge Broderick by any means is dead from the neck up. And so, my feeling and my strong feeling is that Justice Horton and Justice Broderick committed no impeachable offense and I ask you to vote with the committee on this issue and against the amendment. Thank you.

Rep. Mock: Madam Speaker, once again, thank you. Members, thank you. I am not going to belabor this. You've heard a lot of rhetoric here, and most of it was rhetoric. Listen, this was the junior justice of the court. He has been there five years. He had a boss, the Chief Justice. The Chief Justice sets the policy. He followed it. Was it wrong? Yes. You know it, I know it and an eighth grader would know it. However, of all the justices, this was the one justice that seemed to us in our committee, the majority of us, to be the most concerned about the practices at the court. And let me reiterate what my good committee member from Manchester just said, there is not one single shred of evidence that Judge Broderick ever, ever, ever tried to dissuade the Clerk of the Court from filing a report to the JCC. I heard that said earlier here in testimony. As far as the late documents that arrived last Friday, I addressed that this morning. Judge Broderick was known as the Mrs. McKenzie on the court. Mrs. McKenzie was his grade school teacher who taught him to love English grammar and so he was the grammarian. Did that give him a right to tinker around with drafts where he was recused? No, it didn't. However, that was the practice of the court which we have all condemned here today by large votes. It wasn't right, but I can tell you that Judge Broderick's integrity, integrity, in our committee, was never in question to the majority and that's important, very, very important. I ask you to vote down this amendment by hitting the red button.

Rep. Mirski: Madam Speaker, I have an amendment which corrects the offending language which the gentlemen from somewhere down country, the town escapes me now, pointed out was in error and if I want to get that language on this proposed amendment, how would I do it?

Speaker Sytek: I've had a chance to look at your amendment, the way it is drafted it amends the amendment that is before us. If we were to adopt the amendment that is before us, it would be on second reading and open to further amendment. At that time, you could offer it if this amendment is adopted. The reason we are not doing it now is that Representative Hunt had asked for the previous question.

Rep. Mirski requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of the Mirski floor amendment.

and the Mirski floor amendment failed.

DEBATE ON HR 53

Rep. Janet Wall: Thank you, Madam Speaker and good evening. I promise to keep this short. The temptation is great to just say, "Please just vote with the committee." However, I do have a few facts that I want to give to you. This is the final resolution that we're dealing with today. The House Judiciary Committee voted Ought to Pass on this 18 to 4, and you've already heard the opposition. The resolution says that no article of impeachment shall be brought against Justice Broderick. We found no clear and convincing evidence that Justice Broderick acted in any way that could rise to the level of impeachment. We looked at several areas of concern. We did look at the issue of recusal, we looked at the issue of making editorial comments and changes on draft opinions and we looked at the issue of not reporting the February 4th incident. First, we found what did not merit impeachment was the fact that Justice Broderick, as the newest justice on the Supreme Court, had only been confirmed a little more than four years ago. The recusal policy had been in place a very long time. As the new justice in the Supreme Court, Justice Broderick did not step forward and say we have to change this recusal policy. He believed what he was doing was the right thing. We have found that Justice Broderick is a very thoughtful man, a man with a conscience. Justice Broderick did study grammar under Mrs. McKenzie as we heard earlier and, when it came to any changes that were made in draft opinions, Justice Broderick would put a comma here or there. He did nothing in any way to alter the court opinions that were coming out of the court. In his professional career, Justice Broderick always focuses heavily on the details, to make certain that everything comes out as it was meant to. Therefore, we found that when it came to the recusal policy we did not find enough fault with Justice Broderick to warrant impeachment. Now, we have all heard that the February 4th incident was pivotal in the events leading to the process in which we are engaged today. On February 4th Justice Broderick, in fact, testified that he was stunned by the incident, that he was absolutely in a state of shock because of the outburst from Justice Thayer. He was so stunned that he spoke to Eileen Fox about the incident and then decided to take the matter further by discussing the issue with others. However, that weekend he went home and he thought about what to do. What was the right thing to do? He saw something terribly wrong happen but at the same time he saw that a friend of his was deeply emotional and had done something wrong. He'd gone over the line. The following week, Justice Broderick had three days of oral arguments in which he had to participate. It wasn't until February 11th, the following Friday, that he had the chance to talk with Howard Zibel. He decided after that talk to try to deal with the issue in house. He wanted to make peace. He wanted to smooth the waters. He wanted to try to correct what had gone wrong without causing a great stir about it, although he wasn't altogether comfortable with his decision in doing that. Again that following weekend, the 12th and 13th, he spent the weekend, he thought the facts over during that weekend. He discussed the Thayer conduct with other justices and on the 17th there was a report filed with the JCC and all the justices signed that report. Yes, he delayed in making his decision and signing that report. He delayed 14 days. The offense was prosecutable for up to a year after the offense. He took 14 days to decide what is the best thing to do; how should I proceed? What should I do so as not to disrupt the court but to make sure that this type of incidence never happens again and he did the right thing by participating and filing the report. In light of the magnitude of the events and the implications that would follow, Justice Broderick did the right thing. I ask that you support the 18 to 4 vote from the committee and press the green button. Rep. Mock requested a roll call; sufficiently seconded.

The question being the adoption of House Resolution No. 53.

Ordered to third reading.

Reps. Burling, Dalianis and Quandt declared conflicts of interest and did not participate.

The Judiciary Committee offered the following:

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 54

appointing House Managers

WHEREAS, the House of Representatives has adopted articles of impeachment against David A. Brock, Chief Justice of the New Hampshire Supreme Court, now therefore be it RESOLVED, that the Speaker appoint and empower managers to conduct the impeachment against Justice David A. Brock and that said managers are hereby instructed to appear before the Senate of the State of New Hampshire in the name of the people of the State of New Hampshire.

Adopted.

Reps. Burling, Dalianis and Quandt declared conflicts of interest and did not participate.

The House of Representatives offered the following:

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 27

honoring the House Judiciary Committee

WHEREAS, on April 13, 2000, the New Hampshire House of Representatives adopted House Resolution 50, authorizing and directing the House Judiciary Committee to investigate whether cause existed for the impeachment of David A. Brock, chief justice, and/or any other justice of the New Hampshire supreme court, and

WHEREAS, the House Judiciary Committee devoted many days and long hours to this task, conducting a diligent and thorough investigation which stands as a model for any future inquiries of such historic proportion, and

WHEREAS, the information obtained as a result of the high caliber of work of the House Judiciary Committee will undoubtedly lead to improvements in the operation of the court system and to future legislative initiatives which will help to re-establish public confidence in the New Hampshire judicial system, and

WHEREAS, the professional manner in which the House Judiciary Committee carried out its task under the watchful eye of extensive public scrutiny brought dignity and honor to the New Hampshire House of Representatives, now therefore be it

RESOLVED, by the House of Representatives in Regular Session convened, that the New Hampshire House of Representatives extend its deepest gratitude, respect and appreciation to the members of this body who serve on the House Judiciary Committee: Henry P. Mock, Andrew R. Peterson, Alf E. Jacobson, Sandra B. Keans, Peter F. Bergin, Cynthia J. Dokmo, Loren J. Jean, Robert H. Rowe, Nancy M. Ford, Dennis J. Withee, Terri C. Dudley, Al J. Picconi, Tony F. Unanimously adopted.

RECOGNITION

The members of the Judiciary Committee recognized Speaker Sytek, House Sergeant-at-Arms Rob Johnson, House Information Officer Susan Woods and House Counsel Betsy Miller for their assistance and support of the committee during the public hearings on impeachment.

REMOVED FROM THE TABLE

Rep. Alukonis moved that HR 10, affirming revenue estimates for fiscal years 2000 and 2001, be removed from the table.

Adopted.

Rep. Alukonis offered a floor amendment.

Floor Amendment (4816h)

Amend the resolution by replacing all after the title with the following:

Whereas, the House Finance Committee has considered what the unrestricted revenue estimates should be for fiscal years 2000, and 2001 and has presented those estimates to the House of Representatives; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives:

That the House wishes to go on record as affirming the following revenue estimates for fiscal years 2000 and 2001.

SENATE MESSAGES

The Senate has voted to override the Governor's vetoes on the following entitled bills:

HB 648, relative to sludge testing program.

HB 1343, appropriating available funds for fiscal year 2000 to provide funding to support research monitoring groundwater reclamation sites that have had sludge applied.

The Senate has voted to sustain the Governor's vetoes on the following entitled bills:

HB 235-FN-A, increasing exemptions under the interest and dividends tax.

HB 542-FN-A, repealing the legacies and succession tax.

SB 468, relative to the family division of the courts and relative to the jurisdiction of the family division in Rockingham County.

VETO OVERRIDDEN BY SENATE ON SB 153

The question being, notwithstanding the Governor's veto, shall SB 153-FN-A, requiring that a percentage of profits derived by the liquor commission be placed into and continually appropriated to a special fund for alcohol education and abuse prevention and treatment programs, become law. As required by the State Constitution, a roll call was taken.
